Chapter 46

Chapter 46

Rina took out her phone and wanted to call Jake, but before she even dialed, a clear confident voice came from the reception. "She didn't do it"

The moment everyone suddenly heard the man's voice, they turned to look.

It was none other than Shane.

He became CEO of his family business at a young age.

Since Shane conducted business with JK Couture, most of the employees in the design department recognized him right away. The moment he showed up, all eyes turned to him.

Although Shane had average looks and was on the skinny side, he hailed from a respectable family. He was dripping in designer goods, everything he wore was worth a bomb and just his watch alone cost millions.

Many women wanted to marry him. Despite his average looks, the female designers looked at him with their eyes glinting whenever he showed

Even though Shane could not compare to Evan in the looks department, he was far more approachable than Evan to small-time designers like them.

Evan was an untouchable god whom they could only admire from a distance. They could not even dream of dating him.

"M- Mr. Brown... what brings you here?" A female designer who had conducted business with Shane previously broke the silence. She smiled at Shane charmingly as she sashayed over to him. "Mr. Brown, I haven't seen you at JK Couture for such a long time."

Shane glanced at the female designer as she smiled. Since she had average looks, she was not his cup of tea.

He glanced away from her altogether and turned to look at the beautiful Anya before he smiled and said, "I am disappointed about seeing this happen at JK Couture, How could you bully a rookie?"

"Mr. Brown... that's not true. We were just handling a private matter," said the female designer as she smiled at Shane coquettishly.

"Not true?" Shane walked over slowly inside. "It seems to me that you are attacking Ms. MacMillan." "Mr. Brown, she stole my package. Carol continued accusing Anya as Shane walked over.

Miss MacMillan was certainly beautiful.

Why had he not noticed this before?

“What? Are you going to call the cops now?” Shane walked right up to Anya. “I can be a witness.”

Carol hurriedly shook her head “It’s okay... Since Mr. Brown insists she didn’t steal it, I will take your word for it.” Carol was no fool. If the police got involved, everyone would come to know of her ruse.

She also would end up offending Shane and it was simply not worth it.

She did not anticipate Anya to be capable of attracting so many men. It was simply annoying.

Shane turned up at the right time to help her. She wondered if she would be as lucky the next time she was accused. After Shane left, she had to continue working at JK Couture.

If she genuinely embarrassed Carol now, she would only end up suffering her wrath.

She decided to

“You are welcome.” Shane loved hearing Anya’s voice.

She had a sweet and soft voice. It was music to his ears.

Everyone was shocked to hear this and made a mental note never to pick on Anya.

Since Carol was the culprit, she felt embarrassed and kept biting her lip without saying a word.

Chapter 47

Chapter 47 “Enough, Get back to work.” Now that the air was cleared, Rina told everyone to go back to work. Everyone headed back to their office, including Carol.

The female designer who was acquainted with Shane did not leave right away. Instead, she ingratiated herself onto him. “Mr. Brown, shall I show you to the conference room?”

Shane did not have the time to hang around at JK Couture. He was here to personally apologize to Evan for being rude to him at the teahouse previously.

He waved her away coldly. “You may leave now. Ms. MacMillan can show me the way.” He had blatantly told the female designer to make herself scarce.

The female designer was instantly awkward, but she did not dare to linger. Instead, she bit her lip before she turned to leave feeling humiliated.

the female designer left, Anya thanked Shane courteously, “Mr. Brown, thank you so much earlier.” She promptly turned to leave. Shane had a bad reputation in high society.

Although Anya had never encountered him previously, she heard quite a bit about him, so she decided to keep a safe distance from him.

However, she had caught Shane’s interest. To be precise, he was interested in taking her into his harem. He wanted her to become his lover and another one of his playthings.

Anya courteously kept a distance and walked back to her desk, but Shane stopped her and said, “Ms. MacMillan, may I have the honor of having dinner with you?”

“I can book a table at Morton’s,” said Shane as he looked at Anya with his eyes bright,” heard it used to be your favorite restaurant

Had he already investigated her habits?

Anya lost her cool and instantly felt worried. She promptly developed a sense of heightened caution. The man was even more dangerous than Evan.

How could he have investigated her so quickly?

If he found out she had children, everyone in the high society would come to know of it, including Evan. The more Anya thought about it, the more it sent chills down her back.

She slowly clenched her fingers tightly.

“Mr. Brown, thank you for the offer, but I have to work overtime tonight, replied Anya as she forced herself to remain calm as she composed herself.

“Really? How late do you have to work tonight?” Shane refused to give up and kept walking towards her. Anya retreated as she put on a fake smile. “I am going to be very late. Maybe after 12:00 am.” 12:00 am?

Anya had no interest in eating with him. No way since he was such a playboy.

However, she continued to sound courteous. "Of course, Mr. Brown."

"Then see you around." Shane glanced at her flirtatiously before he swaggered to the top floor to see Evan. The moment Shane left, Anya powerlessly sat down at her desk right away and felt giddy.

She needed some time to calm herself after all the events that transpired earlier.

Chapter 48

Chapter 48 "Mr. Welton, Mr. Brown is still at JK Couture." After Hayden was done reporting the matter, he looked at Evan cautiously as the man narrowed his eyes and contemplated.

The gorgeous man looked annoyed as he raised his eyes and looked at Hayden and said, "He came to look for me, but he deliberately went to JK Couture to play the hero. Does he have nothing better to do?"

Hayden did not tdare answer Evan

Hayden was unsure what Evan was driving at, so he quietly stood by this side like an obedient little bunny. Hayden finally spoke up when he saw Evan rubbing his brows. "If you do not want to see him, I can tell him to leave." The moment he finished his sentence, someone knocked on the CEO's office doors.

Hayden looked at Evan and said, "I think Mr. Brown is here, Mr. Welton."

"Shall I tell him to leave then?"

Evan spun his pen pen with his eyes d

dark. "I don't want to see him."

"Okay." Hayden went to tell Shane to leave the moment he received his orders.

The moment Hayden left the office, Evan inexplicably thought about Anya embracing him at the hotel in the presidential suite the other night kissing him.

Her lips were soft and red and her eyes were misted over. She looked like a seductive little temptress.

Evan could not help feeling his throat constrict a little.

The woman was taking up more and more of his thoughts and Evan felt it was a bad sign.

It was

as impossible for him to fall for a woman who schemed and plotted to climb into his bed.

He threw the thoughts of kissing Anya out of his mind and got back to work.

After Hayden came out, he saw a skinny man standing near the door.

It was none other than Mr. Brown

Hayden immediately said politely, "Mr. Brown, pardon me. Mr. Welton is in the middle of a meeting and unable to receive you." "she busy?" Shane promptly frowned before he looked at Hayden in disbelief. "Does Mr. Welton not want to see me?"

"That is not true. Mr. Welton is really in the middle of a teleconference inside his office," explained Hayden with a sincere look on his face.

Shane contemplated. Since he was on Evan's territory, it was a bad idea to force Evan to see him. Instead, he smiled as he said. "Then I will swing by s

Shane looked at Hayden a little condescendingly before he turned and strode towards the lift.

He could not let Evan remain head of the Nordenic Quartet

After Carol accused Anya of theft, Anya was left in peace all afternoon,

She quietly worked and finished her tasks without any disturbance until Jake approached her with a new job when it was almost time to knock r

He was probably feeling guilty about making her entertain lewd clients last night, so he wanted to compensate by giving her an important client.

Even though it was genuinely a pretty good assignment, Anya did not know what to say about it.

Each time she looked at her babies, she could not bear to wean them off. Breast milk was very good at promoting immunity among the kids.

What if they fell sick after she weaned them off breastmilk?

What if they could not get accustomed to baby formula?

Just thinking about it gave Anya a headache.

It was a rich lady called Mdm Henkel.

Chapter 49

Chapter 49 Anya was new to the company and had already received her first independent assignment.

The other female designers could not help feeling jealous and started to gossip about her, especially Carol since she was deeply embarrassed after her little fiasco of accusing Anya of theft.

Despite not saying a word, everyone clearly felt Carol was such a rookie and was unable to even outdo a new hire.

After Anya left the company energetically and headed to the client's place, the female designers swarmed together and gossiped in envy.

"I am sure she is seducing him inside his office."

"Stop saying that you guys. Mr. Hanson is not the type to get easily seduced." Carol did not like hearing her colleagues seducing Jake in his office. Just listening about it made her feel terribly defeated talk about Anya

Carol fancied Jake, so she did not want the love of her life to get sullied by the likes of Anya. She kept defending Jake and convincing herself nothing was going on between him and Anya

“Even if Mr. Hanson is a decent man, just look at the work he has assigned Anya! It is impossible for him to be completely immune from her seduction”

“Hmph! She is such a slut.” Carol could not bear hearing this, gritting her teeth indignantly.

“Never mind. She is a seductive and pretty young thing. How could any man resist her?”

“I have to drive her out of the company,” sneered Carol. She could not bear the sight of Anya working here. In the JK Group corridor, Anya pressed for the lift. She was on her way to the client’s place.

Shortly after Anya arrived at the lift door, Sydney caught sight of Anya and ran after her quickly in her stilettos. It was Sydney's first day at the PR department and she happened to be getting off work.

The moment Sydney caught up with Anya, she grabbed Anya by the hand and ridiculed her, “Anya MacMillan, how could you have the audacity to continue working at Welton Group?”

Her year-long feud radiated from her.

“Is it any of your business whether I work at Welton Group?” Anya glanced at Sydney coldly as anger from their She flung Sydney hard as she said, “Mind your own business and stay out of my life”

Chapter 50

Chapter 50 It was already evening by the time Anya walked out of the company building.

Anya had just gotten into a confrontation with Sydney. After composing herself, she inhaled deeply and had it to the subway station.

The address Jake had given her was for a rather renowned posh residential district called Carroll Gardens. to afford it.

It was located at the city center. The houses must have cost a million per square foot, so only the most elite people were able to a

Judging from her residence, Jake had given her a very important client. Since it was an important client, Anya felt she had to be exceptionally professional about it.

If she botched her job, Jake would have to answer for it.

She took the subway to the nearest stop and arrived 30 minutes later.

Shortly after Anya got off the subway, Jake called, "Anya, did you have trouble getting there?" This time, Jake had unknowingly started to talk to her more casually.

"I just got here," said Anya as she looked for the address.

“She is the most important VIP client we have, so I used to handle her personally.” Although Jake had been handling this old lady’s account all this time, he had no idea she was Evan's grandmother.

Jake said patiently, “Don’t worry. She is a really nice lady. She wants to custom made hat for the fall, so you ought to be able to handle it.”

Jake would not have given her the assignment if the client had asked for for garments.

After all, Anya was still an intern

However, it was far easier to custom make a hat.

Since Anya had great technical skills, she could handle this perfectly.

“Uh huh, I will be sure to do a good job, Mr. Hanson.” Anya nodded her head.

Jake continued to remind her, “After you are done, he, call me if you have trouble getting home. I will come by to pick you up.

“I think I can handle it.” Anya did not want to trouble Jake.

Mainly, she wanted to keep a safe distance from him so that the people in the office would not gossip about her. “It’s no trouble. I need to make sure you are safe. Even though Jake knew she would turn him down, he was not anxious about it. He would keep an eye on the time and go over to pick her up when she was about done.

In any case, he had already made up his mind to court her.

“Thank you.” Anya did not want him to pick her up, so she quickly hung up the phone. “I’m here. I have to go”

“See you”

After Anya hung up the phone, she quickly headed over to her client's place.

Anya told the guard who she was when she finally arrived at the estate entrance.

The security guard called the old lady to verify if Anya was truly her guest before letting her in.
