Chapter 91

Panicked, Evelyn quickly parted her bangs, revealing her injured forehead. She was the one who had tried to harm Sophie but failed, so Evelyn didn't want to mention what happened last night.

However, Roger had already brought it up. Evelyn had no choice but to accuse Sophie. Evelyn went on, “Moreover, Sophie overreacted! She even... pressed her arm against my neck and almost suffocated me to death! Sophie even threatened me, saying that if I dared to tell you, she would cut off my tongue... She really said all that! I'm the victim!”

At that moment, Sophie finally saw through Evelyn. Sophie didn't expect Roger to know Evelyn so well.

Evelyn had no regrets at all. Even now, she was still trying to turn the tables.

Sophie snorted coldly. “Evelyn, your ability to lie is improving. You know that my legs have just recovered, but you still want to push me down the stairs. If I become disabled again, I'm likely unable to stand up for the rest of my life. You don't know how long it took me to recover. You don't know how much effort I have to put in every time I undergo rehabilitation before I can stand up again and walk like a normal person. You want to push me back to the hell I used to be in. You should be glad that when I lost control last night, I only injured your forehead. You're safe and sound now, but you aren't grateful. Roger is right. How can a person like you repent sincerely?”

Sophie was s too naive. She showed mercy to Evelyn because she didn't want her parents to be sad.

But Evelyn was an ingrate. “You want to kill me! What makes you think I'd be grateful to you? Godfather, Godmother, did you hear what she said? Sophie admitted that she hurt me! She even strangled me....”

“Enough!!” When Marcus heard Evelyn still accusing Sophie, he lost his patience with Evelyn.

“Evelyn... I’m disappointed in you!” Pointing at Evelyn, Marcus spoke bitterly, “Sophie has sacrificed so much just to stand up, and you want her to become disabled again. Even if she wants to kill you, it’s understandable! You don’t have the slightest bit of remorse. Since you’re so vicious, don’t blame me for being heartless. The Dawson family will not keep you anymore. Leave! I don’t want to see you again!”

“Marcus...” Bianca did not expect Marcus to say such a thing.

Although Bianca was also furious and disappointed in Evelyn, Bianca had never thought of asking Evelyn to leave the Dawson family.

“Shut up.” For the first time, Marcus spoke to his wife in a serious tone. “I felt sorry for you and didn’t want you to be sad. I didn’t want Evelyn to have no one to rely on, so I kept her. But now, what has she done to Sophie? Sophie is my biological daughter! No one can hurt her!”

Evelyn was dumbfounded. She did not expect this outcome.

Roger had only made a trip to the Dawson family and now Marcus wanted to chase her out of this house,

“No, don’t... Godfather! I beg you, don’t chase me away!” At this moment, Evelyn was terrified!

If Evelyn was chased out by the Dawson family, she would no longer be the Dawson family’s daughter. She would never lead such an extravagant life again. All her shoes, bags, and gorgeous rooms would be gone.

Evelyn didn’t want to live the life of a commoner.

However, Marcus had already turned his head away. “There’s no need to say anything else. Go upstairs, pack your things, and go. Kenneth, arrange a place for her. Let her have a place to stay before she finds her family.”

The Dawson family had already done everything they could for her.

“Got it.” Kenneth nodded and prepared to get up.

It

dawned on Evelyn that the Dawson family had abandoned her a long time ago. They could ask her to leave at any time.

It was no time to think about her pride and vanity.

Evelyn quickly got up and went to Marcus. She knelt in front of him and grabbed his pants leg, tears running down her cheeks. “Dad! I beg you... No, don’t chase me away. I know I was wrong... I won’t dare to do it again! It’s all my fault. I was narrow-minded, but I’m just a child, I can be jealous and sad too... You were so good to me in the past, but after Sophie came back, all your love and attention were given to her. As for me, I became an orphan without parents. I do feel the difference in treatment. Dad, Mom, don’t you think about me?”

Evelyn’s tears fell like broken pearls. At that moment, she finally spoke from the bottom of her heart. “I also need time to get used to the feeling of being left out I need to accept the fact that you’re no longer my parents and won’t love me anymore, but I don’t want to leave you. I know you’re good to me. I won’t forget the kindness you’ve shown me for the past twenty years... It’s because I can’t accept reality for a while. It’s also because I’ve been blinded by jealousy ... Dad, Mom, I’ll change. I won’t target Sophie anymore. I’ll get along well with her. I’ll do anything for her! I’ll even wait on her. I beg you... Don’t leave me behind... I’m already an orphan. You’re all I have now. If you don’t even want me as my adoptive parents... Where would I go? I might as well... I might as well die.”

As Evelyn spoke, she picked up the knife on the table and pressed it against her neck!

Sophie’s eyes instantly turned cold. The bitch, Evelyn, was willing to use her life to force them to let her stay. Sophie had underestimated Evelyn previously.

Roger's expression was also icy. When he saw Marcus quickly snatch the knife from Evelyn's hand, Roger immediately knew that it was impossible to chase Evelyn away tonight.

Marcus, who had taken away the knife, pulled Evelyn up and asked, "What are you doing? Do you want to die?"

Evelyn looked at Marcus innocently and uttered, "Ever since I was born... you and Mom are the ones who raised me. You are my only family... If my parents and brothers don't want me anymore, what's the point of me living..."

Evelyn's words were like knives that pierced Marcus and Bianca's hearts.

Even Kenneth's cold expression became a little helpless.

Wesley and Timothy's expressions became complicated.

They did not expect that they were so important to Evelyn.

After all, they had lived together for 20 years. It would be a lie to say that they could watch Evelyn commit suicide without being moved

Wesley gritted his teeth. Although he felt a little guilty toward Sophie, he still spoke up. "Father... Evelyn might have been muddled—headed for a moment. After all, we really can't treat her as well as we used to. She must be upset and jealous of Sophie. I can understand why Evelyn would lose control of herself... Why don't you give her a chance?"

This was the first time Wesley had thought of Evelyn as his sister in the past few days.

Evelyn's heart instantly softened for a moment "Wesley...

Timothy could not bear to see Evelyn like that. "Dad, Mum, let Evelyn stay at home for a while. At the very least, we have to wait for her to find her family before she leaves. Otherwise, we will not be able to bear to see her alone outside."

Since the two children had said so, Marcus's gaze became less determined.

But he still looked at Sophie. "No, this matter is not up to you. Since Evelyn has done something wrong to Sophie, Sophie should be the one to decide her fate. Evelyn, if you have repented, go and apologize to Sophie, not me."

Although Evelyn was still a little unwilling, she did not dare to hesitate at that moment. She immediately nodded. "I understand. I'll apologize to Sophie now."

As she spoke, Evelyn crawled in front of Sophie and grabbed her sleeve. "Sophie... I know I made a mistake. I was wrong last night. I was muddle-headed. I won't hurt you again. As long as you let me stay, I'm willing to be your servant. You... you can ask me to do anything. I beg you... don't chase me away. Even if it is to give me some time to find my parents, can you..." Evelyn begged pitifully, tears still running down her face.

Sophie was not a cold-blooded and heartless, person.

Seeing Evelyn kneeling in front of her with eyes filled with remorse, Sophie hesitated.

Roger could tell that Sophie was soft-hearted, so he made the decision for her. "Sophie is a soft-hearted person. She didn't intend to chase you away either, but you are the one who did something wrong. I'm an outsider, after all. I can only stand up for Sophie. I don't have the right to judge you. Just remember what you said today. You have to keep your word. If that's the case,

Since Evelyn had said so, Roger would do as she wished and let her be a servant.

Evelyn could not help but bite her lip. She had only said that. She did not expect Roger to want her to be a servant!

Roger went on, "After all, we don't know when we will find your family. From now on, you'll wait on Sophie and show that the Dawson family didn't raise you for nothing."

Evelyn bit the inside of her mouth to stop herself from retorting. She could taste blood.

Roger was definitely doing it on purpose.

Even if Evelyn remained in the Dawson family in the future, she would be inferior to others.

I

Evelyn felt indescribably indignant, but she was at their mercy. "Alright, I promise you. From today onward, I'll be your servant. I'll do whatever you ask me to do. As long as you don't chase me away, I'll do anything," Evelyn promised pitifully.

Even Marcus and his wife pitied Evelyn.

They did not want Evelyn to be a servant, but Evelyn had said those words just now. Moreover... Roger still harbored a grudge over the fact that Evelyn had bullied Sophie. They knew that Roger was worried that Evelyn would bully Sophie again.

They would just treat it as teaching Evelyn a lesson. Only by recognizing one's position would one not overstep one's boundaries.

Sophie did not want to see Evelyn kneeling. She spoke coldly, "Alright, get up. I accept your promise."

With today's lesson, Evelyn would probably not dare to act rashly in the future.

Sophie would give her a chance.

Evelyn could not help but heave a sigh of relief internally and quickly got up. She pretended that her legs were numb and almost fell. Wesley immediately reached out and pulled her.

Evelyn looked at Wesley with watery eyes. "Wesley... Thank you."

Wesley sighed. "Go back and sit down. Eat properly. Don't mess around in the future anymore."

Evelyn nodded. "Alright." She returned to her seat obediently.

After this farce, some of the food had already turned cold.

The servants took them away and heated them before serving them..

However, Blanca had already lost her appetite. She spoke uncomfortably, "My stomach is a little unwell, so I'll go upstairs to rest first."

Marcus's heart ached for his wife. He immediately stood up and told her, "I'll accompany you."

Blanca nodded.

Marcus looked back at Roger. "Mr. Roger, I'll go upstairs first. I'll get Sophie to send you off later."

Roger agreed calmly, "Alright."

Sophie nodded. "Dad, Mom, leave this to me. Go and rest."

Marcus smiled knowingly. "Alright."

With that, the two of them went upstairs in peace.

Without their parents, the atmosphere was a bit strained as they ate.

Evelyn knew that these people did not welcome her presence, and she did not want to continue staying in the same room as Sophie and Roger, so she quickly finished eating and went upstairs.

As soon as Evelyn left, Wesley spoke apologetically to Sophie, "Sophie, don't blame me. I saw that it was difficult for Dad and Mum to make the decision just now. Evelyn is a girl after all. If they calm down after she is alone outside, they will inevitably worry again. By that time, they will be the only ones who can't let go."

Sophie nodded. "I understand, Wesley. You don't have to explain it to me. Actually, I can't bear to see Evelyn like that just now. As long as she is sincere and changes, she can stay if she wants to."

Sophie was not a petty person and was not in the mood to care about Evelyn.

Now that she was home, Sophie just wanted to live a peaceful life.

She didn't want to scheme against anyone else.

When Timothy saw the worried look on Wesley's face, he could not help but add, "Alright, don't worry. Sophie is not a petty person. Besides, I've been investigating Evelyn's biological parents. When I find her family, I don't know if she will continue to stay. After all, who doesn't want to be with their biological parents? It's just that she's afraid of the unknown. She doesn't know what kind of people her parents are. That's why she's afraid. But if she finds them, she might be the first to decide to leave the Dawson family."

After all, the Dawson family no longer treated her as well as before. If they found her family, she might leave.

Sophie knew that Timothy was right, so she did not object.

After the meal and the matter was resolved, there was no need for Roger to stay. He turned to Sophie. "You still have to go to class today, right? Shall I send you there?"

Sophie thought for a moment. "Alright."

She didn't want to trouble Kenneth to send her off again today.

Seeing her heave a sigh of relief, Kenneth couldn't help but smile. "I'll give Mr. Nicholls an opportunity today."

Wesley interjected, "What a pity. I wanted to send Sophie off today."

Timothy quickly interrupted warily. "It's my turn tomorrow. Don't even think about cutting in the queue."

"You!" Wesley did not expect Timothy to see through his intentions and immediately wanted to hit him.

But

Timothy had already turned around and left. "I'm in a hurry to get to work! I'm leaving!"

"Come back here!" Wesley still wanted to chase after him, but Timothy quickly rushed out of the door.

It seemed that Wesley could only be last.

Roger could not help but smile when he saw that the three brothers wanted to send Sophie off so badly. “You’re very popular at home.”

Chapter 93

Sophie smiled smugly. “I think I’m very pampered too.”

The feeling of being loved by her brothers was good.

“I need to go upstairs to my stuff. Wait for me.” Without another word, Sophie got up and headed upstairs.

“Okay, I’ll wait for you.” Roger smiled calmly. That warm smile on his face made Sophie feel exceptionally warm.

Sophie went upstairs to get her things. She quickly packed everything, carried her bag, and followed Roger out of the house.

Roger had never sent anyone to school before. It felt inexplicably adorable to send his wife, who was carrying a school bag, to school.

After they got into the car, Roger continued to be in a good mood.

Sophie was also in a good mood. She whispered to Roger, “Thank you for coming early in the morning to back me up.”

When she left the Bourn family, she wanted to protect Daisy and Roger. However, Sophie did not expect that Roger would take care of her more.

Roger smiled. “You’re welcome. It’s my duty. You’re my wife. I can bully you, but others can’t.” His words were filled with affection.

Sophie knew that Roger was joking. "It's impossible for you to bully me."

Roger would only treat her well and would never bully her.

"You trust me that much?" Roger raised his eyebrows. He was a little surprised that Sophie trusted him so much.

"Yes, because you're a very good person. You're not scheming or shrewd. You're a simple person." Sophie stared at Roger. She felt that Roger was an innocent and pure person.

Roger was not like her. After experiencing so many hardships, Sophie could no longer return to her previous innocent self.

Little did Sophie know that Dillon, who was in the front row, was shocked by her remark. He thought, Is Mrs. Sophie describing Mr. Roger? In terms of scheming and shrewdness, no one could surpass Mr. Roger...

However, Sophie thought Roger was innocent. It was unbelievable.

Roger did not expect Sophie to think that he was so good. His heart could not help but soften. "So I'm such a good person in your heart. Aren't you afraid that... I'm lying to you?"

A gleam appeared in Roger's eyes.

However, Sophie did not see it. She looked ahead and nodded firmly. "Don't be afraid. I can feel that you're very kind-hearted. It's just that your aunts and the others forced you to defend yourself sometimes, but you're actually... a very reliable person. I think... anyone will lie to me but you."

In Sophie's eyes, Roger was a very simple person. He would treat whoever was good to him well, and he would treat whoever was bad to him badly. Deception was too complicated for Roger, and there was no need for it.

However, Sophie's answer made Roger's heart heavy. "If Sophie knew one day that I was the one behind all of this, would she be disappointed and sad?" he wondered.

With that thought in mind, Roger's mood fell.

Sophie did not know what was wrong with Roger and did not say anything.

Fortunately, the car soon arrived at the school.

Sophie immediately got out of the car and waved at him. "I'll get going first. Thank you for sending me to school."

Roger waved back at her. "Go on. Don't be late."

Sophie smiled. The feeling of being sent to school by her husband was really... a little strange.

As he watched Sophie leave, Roger's unfocused eyes suddenly regained their brilliance. He looked at Sophie, his eyes shining brightly. "Dillon... If she finds out one day that I'm extremely shrewd and manipulate people, do you think she will leave me?"

Dillon was instantly speechless..

He would say yes, but the answer would enrage Roger. Therefore, Dillon could only say awkwardly, "I don't think so."

Dillon was not confident at all.

Sophie was such a proud person. If she knew that her return to the Dawson family was planned... What would she think?

Seeing that Dillon no longer spoke, Roger retracted his gaze and ordered, "Let's go."

Thinking about it was useless. At most, Roger would not tell Sophie for the rest of his life.

"Yes." Dillon nodded and brought Roger to his secret office.

A new landmark building was recently built in Harbourland.

When it was first built, everyone was guessing who the owner of the building would be.

In the end, the magnificent twin towers were marked by the Windesia Group.

The Windesia Group was a mysterious group that had suddenly risen from overseas in the past seven years.

In two years, its market value rose to 20 billion dollars. Then, it quickly went public. In five years, Windesia Group spread throughout various industries. Moreover, it quickly became a leader in various fields.

However, the real boss behind such a formidable group was still a mystery.

However, no one had seen his true face. Even during video conferences, they could only hear his voice and not see him.

The outside world speculated that although the CEO of Windesia Group was capable, he might look hideous and thus did not want to show his face.

Even though Angus had become the richest person on Forbes's list this year, speculation about him had never stopped.

Some people said that he might have been born disabled, while others said that he might have been disfigured after birth.

However, everyone admired his ability. They even wanted to meet him in person and curry favor with him to obtain his help.

However, no one knew where he was, let alone who he was.

The establishment of the building made everyone wonder if Angus would be here.

Little did they know that at that moment, Angus, whom countless people were curious about, had already gotten out of car with Dillon and walked into the private elevator. They took the viewing elevator to the office on the top floor of the company.

past, Dillon would bring the company's matters to the cafe Roger often went to. But now that the company was built, Roger only needed to come here every day under the guise of taking a walk

After entering, Dillon poured a cup of coffee for Roger.

Roger drank his coffee and stood in front of the floor-to-ceiling window. He looked down at the bustling Harbourland, beneath like a king surveying his land.

"Not bad. The view is good." Roger was very satisfied with the location he chose and the height of the design.

Dillon nodded. "Of course. The building was built according to the blueprint you designed. It would be perfect."

Roger was keen on studying, so he had a variety of skills.

Roger had even won many awards for architectural design. However, he would receive the award under his other identity. His real name had never been known by the outside world.

After taking a few sips of coffee, Roger returned to his seat comfortably.

Dillon reported professionally, "Almost all the headquarters have moved back to the country. Since the day before yesterday, employees have gradually start ed reporting to work. It is expected that everyone will be transferred by next week, and we will be ready to begin entering the domestic market.”

Leaning against the back of the chair, Roger told Dillon, “Alright, I’ll leave these things to you. Don’t worry and just do it. In addition, the exclusive passageway I use has to be guarded most securely and no one else is allowed to enter. You cannot let anyone install any cameras along the path I walk, understand?”

Roger was also a hacker. Things like cameras could be spied on at any time.

“Got it, Mr. Nicholls,” answered Dillon.

Roger nodded. When he was almost done with his coffee, he spoke, “Let’s start dealing with the work at hand.”

“Alright.” Dillon nodded and began to report to him.

Roger dealt with them one by one. After the report was over, Dillon asked worriedly, “Mr. Roger, our company moved our headquarters back to Habourland much earlier... Ever since our employees began reporting to work, many companies in Habourland have stated their wishes to meet with you. The Nicholls family... is among them.”

Roger did not expect Damian to be so anxious to see him.

At this moment, he could not help but be curious about Damian and Humphrey’s expressions when they realized he was Angus.

The corners of Roger's lips curled up slightly, and his eyes were filled with coldness as he smiled at Dillon. "Reject him three times. As for the fourth, we'll see when the time comes."

Dillon understood what Roger meant and could not help but smile. "I understand."

Damian was usually insufferably arrogant at home. He didn't even take anyone seriously.

Dillon looked forward to seeing Damian's expression when he was rejected.

When the time came, Dillon would have to do it personally!

In the meantime, Sophie had already adapted to life at Habourland University today.

However, someone had spread the news that a transfer student had come to the school.

As a result, Sophie could hear people discussing the matter when she went to the self-study room.

Sophie was annoyed and went to the big tree on the field to read.

Sunlight shone through the leaves and onto the ground while Sophie lowered her head and read her book.

A figure suddenly appeared and blocked Sophie's sunlight, making her look up.

When that person saw Sophie, she smiled brightly. "Oh! It's you. I heard that the last name of the new transfer student is Dawson, so I guessed it might be you. I didn't expect to be right."

Sophie had an impression of the girl in front of her. It was Dolores, whom she had seen at the party.

“You’re studying at Habourland University too?” Sophie looked a little surprised.

Dolores replied, “Of course. My father is a nouveau riche. He’s terrified that others will look down on his background. He’s also afraid that others will look down on me in the future. That’s why he tried his best to think of a way for me to attend Habourland University.”

Dolores did not hide the fact that her father was a nouveau riche because she felt that Sophie probably wouldn’t care.

Sophie did not care. She had a good impression of Dolores, so she asked her to sit down. “If you don’t mind, sit. It’s quite comfortable here.”

It was the first time Sophie invited someone to sit with her..

Dolores sat down beside Sophie and leaned against the tree with her. “This place is indeed not bad, but it’s not as good as the rooftop. It’s a pity that the rooftop is always occupied by those dumb boys. I hate it.”

Sophie did not take Dolores’s complaint to heart.

Seeing that Sophie was reading, Dolores quickly leaned over to take a look but realized that she couldn’t understand it at all. “Damn, Sophie, what kind of text is this? I’ve learned Angleno and Fruoveno, so why can’t I understand this book?”

Sophie answered, “It’s a book written in Myelteesh.”

Dolores could not help but look at Sophie in a new light. “That’s impressive that you can understand Myeiteesh. But I’m better than you. I know three languages.” Dolores laughed.

Sophie smiled and did not speak.

Sophie was proficient in at least six languages. She had also come into contact with other languages but was not as proficient in those.

Dolores accompanied Sophie for a while. Seeing that it was about time, she asked, “It’s noon. Do you have classes in the afternoon? If you do, let’s go to the canteen for lunch. After lunch, we’ll go back to class.”

“I do have lessons. I’ve never been to the canteen. Is the food delicious there?” Sophie only knew the general location of the canteen and had never been to the canteen. She did not know what the university canteen would be like.

“Oh! This is Habourland University! Of course, the food in the canteen is delicious! There is also a lot of variety! The food is even better than those made by the chef in my house. Let’s go and eat together!” As she spoke, Dolores hurriedly pulled Sophie, who had never been to the canteen, there.

Sophie let Dolores pull her and couldn’t help but smile.

Dolores’s easygoing personality suited Sophie, who didn’t know how to interact with others.

It had been a long time since Sophie walked with a friend.

Soon, the two of them arrived at the canteen. As Dolores had mentioned, the canteen at Habourland University was not bad.

The food there was sumptuous and comprehensive. There were all kinds of food. It was quite the sight to behold.

“So many types? Isn’t that a little too much?” Sophie was shocked when she saw that there was also foreign cuisine.

Dolores, on the other hand, was calm. “Those who can study here are children of wealthy families. Naturally, everything they are used to is of the highest standards. Although it’s a canteen, its scale and variety of ingredients here are similar to a five–star restaurant.”

Sophie could not help but be speechless. In that case, the environment there was indeed a little exaggerated. The place was spotless. The tables, chairs, and chairs in the canteen were exquisite and stylish. It was very similar to a five-star restaurant.

“Sit down. Let’s order something to eat.” As they spoke, the two of them found a seat by the window and sat down.

Dolores ordered a simple salad and steak before handing the menu to Sophie.

After Sophie saw the menu, she ordered pasta and a side dish.

Dolores could not help but find her interesting. “You’re strange. There’s so much delicious food but you didn’t order them. You’re only eating pasta and vegetables?”

Sophie nodded. “Yes. I’ll go over there to get some dessert later.”

Apart from placing an order, there were also many self-service food there. Sophie wanted to try them all.

sat

‘I see. Then, you have to try more. The desserts at Harbourland University are delicious, Dolores sincerely recommended.

Sophie smiled. “Okay”

The two of them proceeded to eat in peace.

The food there was good, but Sophie thought it was still not as good as those made by Bianca.

As the two of them were about to finish eating, Sophie heard a voice that she hated the most. “Sophie? Why are you here?”

What would come would come eventually.

When Sophie heard from Lucy that Laura was also in school, she thought that they might meet at some point. However, Sophie did not expect to meet Laura so quickly.

Laura was not in good health. In the past two years, she often took leave from school especially during gym. Laura was afraid that she would accidentally get injured during gym and that it would be difficult for her to get a supply of blood plasma.

Sophie did not expect Laura to come to school today. It was simply bad luck for Sophie to come to the canteen and bump into Laura there.

Sophie could not help but feel regret. If she had known this would happen earlier, she would not have come to the canteen with Dolores.

When Dolores saw who had come, she also felt a little disgusted. “Tsk. Just the sight of them spoils my appetite. My steak doesn’t taste as good anymore. I don’t want to eat anymore.”

With that, Dolores pushed her plate away and got up to leave.

Sophie had no intention of staying any longer and wanted to leave as well.

However, Laura had not vented her anger last time. How could she let the two of them leave so easily?

Therefore, when Sophie passed by her, she stretched out a foot to trip her!

Little did she know that Sophie's sharp eyes had already seen it. When she saw her reach out, she did not restrain her strength. Instead, she stepped on her foot forcefully!!

"Ah! It hurts!" Laura's face instantly turned pale. She shouted, "Sophie, how dare you step on me! You did it on purpose!"

Sophie glanced at her coldly and said, "You still know that I did it on purpose? Then how dare you extend your foot in front of me? If you dare to trip me again, be careful that I'll break your legs!"

"How dare you!!" Laura shouted angrily.

Sophie snorted, "Let's see if I dare."

Seeing that Sophie was so arrogant, Laura's friends were furious.

"Who is she? How can she be so arrogant?"

"That's right. Why don't you apologize after stepping on someone?"

"She seems to share the same name as Laura. Could she be the transfer student who got admitted through the back door?"

"A transfer student? No wonder she's so unruly."

The students mocked and gossiped about Sophie.

Sophie's face was extremely gloomy when she heard that.

If not for the fact that this was a school and there were school rules prohibiting fighting, she would definitely slap these people a few times now.

Dolores seemed to have noticed Sophie's anger. She could not help but remind Sophie, "There are surveillance cameras here. Don't do anything like last time, or you will be demerited. If you want to fight, you can go to the rooftop. There are no surveillance cameras there."

Dolores reminded Sophie as if she was looking forward to a good show.

Sophie could not help but glance at her helplessly. “Do you really want to be friends with me or are you here to watch a good show?”

Dolores chuckled, “I really want to be friends with you. That’s why I told you this.”

Seeing that Dolores and Sophie had ignored them, Laura was furious. She roared, “Sophie! What are you waiting for? You stepped on me. Aren’t you going to apologize?”

Seeing that Laura was still pestering her, Sophie could not be bothered with her and said, “Laura, are you out of your mind?”

You wanted to trip me but were stepped on by me instead. You still want me to apologize to you? You’re really shameless.”

Sophie’s scolding stunned everyone

There was not a single vulgar word in Sophie’s scolding, but it made people feel that Laura was extremely shameless

“Sophie! How dare you scold me! I’ll tear you apart!”

With that, Laura was about to charge forward

However, Dolores snorted coldly, “Laura, how dare you? Have you forgotten the school rules? If you cause trouble and fight in school, you will be severely punished!”

“So be it! I’m going to teach you two a lesson today!” Laura had already gone berserk. She pounced on Dolores and Sophie Sophie’s eyes turned cold. She gave Laura a taste of her own medicine.

When Laura pounced over, Sophie dodged and tripped her, causing Laura to fall flat on her face!

“Ah!” Laura screamed.

She fell facedown onto the ground!

In an instant, her chin was painful!

“Laura!” One of her friends was terrified when she saw this scene. She quickly went over to help Laura up

However, Laura’s chin was already swollen.

Fortunately, her skin was not broken. If she bled, she would have to go to the hospital again.

“Sophie! You... How dare you trip me?”

Sophie was simply too arrogant.

When they were in the Bourn family, it was Laura who bullied Sophie.

However, Laura wanted to take revenge on Sophie in school today. She did not expect to be taught a lesson by Sophie again.

Sophie looked down at Laura

Sophie’s face was extremely cold.

“I even dared to whip you, so why wouldn’t I dare to trip you? Besides, can you prove that it was me who tripped you?”

Laura learned Dolores’s words and said loudly. “There are surveillance cameras here! You can’t escape!”

Sophie smiled smugly, “Oh? Is that so? Then look up. Who was the camera on just now?”

As soon as Sophie said that, Laura subconsciously looked up and realized that from the angle of the surveillance camera, others could only see Laura stretching her legs to try to trip Sophie. She could not see Sophie stretching her legs at all.

“Sophie, you... You planned this all along, didn't you?”

Sophie laughed, “That's right. You only know about that now? You are too stupid. Laura, this isn't the Bourn family. No one is biased towards you. You're not my match at all. I advise you to be smarter in the future. If you see me, take a detour. In this way, I will not deal with you immediately.”

Sophie would never forget what the Bourn family had done to her all these years.

She would definitely settle these scores with them.

“What do you mean?” Looking at Sophie, Laura suddenly felt a chill run down her spine.

“It means literally. Enjoy the life your family gives you. When the Bourn family is no longer around, no one will give you a luxurious life,” Sophie said.

After saying that indifferently, Sophie turned around and was about to leave.

Laura said angrily, “Who are you threatening? How can my family not be around? Even if you die, we won't die!”

Sophie smiled coldly and turned around to glance at her indifferently. “Then we'll see. I promise that within a year, I'll definitely make the Bourn family colla pse... At that time, you won't even be able to afford blood. Don't come begging me."

With that, Sophie left with her hands in her pockets smugly.

Dolores's eyes lit up!

'Oh my dear, Sophie was so cool!' she thought.

She had the charm of being the leader of the students.

Many people looked at Sophie in admiration and discussed in low voices, "Who is she... She's so powerful."

"That's right. Laura is a bully. But she was actually taught a lesson by that lady."

"Yeah. I never expected that."

Hearing these people's discussions, Laura and her friends looked pale and embarrassed

They had always flaunted their strength in school, but today, they were actually taught a lesson...

DA

They would never let Sophie off.

Sophie had already walked out of the canteen. Dolores hurriedly followed her and laughed. "Sophie, you're really awesome. Laura and the others are usually arrogant and domineering in school. You actually made them suffer just now!"

Sophie looked calm and said, "After leaving the Bourn family, I have a hundred ways to deal with Laura. If she's willing to come to my doot, I'll satisfy her."

Dolores was instantly excited. “Oh, it’s great that you’re in school. I’m afraid many interesting things like this will happen in the future.”

Sophie rolled her eyes at her when she saw Dolores gloating.

“Dolores, you seem to feel bored every day.”

Dolores blinked. “How do you know? My father watches me very closely. Other than going to school, I’m not allowed to go out and have fun. I can only stay in school”

Sophie raised her eyebrows.

No wonder Dolores was so irritable and rebellious. It turned out that her father was too strict with her

Not wanting to be treated like a clown, Sophie turned around and left.

Dolores quickly caught up and said, “Of course it will be fun. You’re my friend. It will be happy to stay with friends.”

Sophie shook her head helplessly and did not say anything else.

The two of them went to class together.

Dolores was from Class B. Her major happened to be the same as Sophie's, so the two of them went to the classroom together.

But Sophie had never expected that she would encounter Brennan again.

But on second thoughts, Sophie found that it was not strange. Every student would attend the major class. But Sophie did not plan to pay attention to Brennan.

However, his two lackeys looked at Sophie as if they had seen their prey.

"Henry, it's Sophie." James widened his eyes and reminded Henry.

Henry looked suspicious and asked, "Why is she with that hot-tempered Dolores?"

Brennan couldn't help but frown when he saw the two of them together.

What was Sophie's identity? Why was she with Dolores?

Moreover, judging from what Sophie said last time, Brennan felt that she seemed to know his grandfather.

However, Sophie was so young, so she was probably just saying nonsense. Brennan ignored her.

"Focus on class. Don't pay attention to her." Since the teacher was here, Brennan immediately told the two of them to behave themselves.

Melany Anderson was Thompson's spy. Brennan must not make mistakes in Melany's class.

After the teacher came in, everyone fell silent.

Melany began to lecture on stage, and the students quietly took notes and listened to the class.

However, after listening to the class for a while, Sophie actually went to read extracurricular books.

That was because she had already learned these classes and even figured out the extended topics in detail. Hence, she used this time to read.

But what she did was seen by James, who was sitting in the back seat. He couldn't help but raise his hand and say to Melany, "Miss Anderson! She isn't listening to class. She's reading an extracurricular book!"

James's voice was abnormally loud, causing everyone to be stunned. The students all turned around to look at Sophie.

Sophie did not expect this ally boy to report her.

A fierce look appeared on Sophie's face.

For a moment, James was shocked.

"Why is she so scary?" James murmured.

Sophie had always been a good student, but this was the first time she had been reported. She could not stand this, so she stood up directly. "Miss Anderson, I'm not reading extracurricular books because I want to slack off. It's just that I've already self-studied this class, and I know the extended courses very well. That's why I want to use my time to read classic books so that I can finish my thesis better."

Melany looked at Sophie's face and suddenly remembered that Jessica had said that the school had made an exception to accept a transfer student. She was once the top scorer in the middle school examination, and she had self-studied all her university courses. Jessica was very worried about this student.

Thinking of this, Melany couldn't help but smile, "I heard that you were the top scorer in the middle school examination who still holds the highest record, right? What's your name?"

Sophie did not expect Melany to know her, so she nodded politely. “My name is Sophie Dawson.”

Melany’s words instantly caused quite a stir.

“The top scorer of the middle school examination?”

“And she still holds the highest record?”

“Wow, she’s so awesome. No wonder she was accepted as a transfer student ...”

“Did you hear what she said just now? She said that she finished learning all of Melany’s classes by herself?”

“Is she serious?”

The surrounding students discussed one after another.

Brennan could not help but be slightly surprised. Sophie had actually maintained the highest record in the middle school examination.

Back then, when he was taking his middle school exams, Brennan had also broken the record. But he never expected that his record would be broken by a girl the next year. Brennan thought that he would meet the girl in high school, but he never expected that she would drop out of school, causing Brennan to take this matter to heart throughout high school.

Unexpectedly, the old enemy he had wanted to meet for so many years was Sophie.

However, she did not even go to university and skipped three grades to be in the same class as him .

Brennan thought, ‘Forget it... She has never attended a class before, but she actually boasted that she had already self-

At this moment, he could not help but mock Sophie. "Self-study? Sophie, stop bragging. How can the classes in Habourland University be the same as the online classes that you self-studied outside? Even if you've learned them, you should listen to the class modestly and not read extracurricular books. This is too disrespectful."

Brennan suddenly spoke.

Everyone immediately fell silent.

As the grandson of the principal of the school, Brennan was powerful in the school, and his words carried weight.

Most people did not dare to provoke him.

Even some teachers would take a detour when they saw him.

Although Brennan had such a strong personality, his grades were one of the best in the school, and he often took turns to be first with the top three. But everyone knew that even though Brennan's grades were good, most of the time, he would sleep at the back of the class.

Everyone said that if he studied hard, it would not be a problem for him to take first place.

However, Brennan was the principal's grandson. If he kept being first, people would think that there was something shady going on, so he would give first place to others some time.

So in class, Brennan would usually sleep, and he would only be slightly more serious during Melany's class because he respected Melany greatly.

With him taking the lead, the other students did not dare to neglect Melany. However, Sophie, the newcomer, actually disrespected the teacher. She was simply asking for trouble.

However, at this moment, Sophie could not be bothered with him. She turned around and said, "You didn't even raise your hand when you spoke just now. You're even more disrespectful to the teacher than me. This is a class, not a place where you can speak whenever you want."

As soon as these words were spoken, everyone was silent.

They all looked at Sophie in shock.

What was going on?

No one had ever dared to offend Brennan, who was the principal's grandson! But he had actually been taught a lesson by Sophie.

This was definitely going to be big news in the school's journal and forums today.

James was also stunned.

"Brennan, was she dissing you just now?"

James could not believe that there was someone in this school who dared to diss Brennan.

Brennan's face instantly turned gloomy. "What did you say?"

Sophie snorted, "Not only are you disrespectful to others, but you also have poor hearing. I can't be bothered with you. Miss Anderson is asking me a question now. Don't interrupt."

Sophie retorted again.

When Dolores saw that Brennan's expression had become so sullen, she could not help but laugh.

It was so funny.

Sure enough, if she stayed with Sophie, something interesting would happen.

Sophie's bold personality was really awesome.

Dolores usually had to keep a distance from Brennan when she saw him.

However, Sophie had made Brennan embarrassed in public, and Brennan was furious.

Melany couldn't help but feel amused when she saw Brennan's displeased expression.

Brennan was used to being arrogant and despotic in school, and no one had ever dared to diss him like this.

And everyone could see and hear how Sophie scolded Brennan,

Suppressing her laughter, Melany continued to ask Sophie, “Sophie, you just said that you’ve learned all the classes I taught. You even know the courses I’ve extended very well. In that case, why don’t you tell me about the extended history of modern history?”

Not expecting Melany to be so ruthless, everyone immediately looked at Sophie.

Sophie just said that she had learned the classes herself, but no one knew how excellent she was. Melany actually asked her to go on stage to give a lecture.

This was clearly a trap for her.

As long as Sophie could not extend the history or mess it up, she would embarrass herself.

At this moment, the infuriated Brennan couldn't help but grunt coldly.

He thought, 'She deserved it. She just boasted that she had learned the class. Wasn't she very sharp—tongued? I wanted to see what story she could make up! Melany was very smart. Sophie would definitely be humiliated.'

At this moment, Dolores started to feel slightly worried about Sophie. She lowered her voice and whispered, "Sophie, why don't you apologize to Melany? Melany would show favoritism to Brennan, so she might be teaching you a lesson on Brennan's behalf."

d for me?'

Sophie raised her eyebrows. "Did Dolores mean that Melany was deliberately making things hard for Sophie thought that Melany was simply going to test her. 'Since that was the case, there was no need for me to be polite.' Sophie simply agreed with an unaverting gaze.

"Sure. Since Miss Anderson wants me to tell the expanded story, I'll give it a try. If I don't speak well, Melany, you can make an addition."

Her tone was insolent as she said the last few words.

Melany couldn't help but laugh. "Sure. Fire away."

With that, Melany went down to the side of the stage and sat on the chair to drink coffee.

Sophie walked down the steps and went to the podium. She faced everyone and began to give the lecture.

James

snorted. "You're overestimating yourself. Do you really think you can explain everything after a few years of self-study? Not everyone can be a teacher."

Henry's tone was also filled with disdain as he said, "That's right. We just wait and see you make a fool of yourself."

However, after Sophie flipped through the textbook that Melany had placed on the podium, she started to speak in a clear voice

“Actually, there’s a deeper topic in the Angleno version of the extended topic that Miss Anderson is talking about.”

Chapter 97

As she spoke, Sophie turned around and wrote on the blackboard.

Melany’s eyes darkened when she saw the topic Sophie had written.

Now she realized that Sophie had learned this class indeed. There was indeed another version of modern history. Because the perspective of modern history was different from that of the translated version, some other topics in the Angleno version were not translated. However, the detailed topics were only taught by university professors.

Sophie, however, actually started with the Angleno version when she started her lecture.

This immediately raised the class to a higher level.

And that wasn’t all.

She originally thought that Sophie only had limited knowledge about the class, but her memory was very good, so Sophie could explain the foreign version of extended topics in detail. After a short ten minutes of class, Sophie even left behind some thinking topics and raised them to a philosophical level.

It was clear that Sophie was also very knowledgeable about philosophy.

Everyone’s gazes gradually turned into admiration at Sophie’s vivid and exciting explanation.

They even forgot about what had just happened and listened attentively to her lecture.

Even Brennan listened to it attentively.

But soon, a trace of jealousy flooded him.

Not only did Sophie learn the modern history of the domestic textbook version, but she also learned the foreign version and the modern history written from the perspective of other countries.

It was obvious that she was no longer at the level of a university student. It would not be an exaggeration to say that she could be a qualified teacher.

Sophie did not want to show off, so she finished this extended topic in the shortest time. "Alright, that's all. If there's anything you don't understand, you can ask me. Leave the rest to Miss Anderson."

Sophie's concluding words made her sound like a substitute teacher.

Melany immediately felt a little ashamed of her inferiority.

She really did not expect Habourland University to be so full of talents.

It required a lot of reading for a student to give such a wonderful lecture.

Although Sophie was reading extra books in her class, even if she skipped the class, Melany believed that Sophie's results would not be bad.

"Sophie gave us a wonder class. No wonder you were accepted as a transfer student by Habourland University. You're indeed outstanding"

Sophie smiled and nodded. "Thank you for your praise, Miss Anderson. Can I go back to my seat now?"

Melany was much more polite now. "Of course."

"Okay." Sophie did not say anything else. She turned around and returned to her seat safely.

But on the way, she rolled her eyes at Brennan and James.

She used her gaze to mock them for being stickybeaks.

James was so angry that he subconsciously raised his fist at her.

However, Sophie was not afraid at all.

“Brennan, look at her. She’s still provoking us. James was furious.

Brennan’s expression was unsightly.

He had wanted to see Sophie make a fool of herself, but she proved her strength.

Now, the only person who was embarrassed was Brennan, who had just been contradicted by Sophie in public.

“Let her be smug for a while. I’ll deal with her after school.”

Sophie was so incompetent. He should teach her a lesson.

Sophie, who had returned to her seat, looked as if she was covered in sunshine.

Many students around her looked at her obsequiously.

“Sophie, you’re so awesome.”

“Yeah. Your lecture was so good. It feels even more vivid than Melany’s lecture.”

“That’s right. Melany’s lecture made me doze off.”

A few students in the back row whispered to Sophie.

For a moment, Sophie became so popular that she was not used to it and did not know how to respond to their praise.

Dolores rolled her eyes at them and said, “Alright, stop flattering her. Be careful not to let Melany hear you.”

“Oh!” They quickly retracted their heads.

Dolores turned around and giggled at Sophie. She lowered her voice and said, “Sophie, you’re awesome. I didn’t expect you to be so amazing. You’re even more professional than a teacher.”

It turned out that not only was Sophie eloquent but she was also knowledgeable and capable.

No wonder Dolores found her so pleasing to the eye the moment she saw Sophie. It turned out that the strong were Sophie had a good Impression of Dolores, but when she heard Dolores say that she felt pity for Roger's poor eyesight, Sophie's face suddenly turned cold. "Stop talking. You're disturbing me from reading."

Sophie lowered her head and continued reading. She did not want to talk to Dolores anymore.

Dolores could not help but raise her eyebrows and look at her. She seemed to have discovered something and wore a wicked smile.

Dolores thought, 'She doesn't seem to like me talking about her blind husband

.'
'Could it be that she has fallen in love with him?'

That made sense. Apart from having bad eyesight, Roger could have anything he wanted. He was tall, handsome, and wealthy.

It was indeed not something that ordinary people could compare to.

"Tsk. Tsk, I was wrong. In terms of looks, height, and family background, your husband is much better than these silly boys in school. I support you."

Sophie's expression softened a little.

But she still didn't say anything and continued to read.

Dolores did not disturb her anymore. She turned around and obediently listened to the class.

The class ended very quickly.

After this class, Sophie and Dolores had no more classes.

They left the teaching building together.

Little did they know that Brennan, James, and the others had been staring at them from behind.

At the school gate, Dolores's driver had already arrived. Dolores got into the car and waved at Sophie. 'Sophie, I had a good time with you today. See you tomorrow.'

"Alright, be careful on the way back," Sophie smiled.

“Okay.” Dolores nodded and instructed the driver to drive away.

Sophie looked at the time. It was still early. Roger sent her messages, saying that he would pick her up and have dinner with her, but it would probably take a while.

At this moment, there was a traffic jam at the entrance of the school. She walked to a place where there weren't so many cars. She wanted to avoid the heavy traffic jam at the school entrance and leave directly.

Just like that, Sophie walked to the main entrance and arrived at the university's main door.

Near Habourland University was another hundred-year-old university, Helbenter University.

If Habourland University ranked first in Habourland, then Helbenter University ranked second.

The two schools have been at odds with each other since their establishment.

As the campus of the two schools expanded, there was only a small path between the two schools.

Sophie did not want to take this small path, but when she walked along the main road, she suddenly heard the sound of someone being slapped from the small paths!

The sound was loud.

And the slap came one after another. A person's muffled groan attracted Sophie's attention,

She couldn't help but take a few steps into the alley.

From afar, she saw a few tall young men grabbing the hand of a tall and thin man. They were whipping his cheeks one after another.

The thin young man's cheeks were already swollen from the slaps, and blood was seeping out of the right corner of his mouth

However, he still glared at the young men stubbornly. His eyes were filled with unwillingness to admit defeat, and he refused to make a sound

Sophie could not help but admire his backbone. The thin couldn't escape anymore, but he did not want to beg for mercy.

"Fuck, this kid just doesn't admit defeat. I'm tired from hitting him. Change to someone else!" The young man who had been slapping the thin young man was tired from the hitting. It could be seen how many slaps this thin boy had endured.

"Kylan Pollard, you're so weak. Let me do it!" A boy who was smoking and watching the show suddenly walked forward and cracked his knuckles in front of the thin young man.

"Edward Pierce, you have quite a backbone. We've been beating you up for so long, but you're still not convinced, right? I'll beat you until you beg for mercy today. I'm not as useless as Kylan is. I have taken some boxing. Since you're unwilling to pay us protection fees, keep the money for your own treatment. I'll beat you up until you can't walk for a month!"

As he spoke, the young man who was smoking spat out the cigarette in his mouth. Then, he raised his fist and was about to hit Edward

Edward knew that he could not escape, so he could only close his eyes and wait for the fist to land.

When Sophie saw this scene, she couldn't help but quickly pull out the Soul Catcher from her pocket and press a small switch! A tool was shot out.

Before the man's hand could land on Edward's face, a flying needle pierced the back of the man's hand!

"Ouch!" The pain in his hand made the man scream.

The roar startled several of his companions.

“Grady, what happened to you?” Kylan questioned loudly, thinking that Grady was having a seizure.

Only then did Grady Cameron realize that there was a needle stuck in his hand. He shouted in shock, “A needle. A needle is pricking me!!”

Only then did Kylan and the others see the thing in his hand. They rushed over and helped him pull out the needle.

However, Grady was already scared out of his wits. He no longer looked as ferocious as before. Instead, he was filled with fear and asked loudly, “Where did the needle come from?”

At this moment, the man who had grabbed Edward’s hair noticed Sophie. When he saw her aiming at them with something that looked like a flashlight, he immediately shouted, “There’s someone over there! Did she shoot the needle?”

When the few of them heard this, they looked in Sophie’s direction.

They thought that it was someone meddling in their business, but they did not expect a beauty to appear.

Kylan’s eyes immediately widened. “Fuck, there’s a beauty here!”

That gaze made Sophie feel disgusted.

She did not want to deal with these people and threatened in a low voice, “The boy you beat up is from Habourland University, right? Let him go.”

Kylan and Grady did not expect that the beautiful lady would want to save Edward, the coward. The two of them looked at each other and laughed.

“Beauty, don’t tell me that you’re alone. How dare you threaten us with a “flashlight?” Kylan had a teasing expression on his face. He looked Sophie up and down as he walked towards her.

Sophie couldn’t help but smile when she saw him leaning over boldly.

She had only tried the weakest flying needle in Soul Catcher. Timothy seemed to be disdainful of using this thing. He had not told her when he introduced it previously. Sophie had only discovered it when she was fiddling with it.

She thought that the flying needles would be enough to scare these people, but she didn't expect them to be so bold.

Seeing that Kylan was only 6.5 feet away from her, Sophie reminded him kindly, "You'd better not get close to me, or else, you'll bear the consequences."

Kylan looked at Sophie and was drooling.

"It's just a needle. It doesn't hurt. I'm not afraid of being pricked. If you want to prick pricked by you.

“Kylan!” Grady was shocked by what he saw.

“You... What did you do to him?” Grady shouted.

Sophie looked at her proud work and playfully fiddled with the Soul Catcher in her hand. She smiled and said, “It’s nothing. It’s just a little anesthetic. He’ll be fine in an hour. What else do you want to try? Do you want a few more gadgets like this? Or do you want to have an anesthetic? Oh, right, you can also rush up together and have a taste of my electric shock.”

With that, Sophie pressed the switch.

The front end of her Soul Catcher suddenly emitted a strong electric current. The blue arc of light instantly made her face look like a female ghost.

Instantly, Grady and the others were scared out of their wits.

“Grady, the thing in her hand seems to be a weapon.”

“Let’s... Let’s go!” The two people holding Edward were a little afraid.

The lackeys beside Grady had never seen such a scene before. They were really afraid that they would be the next to fall.

At this moment, Grady was also afraid of being stabbed. He said angrily, “Bring Kylan with us! Let’s go!”

With his order, the few lackeys rushed over quickly. They looked at Sophie warily and dragged Kylan away.

As for Edward, he was thrown to the ground by the few young men.

Sophie watched them escape from the other side of the alley.

Seeing this, she could not help but heave a sigh of relief. Sophie quickly went to Edward's side to check on him.

"How are you? Are you alright?"

As she spoke, she took Edward's pulse.

Fortunately, there were no internal injuries. It seemed that they were just superficial wounds and were not serious.

Edward was helped up from the ground by Sophie and leaned weakly against the wall,

Only then did he see clearly the one who saved him.

It turned out that she was also thin and weak, even thinner than him.

But Sophie actually had the courage to stand up and save him just now.

At this moment, Edward felt even more grateful.

*Thank you for saving me just now. But don't take the risk next time. What if you are involved in such a thing? If you encounter such a situation in the future, it's better to call the police."

Sophie did not expect Edward to have the mood to care about her. She could not help but smile.

"You're quite kind. Looks like I didn't save the wrong person. Let's go. I'll take you to the hospital."

Edward's face was bruised and there were bruises on his body. It was better for him to have a check.

Seeing that that she didn't dislike him and even wanted to send him to the hospital, Edward felt warm.

After his mother passed away, he had never experienced the feeling of being cared for.

However, at this moment, a passerby actually took the initiative to help and care for him.

For a moment, Edward looked at her, not knowing what to do.

“What’s wrong? Does it hurt a lot?” Looking at his swollen face, Sophie couldn’t help but feel sorry for Edward.

She glanced at the name tag on his chest.

She realized that he was a freshman. No wonder he was bullied by the seniors.

Sophie reckoned that Edward should be two years younger than her, so she treated him like her younger brother. She took out a handkerchief to wipe the blood from the corner of his mouth gently and said, “Clean the blood. I have painkillers. Take some and you should feel better”

As she spoke, Sophie took out a painkiller from a secret box.

Edward looked at her in a daze and opened his mouth to eat it.

The pill was very small and melted in his mouth. He didn’t even need water.

“This thing of yours is really magical...” If he had such a thing, Edward wouldn’t have been bullied.

Sophie smiled and said, “It’s amazing, right? It’s a gift from my brother. Let’s go. I’ll help you leave this place.”

Edward nodded and thanked her in a low voice. “Thank you...”

“You’re welcome. After all, I’m your senior. It’s what I should do.” Sophie found a dignified reason for doing this.

However, Edward was still grateful for her. He limped out of the alley with Sophie.

Sophie wanted to send Edward to the hospital.

However, after Edward left the alley, he reached out and hailed a taxi. He said that there was a doctor at home and went straight back.

Sophie didn't think he was lying.

The students who could afford to Habourland University were either rich or noble.

Edward should also be a young heir of some family, she thought.

However, judging from the extent of his bullying, he shouldn't be from a super wealthy family.

As she watched the car drive away, Sophie stopped thinking about it.

She continued to walk towards the place where there was no traffic jam. She thought that Roger would arrive soon.

Sophie turned around and left. Little did she know that in the crowd not far away, Brennan, Henry, and James were all looking at her.

"Brennan, are you just going to let her leave like this?" James asked as he looked at Brennan awkwardly.

Brennan's gaze was a little gloomy. "What else? Can you handle that thing in her hand?"

No wonder Sophie was not afraid of anyone. She had a high-tech device with her.

"So, are we going to just admit defeat?" James's eyes were filled with dissatisfaction when he said so.

"It's impossible for the three of us to attack a girl. We'll have plenty of opportunities to get back at her in the future. Let's go. Don't waste time," Brennan said.

Seeing that Sophie had saved Edward, Brennan really did not want to find trouble with her today.

“Oh, alt

alright. Although James was unwilling, he could only agree.

Brennan’s driver arrived, and Brennan had to leave first.

Henry looked at James and said, “You’re really stupid. Didn’t you see that after Brennan saw Sophie save someone, he wasn’t so angry anymore? It’s obvious that he thinks that she’s beautiful and kind and doesn’t want to find trouble with her. You’re so stupid that you still want to find trouble with her.”

“What?” James was stunned for a moment. Then, he said in disbelief, “Who did you say is beautiful and kind? Sophie is very despicable.”

Henry could not help but roll his eyes at James and said, “Tsk. Tsk, you are so dull. You don’t have good taste at all. In terms of looks, Sophie is not inferior to Bella at all. Sophie is not only beautiful but also kind. Although Brennan is a little angry that she doesn’t treat him well, you just see that she is not someone who doesn’t know what’s right or wrong. Brennan is also a person who pays attention to morality. Look at the students he has dealt with in school. They are all troublemakers. Other than having a sharp tongue, Sophie didn’t do anything to hurt Brennan. She’s not on the list of people Brennan wants to deal with.”

you mean by that? Do you mean that Brennan won’t teach her a

Henry rambled on and on. James was stunned. “What do you lesson anymore?”

Seeing that James still did not understand, Henry immediately held his forehead and said, “You’re really hopeless. Brennan is someone who knows right from wrong. He won’t bully good students. Let’s go. Put this matter aside for now.”

When Sophie went into the alley to save Edward just now, Brennan wanted to go over to help her several times, but Henry stopped him.

Henry understood Brennan, Although Brennan had a strong sense of self-esteem, he was also a person who could distinguish right from wrong.

If there was nothing wrong with a person's character, Brennan would not hold on to his mistake, even if the student had a sharp tone.

Chapter 100

“Let's go. Class is over. Let's go have a drink.” Henry saw that James was puzzled and could only change the topic.

“All right.” James did not want to think too much. If he'd been a thinker, he wouldn't have come in last every time. All he wanted now was a drink.

With that, the two of them left the school.

At this moment, Sophie saw Roger's car after she walked out of the traffic jam area.

“It's Miss Dawson, Dillon immediately reminded Roger when he saw her.

Roger's eyes instantly became unfocused, but he was still looking at Sophie.

‘She is quite smart. She even knows to walk out of the traffic jam area.’

“That's right. This way, we won't have to go out from the other side. We can even turn around now.” Dillon couldn't help but admire Sophie's wit.

Soon, Sophie came to the front of the car and opened the door to the backseat.

When she saw Roger, she got into the car.

“Don't drive in. The school gate has been very congested recently.” If they went in, they wouldn't be able to come out.

“Of course, Dillon. Turn around,” Roger ordered calmly.

“Yes. Dillon nodded and immediately turned the car around. Then, he left the blocked area.

The car quickly drove to the city. Sophie could not help but ask Roger, “What do you want to bring me to eat?”

He had sent her messages in the afternoon, saying that he wanted to take her out for dinner. However, up until now, she did not know what to eat.

“Take a guess,” Roger raised his eyebrows and asked playfully.

Sophie only felt that it was childish. She could not help but ask sarcastically, “Could it be fried locusts or something like that?”

Roger frowned and asked, “You like to eat these things?”

Only then did Sophie realize that he probably couldn’t see her expression and thought that she liked to eat it.

She couldn’t help but continue teasing him. She pretended to be serious and said, “That’s right. After all, I grew up in the welfare institute. There were fields and small forests around the welfare institute. I’ve eaten all of these.”

It was true that she had eaten these things before, but she didn’t like them at all.

Unexpectedly, Roger took it seriously, and his expression turned ugly.

Seeing this, Dillon said helplessly to Sophie, “Mrs. Sophie, stop teasing Mr. Roger. He has hated bugs since he was young. His family has also bought high-level nutritional supplements with bugs, but he doesn’t even eat them. As long as he thinks about it, he will vomit sometimes.”

Only then did Sophie understand why Roger did not look good when he heard her words.

It turned out that he would feel nauseous!

“Wow, so you don’t like to eat those things. Forget it, I won’t eat them.”

As she spoke, Sophie pretended to sigh, as if she was very disappointed.

No matter how much Roger hated the fried bugs or worms, when he heard her disappointment, he still composed himself and said, “If you like it, I can eat those things with you.”

Sophie looked back and saw Roger, who was usually so calm.

At this moment, he actually had a heroic expression.

But Sophie couldn’t help but laugh, “I was just teasing you. But you took it seriously. Why would I eat that kind of thing? When I was young, my friends caught those bugs and roasted them. I didn’t eat these things.”

She didn’t expect that Roger would actually believe her. How innocent he was .

At this moment, Roger could not help but feel awkward.

Just now, when she mentioned eating insects, he had goosebumps all over his body.

He looked straight ahead, not seeing her expression.

Unexpectedly, she was teasing him. “Sophie, were you just teasing me?”

His voice suddenly became a little evil.

However, Sophie did not notice it and was still laughing at him. “Roger, you’re just afraid of insects!”

It was funny that a grown man would be afraid of insects.

No, he was even afraid of dead insects! It was really funny.

Seeing Sophie gloating, Roger could not take it anymore.

Suddenly, he pulled her in front of him and forced her to stare at him. “Am I that funny?”

His deep eyes seemed to want to suck her in.

‘Damn it... How could a blind man have such deep eyes? Sophie thought.

It almost made her fall for him.

Sophie quickly pushed Roger’s arm away and said nervously, “Of course it’s funny. This is the first time I know your weakness. I can control you in the future.”

She deliberately threatened him coquettishly, but her flushed face was extremely alluring

Roger could not help but look at her dotingly. “Control me? That’s hard to say. I can tell you all my weaknesses... As long as you’re willing, I’ll be at your mercy.”

He was extremely bewitching when he said so.

If Sophie did not know that he was blind, she would feel that his eyes were flirting with her....

She suddenly came back to her senses and turned her head to look out the window. She muttered, “No need. Just this one will do. I don’t want to control you anymore.”

Sophie felt a bit guilty.

What nonsense was he talking about just now?

She actually let him take advantage of the situation again.

Her heart was pounding.

Sophie tried to suppress her heartbeat to prevent herself from being bewitched by Roger again.

Roger watched as she patted her cheeks and sighed from time to time, but she refused to look at him. He could not help but smile at the sight of this.

Sophie seemed to have started to have feelings for him.

Roger took Sophie to a newly opened restaurant. The two of them had a meal together, and Sophie only returned home at night.

When she reached home, her father and brothers had also returned. Today, Lucas had also returned. When he saw Sophie, Lucas immediately greeted her intimately, "Sophie, you're back. Have you eaten? Do you want the servants to heat the dishes up for you?"

Sophie immediately shook her head and said, "No need. I went out to have dinner. I sent a message in the chat group. Didn't you see it?"

When they heard that, they immediately checked their phones.

Wesley was the first to see Sophie's message. Then, he said to Sophie, "I'm sorry. There should have been an emergency at that time. We didn't look at our phones..."

"An emergency?"

What kind of unexpected situation could make her brothers not check their phones and even sit in the living room in a daze?

Sophie was really curious.

Wesley thought for a moment and felt that there was nothing to hide, so he spok

“Mom had a stomachache in the morning and didn’t eat much the entire day. At dinner, she threw up after eating a few mouthfuls. So the few of us quickly sent Mom upstairs. I did a simple checkup for her. The diagnosis was that she was under a lot of mental pressure and had gastrointestinal discomfort.”

Bianca was sick from stress.

Sophie could not help but blame herself.

It must have been because she almost chased Evelyn away in the morning th at Bianca was so worried that she lost her appetite.

After thinking for a long time, Sophie said, “I’ll go see Mom.”

Kenneth nodded his head and said, “That’s good. When she saw Evelyn tonig ht, she felt nauseous and threw up not long after. But you are now the apple o f her eye. If you go, she might feel better.”

Sophie nodded. “Alright, I’ll go then.”

With that, she turned around and went upstairs. However, before she went to Bianca’s room, she went to the third floor to get her medical tools.
