

Divorce Has Never Felt This Good

Chapter 299

Chapter 299 Elmore Is So Shameless

Elmore knew Vivien's words were ironic, but there was nothing he could do. He had to act humble since he now wanted Rory to marry Becky. Elmore pretended he didn't comprehend Vivien's words. "You're correct, Mrs. Ramos. I think a proposal of marriage is in order. Young people today are not as conservative as we do. They are impulsive and have trouble controlling their actions. They are not to blame, and Rory is just as culpable. He failed to protect Becky as a man should. The news about them staying in a hotel room has been out for a while. I think they should get married as soon as possible. If they get married, people will think they love each other. The sordid gossip will disappear. Don't you think so?" This bastard! Vivien cursed silently. She would have cursed him out loud if it would not damage the relationship between the two families. Stevie had a serious expression as well. Elmore pretended to suggest this proposal all for Becky's sake, but Stevie was annoyed by this pretense. Times had changed when it came to relationships. Things were much more open than they used to be. Becky and Rory had not made up, and even if they did, sex would be a normal thing between them. Elmore acted as if it was something shameful. "I disagree," Stevie said. "Only Becky and Rory know what is best for them. I think we should not incorporate ourselves into their affairs. I know that you have the best intentions, but young people today do whatever they want. If something bad happens because of your good intentions, it will defeat the purpose." Elmore's expression went still. "You're right, but now that Rory still loves Becky and vice versa. It can be difficult for people from prominent families to get married. They don't always find someone who loves them for who they are. I want to have a great-grandson as soon as possible." "I get what you mean," Stevie said. "We feel the same. We don't get involved in Becky's private affairs. If she loves who she's with and he treats her well, we trust her decisions." Elmore was aware that his proposal idea was being easily rejected. He changed the subject. "One should marry someone who loves them. It would be good for them to live that way." The rest of the conversation with Elmore remained focused around other topics.

Elmore did not leave until eight o'clock that evening. Vivien and Stevie looked at each other with stern faces after Elmore was gone. "What is wrong with the Casper family? They were mean to Becky before, and they still have the audacity to propose marriage between her and Rory!" Vivien snapped. "Does he think we want the betrothal gift and compensation?" Stevie was angry, too. "That old man would do anything for interests!". Stevie was able to see things clearly after the conversation. Elmore was usually aggressive. This time, however, both Stevie and Vivien replied to his suggestion sarcastically and Elmore kept a smile on his face the whole time. Elmore was so shameless. And it made Stevie and Vivien disgusted,.