Chapter 211

Theresa sneered, "Didn't you say I seduced him just now? Why don't you blame him for seducing me?" Seeing it was Jimmy that had asked her out, Rosales immediately changed her attitude. So, Theresa thought it was ridiculous. What a double-standard person!

Rosales snorted, "Who do you think you are? My son will never seduce you! You cheated on him and gave birth to another man's children! Jimmy will never like you!"

Then, she said, "Jimmy, Rose is waiting for you. Hurry back!"

After she finished speaking, she walked over to Jimmy and pulled him away.

Theresa looked at Mrs. Calsis and said, "Leticia."

Mrs. Calsis looked at her and said, "I won't tell others about what happened today. But I want you to move out of here! You are not welcome. Charlie can't have a wife like you! No matter how others spoke ill of you before, I did not take their words seriously because I only believe what I see with my own eyes. But you let me down." Hearing this, Theresa asked, "Are you driving me away?"

Mrs. Calsis replied, "Yes."

"But it is Jimmy that asked me to come here."

Hearing Jimmy, Mrs. Calsis frowned, "I don't care who asked who to come here. But you two must not live

When he went next door, he found Leonard and Ben asleep.

When Mrs. Calsis called his name, he turned his head to look at her and said, "Madame, good evening.
Why

haven't you slept yet?"

Mrs. Calsis asked, "Are you looking for Theresa?"

"Yes," Jonathan said, "Mr. Calsis has something to tell her."

"I drove her away!"

Jonathan was a little surprised to hear this, so he asked, "Why?"

Mrs. Calsis said, "I'll go talk to Charlie."

Then, she entered Charlie's room. Seeing his mother come in, Charlie on the sofa was a little surprised and

asked, "Why haven't you gone to bed?"

Mrs. Calsis looked at him and asked, "Are you working late again? Didn't I tell you to rest more?"

"If so, I'll help you take a shower first." It was getting late. After showering Charlie and helping him go to bed,

Theresa had already gone to bed in the room next to Cristina's bedroom.

As soon as she lay down, Charlie sent her a message, asking, [Where are you?]

He thought she should have informed him before leaving. Theresa saw his message but didn't reply.

After a while, Charlie sent another message, saying, [Come to have breakfast with me tomorrow.]

He knew that she must be in a bad mood now, so he didn't force her to come back but gave her a night to calm down. And he would talk with her tomorrow.

She forced a smile after reading his message and thought of how Mrs. Calsis had driven her away!

Theresa was not a petty person and understood why Mrs. Calsis was so protective of Rose. After all, she was for Mrs. Calsis to be partial to Rose instead of her. But she had thought a lot. If she and Charlie had conflicts in the future, Mrs. Calsis's Charlie said, "Did you quarrel with my mother? She seemed unhappy last night. When family members live together, there will always be conflicts. Don't take it too seriously."

Theresa lowered her head, looked at the milk glass on the table, and said, "Charlie, I want to quit."

Charlie raised an eyebrow, looked at her, and asked, "Because of such a trivial matter?"

"Maybe it's a trivial matter for you." Theresa said, "Anyway, I will introduce other acupuncturists to you.
I

don't want to go to the Calsis family anymore."

Charlie did not say anything but lowered his head and started eating. Seeing this, Theresa guessed he had agreed, so she felt relieved.

After a while, a waiter suddenly came over with a large bouquet, stood beside her, and said, "Ms. Cameron, the bouquet is from a gentleman surnamed Calsis."

Coming out of the lavatory, Theresa went back to their table and saw Charlie still sitting there. She did not dare to ask him why he did not allow Cristina to take the kids out. Otherwise, her plan would be exposed. But when

In the Calsis family, Cristina sat on the sofa and said angrily, “It was hard for me to give birth to Leonard and

Ben. But I can’t even take them out now.”

She had deeply entered the role, so she spoke as if she were really Leonard and Ben’s mother.

Recently, the company had been preparing for the carnival on Friday which was coming around the corner, so everyone was busy. Pat was on a business trip, so Jimmy was in charge of most of the business including the carnival.

He had heard that Charlie might come for a meeting today, but he had not expected him to come for real.

Knowing Charlie didn't like him, Jimmy didn't dare to neglect him. So, he hurriedly left his office to welcome.

As soon as the elevator doors opened, Jonathan pushed Charlie out in his wheelchair.

Seeing then, Jimmy said, "Uncle Charlie, good morning."

Charlie looked up at him and said, "We're the company now."

Jimmy corrected himself, saying, "Mr. Calsis."

Hearing this, Jimmy breathed a sigh of relief. Knowing that Charlie didn't like him, he was afraid Charlie would find fault with him, so he had delivered his report very carefully today.

Then, he politely said, "It is my honor to work hard for the company."

Hearing his words, Charlie smiled, "Let Roger do the rest."

Roger was another manager who was present today. And he had always been Jimmy's competitor. He was Pat's nephew, so he was also working in the company.

Hearing Charlie's arrangement, Roger was startled and said, "Me? But Jimmy has always been in charge of this project..."

Charlie asked, "Why? Are you unwilling to take it over?"

Theresa was waiting for Charlie on the sofa. When everyone else was still inside, Jimmy came out with a sullen

Seeing this, Theresa teased, "Mr. Watson, what's wrong?"

He had looked in a good mood when entering the conference room.

Jimmy didn't reply but walked away gloomily. Theresa stared after him on the sofa. She had been quite unhappy. After such a thing had happened last night, she had been worried about Leonard and Ben. But seeing "Believe it or not!" Theresa said, twitching the corners of her mouth and turning away.

When she returned to the meeting room, the meeting was over. Charlie was sitting in his place, and before he left, Jonathan was standing in the doorway.

Theresa walked over and asked, "It's not over yet?"

"It's over," Jonathan replied.

Theresa glanced inside and said, "What is Charlie doing? He's not out yet!"

Jonathan said, "Mr. Calsis is waiting for you."

Charlie is not used to eating out at restaurants and prefers home cooked food most of the time.

Theresa said, “Your mother probably wouldn’t want to see me.”

Charlie heard Theresa’s words and said, “Because of what happened last night?”

Theresa said, “Yes, I moved everything out! She told me to move out, and she told me not to go there in the future.”

“What happened last night?”

Theresa looked at Charlie and said, “You don’t know!” She thought he already knew!

Charlie said, “No. You can tell me.”

Theresa laughed. “You didn’t even know what happened, so you came to me?”

Charlie looked at her, “Shouldn’t I be looking for you? It’s you.” Having said this, there was a hint of warning
