

Divorcement 451

Chapter 451

Rose answered firmly, "Yes! I have thought through this. No matter how uncle opposes or suppresses him, I will always be by his side."

Pat sat aside and gazed at his daughter who was giving him a headache.

Eugene said, "Rose." He felt that Rose was too irrational.

Rose continued, "Uncle Charlie has someone he likes, so he protects her at every turn. I have someone I like as well! I'm not cold-hearted! You may not like Jimmy, but I love him and I will be with him. I've thought about it. He's not welcome in this family, then I will go back to the Watsons with him after this."

Charlie looked at Pat, "What do you think, brother?"

About Rose and Jimmy's marriage, Charlie and Pat shared the same view. Neither of them was convinced that Jimmy was a reliable man. They want Rose to get out of this quagmire sooner rather than later.

Rose walked over to Jimmy's side, and softly said, "Let's go home!"

Jimmy stared at Rose. "They let me go?"

Rose nodded, "Yes."

The servant helped her carry Jimmy down the stairs and sent him to the car. She took a look at Jimmy and reached out to help him button up his clothes, then she said, "I'll get you a doctor as soon as we go back."

Jimmy didn't want her to be worried, so he comforted her. "Don't worry, I'm not gonna die."

Having noticed Sarah, Eugene lost the luster in his eyes, "Why did you come here?"

"I heard that my sister was injured. I came to see her. How is she? Is she okay?" Although she hated Theresa to death, in front of Eugene, she had always been a gentle and lovely girl. She was trying to behave.

Eugene glanced at Leah and Johnson on the couch, supposing they should be Theresa's family.

He said, "I still have something to do!" Then he pushed Sarah away and left directly.

Sarah watched him stride out, wishing to keep up with his pace, but he didn't even turn his head back, not giving her attention.

It made her so depressed! What was he? A cold fish!

Leah uttered, "Who is that?"

Charlie glanced at Theresa with a gentle look in his eyes.

Leah stiffened. 'Is Charlie really in love with Theresa?'

Upon hearing Charlie's words, Sarah grinned. "Theresa, I'm so jealous of you! You have such a good husband."

Theresa replied, "Thank you for the compliment."

Leah glanced helplessly at Sarah, not knowing what to say.

In fact, the company was getting better mostly because of Charlie's investment. It would get better no matter who managed it. After all, Charlie's investment was a very good thing for the company. However, Charlie was right. The company would go bankrupt sooner or later if they only relied on investment and didn't look for a change.

you think so Charlie looked at Johnson, who remained silent. "Well, Mr. Cameron, it looks like too. Sorry I overstepped, but if the company is still like this in two months, I'll withdraw my investment. I don't want to waste my money Sarah, I'm looking forward to hearing from you." He glanced provocatively at Sarah.

Sarah shouted, "Charlie, you're taking it personally, aren't you?" She didn't think he would have said that if she hadn't joined the company. She believed he was giving her a hard time because he was jealous of her.

Charlie raised an eyebrow. "You can spin it that way."

Sarah snorted. "You're so naive! You gave me the agreement and said you wouldn't pester me anymore, didn't you? You still want me to marry you, right?"

Charlie was speechless.

Johnson glanced at Sarah.

It was the second time Theresa had heard that. She gave a smile. “I don’t think so.” She had had this thought before, but what happened yesterday made her feel that Charlie was quite good to her. She was happy and didn’t want to bother thinking that much for now.

Johnson said, “Men are fickle. I know Charlie is nice, but are you sure he won’t mind what happened with you and Jimmy? Alas... I do hope you get along. I don’t want you to get hurt again.”

He was sad to think of what had happened to Theresa. She had always been obedient and sensitive, but she had married Jimmy and ended up being hurt badly. It was so frustrating! Sometimes he even blamed God.

Seeing Johnson on the verge of tears, Theresa laughed. “Come on, it’s part of growing up. I’m doing well now!” She had learned that Pat had fired Jimmy. She got hurt this time, but it ended well.

Johnson said, “I’m leaving.”

“I’ll walk you out.” Theresa stood up and walked Johnson out the door.

Theresa looked up and gave Charlie a kiss on the cheek. "You're cute when you curse."

Charlie looked at her lips with deep eyes. He couldn't resist leaning in to kiss her and saying, "Reward."

Theresa looked at him with a smile. She had been so frightened by Jimmy yesterday that she felt very happy with Charlie today. She wanted to be with him every day!

Sarah and Leah sent Johnson home first and then went to the office together.

On the way, Leah said to Sarah, "Cameron's Group is now supported by Charlie. Other companies work with us for his sake. You have to be polite to him!"

"Why?" Sarah looked indifferent. "I'm not Theresa who can't live without a man. Don't worry! I know what to do."

Leah asked her, "What are your plans?"

Sarah answered, "This is the Internet age. Everyone likes to shop online. Dad's too old-fashioned and rejects the Internet. I had the staff start an online shop the other day and it's working out great.
