

Divorcement 8

Chapter 008 Marry in Sarah's Place

Charlie could find much better woman than Sarah. To the Calsis, it wasn't about marriage at all. It was about Sarah's breaking promises. How dare she escape marriage only because Master Calsis was injured! Jonathan would not let her go easily. Since he couldn't find Sarah, he would have to make the Camerons pay.

Johnson woke up on the hospital bed. Upon seeing Theresa, he immediately pulled a long face and asked, "Why are you here?"

"Dad." Theresa looked at Johnson and found that her father was aging so fast. His hair became gray in the past two years. She had thrown all Leah's tricks behind, and she asked with concern, "Are you feeling well?" Johnson said coldly, "Get out." Jonathan had left and Leah came back in. She said to Johnson, "John, Theresa finally came to visit you. Don't be like that. You've been quarreling for so many years. It's time for you two to make peace. It's not all Theresa's fault that they divorced. Jimmy is also responsible for that. If he had been nice to Theresa, how would she..."

Theresa should be relaxing the tension between Theresa and Johnson. Theresa almost thought that she misheard. Sarah and Leah had made great efforts to alienate Johnson from Theresa for all those years. Theresa sneered, "It's been a while and, Leah, you welcomed an all-around change. I even began doubting whether you were the real Leah?" In the past, Leah would have refuted. However, she needed Theresa to marry the cripple of the Calsis in Sarah's place, and she couldn't offend Theresa. Leah pretended to be in a dilemma and said to Theresa, "Theresa, the person came just now, you saw him. He is from the Calsis. They are trying to ruin us. They threatened to make us bankrupt." Theresa said, "I wasn't deaf. I heard from your conversation that they came to make you tell them where Sarah is. If you are truly wishing the best for our family, you'd better give Sarah to them! If it wasn't for my father, you think your daughter could become Charlie Calsis's fiancée? And now you see that he is disabled, you betrayed your promises. If I were Charlie, I would also make you pay."

When Charlie was a healthy man, Leah put so many good words for Sarah in front of Johnson to make Sarah Charlie's fiancée. After Charlie suffered the car accident, Sarah disliked Charlie because he was disabled and she ran away. That was why the Calsis was so eager to take their revenge at the Cameron that they even decided to make the Cameron bankrupt. Theresa didn't think she should take the responsibility? Leah darkened her face and pretended to be innocent.

give Sarah to them. But I don't know where she is hiding. I can't help it. Theresa, please, marry Charlie Calsis, okay? "As long as you become Mrs. Calsis, we will not knew how to take advantage of Theresa's filial piety. Theresa didn't reply. She just looked at the father's gray hair, and a lump came to her throat. She said to Johnson, "Dad, I'll handle it. Don't you worry about it." Johnson heard her words and said, "The Calsis want you to marry Charlie. Are you sure?" Theresa replied, "I could if I have own daughter if she didn't shame the whole family. Leah sensed that her tricks worked. She hurriedly added, "The Calsis is so wealthy! Theresa has married once. It's a good thing if she could marry into the Calsis." In Leah's eyes, Theresa didn't have to right to pick and choose. Theresa you talking about? You want me to divorce your well what she said..." Leah pointed at Theresa and was exasperated. But she didn't want to show her arrogance in front of Johnson. She could only pretend to be abused for no reason and said to Johnson, "Dad, I'll take my leave. I'll come again later." After she finished, she went out of the ward. She wanted to halt waiting for her.

Charlie anyway, and she seat. He was texting with his phone. Theresa looked at him and Charlie didn't like her either. And finding Sarah seemed to be a possible option, Jonathan frowned when he heard Theresa mentioning Sarah. He said, "I didn't expect Dr.