

Doomsday 35

Chapter 35: Pioneering manor planting busy

After more than an hour, these people finally selected their own rooms. They seemed to be satisfied with them. They talked and went downstairs with a smile. Fortunately, except for the changes in the location of the rooms, the other furnishings are the same. The most indisputable is the small problem of Xiangyang or Xiangyang. If there are a few more people in the room on the second floor, it is a good choice, and there will not be much conflict.

Bringing a few people to the manor, Di Ping has already discovered the changes in the manor. A field has been reclaimed in front of the manor, covering an area of about 1 mu. Five or six workers are digging the soil in the field and planting something in it. Something, the manor manager Delin also stood in the field fiddling with a machine that he didn't know what it was used for, and Buji also stood not far away carefully watching the surroundings.

"Master, you are welcome to inspect the manor!"

Delin saw Di Ping's group coming from a long distance, and immediately put down his hands and walked quickly to meet Di Ping, with a respectful expression on his face.

"Well, Delin doesn't need to be so free from now on!"

Di Ping stretched out his hand to support Delin and Yan Yue's way.

Delin was very moved, and his voice was a little excited, "Thank you Master...this is what I should do."

"What are you doing?"

Di Ping knows that he can't talk more with the characters who are gifted by their systems. Although they look like normal people, the respect and humility in their bones still makes him a little uncomfortable. In this era, it is still a bit of a person to scream with his master. It's not strong.

"Back to the master, ten workers drove out this piece of soil early in the morning, and are now planting seeds!"

Delin pointed to Tiantu and explained to Di Ping.

"What seed! What to plant this season?"

Di Ping is also a rural person. He knows that there are no crops to grow this season, so he asked a little bit incomprehensibly.

Delin took out a small cloth bag from his arms, pinched a few seeds out of it, and handed them over, "Master, this is a special seed of our estate, a kind of grain, which is not affected by the season. It germinates in seven days and cores in seven days. Develop in seven days and mature at seven o'clock!"

When Di Ping was overjoyed, he hurriedly took it and took a look. It looked a bit like wheat. The seeds were nothing unusual. They looked very ordinary, but they didn't expect it to be so powerful. They actually mature in January. Didn't you eat anything?

"How much is the output? Is there a lot of this kind?"

Di Ping suddenly thought that if the output is too small, it is also a problem, and there is a seed problem, so he asked urgently.

"Master, the yield of this mu of soil is about 2,000 jin. Don't worry about the seed problem, you can keep the seeds directly after they mature!"

Delin took the seeds from Di Ping and put them in the small bag while explaining to Di Ping.

"Okay! Great!" Di Ping was overjoyed. He didn't expect the manor system to be so powerful. The food problem would be the biggest problem facing human survival in the future. He didn't expect the system to be solved easily. How could this make him unhappy!

"the host!"

Delin looked at Di Ping who was ecstatic, and seemed to have something to say.

"What can you say!"

Di Ping saw that Delin had something to say and smiled and signaled him to be free.

"Master, the problem now is the shortage of manpower. If there are enough manpower, we can open up more fields!"

Delin complained to Di Ping when he watched the workers busy planting seeds in the field.

Di Ping laughed and said, "I'm here to solve this problem for you?" He really came to solve this problem today. After laughing, he waved to the next few people. The fat guys were already numb. Too many surprises happened in the morning, the magic of the majestic castle is not to be said, and this is another manor-like building, and there are more than a dozen people actually opening up farming. Is this the end of the world and the beginning of mankind Life is normal again.

They kept looking around, as if Grandma Liu had entered the Grand View Garden, and when they saw Di Ping greet them, they all walked over quickly.

"This is Delin, responsible for this manor!"

Di Ping introduced to everyone that Delin stepped forward to salute everyone, and Chengchao was almost numb. With the previous Barton in front, they were not too surprised. They all stepped forward to introduce each other.

Di Ping's idea is very simple. He has seen that the manor can recruit workers directly from the system or from reality. Let alone the recruitment price of system workers, can Di Ping keep these people in vain in reality? It is the right way to let them work on their own. Not to mention how much it costs, it is also detrimental to development. It is to raise idlers for nothing!

Di Ping shared his thoughts with everyone. Everyone was very happy and thought it was a good idea. It was a very good idea. These people were fine when they were idle. Old and weak women and children could work as workers in the manor and get food. Strong men can form a team to ensure the safety here, so that the division of labor is clear, and the development of this small base is more convenient, so there is no problem at all to pass the vote.

When everyone heard that the effect was ripe in January and there was a large amount of food to offer, they were immediately excited and almost all jumped up and shouted, is there anything more important than safety and food in this last days? Now that this problem can be solved, how many people can still be upset?

The tavern Di Ping didn't think about taking everyone there now, let's slowly reveal it a little bit!

I really wanted to expose too much at once, for fear that these people would be really frightened, so I ordered everyone to go back and prepare for the move, and summoned Boogie, who was on the manor's safety in the distance, to let him know about it, and then follow the people to help the relocation. Everyone is speechless for the appearance of Boogie. Isn't the surprise for this day enough? Even now that Di Ping came out and said that this was a god, they would believe that this boss has exceeded human cognition.

The people who survived in the community suddenly jumped up when they heard that there was a safer place with sufficient food and water. These days of survival in these last days, these people all realize how important the previous peaceful environment is and feel that they are every day. Life is unhappy, longing for a more free life, and now it is free, but life is gone! When I lose it, I know how rare it is to live a stable life.

So now there is such an environment where everyone's interest is very high. The hands and feet are called swift. They moved things clean in only one morning. Even tons of food were quickly moved over, when everyone gathered in front of the castle. All behaved like Fatty and others before.

Shocked, surprised, excited, crazy, etc.

After amazement, excitement, and disbelief, everyone felt a sense of satisfaction and pride. It seemed that there was a place for them to live in. It was a blessing from heaven, and someone really knelt down to thank God and thank God.
