

Doomsday 97

Chapter 97: Murder in the middle of the night emerges

Gina looked at Di Ping's sleeping face and smiled. She opened her cross-legged legs and got down from the bed. She walked to the bed and gently took off Di Ping's shoes, covered him with a slip, and stood in front of the bed. Looking closely at Di Ping's face.

A few seconds later, it seemed that she blushed. She quickly turned back to the bed and sat down cross-legged again, meditating with her eyes closed, but her violently undulating chest and slightly throbbing eyelids indicated that she had not entered a state of meditation at all.

Di Ping didn't know all of this. He was really sleepy and fell asleep on the bed. With Gina beside him, it made him feel at ease. He didn't feel too heavy like he didn't dare to sleep at night. Now he can sleep at ease. Two people are always more reassuring than one person. This is the social nature of human beings. Human beings are social animals.

Quietly in the night, the entire underground mall fell into darkness. After eating, everyone fell asleep. Only three or four people at the doorway ran in guarding the obstacles for fear of mutated animals.

Today, these people all ate mutant dog meat, all of them were warm, and soon opened some of their eyelids and started to doze.

Suddenly, five black shadows stretched their heads and ghosts from a room to look around. Afterwards, the sneaky cat moved towards the passage with his waist, each of them still carrying a dark bag in their hands. Of something.

They lifted their footsteps gently, and slowly fumbled forward in the passage. The people in the shops on both sides slept deeply, with snoring and night sounds from time to time.

The five people kept groping inside, not knowing what they were going to do. Ten minutes later, they came to a store. The five people looked at each other and confirmed it was here, and then began to take things from the back of the bag.

The underground mall at night is too dark, no one can see what they are holding, but no one sees it now. If anyone sees it, they will be shocked. This is where Di Ping sleeps. These people What do you want to do here?

In the room, Di Ping was sleeping Zhengxiang, and the slight snoring sound echoed in the room. He was in deep sleep. At this time, Gina had already calmed down. He closed his eyes and sat in a calm meditation state, and seemed to have entered a deep training state.

Suddenly Gina opened her eyes, and the blue light in her eyes was like a bolt of lightning in the night sky.

She opened her eyes and listened for a while, knowing that she felt right. There was someone outside the door. She immediately moved from the bed to the ground with her legs sitting cross-legged, and walked quietly to Di Ping's bed and gave Di Ping a little push. .

Di Ping opened his eyes fiercely. Although Di Ping was in deep sleep, he would wake up immediately as long as he had a little movement. When he opened his eyes, he didn't move. He looked at Gina like electricity, and found that It was Gina, his tight face eased, and his eyes asked.

At this time, Gina stretched a finger to her mouth and made a silent gesture, and then reached out her hand to the door and pointed at the door. Di Ping came over knowingly, got up slowly, and listened carefully. The sound outside was truly transmitted. Into his ears.

He secretly blamed himself, that he slept too heavily, but as long as he paid a little attention, he would hear these people at the door.

At this time, the five people outside the door were opening the bag, putting the contents of the bag on the door of Di Ping's house, and then began to pull a wire. Suddenly the door opened with a creak, and two figures stood at the door. A torch was lit in one's hand and the space at the door was shining brightly.

"what!"

The five people were frightened, screaming and jumping away, and at the same time the things in their hands rolled to the ground. In this silent night, the scream was like a thunder in the air. The entire underground shopping mall was buzzing and people were awakened from time to time. , Especially the few people who watched the night woke up immediately, looking around in horror, thinking that a mutant beast was coming.

The five people were really frightened by the sudden appearance of Di Ping and Gina, but when they saw from the flames that they were two of them, they immediately became fierce. The five reached out their arms and each took out their guns and raised their hands to shoot at Di Ping. .

Di Ping saw the five people pull into his arms and knew what they were going to do. He immediately moved his body and shot out like lightning.

"Crack..."

A few crisp sounds of broken bones sounded, and it was particularly terrifying to listen to in this quiet night.

"what...."

Immediately afterwards, five painful and tragic screams sounded, which were louder and louder than the screams just now, and immediately shocked the people in the underground shopping mall. Only some people who were sleeping too heavy did not wake up, and the rest They all got up in a panic, hearing this scream, they thought that a mutant animal had come in and attacked people.

Everyone called their relatives and friends to get ready to run. They just waited a while, only to hear five people screaming, no one screamed, and they saw someone running to the place where the sound was heard, and they all followed I ran to take a look, and soon the passage was full of people.

Di Ping had already returned to the place at this time. He made a quick shot just now, and in an instant he interrupted the guns of the five people. The guns fell underground. The screams of the five people woke up everyone on both sides of the passage. One by one came out and saw this situation, but couldn't figure out what happened.

"Say, who asked you to come!"

Di Ping glanced at the things placed in front of the store, and his heart suddenly became angry. What was placed at the door was not something else, but five bundles of cord grenades. There were 2 in this bundle, and these five bundles were 10 grenades. When he got up, the underground mall might have exploded. It would be difficult for him to live under such an explosion. Fortunately, Gina was clever, or he would have to be killed on the spot today. At this time, his murderous intent emerged, and his body was full of murderous aura.