

Chapter 11

Maxine

King Charles said they would contact my parents I wasn't sure how I felt about that I wasn't even sure if they would want me back I mean I've always been the outcast of my family. Plus I was still mad with them I mean they just threw me away without even thinking twice about it.

Queen Laura seemed very nice she was warm and kind when she held my hand she just had this motherly touch something I never got from my mother.

After a while, they left and it was just me and Tara again.

"Are you excited about seeing your parents?"

Tara asked me

I just shrugged my shoulders. I look down at my hands and started to fidget with my fingers.

"Hey Maxine what's wrong? "

I just shake my head a little.

"Wait," she says looking around I see her reach out and grab a paper and a pen from the stand next to my bed.

"Here just write in this that way you're not trying to talk." She hands me the paper and pen. I take it but I wasn't sure how I was gonna tell her about my parents.

"Did they contact yours?" I wrote it down.

She looks at it.

"Yes they did they should be arriving today The Queen said they would like for us to stay the weekend there is a ball this weekend. "

I nod my head to show her I understood.

"That's good I wrote."

"Maxine what about your parents? "

Damn I didn't want to her ask again.

I sigh and begin to write.

"I don't know if they want me back when the men came they came for my sister but my parents gave them to me instead. They didn't do anything to stop them my mother packed my bag my father just sat there while they pulled me out the door and my sister just smiled at me. "

I handed her the paper and she read what I wrote her eyes went wide and she looked up at me.

"Oh my god, Maxine I'm so sorry they did that. So what are you gonna do?"

I just shrugged my shoulders. I reach out and take the paperback.

"I guess just wait and see what they say when they get the call." I wrote down

Tara read it and shook her head.

"Well if they don't want to take you back you can come to stay with me my parents are very nice they would help you. "

I give her a small smile. I write a thank you and show it to her.

Just then we hear a commotion in the hall.

"What was that," Tara said to me. I lifted my hands showing I didn't know either.

Tara stands and walks over to the door and opens it. She gasps and steps back letting the door go she starts taking steps backward. I'm trying to look and see what's going on.

I see two very large guys walk in the door. Tara is already backed into my bed I see she is shaking I look over and see the two men walking into the room I as well start to panic. I sit up even though it hurt I swing my legs over the side of the bed. Tara ran around the bed and was standing so the bed was between her and the men I tried to stand the pain that ripped through my chest and rib was enough to send me to my knees. I dropped the mask and I could feel it becoming difficult to breathe.

Tara kneeled next to me and grabbed my arm.

"Maxine" she cried out. She was trying to pick me up and I didn't have the strength to pick myself up.

Suddenly Tara is picked up and moved to the side and I see the one guy holding her while the other comes next to me I tried to scream but nothing comes out but a gargle.

"Hey take it easy" I hear him say in a deep voice. Wait I know that voice He reaches his arms out and scoops me up and places me back on the bed he grabs the mask and puts them back on my face.

I take a breath and wince at the same time I grab my ribs with one of my hands.

"Jon get the doctor," he says to the other guy who is still holding Tara.

"Sure thing," he says he lets go of Tara and walks out the door. Tara comes to the other side.

"Maxine small breaths remembering what the doctor said."

I nod my head but I can feel sweat starting to gather on my forehead and I start to feel lightheaded.

"Stay with me " hear that deep voice again and I look over to the guy who was standing there.

I blinked a few times I was starting to see dots.

"Do you remember me? " he asked.

I squinted my eyes and shook my head telling him no.

"I brought you here." He tells me and then it hits me.

I nod my head yes at him but I feel my eyes starting to droop.

"No.no.no.no. don't close your eyes" he says to me I feel his hands on my forehead. I can feel these small electric shocks where his hand was laying.

I open my eyes and look up at him. He was hovering over me he had a look of concern on his face.

"Dexter" I hear someone call out he snaps his head up.

"Doctors here," the other voice says.

I see the doctor lean over and look at me.

"Everyone out !! " he yells out.

Tara grabs my hand I'm not leaving her.

"Jon take her out," the one guy says.

I look at Tara and see the guy named Jon wrapping his arms around the small frame picking her up and walking out the door with her kicking and yelling to put her down.

I look at the doctor he has called some nurses back in.

"Prince Dexter" I need you to step out.

"I'm not going anywhere "

I hear him grit through his teeth.

"Sir please we need room to work "

"I'll wait by the wall but I'm not leaving this room is that clear? "

I look at him and watch him walk to the wall he leaned against it and crossed his arms over his chest.

I went to look back to the doctor when I started to cough it felt like I couldn't breathe again even though I had the mask on. I started to choke.

"Nurse " the doctor yelled.

"We need to get her on her side" he grabs me and the nurse is behind me they took me on my side. The doctor pulls the mask from my face just as I cough and I tasted this metallic taste in my mouth and felt something wet running down my cheek.

I start gasping for air but all I could do is cough I couldn't get a breath in. I started to feel dizzy.

"We need more help " the doctor yelled. "We're gonna lose her." My eyes started to flutter shut. I heard a roar I tried to open my eyes but I just couldn't. I then felt these electric shocking along my body and I could feel someone's hands pull me back against the bed.

"If she dies you die. "

That was the last thing I heard before the darkness took over.