

Chapter 90

Dexter

I told Max about everything that happened in my dream. She even laughed at the part where her dad wasn't my fan.

"This is great Dexter this means we can save your mom!"

"I don't know love what if something goes wrong, or something happens to our little one," I place my hand on her belly.

"Dexter if my parents said it will be okay then it will be I trust them they wouldn't tell you something to harm either one of us,"

"Your mom said they have visited you in your dreams as well,"

She smiles softly closing her eyes like she was remembering them.

"Yes, they did, and they gave me great advice one that I took and I listen to them and they were right,"

Taking a deep breath in, I walk to the chair in mom's room sitting down placing my head in my hands.

I feel small hands lay over top of mine picking my head up to see Max standing there I reach out wrapping my arms around her waist pulling her closer to me I place a soft kiss to belly.

She starts to play with my hair running her fingers thought it.

"Talk to me Dexter,"

"I'm worried that's all if something was to happen to either one of you, I would be lost,"

"I know and I love you for being so protective of us both, but we need to try for your mom please if I can help her then I need to do this."

"All right, we will try,"

She leans down to kiss me when I pull her onto my lap holding her there deepening the kiss.

"I hate to interrupt!" We hear a voice

Looking to the door there stand Dr Martin.

"I'm assuming with the happy feeling I'm picking up that you too have made a decision"

Max jumps off my lap earning a groan from me and a chuckle from her.

"Yes, we have!"

Standing up next to her I look at Dr Martin.

"Tonight, we will go down to the training field I'm not completely sure what's gonna happen but better down there where there more room and we can have guards around the field,"

Max turns to face me with a concern look.

"Dexter you really think we need to have the guards around?"

"I'm not taking any chances! We don't know how this is gonna affect both of us if there's even a slight chance I'm weakened, I can't have you left defenseless,"

"I agree with him Max," Dr Martin says as he walks to my mom's bed side.

"It's too risky with you being pregnant we still don't know if anyone else knows about you,"

She looks at Dr Martin then down to mom laying there, she turns to me.

"Alright if you feel it's safer that way,"

She steps closer to me laying her head on my chest placing my arms around her I can feel her worry now through the bond. Drake's maybe gone but that don't mean there will never be another threat especially after she has gotten her full powers.

"I need to get with Jon and Hank, get security set up Dr Martin I need for you to be there as well just in case anything medical goes wrong,"

"I will be there let me pick three of my nurses to come with the extra hands will come in handy,"

"Alright but make sure you trust them fully,"

"Yes sir," With that Dr Martin walks out the room.

"Love why don't you go rest you want to stay in here with mom?"

"Can't I stay with you," As she looks up giving me those sad eyes.

"Oh no! You need to be well rested and if you're with me we won't get things done,"

She tightens her hold then rubs her face against my chest causing a rumble to left me.

"Getting him on your side is cheating," I whisper in her ear. " But it's still a no,"

"Please," It's such a faint voice almost a whimper.

I get a sudden rush of emotion it almost took my breath this was something new but it won my dragon over.

"Fine you win, but you are to be planted on my couch in the office doing nothing!"

She steps back with the victory smile on her face.

"Yes Sir!" She says then gets up on her tippy toes placing a soft kiss on my cheek.

Quickly walking to mom's bed she leans over kissing mom cheek,

"I will fix this I promise," I hear her whisper to my mother.

Standing back up she walks over wrapping her arm around my arm laying her head against my arm.

"We will be back mom,"

Turning walking out the room we head out the hospital going straight for my office, I send Jon and Hank a mind link telling them to meet me at my office.

Once we reach my office I watch as Max head straight for the couch sitting down with some books she starts reading.

Jon and Hank walk in coming to my desk I pull out the lay out of the training field I start going over the plan where I want guy to be placed and which guards I want to be there.

"Dexter why is Max just sitting over there reading books?" Jon asked

"She wants to stay with me today but she needs her rest so this was my rule if she came with me,"

He starts to Chuckling which I stopped what I was doing to look up. only to see both of them laughing.

" What the hell you two laughing about,"

"Sorry man but I'm sure you didn't agree to anything but you were told right!"

Letting out a growl at the thought of them two think I took orders instead of giving them.

"Now Jon stop egging him on! I agreed to stay here on the couch and rest while he did all the planning," We hear Max call from the couch she never even looked up from her the book she was reading.

Jon and Hank both look back at me with a smirk on their faces.

Pointing at them two.

"Don't even say it!"

They hold up their hands.

"Now back to work,"

They quiet down and focus back at what we were working on.

Finally, we get the everything all laid out Hank leaves to get the guards we want their Jon heads to do a sweep of the ground to make sure no extra people were out there,

Walking over to the couch I see Max has dose off Looking at the small table I see she has managed to eat most her lunch I look at the time seeing we had been in here almost all day.

Kneeling down next to the couch I trace my finger across her forehead moving a piece of hair from her face.

Scooping her up in my arms I carefully lift her up holding her against me. I head out my office heading for our room making sure not to wake her while I walk through the halls.

Reaching our room walking in laying her down on the bed, she stirred just a bit she grabs my hand.

"You're not gonna leave, are you?"

"No love I'll stay with you,"

Laying down with her we got about three hours before we start this crazy plan. I'm just hoping everything goes right.