

Eight Uncles 101

Chapter 101

Lilly hugged Hugh's arm obediently and asked, "Grandpa, are you unwilling to bring me there?"

Hugh pursed his lips. When Lilly became quiet and sensible, she always made people feel distressed.

He sighed and answered, "Yes."

Lilly was like a delicate flower that he guarded with all his heart, and he did not want others to see her. However, thinking back to the past, he also protected Jean. In the end, she passed away regretfully without seeing the outside world.

So, Hugh wanted to bring all the prosperity in the world to Lilly and let her see a wider world.

Lilly leaned against Hugh. She pondered, then asked, "Grandpa, what does God of Battle mean?"

Hugh replied, "It means heroes who fought very hard. They defended our country like a patron saint. We can live in a peaceful country now because of the bloodshed and sacrifice of patron saints like them."

Although Hugh thought Blake was not a good person, he could not deny that Blake was respectable. Hugh would not hide Blake's achievement from Lilly.

Lilly asked again, "Does that mean a good guy?"

Hugh looked at her and smiled. "At least he isn't bad."

He agreed to go to the MacNeil family, as they wanted to see what Blake could do.

If Blake wanted to return or recognize the MacNeil family, the Crawford family would not let Lilly go there.

The style of the MacNeil family was unsuitable for Lilly to live in, even for half a day.

Lilly was thinking about another question. Battle?

She asked suspiciously, "Grandpa, we don't have a battle now!"

She only saw battles on TV, which were from movies.

Hugh patted Lilly's shoulder kindly. "Battle in a peaceful era isn't a battle ordinary people can see."

They could only have peace after battles. There was no quiet time. It was someone who blocked the gunfire from behind to protect the peace.

Lilly only understood a bit. Her Battle Daddy did not seem bad, so she wanted to meet him. She wanted to see if Blake was as tall as in her dream that he slammed into the door frame every time he entered.

She also wondered whether Blake let her ride around his neck. She believed Blake, who defended the people, should be a good father instead of being the same as Stephen.

When Kevin returned to the MacNeil family, Giuliana happened to be in the living room on the first floor. She asked curiously, "How is the Crawford family's reaction? Are they happy?"

Kevin only sent invitations to those with political ties, but the Crawford family was an exception.

Kevin answered respectfully, "Madam, the invitation has been delivered. But Mr. Crawford didn't seem very happy and kicked me out."

"Maybe it's because we didn't see that little girl the day before yesterday, so they
