

Eight Uncles 1031

Chapter 1031 Hypocrite

"Did you starve to death too?" Lilly asked.

The Holy Mother Ghost sighed, "I was lucky and I survived." She then said, "My biggest regret was not giving my parents a formal burial. Their bodies were merely covered with mats." She continued to say, "I managed to get a teaching job through my parents' connection later on." She survived on that job. At least she could afford some food.

Josh felt strange, and he asked, "Then, did you continue to help the victims?" She said that she fought for the food to survive so she could help out more victims. I'll salute her if she really did it. But I don't think she did.

The ghost answered, "I was having a hard time, so I can't help out more people."

Josh looked at her and said, "But didn't you have a job?" He said, "Aren't you kind? Why didn't you use half of your salary to save others?" She could have done it, but she had to suffer with others. And she could have survived with one meal per day; she could have donated two meals to others. He was not trying to force her, but he knew that she would not help when she was affected.

She stuttered, "I was in the city... and everywhere was dangerous. I could not go out." Josh sneered and thought, It sounds like she's holy, but she's very selfish indeed. Everyone respected her for being their savior, but she sacrificed her parents for it. Once she was poor and alone, she was not willing to save people, realizing she herself was struggling. "How did you die?" Josh asked. He thought that she died starving to save others. But it did not seem to be the case.

She continued to say, "Everything settled down, and the town was livelier after years." People around her got married, and she was lonely, so she was finding her other half. "I was pretty famous for spending all my fortune to save the people." She managed to get a good man by being famous. Her husband was pretty dumb, because smart men would never marry her. She was someone who sacrificed her family just to save others.

"I felt happy in my marriage. But my neighbor was a lonely woman." Hence, she started to play matchmaker out of kindness. And she introduced her to a hawker. "I felt that this man was pretty decent." Her neighbor thought that the man was a businessman, but he turned out to be a hawker. She was not willing to be with him. But the ghost felt that he was a great man. She heard from him that he was all alone after his family died from the drought. "No one looked after him when he was sick."

"There was a time he was beaten up by the gangsters... I went to take care of him."

Chapter 1032 Not Everyone Can Work for the Ruler of Hell

The Holy Mother Ghost was furious after hearing her words; she would not give up her husband. "I thought that she was kidding. But I found out that she tried to seduce my husband when I was not home." She said it angrily. She told the hawker about what happened, and he beat her neighbor until she was almost dead.

She sighed and said, "I went to see her to convince her." She said, "I asked her to endure it. Everything would be alright." Her neighbor told her how miserable she was. He would beat her up for the tiniest thing. "I asked her to tolerate him, but she wanted to kill me just for this!" She said, "Wasn't I good to her? She would be even more pitiful if she divorced!" She then said, "And I was the one that looked after her when she was bedridden!" She was killed when her neighbor recovered. She killed her with an ax. She was getting upset the more she talked about it, but she did not think that she was wrong.

Zachary snorted, "Great! How did you die?" She'd been sacrificing people all her life. How dare she be sad?

She muttered, "I felt strange when she came to my door with an ax. She told me that she was here to help me out and to thank me." She then said, "I felt happy for her realization." But her neighbor swung the ax toward her head once she got it. But she missed and cut her shoulder. She screamed and tried to escape into her room. But the neighbor cut down the door. She cornered her and cut her countless times until she was dead. "I died on the spot." She said, "I was not aware when I died, and my soul hadn't left my body." And she saw her neighbor do something terrifying. She cut her into pieces. And her soul could feel this pain. She lived with this fear, and she experienced it over and over again for ten years until she became the malignant ghost.

Chapter 1033 Keep Your Hand Off Lilly!

The Ruler of Hell?

The Holy Mother Ghost was shocked! She sure has a deceiving look for a little girl! A lot was going through the ghost's mind now; she wanted to be like the harem spirit and the rest. I won't vanish if she's willing to take me in! Then I won't have to be forced to possess others anymore. But the weakling spirit says that I'm not qualified!

"Why am I not qualified?" She said, "I've done a lot of good deeds before I died. And I was murdered by a hateful neighbor."

Polly was slowly waking up. If it were not for the ghost that polluted its energy, Lilly would not put it to rest. It started to scold, "Yes, you're the most suitable one to be the trash!"

The ghost was furious when she saw the noisy Polly again! "Yes, I might have harmed someone before. But look at how many people praised me when I was alive! How can you all set my ghost's life just like this?"

Lilly said, "You didn't deserve the praise. Those shouldn't be yours." And she continued to say, "You're not selfless but a hypocrite."

The ghost said, "No! I didn't pretend to do good things while I was actually doing bad things. I did save the victims! I'm holy!"

Lilly nodded and said, "You're correct." She's indeed different from the hypocritical ghost. The Holy Mother Ghost asked, "Right? So can I work for you?"

Polly said, "In your dream! If you're so holy, you should die for everyone!"

She felt that she was toyed, and she snorted, "Why can they, but why can't I? You're so unfair as the so-called Ruler of Hell!" She dashed toward Lilly. And Polly knew that she would surely be dead. It sat still in Lilly's arms, waiting to witness her death.

As Polly expected, Josh and Zachary rushed in front to protect Lilly before anything happened! And Lilly's ghost generals all blocked her!

The weakling spirit said, "If you dare to touch our Ruler, you'll be doomed!"

The harem spirit snorted, "You're seeking your own death!"

The unlucky ghost said, "She's long dead. Now she'll vanish for good!"

All of them hit the Holy Ghost. Lilly muttered as she saw smoke coming out from the ghost, "I haven't done anything yet." Sigh, it's another day of me being useless. "Master, I feel you now." She said, "I don't have to do anything now; this is the sadness of the strong ones!"

Josh and Zachary also went into the fight, hoping to kill the ghost that tried to harm Lilly! Josh was simply throwing punches. Zachary aimed for the right time to stab the ghost. But Josh missed his aim and punched him instead! Josh screamed, "I didn't mean it! Zachary, please believe me. You do believe me, right?" I'm surely being influenced by the unlucky ghost's energy.

Chapter 1034 Running Away Overnight

The cats had six strong senses. Bellflower could sense Esper coming, and it ran away overnight. It did not know that Polly was possessed and that Lilly was searching for it. It was lingering in the street without purpose. And it could hear the sounds of cars passing by and honking from time to time. This was a rather quiet neighborhood. It was upset as it rested on a fence full of flowers. It did not know why it was running away; it only knew that something dangerous was approaching.

"Eh, there's a cat." Two boys in school uniforms were looking at it from the bottom. It was cold toward them; it did not run away or ask them to pet it. The boys shouted, "Hey, you're one ugly cat!"

"Haha, it looks ugly and stupid!"

"I'll make it fall down!" They suddenly took the rocks and threw them toward it. Bellflower easily dodged all the rocks. "Hey, it's dodging."

"Haha, this is fun!" They continued to throw rocks at it. but none of them hit it. The rocks all landed in the garden behind the fence. The boys were getting furious. One of them picked up a broken brick and threw it! Bellflower stood up and slapped it with its paw. And it flew across the fence and broke something!

The boys were startled, and they ran. "No, time to run!"

"It's all because of the ugly cat!"

Bellflower was about to leave the fence full of flowers. But the entrance to the house was open. A middle-aged woman came out and yelled, "Who did it?" There was no one around, and she saw the cat walking slowly on the fence from the direction where all the glass broke. "Oh, it's you? Dammit it, stupid cat!" The woman was in a bad mood, and she found something to vent about. Bellflower looked at her as if she were dumb. She was stunned because she felt that it was mocking her! She took off her slipper and threw it to the cat, but her slipper got stuck in the tree. The woman was furious.

Soon, a younger woman came out and said, "Mom, why are you playing with a cat during this time?"

The middle-aged woman answered, "I didn't. It broke our glass."

Elsa looked up and saw a normal cat, and she replied, "Mom, don't make accusations when you're angry! How could a cat throw the rocks?" Both of them went back. The garden was a mess, and her flowers were ruined. And there was glass shattered on the ground. "Don't let me catch the ones that did this." She snorted as she cleaned up.

Chapter 1035 Don't Make Such A Joke!

Elsa was furious, and Simon was blinded by love when they first got together. But now he has shown his true self. Keira cleaned up the garden as she said, "Don't be overdoing it! Their house is richer than ours! But I'm not happy about their attitude now." The amount that they wanted to give was too little in a rich man's world. So what if they have a bungalow as their new house? It doesn't solely belong to Elsa; it's under Simon too. They were still satisfied with the amount Simon paid for the wedding gown and the accessories, but Simon spent all of his savings. "Simon does not have any savings now, so you won't benefit if you're married." Keira then said, "The Pierce family is so stingy; they don't care about their son's happiness!"

They came up with an idea at last. "When they're here to get you on your wedding day, I'll ask him to give me ten million dollars. Or else I won't let you go." Elsa nodded and replied, "Is it too much?" Keira replied, "No! So what if Simon doesn't have savings now? I'm sure he can afford it. We're not greedy, but testing his sincerity!"

Keira then said, "And then you should force him to buy a car for you that day; if he doesn't, you'll threaten him to cancel the wedding." She continued to say, "But you have to look at the timing because all the guests will be waiting by then." By then, it would be too late for the Pierce family to call it off; they could not possibly find a new bride.

Elsa agreed to this plan. The sports car that she wanted was not that expensive; it only cost around 90 million dollars. It was only up to the Pierce family's willingness to buy her. If they rejected her request, then her life after marrying Simon would not be good.

Keira said, "We have to let them know our stand!" They felt so much better after coming up with the plan. Bellflower was hiding at the corner of the fence, looking at Keira's head. There was a malignant ghost there. Bellflower groaned, but the ghost merely glanced at it and ignored it. The ghost continued to take in Keira's deathly energy.

Lilly searched around and realized that Bellflower was really missing. She checked the surveillance footage and saw it jump out from the fence. "Maybe Bellflower went outside to play..." She played with Esper while she calculated the hexagram. Bellflower would be fine, and it would come back by itself. "Maybe it's boring at home." She said, "It's okay, Bellflower will be back!"

Chapter 1036 Did You Guys Hear That Clapping Sound?

In the dining room, Bettany looked at Esper and asked, "Lilly, did you just bring this cat back? Where's Bellflower?" Lilly said, "Granny, Bellflower went out to play. This is Esper, my best friend!"

Bettany nodded. Lilly is extraordinary, so the animals she brings back must be special too. She was old and could not do much except feed them. Bettany looked at Esper and said, "This cat looks energized, but it's too slim." Why are all the animals she brought back so slim? They always look like they've been starving. "C'mon, Esper. Please eat more." She put the dried fish in front of it. The fish was for Bellflower, but since it was out, she gave it to Esper first. She could make more when Bellflower was back. "Try it; these fish are freshly imported, and I made them with my secret recipe." She then said, "Cats can't eat salty food, so I made it specially for cats." Bettany was talking, and the atmosphere in the dining room was heartwarming.

Esper looked at the plate in front of him. Ha... I'm not a simple cat. I won't eat anything besides the canned fish that Lilly gave me! This must be... Eh? It's nice? It ate happily, as it tasted the same as the canned fish!

Bettany was happy to see that it ate a lot. All of the animals ate a lot when they got here, and she felt proud feeding them. But, after some time, they all would frown during meal times. "It's nice, right? Eat more!" she said. Esper was lost in eating the yummy dried fish.

The harem spirit said, "Can you guys hear that clapping sound?"

The weakling spirit was about to hit her. And she hurried to the side and said, "I'm referring to the sound of the slap in its face!"

When can you stop making all these jokes?

Lilly was eating fast. "Yummy! I'll eat one more bowl!" She refilled her food herself and said, "I'm old enough to do it!" Bettany was pleased with Lilly eating a lot. She felt warm and proud whenever she saw Lilly eating so much. Josh peeked at Lilly and Esper. Ha, let's see how long they can stand.

Hannah was focused on chatting with Lilly; she totally ignored Esper. They were sharing about the things that had happened to them recently. Hannah ate less than usual because she felt that she was getting chubby. The rest of them were still peeling off the crab shell for Lilly. Lilly said, "Thank you, Zachary!" And he said, "You're welcome."

Drake was getting jealous. Luckily, Lilly turned and said, "Thank you, Drake!" And he nodded and decided not to be calculative with Zachary. They were all having a fun time in the dining room.

Chapter 1037 Cats Fight

Esper glanced at the cat mockingly. Fish, shrimp, and now grass? I'll never eat it. Esper smelled it out of instinct. Hmm... It took a bite. What's this weird-tasting grass? And it got lost in eating again. It was fed more food after eating the grass. Esper had never been this full in its life. It walked around the garden just to digest the food. Lilly was looking at it from the balcony. Drake walked up to her to help her with school work. "What are you looking at?" Lilly pointed at Esper and said, "Drake, it's moving in circles because it can't eat anymore."

Bellflower was bored of lingering out there. This is boring; I should go back to play with that dumb bird... It can't do anything to me with Lilly there, right? Right! Why should I be afraid when Lilly is there? Ugh! That's my territory; why should I run after all my hard work?

Its stomach sounded like it was starving. It only realized how delicious Bettany's food was after it ran away from home. Bellflower missed her cooking... It was as if its legs had their own wish; it went back.

And Bellflower saw the black cat lingering in the garden the moment it arrived home. It was shocking to see another cat with such a strong aura!

Esper sensed its likes, so it turned around and saw the striking Bellflower. Esper paused and growled at it. It thought, Dammit, where does this ordinary cat come from? How much did it cost to see what I've done?

Bellflower thought, F*ck, where does this cat come from? Why do I feel like I might lose to it?

"Rookie! Why are you backing off?" Someone yelled. "Go get it! Don't be a coward!" Polly started to sing, "You're the best... The best! Rookie is the best!"

Bellflower hesitated, and it stared at Esper while it escaped to Lilly's room. Polly said sadly, "Oh no, you failed!"

Chapter 1038 Wedding Day

Even Bellflower found it weird after hearing everything it said. Although it would meow and purr all day, Lilly was able to understand what it wanted, Bellflower was shocked after saying something this serious.

Lilly was shocked when that happened. She asked, "You can talk?" Wow... Did Esper cause this? Gosh, if I'd known this would happen, I might as well just bring Esper home too when I first met him.

Josh glanced at the cats and wondered what Lilly was talking about when she said that they were speaking. He was unable to tell the difference because they sounded the same albeit the pitch of their meows sounded different. After pondering for a moment, Josh scribbled a symbol on his notebook because he wanted to remember what the meows sounded like earlier. Little did everyone know that Josh managed to write a book about cat languages in the future.

Lilly patted Bellflower's head and said, "Where are you going? Look, let me introduce you to Esper, the king of the Gray Earth. Since he's the king, do you know anything about Phantom Cats?"

Bellflower replied, "... Hmph, never heard of them."

Lilly continued, "Come on now, you need to work together in the future. Please get along."

Esper scoffed and said, "They are beneath me."

Bellflower cowered in Lilly's arms and said, "Do you think that I want to be your friend?"

Esper looked displeased as he replied, "Why don't you stay at home then."

Bellflower replied, "Hmph, I'll do just that. I'll stay with my master and there is nothing you can do about it."

Esper was speechless when Bellflower said that and only felt that he was being immature and did not want to get along with him. So, he turned around and leapt out of the balcony before leaving the scene.

Bellflower was hurt by this as he cried, "Waah, he bullied me! What did I do wrong? Why must he treat me like this!"

Polly said, "Oh please. Gosh, you sure are shameless."

Lilly patted Bellflower's head while she did her homework as she asked, "Where have you been for the last two days?"

Bellflower was embarrassed when she asked that because he did not want her to know that he bolted to safety because he felt threatened. So, she gave a good hard thought and said, "I was training. I mean, I found a malignant spirit!" He told Lilly everything he saw during the day, including the conversation Keira had with her son he overheard.

Lilly asked, "Elsa, Simon?" Aren't they the couple Josh encountered when he was after Holy Mother Ghost? So he was right after all!

Josh was delighted to hear that as he was able to get another case. He wanted to be praised this time. So, he immediately went to look for Bethany. "Grandma! The Pierce family sent us an invitation for their wedding, right? Can we go?"

Soon, time went by in a flash as the cats spent time with each other till late night on the first day Esper was part of the family. On the second day, Bellflower shapeshifted to a doll so he could go to school with Lilly. On the third day, Bellflower decided to muster up the courage to stay at home with Esper, but in the end, he was still bullied. On the fourth day, Bellflower decided to stand up for himself, but he was still bullied in the end. This continued for a month, which annoyed Bellflower to the extreme. However, little did he know that he was slowly becoming stronger...

Chapter 1039 Simon Relented

Simon looked extremely happy in his suit because he was excited to get married to the Crawford family. He was ecstatic when their children wanted to be his flower boys to pick his wife-to-be up... His wedding was impressive because it's his family's honor to be married to the Crawford family even if the children were just fooling around. However, little did Simon and his family know that the only reason why they would even attend the wedding was because of that ghost... Simon went through hell to finally be allowed into Elsa's room. He was tasked to find her shoes, do pushups and more... He was pretty much exhausted from all of that, but it was fine because it was all in good fun.

Meanwhile, Lilly and Josh were finally able to spot the malignant ghost on Keira's head. This startled Josh as he asked, "Hey, what is that?"

Zachary scoffed and said, "Gosh, you're useless. I can't believe that you weren't even able to tell what kind of a ghost that is."

Josh rolled his eyes and said, "Well then, do enlighten me."

Zachary replied, "I don't know what that is." However, he would not bother Lilly if he did not have to. This showed just how confident he was.

Josh was speechless when he heard his reply. However, Lilly signaled him to stay quiet.

"I'm here for Elsa, Madam Keira." Simon smiled at Keira.

Keira smiled and said, "Not bad kid, go on ahead. Hurry now."

Simon was beaming because his mother told him that he might not be able to marry his wife- to-be that day because Elsa's mother might make things difficult for him. He thought to himself, Wow, I guess mom was worried for nothing!

"Sure thing. Thanks mom!" Simon thanked Elsa's mother.

"We'll be a family soon, so there's no need to thank me," Keira smiled before turning her attention to Lilly, "Oh my, aren't you adorable! Gosh, you are a really pretty girl, Lilly!" Apparently, Keira was biased to Lilly and was just saying that out of respect. Her clothes were mediocre at best to Keira.

Lilly nodded and said, "Hello, Miss Keira."

Hannah looked bored as she glanced at Keira before yawning at Lilly. Apparently, she disliked that family and she only tagged along because of Lilly. She would much rather be sleeping at home.

Soon, Keira gave the children some snacks before telling people to take care of them. Outsiders might even think that the whole party was for the children if they did not know any better. This stirred up quite the gossip amongst Keira's relatives and friends. So, Lilly awkwardly said, "Miss Keira, we tagged along with Simon and he should be the main focus of today, not us." She would never take credit from others.

Keira immediately understood what Lilly was implying, so she said, "Oh my, I just adore children!"

Soon, the wedding began as Josh reminded everyone about not ruining other people's weddings even if they wanted to subdue the ghosts. Apparently, Lilly had told them that before they arrived. They were even told to observe as well. So, Josh stared at the malignant spirit that was attached to Keira's head as he wondered, Hmmm... What exactly is that?

The wedding was going on smoothly as Elsa's parents gave Simon their blessings. Simon was touched by their blessings as he led Elsa out the front door. This showed that Elsa must have loved him as well even though she was usually a troublemaker, she was really well behaved on her wedding day. However, Elsa paused just as Simon was about to open the car door.

Chapter 1040 Fearless Elsa

Simon transferred the money over after hesitating for a couple of seconds. It was just as Keira predicted. He did not want to escalate things. He only wanted to marry Elsa, so his life's savings was a small price to pay for his happiness. Elsa smiled after seeing that the transfer had gone through. "Yay, well done, honey!" said Elsa.

Her smile melted Simon's heart because he was glad that she was just testing him and was certain that she was never after his money in the first place. Soon, the entourage finally left as Lilly spectated the whole scene. She gave Zachary a worried look and said, "You won't be a simp when you grow up, right?"

Zachary was speechless to hear that as he said, "No way." There was no way he would be a simp because he had a goal in life then. He only found women to be troublesome since they would slow his progress down.

Lilly nodded and said, "Thank goodness for that."

Josh pouted and asked, "Why didn't you ask me that?"

However, Lilly gave him an anguished look as she did not want to hurt him. She was worried that her words might be too harsh for him and that might impede his progress.

Hannah said, "Oh, what kind of spirit did you say it was earlier? I didn't get a good look at it."

She was disappointed because she wanted to see spirits too, but was unable to.

Lilly replied, "Well, it's called the golddigger ghost..."

However, before she could finish, the car suddenly stopped at a shop which stunned Josh as he asked, "What's going on?"

The entourage's sudden stop caught Simon off guard. Apparently, Elsa told the driver to bring them here. She sounded quite frantic when she told the driver that. Apparently, the shop was a Lyan Hypersort's dealership. Simon had a bad feeling about this detour. He knew that the entourage should not drive by this route, but Elsa told him to take this route because any couple who drove through this route would have a long lasting marriage. Things were obviously different then. Lo and behold, Elsa rushed into the showroom and stopped in front of a red sport's car.

"I want this car!" Elsa cheered. But, Simon was not amused by this. It seemed that Elsa was oblivious to Simon's distaste for this as she called a salesperson and said, "Today is my wedding day and I want this sportscar as our wedding gift! Could you get the paperwork done now? I'm getting it right now!"

The manager was delighted by this surprise as he kept wishing the couple a very happy marriage before telling his staff members to prepare the paperwork. However, Simon grabbed Elsa and whispered, "We never agreed to buy this car, honey. Let's go, we'll be late if we don't hurry."

However, Elsa pushed him away and said, "What are you doing, Simon! All I want is a car! How could you not give me that?" She was intentionally causing a scene. She continued, "I thought you told me that you love me! I agreed to marry you, but how could you not be willing to buy me a car? If you don't buy me this car, that'll mean that you don't love me at all!" Simon felt awkward when that happened. Even the children felt awkward from the whole exchange. It seemed that Lilly had finally understood how second-hand embarrassment felt like...

Elsa was furious while the manager approached them with the contract and said, "Um, sir... Do you still want the car? We can offer you a discount and it's only nine-hundred million nine thousand and ninety-nine dollars. It's a very good deal!"

Elsa replied, "Look, it's a very good omen! Look at how many nines there are."

Simon was speechless when she said that.

Simon was in distress as he pushed the contract aside and said, "Please stop this, Elsa. Look, we'll be late and everyone is still waiting for us..."
