

Eight Uncles 1121

Chapter 1121 Top of the Class

After Lilly left her house, Alban couldn't hold himself in the same spot, and walked around the perimeter of the Crawford Manor.

Through the iron gate of the back garden, he could vaguely see the old man of the Crawford family, that is Hugh, practicing some Tai Chi. As Alban was just about to turn around and leave, he stopped suddenly, and stared at the ink bamboo painting behind Hugh.

It was something out of the ordinary!

Alban was astonished by what he saw. The painting glistened in fractured rays under the sunlight. The light rays were like layers of magical haloes, shrouding around Hugh's body.

Hugh, despite his age, was full of energy and had rosy cheeks. That was not normal for the average old man!

Alban pursed his lips. It seemed like this painting was brought back from the underworld by Lilly.

Other people would be afraid of the underworld, but Alban was not one of them. He realized that the underworld is just another realm that was similar to the one he was in, just in a different style. Where Earth of was short of resources, the underworld was abundant of treasures.

Treasures just like this painting. If he could train under its powers, it would make his life so much easier...

Alban clenched his fists, and felt unhealthy thoughts coming to his head. But after thinking about it, his powers were indeed just so, that Lilly was much stronger than him. It was normal for him to feel inferior to her.

And so, with that thought, Alban left.

Instead, he decided to go to Lilly's school and wait for her there.

She already knew that he was waiting for her. All he had to do was just to express his sincerity.

Lilly went straight to her teacher's office after getting to school.

Cheryl took the long way round, deliberately passing by not far from the Mathematics Department office.

She saw Lilly and another student inside, paying attention to what their teacher was telling them.

Usually though, one school would send one representative to participate in such competitions. But there was two of them there. It's not a mystery that Lilly was there as a gilded token participant, and the real contestant was the other student!

Cheryl was disgruntled. She thought about how if her family was just as rich, she wouldn't have had to work tirelessly. If only her father wasn't as unmotivated as he was now.

Even when her mother planned to visit Bettany at the Crawford home, she didn't end up going after hearing that Bettany was fine.

When would the Miller family be just as wealthy? She thought about how hard she had to hustle since middle school and now in high school, as compared to Lilly who didn't have to do much but still get the attention from everyone around her. It was a depressing thought for Cheryl.

So she went back to her classroom, laid her head on the table and started to cry.

Her classmates were perplexed by the sounds of her muffled cries.

But no one wanted to console her. After the weekend, everyone went home and told their families about the incident during the exam.

And all their families told them the exact same thing: stay away from Cheryl Miller!

Only a few of Cheryl's best friends went up to her worryingly and asked: "What's wrong, Cheryl? Why are you crying?"

She sobbed, and said softly: "It's nothing..."

"I just feel that I'm really useless..."

"I just saw the ones who were going to the mathematics competition getting ready to leave, and I realized how bad at school I am..."

Although Cheryl said it as soft as she could, everyone around her heard it.

Sheer silence.

"It's just a stupid competition! It's for students in the lower grade! All of the participants nationwide are in the third grade and below!"

"Why do you want to compare yourself to others?"

"Exactly... You didn't even participate when we were in third grade! Why didn't you cry at the time?"

"Pfft, she just wants to compare herself with other people's little sisters. I didn't know that she was this petty. Comparing herself with them and calling herself useless."

The chatter went around the room, and into Cheryl's ears. Her eyes became even redder.

Only her best friend Eliana defended her in a burst of anger. "What are all of you doing? We're supposed to help each other as students! It's one thing not to comfort Cheryl but making sarcastic remarks too?"

Josh let out a cold snort.

"Yo yo yo, is this just sarcastic talk?" He chimed in with the swagger of a rich playboy.

"Comparing yourself with a third grader, and you aren't even the better one! Isn't it clear that you are indeed the useless one?"

Cheryl couldn't hold it in longer and let out a big cry.

"Shut up Josh! You are being too mean to her!" Eliana responded furiously.

Josh chuckled. "What's the matter? If I really felt useless and ashamed... I would just hide somewhere and cry. She came to cry in the middle of the classroom, isn't that to just let everyone know that she's useless?"

His eyes were filled with disdain with a slight hint of coldness. "She asked for it."

It was wrong to laugh at someone at their lowest, but who said it wasn't rewarding?

Cheryl came to the classroom to cry, was not to let others think that she was the weak one, but to ruin their good impression of Lilly. It was just apparent - Cheryl just isn't the top of her class.

And as an elder brother, he had to step on Cheryl just to protect his little sister, how dare he?!

Cheryl didn't manage to flatter him at all. And after making a big fuss and crying so many times now, she has earned the reputation of being a jerk instead.

Eliana just thought that Josh was being incredibly mean. So what if he was handsome? His shortness in height certainly didn't make up for it either!

And being so mean and sarcastic towards his own classmate, was so annoying! He must not had thought that he was cool for doing that, would he?

Ugh, what an egomaniac!

Chapter 1122 A True Number One

Without a doubt, it was always the most stressful during exams and competitions. Time always flew by the fastest then.

Lilly and the other student went to participate in the mathematics competition. And in a blink of an eye, it was Wednesday already, and they were already back in school.

The other student was from a different class. Lilly was in the first class of the third grade, and he was in the seventh. He had full admiration for Lilly after the competition.

"Lilly is such an amazing and smart person! I've never seen someone with such a quick brain as her!"

"You know the rapid fire question rounds right? When we were all still trying to read the question, she's already gotten the answer right!"

"Haha, you weren't there to see it, but the opponents from other schools were defeated to tears..."

The student was telling the story of the whole competition with much enthusiasm. He was so eloquent to the point as though they went to participate in a wrestling match instead.

By midday, Lilly's great reputation had already spread all over the school. All seven classes in her grade had already knew about how amazing she did in the competition.

Cheryl had overheard about it, and seeing how everyone else was amazed by Lilly, she couldn't help but think that the other student was Lilly's lapdog.

Eliana thought the same way too. "I think the true brainiac was the other guy. The Crawford family is so wealthy, he must want to suck up to them too." She argued.

Cheryl had her eyes buried in the book she was reading, and said softly: "That may not be the case... Maybe Lilly is really that good."

"But you didn't think that way this morning though," Eliana looked at Cheryl with confusion.

"..."

Cheryl felt annoyed that Eliana was so stupid.

But then she thought, if Eliana was stupid, would she have befriended her?

In the assembly on Friday, the school had especially organized an award ceremony for Lilly and the other student!

The principal was particularly elated. "Lilly Crawford from the first class, had represented our school in the national mathematics competition, and won first place!"

“She has been very respectful towards the teachers, and helped out all of her classmates, while studying diligently... Let us honor her with this award, and give her a round of applause!”

Cheryl watched as Lilly walked onstage, received her award and being surrounded by flowers and applause.

She really couldn't understand why the world was so unfair. Only the naive would believe that Lilly had really won first place by herself.

How on earth could there be two people getting first place?

It's so obvious that the true number one was the other student. Lilly was not supposed to be there at all!

After overhearing Cheryl and Eliana's conversation earlier, there was a small number of students who thought that Lilly getting the award was a little suspicious.

However, at the very next moment, the principal announced: “This year's competition was very exciting! To let everyone experience the magic of mathematics and the tension of the competition, we have the recorded video of the competition's live broadcast! Let's watch it for ourselves, shall we?”

The principal was proud and happy. A genius like Lilly Crawford is rare to come by, perhaps once in a hundred years.

But that wasn't true. Previously there was Josh and Ivan. But unfortunately at the time of the previous competition, Josh had transferred, and Ivan was out of school longer than Lilly...

The video started playing on a big screen.

Everyone could watch the broadcast in crystal clear resolution.

In the video, Lilly was in school uniform. She had a solemn face, and every reaction she made was agile and sharp.

It turns out that every school had two representatives for this competition, and they had all formed groups of two, and were broken down into smaller ranked battles. The top sixteen into the top eight, then into the top four, and then into the very top two... and eventually the grand finals.

The students watched with excitement as Lilly and her partner battled their way to the top four. They reacted with such immense speed that their opponents did not have the chance to answer at all.

Just when Lilly's partner had finished solving the equations' answer, Lilly had already answered.

When it came to the top two battle, Lilly was even more resolute and sharp. Her answers were firm and confident.

Although she seemed to look a soft and cute little girl, she was so strong that she made the male opponent who was twice her size sob like a baby.

The competition progressed all too quickly, and it was just as exciting as how Lilly's competition mate described it to be. Everyone didn't even have to look at the questions, they were easily amazed by how the opponents, teachers and judges reacted in the video.

It was apparent. Lilly's award was extremely well-deserved.

The envious schoolmates who were disapproving of her achievements were all wrong. It wasn't that Lilly was trying to ride on the other student's award, it should be the other way round instead! Even though her partner was great in his own right, every answer he managed to solve was correct, but he just wasn't as fast as Lilly!

"Damn, she is just too strong!"

"Oh my heavens! Lilly is freaking amazing!"

"Just like the greatest warriors who walked the face of the earth since the dawn of time!" Some of the male students who read novels about supernatural warriors exclaimed loudly on the spot. It was like a competition of spirit.

"Didn't you hear someone in particular say that her number one was undeserving? That she used her family's money to get the award?"

"Exactly! She even cried! Weren't she so bitter to say that her family's background wasn't as well-off as Lilly's?"

"Yeah! What else did she say? That her family paid to gild her in gold? Just to get the number one?"

Cheryl dipped her head in utter embarrassment.

And this time, she has buried herself six feet deep underground.

Chapter 1123 Can't We Get To Know Each Other Again?

Those who spoke satirically were none other than the male students in Cheryl's class.

Hearing what they said, more people soon knew about a contrived girl in the 6th grade. When Cheryl saw Lilly take first place, she cried and said that Lilly bought first place.

Cheryl cried again because of the sarcasm. After this incident, she became famous.

She never wanted this kind of fame. She became a contrived person known throughout the school.

The Miller family also found out about Cheryl's death. Cheryl received a harsh reprimand from her father instead of comfort.

Since then, everyone had looked at her with disdain and sarcasm.

Her reputation even followed her to junior high school. In high school, more young ladies learned to intrigue and also used this matter to ridicule Cheryl.

Cheryl spent half her life in such a state of embarrassment. She failed to get into Clodston University. To avoid gossip, she had to go to a university in a remote area to escape from her black history.

She was the eldest daughter of a small family in Clodston. No matter how bad the Miller family was, the social relationships she could connect with were relationships that ordinary people could not approach in their lifetime.

However, she made herself out of this circle and could no longer blend into those social relationships.

She never imagined that the fate of her life would be changed when she was in elementary school.

Cheryl often regretted being so contrived in elementary school. She thought she would not have ended up like this if Lilly had died earlier. She was still the eldest lady in Clodston's aristocratic circle, and she could marry into a wealthy family and be a noble lady.

It was a pity that there was no if. Cheryl attributed all the reasons for her consequences to Lilly, and she hated Lilly more as she got older.

However, those were all her jealousies and hatreds. Even though she said so much gossip behind Lilly's back, Lilly did not even fight back or pay attention to her.

Cheryl blamed Lilly and refused to admit that she caused everything. It was just that it was useless how much she hated Lilly. She never affected Lilly and would not see her again when she became an adult.

Of course, those were all things to come afterward.

Josh happily led Lilly home and walked on the main road. He deliberately slowed down his walking.

With envious looks from all around, Josh felt refreshed. Look! Lilly is my sister! My sister is amazing! I have a sister! Do you have one?

Seeing his arrogant appearance, some of Josh's classmates wanted to beat him.

Just passing under a tree, someone suddenly called Lilly. "Lilly!"

Lilly turned her head and raised her eyebrows. "Alban."

Has Alban been waiting here for a week?

Alban had been waiting here for a week. He did not do anything except return to see Tia. He was waiting for Lilly.

"I've been waiting for you here for a week," Alban said calmly. "You should know that too. I want to talk to you."

Josh sneered. Is this a moral kidnapping?

Alban had waited for Lilly for a week. So if she did not talk to him, she was wrong. That was what he meant.

However, Alban's sincerity could only touch himself. Josh and Hannah immediately brought Lilly away. "Lilly, let's go!"

Hannah turned around and threatened Alban, "Don't let me see you again!"

Alban did not bother. He only watched Lilly being silently carried away by Josh and Hannah.

He felt helpless. He waited for Lilly so sincerely, but she did not appreciate it.

In Alban's view, the ladies and young masters of the Crawford family had never experienced hardships in the world. They did not know that some people had exhausted their best efforts to live, so they were born with a kind of arrogance. They did not think about others and gave them opportunities. But Alban would not give up.

He had expected to get rejected, so he went to the Crawford family again to meet Lilly.

After Lilly got home, she heard Jack say someone wanted to see her.

"It was a 15-year-old boy who called himself Alban Knox. He said, "You know him."

Lilly snorted. "I do know him."

She did not want to see Alban. But she might return to the underworld in a few days, so she agreed to see him.

"What exactly do you want?" Lilly said when she saw Alban, "I'm different from you. I won't give you what you want."

After a pause, she added, "I won't give you anything, even if you pay!"

She liked money very much. Although she did not need to use money in the underworld, she still liked it. But she understood that liking had limits.

Alban sighed. "Can't we get to know each other again? I admit that I was rude before."

Chapter 1124 Your Thoughts Are Too Holy

Alban wanted to pretend that the previous events had never happened.

Lilly sneered when she heard that. "Rude?"

She sat on a chair and looked at Alban with a frown. She showed a sacred and inviolable power invisibly.

Alban said sincerely, "Yes, I was rude before. When I saw you all for the first time, I regarded you as idle rich kids and thought that everything you got didn't require your efforts but from the elders."

Alban remembered when he stood outside the school auditorium and watched the video of her math competition. Only then did he realize how seriously he had misunderstood. Lilly was not only talented and mighty but also had a high IQ.

"Now I know you're not idle. You've been working so hard..."

Lilly interrupted him, "Stop!" She did not want to hear any kind words from him.

"What you said is only the prejudice of people toward people. You don't know me, so the prejudices are understandable. But do you think we don't like you and won't be friends with you just because of prejudice?"

Alban was stunned when he heard that. "Otherwise?"

Suddenly, he remembered that he had hurt Ivan once in the Abyss of Ghosts.

Alban blurted out, "Is it because of Ivan Shaw?"

He looked at Lilly silently. Her eyes were clear, and he could vaguely tell she would be beautiful in a few years.

Even now that she was only eight years old, Alban asked, "You like Ivan?"

Lilly was speechless. Of course, she liked Ivan. She would not be friends with the person she hated. How could he ask such a stupid question?

Lilly answered, "Of course I like Ivan, but I don't like you."

Alban frowned. "You're still young. Why do you like him?"

With such great talent, shouldn't she spend her whole life becoming stronger? She thinks about love instead!

Alban did not hope Lilly, who had strength and power, would eventually become a man's vassal!

"You're wasting your talent," Alban said disappointedly.

Lilly frowned. She did not understand what he meant.

Alban added, "Isn't it unfair to hold hostility toward me just because you like Ivan?"

"Are you crazy?" Lilly looked at Alban in confusion.

She did not mean to scold him. She was indeed asking if he had crazy thoughts.

Alban was not annoyed, nor did he show any sarcasm. "I've been waiting for you for a week and sincerely want to get to know you again. I hope to clear up the misunderstanding. I must survive. I have a younger sister. I think it's irrational if you're hostile to me because you like Ivan."

Lilly had never met anyone like Alban.

"I'm hostile to you, not because of Ivan." Lilly looked at him coldly. "Even if it's someone else, my prejudice will remain the same unless everyone should punish that person."

Alban argued for himself, "Am I wrong? I don't believe you wouldn't fight for it if you were in a crisis with only one chance to survive."

Lilly stood up. "I don't like you because you have such a concept; you are extremely selfish and narrow-minded. Of course, I'll fight for it. If I don't know that person, I'll only take the chance of survival, but I won't hurt that person or put him to death to ensure I'm safe!"

Alban stared at her. "What if that person is mean?"

Lilly also stared at him. "What if he's not?"

Alban refused to give up. "When I don't know him, it's natural for me to think of him as a mean person! We can never trust human nature!"

Lilly retorted, "You treat a person as despicable just because you don't know him. What's the difference between you and Cheryl? You never believed in human nature. That's why you have no humanity!"

Alban thought Lilly was nonsense.

At least I protect and give everything to my sister! Would I care about my family if I had no humanity?

"Your thoughts are too holy," Alban said.

Chapter 1125 We're Not on the Same Path

Alban never believed that Lilly did not love Ivan.

She was unfair to him because of Ivan, or she would understand his situation and agree with his words. They were different from mortals. Everything they would face would depend on strength and power.

She knew she could not be holy but was still hostile to him because she fell in love with Ivan.

Alban was disappointed in Lilly, but she was powerful. He still wanted to use her mirror to travel between the two worlds.

So Alban said, "Forget it. We can't reach a consensus. I only want to tell you that I'm not that bad. Can you get to know me again? I have a younger sister who needs to be taken care of. So I want to use your shuttle mirror to go back and forth between the two worlds. If possible, I'm even willing to be your subordinate. You can treat me as a servant."

Lilly left without looking back. "We're not on the same path."

Servant? I dare not.

Since Alban's concept was so, he might frame her when they were both in danger.

After all, he wanted to stand at the top and prevent anyone from hurting him and his sister. He used everything he could to pave the way for himself. There was nothing wrong with it.

Whether anything happened only depended on whether the benefits were big enough. Such a person, let alone a servant, would run away when she met Alban afterward.

Alban's sister was indeed pitiful, and Alban's treatment of his sister was indeed impeccable. But if his way were to hurt people, the social order would be chaotic.

Everyone had unavoidable reasons for leaving for the sake of their families or themselves. It was customary to abide by social order, laws, and regulations. That was why they had a peaceful life. It was the rule of the world.

If only the strong could live, there would always be fighting in this society, and the weak would suffer. Everyone would pursue the most extreme self-interest, and humanity would disappear and cease to exist. People would no longer be people.

Lilly figured it out and had a view of humanity. Suddenly, she felt something loose.

Lilly hurriedly rushed back to the house. Bettany asked, "Lilly, what's wrong?"

Lilly yelled, "Granny! I'm in a hurry!"

"Huh? Okay!"

Lilly ran upstairs, and Bettany followed subconsciously. She had already understood what Lilly said about being unable to hold back.

She understood Lilly would leave again.

So Bettany had a sense of loss. After following up to the second floor, she looked at Lilly's slightly open door and did not move a step for a long time.

Josh and Zachary followed suit. Josh talked excitedly, "Looks like Lilly is about to upgrade again! Alban gave Lilly a boost!"

Zachary said, "Alban isn't good."

Josh said, "Just avoid him. Be more wary of him when we meet him in the future."

Soon, they saw a golden light shining in Lilly's room.

Bettany remembered that she was dazzled after the golden light came on that day and saw Lilly disappear. It looked like Lilly had left again.

She sighed, closed the door, and said, "Let's go. Don't disturb Lilly."

Josh and Zachary looked at the door eagerly, but Lilly's upgrade was important. So they resisted the urge to take a peek.

After Bettany went downstairs, she told Jack, "Tell everyone not to enter Lilly's room."

Jack nodded.

Bettany secretly thought. Forget it. I still have to watch it myself. I'll lock Lilly's room later.

...

Lilly's upgrade was quick this time.

She originally wanted to go back to the Palace of Emperor Prosper through the World Mirror to upgrade. After all, there was a lot of spirit aura and energy, but she could not hold back. She sat cross-legged on the floor when she entered the room and fell into an epiphany.

Bettany did not know about it.

Chapter 1126 Upgrade Herself

Everyone saw that Bettany was the same as before. She sat quietly by the window and looked outside. No one dared to disturb her.

Josh ran back to the room with Zachary and Hannah. When Hannah returned to her room, she took out her automatic writing pen and started studying hard.

After all, according to Lilly's description, digging through the two worlds was more difficult than digging a well.

Bettany sat in disappointment for a while and finally felt a little better, then slowly stood up and murmured, "I'll go up to lock the door. The weather forecast says it'll be sunny tomorrow. I'll wash Lilly's bed sheet and quilt cover... "

Hugh comforted her by saying, "It's been sunny for the past few days. You can rest for two days before washing."

Bettany muttered, "You know nothing!"

Hugh rubbed his nose. No matter what I say, I'll get scolded.

When Bettany walked to Lilly's room, she could not help but stop. She felt sad as she might not see Lilly for a few years.

However, when she opened the door, she froze.

In the room, Lilly sat cross-legged on the carpet quietly. There was a faint golden light on her body, and her expression was calm. It was a scene Bettany had never seen before.

In Bettany's imagination, Lilly always slept in the open when she went out, ate poorly, and was tired every day.

Now she suddenly discovered that everything was not as bad as she imagined.

Looking at the golden light on Lilly's body, Bettany felt her heaviness quietly dissipate for some reason. She closed the door softly and went downstairs cheerfully.

At the same time, she gave stricter orders. No one could go to Lilly's room or talk near her door. In short, everyone must be quiet.

Margaret and the other maids were in confusion. Hugh hesitated to speak. He wanted to ask what was wrong.

Of course, Bettany would not talk about Lilly to anyone, including Hugh. She only rolled her eyes gracefully. "You know nothing!"

Hugh was speechless. She scolded me even if I didn't speak.

...

Lilly's epiphany was peaceful this time.

She deduced the Golden Runes that made up the elevator and saw the golden lines that made up the garden rockery. When she had this epiphany, she saw the world's rules.

In her world centered on her, she repeatedly deduced the laws of human nature, survival, and the endless life of all things. She was extremely calm, saw everything clearly, and finally grasped a trace of The Order!

That was a trace of The Order belonging to the real world in the Three Realms and Six Paths!

She did not know that a golden light covered her body when she realized this trace of The Order.

Lilly felt that her body parts and meridians became more regular, and the meridians doubled in size, just like the universe.

Her meridians were equivalent to a whole new universe.

Due to this change, Lilly's purple sphere had also become more mysterious. The slowly rotating purple sphere was full of spirit energy before. It suddenly compressed by half, and the purple elixir field condensed into the shape of a bead. It was half empty, leaving only the bottom of the bead filled with purple.

Those purples were the convergence of Lilly's spirit energy, which was her strength.

Lilly suddenly had an understanding. Now the purple spirit energy in the elixir field was like compressed food.

It used to be a big cake. Lilly ate half of it to gain strength.

Now it had become a compressed biscuit. Lilly only needed to take one bite to gain strength. If she cultivated her spirit energy and completed the supply of biscuits, others could fight one person with one bite, but she could fight ten people with one bite.

Will I be invincible if I understand all the rules of the Three Realms and Six Paths? That's cool!

Lilly completed another upgrade!

She felt hungry when she opened her eyes, but her face was rosy.

"I'm hungry!" Lilly wanted to eat.

Meanwhile, she looked out the window and realized that it was dark. Did I sit for a day and a night?

Lilly felt refreshed and not tired, so she subconsciously thought it was only a day and a night.

"Forget it. Only hungry for a day. I can bear it." The others must still be sleeping. She did not want to wake them up.

Suddenly, Lilly found snacks, small cakes, a bowl of syrup, and a cup of milk tea on the table.

Lilly hurried over and ate them. The food still tasted fresh. The tray on which the syrup was placed had a semi-automatic heat preservation function, and the ice cubes were still intact.

So Lilly took it for granted that she only cultivated for a day and thought Bettany prepared the food for her yesterday.

"World Mirror, how many days have passed?" Lilly asked while eating.

Chapter 1127 The Awakening of King of Hell

The World Mirror answered, "Ms. Hades, you've been cultivating for two months. It's 5.30 a.m. now. The sky will soon be bright!"

Lilly was surprised. "What?" She had been cultivating for more than two months!

Moreover, Lilly keenly sensed that the name the World Mirror called her had changed. She used to be called Little Hades. Now it called her Ms. Hades.

"I'm officially on my way, right?"

The World Mirror did not expect Lilly to find the truth in one sentence.

"Yes, Ms. Hades!" A cute emoji appeared in the World Mirror.

Lilly made the calculations in her mind. She studied and participated in a competition within two weeks. Then she cultivated for two months.

So she stayed in the mortal world for almost three months.

Blake and Jean had not been in the underworld for a month yet, but they were almost there. Lilly would stay with Bettany for a few more days and return to the underworld.

...

Underworld, Sixth Palace.

The King of Transformation was writing something on the royal desk.

Suddenly, he felt the whole underworld seemed different.

That was only an instant, but the King of Transformation was mighty. So he quickly realized the difference, stood up abruptly, and hurried to a dark hall.

Small starlights were inside, and dark lights shuttled back and forth among the starlights while bursting out bright lights from time to time.

The King of Transformation stared at it like he was stargazing for a long time, then said in astonishment,

"Has Little Hades returned?"

It's only been less than a month!

Lilly was indeed a talented girl. Not long ago, she was hunted down by the King of Cities, and the King of Reincarnation was always looking for opportunities to plot against her.

Unexpectedly, she quietly upgraded and became the true ruler of Hell.

"As long as she comes back again, she can return to her position at any time." The King of Transformation sighed while thinking that Lilly was great.

There would be a good show in the underworld afterward.

...

The King of Reincarnation stayed in his palace. He had already handed over the affairs to his subordinates.

He missed the chance to kill Blake last time and still felt unreconciled. He would have succeeded if the King of Transformation had not blocked him!

The King of Reincarnation looked sullen and sneered. "No one can stop me this time!"

Neither did the King of Transformation!

The King of Reincarnation had swallowed all his preserved elixirs in the past month.

Although the strength of the upgrade would be higher if using elixir while encountering opportunities, the King of Reincarnation could not wait.

He wanted to seize the time to intercept and kill Blake while no one knew Blake's situation!

It did not matter if you used all the elixirs. If the King of Reincarnation could kill the unawakened Emperor Prosper, The Order of the Underworld would bless him. He would not have to worry about breaking through in the future.

At that time, everyone could only respect him!

The Golden Pill of Good Fortune is powerful." The King of Reincarnation felt surprised. "In less than a month, my strength has increased by one realm."

The underworld rules were not clear enough, and the division of the realm of the Hell Ruler was not clear.

If the King of Reincarnation divided it into early, middle, and late realms, then he and the King of Transformation should have been in the Middle Hades Realm before, but now they were in the Late Hades Realm!

The King of Reincarnation had confidence, but he needed a chance. He wanted to force Blake and the others out of Northin Land!

Even if the King of Transformation blocked him, he could kill the King of Transformation, Blake, and Lilly together!

It was strength! The power of the Golden Pill of Good Fortune!

"Unfortunately, the quality of this Golden Pill of Good Fortune isn't enough. I can be even stronger if it's high-quality. Maybe I can break through Hades Realm and surpass Hell Ruler..."

The King of Reincarnation suppressed his aura, disguised his strength as before, and quietly took action.

Lilly ate the little cake and drank the syrup and the milk tea. Only then did she not feel hungry anymore. She stroked her stomach comfortably and sighed.

"Granny must have prepared new food for me every day. Am I right, World Mirror?"

The World Mirror flickered and refracted the scenes of Bettany these days, just like a video.

Lilly's room was a suite with a bed, a sofa, and a side table.

On the first day of Lilly's closed-door cultivation, Bettany crept around to avoid Lilly and put food on the side table.

When she left, she sprained her ankle a bit because she was nervous. Although she did not make a noise, she was startled.

The next day, Bettany took off her shoes and came in. She even wore thick socks on a hot day to avoid any noise.

Next, she repeated the same thing and almost prepared different food every day.

Lilly felt her heart warm. She hugged the World Mirror as if hugging Bettany. Granny is the best.

Lilly originally wanted to wait for Bettany to wake up and make breakfast with her, but she collapsed on the sofa with the World Mirror in her arms and fell asleep unconsciously.

Chapter 1128 How Is Aunt Lisa?

Bettany got up early in the morning to make breakfast.

Hugh went to exercise refreshed. He did not know if it was an illusion but felt his physical fitness had returned to that of youth.

Then he wanted to take Bettany with him, but Bettany was busy making breakfast and ignored him.

"Lilly is at home. If she's hungry and comes out to find food, it's not too late for you to make it!"

Hugh felt distressed that Bettany had to get up early every morning to cook. He was a little worried.

Bettany snorted. "You know nothing."

So Hugh shut up. Bettany had been getting too lazy to talk to him lately.

Bettany made millet cereal and then told Margaret to take it aside to keep it at about 30 degrees, so it would not be too hot or cold. Lilly could eat it right after she woke up. Then Bettany made some sandwiches.

She also made fried chicken. She washed the chicken and started frying it. Although it was only fried chicken, Bettany made preparations before 6 a.m.

Margaret said, "Mrs. Crawford, I can make fried chicken. You don't need to wake up so early."

Bettany responded, "I want to make it myself."

Margaret and the other maids did not know Lilly was in the room. After all, it was too bizarre not to go out for two months without any movement.

It would be even more bizarre to say Lilly was in the room because of her poor health. Bettany only entered the room once, and no one else was allowed to enter the room at other times, so Margaret and the other maids thought Lilly was away again.

Margaret comforted herself, saying, "Maybe Little Miss will come back today. You'd better take care of your health."

However, Margaret also knew that every time Lilly went out for a long time, it would be one or two years. They did not ask about the details, as they knew they should not ask about some matters in the Crawford family.

Bettany and Margaret made breakfast as usual and shouted, "Breakfast is ready!"

The rest of the Crawford family went downstairs one after another. Hannah looked like she was still sleepy; Josh walked slowly; Drake was straight and elegant.

Anthony looked at his phone. He had something to do these days. Lisa was in Hallow County now. So he would go to Hallow County later.

Suddenly, Lilly's room door opened. A familiar and cheerful voice sounded, "I'm coming!"

Everyone stopped for an instant and turned to look upstairs.

Josh was dumbfounded. Hannah rubbed her eyes, thinking she was dreaming. Drake lost his composure and asked in surprise, "Lilly?"

Bettany did not expect it. After two months, she finally received a response from Lilly. She woke up!

Bettany almost cried with joy and hurried over. Lilly also ran downstairs and hugged her.

"Granny, I'm hungry!" Lilly said.

Bettany's eyes were moist. "I've already made breakfast! Lilly, when did you wake... When did you come back? You didn't even tell me."

Margaret was also surprised. "Yes, Little Miss! You scare me! Why didn't you say anything when you came back?"

Lilly raised her head, and her voice was crisp and sweet. "When I came back, it was midnight! Uh... Uncle Anthony picked me up."

Anthony returned to his senses and nodded. "Yes, it was too late. So I didn't disturb you all."

Margaret was happy and hurriedly said, "Little Miss, come eat! Mrs. Crawford has been waiting for you for a long time!"

The Crawford Mansion instantly became lively. Hannah was no longer sleepy and chattered around Lilly non-stop. Josh and Drake served Lilly food.

Zachary usually did not wake up before he was about to leave for school. He bounced up when he heard Lilly's voice and quickly washed himself to join them.

Lilly ate fast. She soon ate cereal, sandwiches, fried chicken, and a poached egg.

Bettany breathed a sigh of relief. Fortunately, she prepared food every day. Lilly looked happy while eating.

Bettany asked Lilly, "How long will you be out this time?"

Lilly said, "Granny, I'll go out in a few days..."

Bettany paused. Well, Lilly has been at home for almost three months this time. I should be content.

Anthony chose to stay home for the day. As he was worried about Lisa, he decided to go to Hallow County the next day.

Lilly asked, "Uncle Anthony, have you followed Aunt Lisa?"

Anthony nodded. "I'm worried about leaving Lisa alone."

When Lisa went to Mount Cape, he went to the small town at the foot of Mount Cape to wait for her; when she went to the East Coast, he went to the village beside the East Coast.

He could not help her with anything but would not make trouble. All he could do was accompany her.

"How is the baby in Aunt Lisa's belly? Has the baby grown?" Lilly suddenly asked.

Speaking of which, even Hugh looked over. Anthony looked at Lilly and said, "The baby has grown."

Bettany was shocked. "What? Has Lisa's belly finally gotten bigger? Why didn't you tell us?"

Anthony said, "I'm afraid you'll be worried."

Bettany had already cared about Lilly. If she cared about Lisa, he was worried that Bettany's body would not be able to bear the hard work.

Bettany asked, "How is she now? Tell her not to climb the mountain or go to the forest alone. In case something happens and no one knows..."

Lilly did a divination and said, "Granny, don't worry! Aunt Lisa will always be safe! Nothing will happen!"

Bettany let out a sigh of relief. "That's good."

Lilly would be leaving. Although Bettany would no longer be as worried and frightened as before, she would still feel empty.

Now Bettany had something else to do. She would start preparing things and the room for the newborn.

She did not know if Lisa could breastfeed or rest. Could Lisa raise the child until kindergarten?

If not, Bettany had to start thinking about how to care for the newborn and how to breastfeed. In short, she would be busy.

Her life would not become so tormented only when she was busy.

Josh stroked his chin and said while thinking, "Lilly, my mom's belly didn't get bigger before. Did the fetus start to grow after my mom ate your souvenir? If so, can I still grow taller if I eat those souvenirs?"

Although his height was fixed at ten years old, anything was possible. He hoped he could become taller!

Lilly ran fast. "Josh, you're not the same as the baby! Don't think about it!"

Halfway through the run, she suddenly stopped and said, "Granny, I'll go out next Monday!"

Bettany thought Lilly would leave this week, but there were two more days, so she quickly said, "Okay!"

Anthony suddenly had a different feeling, and his heart could not help but tense up inexplicably.

...

In Hallow County, Lisa came out of the grand canyon next to Apex Mountain with some leaves and grass on her body. She was dusty.

She glanced at her belly and poked it. "It's weird. You become bigger."

The baby did not grow in the first few months but grew wildly in the next three months, like blowing up a balloon.

After thinking about it, she said, "You're the same as Lilly."

Every time she saw Lilly, she grew up. The baby in her belly suddenly moved as if he had kicked Lisa.

Lisa felt surprised. "Wow, you grow legs!"

The baby in her womb was speechless.

Lisa suddenly did not feel alone. Although she would see Anthony every time she went back, or he would accompany her to the forest and wait outside, the baby was with her.

Wherever she went, the baby also went with her in her belly. She was happy!

Lisa talked to herself while patting her belly and soon left Apex Mountain. She walked quickly and did not get tired. After a while, she reached Hallow County.

The Crawford family had a suite in Hallow County. Anthony said it was also their home, so she had a home to return to when she came here.

"Imperial Condo..."

Lisa took out her phone. Anthony taught her how to read a map, and she was proficient now. Seeing that Anthony sent a location on WhatsApp, Lisa clicked on navigation. It's so close. Just two kilometers away.

Lisa put away her phone and continued walking happily. Suddenly, a boy appeared in front of her and stopped her.

The boy looked fifteen years old. He was not as tall or handsome as her sons, but he looked familiar, as if she had seen him somewhere.

Lisa was confused. She did not expect the boy opposite to ask first, "Who are you?"

Lisa asked back, "Who are you?"

Alban frowned. Looking at Lisa, he also felt a little familiar.

After arguing with Lilly and being driven away by her, he waited unwillingly for half a month, only to find that Lilly did not seem to be in the Crawford Mansion anymore.

Lilly did not appear in the daily life of the Crawford family. Alban knew Lilly might use that mirror to go to the underworld again.

He was disappointed, so he had to return first and continue to go to Apex Mountain to find the way to the underworld. But unfortunately, he still could not find it.

He went to some places with legends to find the relics of ancient immortals.

He did not know if immortals existed in ancient times, but some remaining relics could let him cultivate them. A grass, a tree vine, or an unremarkable stone, but the probability was small.

Alban had cultivated through this method, and now he had found all the places he could. He had no choice but to search for a way into another world.

Lisa saw Alban guarding against her. Hmph, he takes the initiative to come over but guards against me. I'll ignore him.

Lilly and Anthony told Lisa that she could ignore some things and people.

Seeing Lisa walking straight away, Alban chased after her. "Wait a minute..."

Alban felt something different about Lisa. Alban felt Lisa should be the same as him. She was also a cultivator.

Alban looked at Lisa's belly. She's even pregnant.

He suddenly felt a little disdainful. There were many talented people in the world. Although he could not tell how many cultivators like him were in this world, he thought there would be no more than a hundred.

With such a rare qualification, she doesn't cultivate, but falls in love and gets pregnant. She's wasting her talent.

Of course, he would not say anything. After all, it was Lisa's business. He only looked down on her.

Lisa frowned at Alban and asked displeasely, "What are you trying to do? Don't force me to hit you."

She would have slapped him if Alban were not the same age as Drake. No one dared stop her before.

Alban also saw Lisa's impatience. So he asked, "Are you a cultivator too? Where did you find the cultivated resources?"

Lisa was surprised and suddenly understood. "You're Alban Knox."

Alban shuddered and immediately became more defensive.

Lisa sneered. "Lilly is right. I must stay away from you!"

She snorted and walked faster this time. Alban chased her all the way but failed to catch up.

What did she say? She knows Lilly!

Alban finally remembered who that woman was. That was Lilly's aunt, Lisa McCarthy!

Anthony's wedding was grand back then, and Alban saw Lisa while watching videos.

"I see..." Alban pursed his lips when he watched Lisa enter the Imperial Condo.

Anyone who knew Lilly could get benefits.

Alban felt even more disappointed. He could only turn around and leave, but the unwillingness in his heart grew a little more.

He would not be so anxious if he had never possessed abilities different from those of ordinary people. After gaining superpower-like strength, he could no longer give up.

The kind of supreme tyranny with which he could kill mortals made him want to pursue a higher realm.

...

Lisa came home and found that the lights were on. She was overjoyed and ran into the bedroom quickly.

"I'm back!" Lisa was ready to give Anthony a big hug.

"Huh?" She found no one in the bedroom, but there was the sound of water in the bathroom.

Lisa happily ran over, opened the door, and opened her arms again. "I'm back!"

Anthony, who was taking a shower, was speechless. Soon, Lisa took a shower with him.

After that, they wore their pajamas. Anthony told her some things about the family, especially Lilly's situation.

He gently touched Lisa's belly before experiencing a child kick. He froze involuntarily. It's amazing.

Lisa lay on the bed and said, "I saw Alban just now. He stopped me."

Anthony frowned. "Why did he stop you?"

Lisa repeated what Alban had asked her. "But he didn't pester me."

Anthony said lightly, "Because he doesn't know he can only live until eighteen."

About Alban, Lilly also roughly told him. Anthony remembered Lilly asking him if she was right about Alban.

"If he knew that he would only live until eighteen, he would not give up so easily."

After all, it was just that what threatened him was not deadly enough. He now felt he was still a teenager and had already walked a path most people could not tread.

As long as he felt satisfied, he would not steal anything from others. But if he knew he could only live until eighteen, his behavior would intensify on the current basis, become more extreme, and become more self-interested.

Lisa nodded. "You're right."

Anthony lay beside her and stroked her belly gently. "Let's sleep early. Mom told you to avoid going to the mountains, forests, and cliffs. Let's go back to Clodston tomorrow."

Anthony, who was cold and stern in the eyes of outsiders, had more gentleness after years.

Lisa wondered. "Why do we go back..."

Oh, why did I become stupid? Lilly is at home!

Lisa suddenly sat up. "I want to go back! Go back now!"

She got out of bed impatiently and was about to change clothes, but her foot tripped over the carpet beside the bed, and she was about to fall to the ground.

Anthony's pupils shrank in horror.
