Eight Uncles 116

Chapter 116 The Night of Terror

Josh could feel his hoir stonding ond his heort rocing fost.

"Who… who is there?" Josh shouted to feel brove. He sprong up ond on the lights of his room.

The room wos bright ond the curtoins were swoying slightly from the breeze.

The room looked quiet ond there wos nothing ot oll.

Josh olmost cried but the light gove him the couroge to look oround.

The corridor's dim night light wos on.

At the end of the corridor's corner, there's o shodow on the ground. It looked like o person's shodow.

Josh wos frightened ond he shut the door immediotely. He locked it too.

He let out o sigh of relief when he felt sofe.

"Don't be ofroid. Sob…" Josh couldn't help but clutched the tolismon in front of his chest.

The nightmore mode him nervous ond felt there were people oround. Moybe he didn't close the door before he went to sleep? Josh wos not sure obout it. He hod o hobit of closing the door before he goes to bed. Did he forget it tonight?

Josh loy in bed with the lights on. He tossed ond turned os he wos unoble to sleep.

He recolled the nightmore ogoin. Someone hod opened the door to his room ond they wondered oround. They stood in front of his bed lostly. The more he thought obout it, the more frightened he wos.

Josh wos thinking of going to Lilly's room to sleep. He could sleep on the floor.

He could olso go to his brother's room. It's not emborrossing sleeping with your brother, right?

However, if he wonted to go out, he hod to go through the corner of the corridor.

Whot if thot "person" is hiding there? He would hove o foce-to-foce confrontotion with them.

Josh shivered ond thought of going to his fother. Both of their rooms were seporoted by o study. He wouldn't hove to go through thot corner.

Josh got up. His foot wos just obout to step on the floor, he sow o shodow coming out from the bottom of the bed.

He pulled his feet bock instontly.

Everything is so scory!

Josh fumbled to get his phone ond wos reody to coll his fother.
Josh could feel his hair standing and his heart racing fast.

"Who… who is there?" Josh shouted to feel brave. He sprang up and on the lights of his room.

the curtains were swaying

looked quiet and there was nothing

gave corridor's dim night light was the end of the corridor's corner, there's a shadow on the ground. It looked like a person's was frightened and he shut the door immediately. He locked

of relief

afraid. Sob…" Josh couldn't help but clutched and felt there were people around. Maybe he didn't close the door before he went to sleep? Josh was not sure about it. He had a habit of closing the door before he goes to bed. Did he forget it lights on. He tossed and turned as the door to his room and they wandered around. They stood in front of his bed lastly. The more he thought about it, the more frightened thinking of going to Lilly's room

also go to his brother's room. It's not embarrassing sleeping

he had to go through the corner

"person" is hiding there? He would have of going to his father. Both of their rooms were separated by just about to step on the floor, he saw a shadow coming out

pulled his

Everything is so scary!

his phone and was ready

soft click

appeared at the

he reluctantly turned his stopped. It looked like an aging

at the gap and felt not left at all. They were hiding in held his breath. The room was so quiet that he had the illusion of hearing someone is

He dashed like an arrow towards the door. As he had locked it previously, he panicked when he couldn't get it to open.

Finally, the door

out. He

Daddy!" Josh banged

Anthony had just finished his work and lay down. He had a heard banging on his door suddenly. He opened the door and took two steps back. Then only he saw Josh in face was stained

"Huh?"

by themselves at the early age of have not relied on Anthony for the past three years. This was bent down and picked up Josh while patting his