Chapter 1161 They Both Fell Down The Abyss

The mystery person stared coldly at the lady before him.

The daughter of Emperor Prosper...

As if she even deserved the title!

Even though he deeply disliked the spawn Emperor Prosper had birthed, this girl here was nowhere near her.

The mystery person's gaze flashed with disdain. He raised a foot and kicked Serene down the abyss.

Serene screamed.

Alban was beside himself with shock. Serene was actually the daughter of Emperor Prosper.

His mind raced for ways to relate himself to her, only to see her get kicked down the abyss the very next second.

"!!!"

Alban's mind was spilling with thoughts, but the ultimate one was:

Serene was far too foolish!

She had just exposed her identity without knowing who she was dealing with. What if this person was an enemy of Emperor Prosper?

She had just gotten herself into trouble!

At the same time, Alban realized that he was in trouble too. He had just seen this person push Serene into the abyss, and they were sure to kill him.

Chapter 1162

The mystery person stared at the underground city, completely empty and bare.

His gaze flashed blankly.

He remembered that the underground city was still perfectly intact when he had been chasing that mortal guy down!

The mortal had just taken the scepter and the heart away.

Everything else had still been there...

There had been many, many things too...

The mystery person had only come across them after a long, long time down here...!

How could they have disappeared just like that?

The mystery person could not, for the life of him, figure it out, only drawing one conclusion:

He had been going the wrong way!

That mortal tricked him!

The mortal had just vanished before his eyes, and there was no way he could have gotten that far! The mystery person had even tried checking the bottom of the Abyss of Ghosts!

It seemed like the mortal had not vanished at all and had just teleported to the cave as a trick...

How had he managed to teleport, though?

The cave was where Emperor Greenbow had stowed his treasures.

The only explanation was that the mortal was the reincarnation of Emperor Greenbow!

The mystery person knew just how powerful the mortal had been, and there was no way the mortal could have escaped on his own. Which meant it was the scepter that had taken him away.

The scepter only listened to Emperor Greenbow, which further strengthened this point. Also, Emperor Greenbow would have definitely foreshadowed what happened today.

The mystery person was overcome with frustration. How could he have been so careless?

He was going to lose his mind!

Lilly did not know if these were any good, but her daddy had said they had been used to fix a hole in the heavens!

She'd just take them with her first!

Lilly moved at the speed of lightning, terrified that someone else might come along and cause her to miss out on anything.

Within ten minutes, she had packed up the entire underground city into her spirit jar.

Had she been powerful enough, she would have been able to take everything away with just a wave of her hands... She still had to run a little.

"Daddy!" Sweat beaded at Lilly's forehead, but her eyes were shining. "What else is there? Can I take this temple too? Can I take that big square over there too?"

She was talking about the base of the scepter.

Those were the only two things left.

Lilly did not know what everything else was.

But since the graves themselves were made of precious stone, the plants would surely be of value as well. She would take them too, thank you very much!

Blake caught her little hand. "Wait, let's see if there was a message left behind..."

Lilly frowned. "A message?"

Blake said vaguely, "Oh, it's from an old friend of mine. He might have been here before us; I was just thinking of seeing if he left a message of sorts for us."

Lilly nodded in understanding. "What a nice man!"

He had been here before but had not taken any of these treasures at all!

Blake was worried that whoever had been here would come back. After all, this person definitely knew that Emperor Greenbow had left everything here for Lilly.

They also knew that it was not only Emperor Greenbow who had left things behind for Lilly.

These things would only appear in front of Lilly, and the person had somehow gotten this far.

They were going to have to move quickly.

"Let's go, Lilly!" Blake spoke in a low voice.

Outside the temple, Lilly waved her hands furiously as she took the temple away brick by brick before they left.

Only the base of the scepter was left. Blake peeked inside and saw everything there the way it was: rows of pills, herbs, and other treasures.

Everything was here.

Blake's chest tightened even more, feeling like danger was close.

He took everything away in one move, with Lilly picking up everything that was left behind.

Blake and Lilly left the cave completely bare, without even a single brick...

Lilly's voice could still be heard. "Daddy, why does everyone like hiding their things in caves?"

“Who’s a good baby? You are, Matt!” Lilly cooed.
Matt said, “Waah...”

Blake was a little irked, if he was being honest.

The shameless old geezer!

Blake said, "Regardless of what happens, it's time you returned to the underworld."

The traitor had appeared, and there was no time to waste living peacefully in the mortal realm.

Blake was a little sad.

Pablo thought to himself: The kid's most carefree days were spent in the past few years catching ghosts in the mortal realm.

Lilly nodded. "Got it."

Matthan pursed his lips as if he were about to cry, and Lilly hurried downstairs to play with him some more.

Bettany's voice could be heard, asking Lilly if she wanted to eat something. Josh and the rest followed Lilly outside, playing with Matthan in the garden.

Jean was with Bettany in the kitchen. There was not much she could do, but she could at least keep the old woman company.

A cry sounded from the garden all of a sudden, and Bettany hurried out at once. Lisa was suddenly back and was tossing Matthan in the air!

She was going at it quite hard, and Matthan flew past the branches of the tree, scaring Polly. "What the hell, I almost got a heart attack from that!"

Lilly did not disappear into her room this time.

Lilly bid farewell to Bettany, Hugh, and her uncles when Hannah and the others went to school.

Margaret was older, so it was natural to nag. While giving Lilly food, she sighed. “You only returned for at few days and went out again. Little Miss, bring more food. Take all the food I made this morning!”

Lilly was dumbfounded and subconsciously took the big bag. “Thank you, Margaret.”

Margaret waved, Bettany hugged Matthan and watched the children leave. Anthony sent them to school, and Lisa followed.

The house was suddenly empty. Bettany felt unspeakably uncomfortable for a while.

At this time, Matthan grabbed her clothes, babbled, and gnawed on the clothes.

Bettany looked at him helplessly. “Okay, is it too quiet? I’ll take you for a walk.”

Bettany was nagging Matthan non-stop while getting things to take him to the supermarket. Her life became busy again. Only then did she dilute the sorrow of parting.

Before leaving, Lilly went to see her other master.

Underworld, Eighth Palace. A beautiful fish was in the pond. Its back was like a snow mountain, and it looked spiritual.

The King of Cities was captured by Lilly and taken to the Hell Ruler Palace. As he had ordered that no of could enter his palace, his fish were hungry for a long time without being fed.

Later, the King of Reincarnation came, and his eyes lit up when he saw the Ice-mount Fish.

“Hey, the King of Cities raised you here. It’s been a while since anyone came in to feed you. Are you starving to death?”

He was not as stupid as the King of Cities. The King of Cities did not eat the fish but fish feces. So the King of Reincarnation took advantage of it.

The King of Reincarnation especially took a demonic beast's bone and ground it into powder, mixed it with spirit grass, and planned to feed the fish to fatten up before eating.

Since he would eat Icemount Fish after feeding for a few days, he did not take the fish back. He felt it was too troublesome to build a fish pond, and it would be hard to explain if the others saw the fish.

The King of Reincarnation had long regarded Icemount Fish as his own and had worked hard to feed it for several days.

Today, he returned from the outside. He failed to find Lilly and Blake for several days and became impatient. So he planned to catch the Icemount Fish to increase his strength and see if he could sneak into the Northin Land.

At this moment, a golden light shone in the palace of the King of Cities. Lilly, Blake, Jean, and Pablo appeared in place.

Lilly said happily, "Daddy! Mommy! Master! Am I super powerful?"

Lilly sat on Hades' Throne with inviolable majesty and solemnity,

However, in the next second, Lilly put all the school homework on the royal desk. As the light in Hell Ruler Palace was not bright enough, she even took out a desk lamp.

The desk lamp got fully charged, and the battery capacity should be high. Hell's Ruler Palace had never been brighter.

Pablo's mouth twitched.

On both sides of Hell Ruler Palace were sculptures of the top ten dark generals, namely Beelzebub, Mammon, Asmodeus, Grim Reapers, Behemoth, Leviathan, Leopard Devil, Bird Devil, Fish Devil, and Insect Devil.

Among them, Grim Reapers belonged to one position, but there were two people in the position of Grim Reapers, namely the Black Grim Reaper and the White Grim Reaper.

So, people often debated whether the Grim Reapers were one or two people. It was a mixture of people and positions.

Just like Emperor Prosper ranked first in the underworld's position, in the entire underworld, there were other mighty people.

At this moment, eight of the statues of the top ten dark generals were bright.

After Lilly took out her stationery, she let the ghosts out.

The harem spirit was excited. "Wow, is Lilly finally back? From now on, I'll be the number one ghost general!"

The weakling spirit smiled. "Really?"

Chapter 1169 His Fish Is Here

The King of Transformation was holding a gift. Before he reached the Fifth Palace, he could smell the aroma of food from afar.

He was stunned. He had not smelled the mortal world's food for a long time. What he ate in the underworld were offerings, and he did not have much appetite to enjoy them after being a ghost.

It was the first time after his death that he smelled such a strong smell of the mortal world's food.

As soon as he stepped into the Hell Ruler Palace, he saw a group of people and ghosts busily serving dishes and setting tables.

The King of Transformation paused and looked at the gift box in his hand. He felt a little uncertain. The gift he brought to Lilly was a bracelet made of Neon gemstones.

There was a rumor that when Gaca repaired the sky, pieces of the immortality stone formed the Neon gemstone, which was helpful for The Order's epiphany. He also searched for a long time.

before finding this exquisite thing suitable for little girls.

He suddenly felt that his gift was somewhat out of date. Should he bring wine over here?

"Uncle George!" Lilly greeted the King of Transformation with a smile. "Welcome! Please come in! Harem, bring Uncle George in!"

The harem spirit shouted excitedly. "Hello, handsome! Please come in!"

The King of Transformation showed confusion and entered the palace in a daze.

The King of Reincarnation never expected Lilly to drive him away.

He frowned and asked, "King of Hell, I didn't do anything to offend you. You're ostracizing your colleague."

Lilly shrugged. "If you want to think so, I can't help it!"

The King of Reincarnation was speechless.

The ghost bride whispered, "Harem, why are Ms. Hades words familiar?"

The harem spirit stroked her chin. "Isn't this a quote from a scumbag?"

I can't help it if you think so.

Quotes that could piss off women in the mortal world could also make the King of Reincarnation angry.

"You...." He could not say a word of rebuttal. If he continued, he would look like he was pestering Lilly instead.

The King of Reincarnation said lightly, "I don't think I've done anything to offend you. You deliberately made things difficult and humiliated me today. You're the King of Hell, the head of the Ten Hell Rulers. I dare not refute you."

The meaning behind the words was that he had not done anything wrong, but Lilly used her power to overwhelm him. As a subordinate, he did not dare to say anything.

The King of Transformation could not take it anymore. He left the apse and sneered, "King of Reincarnation, are you sure you haven't done anything? Would you like me to talk about it?"
