

Eight Uncles 881

Chapter 881 I'm Afraid My Sister Will Be Cheated Away

Old Mrs. Crawford saw that everyone had misunderstood, and quickly said, "It's my fault. I mean Lilly is amazing..."

A genius, a born champion!

Although this might not be very important to Lilly, which parent could deny the sense of accomplishment that their child was a genius?

After listening to Old Mrs. Crawford and Drake's description, everyone was shocked.

On the spot, he took out the four great classics, Sun Tzu's Art of War, gave Lilly a random test, and found that she really had a photographic memory!

"It's unprecedented..." Hannah was amazed, her eyes were full of envy, "Your brain...can you share half of it with me?"

She looked at Lilly's head, and was utterly jealous!

Josh slapped her on the head, "You think it's watermelon, can you share it?"

Hannah hugged her head.

Darn it... When God was spreading wisdom to the world, why did she hide at that time?

After the weekend, Lilly went to school with his three brothers and one sister.

Lilly carried a small school bag and took a deep breath...

She cherished her school days so much! Of course it was good to go to school, there were not so many realities that were deeply rooted in the hearts of the people.

At present, Lilly still had to go to the underworld to practice, at least the sacred tree must be returned to the Phantom Cat.

So she would not go back to Hallow County for the time being, Zachary and Hannah also transferred here, anyway, the brothers and sisters just wanted to get together.

"Hi... Josh Crawford, this is your sister!" A little boy ran over.

He looked at Lilly in surprise. He had heard that Josh had a younger sister, but she never showed up.

The distribution of books and homework assignments in the first grade were all received by Josh and his brother.

So this was Josh's younger sister! She looked really cute.

Josh suddenly looked vigilant, "Stay away from my sister!"

After saying that, he immediately took Lilly's hand and left quickly.

Little boy, "???" What was wrong with him, he just said a word!

Josh took a few steps, and several classmates came up to him, "Josh! Is this your sister? Wow, your sister is so cute!"

Josh, "Go away!"

Classmates, "???"

Josh dragged Lilly all the way back to the classroom, and when he arrived in the classroom, he helped Lilly find his seat and sit down, and all the students around looked over again.

Everyone looked at this new classmate curiously, and Josh felt overwhelmed again. Now that his younger sister had new classmates and friends, would she stop clinging to his brother?

Hey, he was so pitiful.

"Lilly, you have to be serious in class and listen carefully... Don't talk to others, I mean you can't talk in class..."

"If you're bored after class, you can come and play with me. Forget it, I will come to you!"

Josh was like an old lady, and then left wiping away tears and waving a small handkerchief.

Lilly, "?"

As soon as Josh left, the classmates surrounded her immediately.

"Hello, are you new here? What's your name?"

"Which school did you go to before? Did you transfer here?"

The students looked at Lilly curiously.

Lilly, "My name is Lilly Crawford... I am not a transfer student, I have always been here..."

A little boy next to him laughed mischievously, "Leek? Big crunchy leek? So your name is big leek! When my mother scolded people, she always said, 'How stupid you are, like a useless leek!', you... Haha, how could you? It's hilarious that someone has that name!"

The first grade was the time when the boys liked to pull the girls' pigtails, play tricks, and also when they learned to "communicate" with language.

One could use language to make friends, or to provoke others. Children of this age, whether they were boys or girls, would subconsciously immerse themselves in the sense of accomplishment that language brought to them.

So they liked to call others nicknames, or they obviously did not like to hear this sentence, but they would insist on saying it.

So as soon as the little boy finished speaking, the other little boys laughed too, "Haha, your name is Big Leek! Then you are stupid!"

"Oh, I see. You are the classmate who hasn't come to our class. Do you not understand the teacher's lessons, is that why you haven't come?"

The female students covered their mouths and laughed.

A few other students said loudly, "Don't call others nicknames!"

"You bully new classmates, I'll tell the teacher!"

Lilly frowned, and said seriously, "I don't like this nickname, and it's wrong to call someone else a nickname, don't call me Big Leek anymore!"

A few mischievous male students were still smiling, and the more they were asked to stop, the more enthusiastic they became.

After laughing for a while, the head teacher came in, and everyone quickly settled down.

"Stand up!" The head teacher yelled, and the students all stood up with a whoosh.

Lilly didn't know the process, so she was half a beat slower than the others, but she quickly stood up.

The head teacher glanced at Lilly and frowned slightly.

She came by herself?

She had not come for a semester, so it stood to reason that the parents should say hello to her first, and now she was waiting outside, and she would lead her in and introduce her again.

"Lilly, did you come to school by yourself?" The head teacher picked up the roster.

Looking at this name, the more she looked at it, the more awkward it became.

Lilly replied, "My brother brought me here..."

A trace of displeasure flashed in the head teacher's eyes. She hated the students and parents who ignored her and did not follow the procedures.

Especially for this student who had been absent from school for a year, and now she was returning to class, logically speaking, the parents should "specially explain" to her, to show up and ask her for more attention.

However, Lilly's parents didn't express anything.

This head teacher had a strong desire to control, whether she was a parent or a student, she liked the more compliant ones. She also enjoyed receiving gifts. She did not represent the larger teachers community!

Chapter 882 Fighting

The head teacher took the roster and said, "Tell me about yourself! Does this name mean anything?"

The other students sat down, only Lilly was still standing, and replied, "My mother gave me this name..."

It was not easy to come up with a name for it, and she did not want to give up the word 'Lily' that her mother chose. Uncle and the others have tried their best to give her a nice name.

"Lilies are 6-petaled flowers in a variety of shapes (trumpet, funnel, cup, bell, bowl or flat), sometimes nodding, sometimes with reflexed petals, atop stiff, unbranched stems clothed with linear to elliptic leaves. Lilies are also very resilient, and symbolizes purity."

"My mother said that she hoped that I would be as adaptable and strong as the lilies, and sprout and grow quickly..."

The students who were a little noisy at the beginning couldn't help but wow when they heard that Lilly's name had this meaning.

Hallow County was in the south, and lilies were not common there, so it felt quite novel.

Only the head teacher nodded slightly, with an imperceptible contempt on the corner of his mouth, and then nodded routinely, "Very good, sit down!"

Most parents today had experienced ugly and old fashioned names back in their days, so when naming their children, they would choose some nice names this time around. This is especially true for parents in urban areas.

So in many cases, a child's family background could be told from the name alone. Of course, it was not absolute, but was accurate in most cases.

For a name like Lilly's... Which was named after a humble flower...

The head teacher felt that she could probably guess what family background she was from.

At the beginning of school, she would conduct family surveys for students, which simply asked about their situation.

If she remembered correctly, Lilly's grandmother said that they had just arrived in the county to buy a house.

The head teacher put down the roster indifferently, picked up the book, "Okay, class starts now."

Lilly felt a little strange, looking at the head teacher with an indescribable feeling.

She sat down and began class soon. The head teacher taught English, and Lilly had already started learning the language and grammar from Drake, so she understood what the teacher taught her very quickly.

Lilly secretly said in her heart: It seems that the elder brother taught her a little more interestingly, and the elder brother would also quote scriptures and tell her stories.

However, after thinking about it, it was normal. After all, her brothers and uncles also said that not every child like her could understand allusions now.

"Lilly!" The head teacher called out to her suddenly.

Lilly quickly regained consciousness and stood up, "Teacher!"

The head teacher looked displeased.

This student did not come to class for a semester, and it was said that she was studying at home.

She still did not pay attention to the lectures, why was she still distracted while in class?

It was hard to get the whole class together last semester, and she didn't want the new student to hold her back!

"Lilly, stand up and read the words on the blackboard!"

Lilly looked at the blackboard and read seriously, "Mountains, orchards, fields, green..."

The head teacher was a little surprised, but she read them all correctly, and the fluency...

She did not make any mistakes, so she could only say in a displeased manner, "Sit down, don't be distracted in class, and concentrate on listening to the class!"

Lilly, a good-looking kid who just came to school, nodded quickly.

However, such an innocent looking kid had other ideas behind the eyes of the head teacher.

Soon after class was over, the head teacher didn't pay too much attention to Lilly, and didn't ask the students to come up to formally introduce themselves like the opening ceremony of the new semester, and left the classroom.

As soon as the teacher left, the naughty boy started to be naughty again, gathering around Lilly's desk, mouthing a 'big leek'.

Lilly was very angry, "Stop yelling! This is very impolite!"

Male student, "Big leek is angry, hehehehe!"

Lilly stared at him, "If you do this again, I will tell my brother!"

Josh was concerned about Lilly, and came over immediately after class.

Drake, Zachary and Hannah were also with him.

Immediately after class, he sprinted to his sister's class, only to hear Lilly say, "If you do this again, I will tell my brother", and the little boy opposite her was doing all kinds of mischief, laughing and calling her Big Leek with his classmates.

Josh's anger flared up instantly!

The younger sister he had worked so hard to protect in his hands, was being bullied by someone?

Did they bother to ask if he agreed?

Josh rushed into the classroom without further ado, Hannah was faster than him, and rushed past in a few steps, she always moved her hands and mouth, directly stretched out her hand, and violently pushed the male student away!

He was still cursing, "You are the big leek! Your whole family is a big useless leek!"

"You dare to bully my sister, are you looking for death!"

Hannah was more vicious and older than the first grader, so she scared Lilly's other classmates very quickly.

Although Drake was angry, he originally wanted to come up to teach the male classmate a lesson and ask her to apologize to Lilly, but he didn't want to do anything.

Who knew that the male classmate who was pushed into the air was also very temperamental, fell to the ground and cried, but fought with Hannah while crying.

Hannah and the little boy fought fiercely, Josh and Drake couldn't intervene even if they wanted to intervene, even Josh wanted to quickly pull Hannah away, and even got slapped by Hannah in the chaos.

At this time, a loud voice yelled, "What are you doing?!"

Lilly's class teacher came and was very annoyed.

Not only were there people fighting in the class, but there was also a commotion, and several classes around came to watch.

She just went to the bathroom!

You must know that she managed a whole class last semester, and there was never any fight.

Lilly just arrived today, and there was already a fight!

Chapter 883 Biased Fairness

The head teacher glanced at the 'Battlefield Center' angrily. The child in her class was beaten with a black nose and a swollen face, crying loudly.

The other three were not from her class, they all surrounded Lilly, protecting her behind her!

She recognized Josh and Drake, both of them were top students, Drake came to pick up the textbooks from her, and the other one should be her older sister.

"Lilly! What's going on?!" The head teacher asked Lilly what happened with a straight face as soon as she came up.

Drake frowned.

"Ms. Montague, you..."

The surname of Lilly's class teacher was Sue.

She looked at Drake displeasably, "I didn't ask you to speak!"

Although she liked students with good academic performance very much, as long as the grades were good, she could relax a little on other things.

However, it was a pity that Josh and Drake were not her students either.

Besides, she was still there, and it was not their place to say anything yet.

Ms. Montague looked at Lilly sternly, but the crying little boy on the side didn't dare to speak anymore, sobbing all the time.

Lilly was not afraid, and expressed it very clearly, "Peter Szell gave me a nickname, he called me Big Leek, and I told him to stop it, but he didn't listen! Then..."

Before she finished speaking, Ms. Montague said sharply, "It's wrong to call you a nickname, but do you think it's right to hit someone?"

"He gave you a nickname, you can tell him off nicely! However, it's wrong to fight! Go stand outside!"

She pointed to Lilly, Hannah, Josh and Drake.

Lilly opened her mouth in shock.

No, as a teacher, she should uphold justice.

She was the Ruler of Hell, even herself did not dare to judge like this.

Why did Ms. Montague just ask her to go out and punish her?

Lilly's temper was not submissive, when she was slandered and caused her stepmother to have a miscarriage, she didn't even admit that her father beat her like that.

Of course she would not just give in now!

"It's not my fault!" Lilly said loudly, "It's him who repeatedly called me nicknames. I've told him several times that it's wrong to call others nicknames, and I don't like them, but he called them even more vigorously! So my sister beat him!"

The head teacher was furious.

She still thought it made sense, right?

"I don't care what your reason is, did you hit him?" The head teacher asked angrily.

Lilly retorted, "Then he hit my sister too!"

Hannah yelled at the side, "That's right! Everyone hit each other, why didn't you tell him to go out and stand for punishment too?"

Such open talk-back made Ms. Montague angry.

The majesty of the teacher could not be challenged!

Now that she dared to confront the teacher at such a young age, would she do it even more when she grew up?!

If she told her to go out and stand, she had to go out and stand!

"Get out! Stand outside the classroom! Don't make me say it a third time!"

Drake looked at Ms. Montague disappointedly, and said, "Ms. Montague, you don't know how to differentiate right from wrong..."

Ms. Montague glared, "Get out!"

"....."

Hannah pulled Lilly's hand angrily, "Let's go! Ignore this old hag!"

Hannah was like this, no matter how polite or impolite, she dared to call the old witch to her face if she offended her.

Ms. Montague fell on her back in anger, and said, "Call your parents! Call your parents!"

It was a pity that Hannah didn't listen and left as soon as she said it.

Ms. Montague just watched Hannah pull Lilly away, Josh and Drake also gave her a cold look, and left directly!

The students around were all very surprised, and secretly glanced at Ms. Montague carefully.

Other teachers also came over, and since they all knew that Ms. Montague was very controlling and didn't like others to interfere when she was managing the class, they didn't make a sound just now.

Now it was their first time to see Ms. Montague's majesty being challenged, and they didn't dare to go forward to comfort her.

Ms. Montague was watched by so many pairs of eyes, she felt that the prestige she had established was seriously challenged. She was so angry that she turned her head and walked out, strutting on her high heels!

Rude!

What kind of upbringing made this child who openly disobeyed the teacher and had no manners at all!

If every child did this, then the class and education would be lost!

Ms. Montague angrily called Lilly's guardian, old Mrs. Crawford.

What Lilly left behind was old Mrs. Crawford's number, and it was a local card specially issued for old Mrs. Crawford in Hallow County.

"Lilly's parents!" The call was connected, and Ms. Montague raised her eyebrows, "Come over here! Your children are fighting at school!"

"I can't control you children anymore! If you disobey the teacher, if you don't listen to the teaching, you can take it away yourself!"

Old Mrs. Crawford, "?"

What.....? Lilly... Fighting?

Impossible, she would rather believe that Drake had fought than that Lilly would fight.

"Is there some misunderstanding?" Old Mrs. Crawford said, "Lilly won't beat others for no reason."

Ms. Montague sneered, "No matter what the reason is, it's wrong to hit someone. Anyway, you parents should come here quickly."

After she finished speaking, she hung up the phone.

Then she called Peter's mother.

Peter himself was quite naughty, and his parents knew about it, so when he first started school, they went to see Ms. Montague, invited her to dinner, gave her gifts, and asked the teacher to take care of him.

As soon as she heard that her son was fighting, she hurriedly said, "Ah... How could this be, we really troubled you teacher! Teacher has worked very hard in class every day, our kid is not sensible yet, I'll go over and take him back and criticize him well!"

Mrs. Szell was very good at handling situations, and after hanging up the phone, Ms. Montague's anger was half relieved.

Right, if all parents cooperate in this way, home-school co-education would be good for the parents, teachers and students!

As for Lilly's parents, she really didn't want to talk about it!

Chapter 884 Are You Done? If No, I Shall Carry The Steel Bars Over

Lilly's guardians were called the first time she went to primary school.

Old Mrs. Crawford was even quite excited about it.

After all, there were really not many places where she could be used. It was a very lucky thing to be able to participate in the growth of the child.

The old lady and the old man went out immediately.

The uncles were all in a daze when they found out in the group chat.

Edward: What the hell? Asking to see her guardian? Our little ones were fighting? Are they done? (I shall carry some steel bars over if they are not... I don't mean anything, just to see if the school needs to be rebuilt)

Anthony: Please keep us posted about the situation at any time.

Jonas: Who fought with our Lilly? Male classmate or female classmate?

Max: Lilly definitely wouldn't bully her classmates, if she did, there must be some reason, the teacher just called and said Lilly was fighting? It seems that the classroom needs new changes, to install an automatic alarm system, and automatically record violations of violence...

Bryson: @Anthony Brother, where is sister-in-law?

Cloud: Why are you looking for your sister-in-law? Close the door... Are you asking sister-in-law to go?

Gilbert: ...

Lisa: % ¥ # @ % ... / machete / machete / bomb

Blake: Did we win?

Everyone in the family: ...

Blake: @Old Lady With Frying Pan, Wait for me, I'll broadcast it live for you.

Old Mrs. Crawford: You better not come, I have an old man.

Old Mr. Crawford: Your height of around 1.9 meters is too ostentatious.

Blake: ...

Other people:

Edward: Dad, show off your technology of helping Mom take videos! Broadcast it to us.

Everyone wanted to know what happened to Lilly, and they were very anxious, wanting to know the situation as soon as possible.

Old Mrs. Crawford and old Mr. Crawford came to the school teacher's office amidst the buzzing of the group news.

Before entering the door, old Mr. Crawford habitually muted his mobile phone. This was a habit he developed in previous meetings and meetings with others.

After thinking about it, the children were all concerned about Lilly's situation, so it was better to let them know at the same time.

Both of them were dressed in ordinary clothes, this was not Alford, but a small place, an old lady who dresses up too exquisitely will attract attention, Old Mrs. Crawford did not enjoy such attention.

So she 'does as the Romans do in the country', and the brand's custom-made clothes are generally much more low-key.

As a result, after entering the door, she saw Lilly's head teacher, who first looked her up and down.

There was still an expression of displeasure on her face, deliberately showing a sense of oppression.

Generally, when other parents meet the teacher with such a cold face, most of them would come forward to apologize and say good things.

However, Old Mrs. Crawford was different. When she oppressed others with her aura, the other party did not even know where she was!

Old Mr. Crawford said with a sullen face, "Ms. Montague, we are Lilly's grandparents."

While checking the students' assignments, Ms. Montague glanced at old Mr. Crawford, and finally ignored the two who were waiting...

After grading the assignment, she slammed it on the table with a snap, crossed her arms and crossed her legs.

It gave people a feeling of "I am very angry, your children have caused trouble for me, you better find a way to calm me down!"

"Where are Lilly's parents?" Ms. Montague sat on the seat, frowning at Old Mrs. Crawford and old Mr. Crawford.

Old Mrs. Crawford was not humble and said nothing, she didn't say anything about such impoliteness, she just said lightly:

"Lilly's mother passed away when she was a child. His father has a special job and it's not convenient for him to come."

Ms. Montague understood.

It was another pair of parents who only cared about life but not about education.

The job was special, whose job was not special?

What was the use of old people coming, many children were spoiled by their grandparents!

"Children's education is the joint responsibility of the family and the school, especially the parents, who are the first responsible person and the first teacher for the child! You should never ignore your own child just because you are busy!"

"How many left-behind children nowadays are infected with bad habits because their parents are not around! If they don't study hard, they will play with their mobile phones and fight online all day long!"

"Children who are disciplined by their parents are completely different from children who are not disciplined by their parents! Parents, you should also pay more attention to the growth of your children!"

Old Mrs. Crawford just said a word, and Ms. Montague criticized her.

The only difference was that Lilly learned to fight with others because of no parental supervision!

“.....”

Among the family members: ...

Edward: What? She is a teacher?

Everyone felt a little uncomfortable. When meeting others, it was the most basic etiquette to stand up and greet them when they arrived.

This etiquette was established even if it was a parents meeting like this.

Now this teacher dared to treat their parents like this!

Old Mrs. Crawford also became unhappy, this head teacher was the teacher of the students, but she was not her and the old man's teacher!

"What's wrong with our Lilly?" Old Mrs. Crawford directly interrupted Ms. Montague's nagging, and said, "I heard that she got into a fight with someone else. We want to know what exactly happened?"

Ms. Montague's words were interrupted, and she hadn't finished a long speech, so she felt extremely uncomfortable.

No wonder Lilly learned to contradict her teacher at a young age, so she learned it from her family!

Ms. Montague suppressed her displeasure, and said, "A male classmate gave her a nickname during class, and he didn't do it on purpose. A boy of this age has just learned the power of language, so it's normal to like to call others nicknames."

"However, the children in your family... Drake, Josh, Hannah, and Zachary are all from your family, right? After class, they formed cliques and came to fight in our class!"

"Especially Hannah! A girl, who is even their elder sister, has something to say, so she just came to our class and fought with a male student! What kind of situation is this?!"

This was obviously biased, old Mr. Crawford did not want to get involved with her anymore.

He grasped the point and asked, "So it wasn't Lilly who fought?"

Ms. Montague choked and almost died of anger.

What kind of parent was this?

Was this the point?

Shouldn't they focus on Lilly being spoiled?

What Hannah was like now, it could be seen as what Lilly would be like in the future, they did not care about that?

Chapter 885 Although, I Still Envy Lilly's Family

At the moment in the school garden, several older brothers and sisters were absent from class because of Lilly.

Ms. Montague asked Lilly to stand as a punishment, but they naturally refused, so they brought Lilly to the small garden.

It did not matter if the teachers from other classes came, as long as the eldest brother Drake did not want to, even the teacher could not do anything with the children.

Drake was still very angry, "What kind of head teacher is this? It's not fair at all! Why don't you ask the boy to stand for punishment?"

Drake folded his arms, his small face was cold, "We'll talk about it later when my uncle is here."

At this moment, the gentle Drake really hoped that it was his uncle who came, and kicked Ms. Montague to the branch of a tree if she didn't agree with them.

Lilly was applying cold pool water on Hannah's face. The cold pool water was used for physical health and could also reduce swelling.

Drake said, "Next time, don't be impulsive."

For a girl, it was better for you not to use your hands and feet... If you want to do it, get Josh to do it.

Hannah's face hurt, her nose was blue and her eyes were swollen and she yelled, "Little trash, let me see him again next time, and hit him every time I see him!"

Zachary frowned, "When he sleeps tonight, he better keeps his eyes open!"

Others, "..."

At this time, they learned that Old Mrs. Crawford was coming, and they rushed to the teacher's office immediately.

When Drake and the others arrived, they found that Peter's parents had also arrived.

The air pressure in the office was terribly low.

At this meeting, both Lilly and Drake suddenly stopped in their tracks.

Josh said in a low voice, "Sister, what the hell is this!"

Lilly, "This... This ghost is called a bootlicker..."

Drake suddenly realized.

It turns out that not all evil spirits were called xx ghosts.

He only remembered that the 'ghost' on Damian's girlfriend was a kind of evil thought... It was not called a ghost.

When Old Mrs. Crawford saw Lilly, she hurried up to check nervously, "It's okay, there's nothing wrong."

She looked at Hannah again... Good gracious, was she not involved in a fight? Why was her face so clean and tender?

Old Mrs. Crawford couldn't help but touch Hannah's face, and asked, "Does it hurt? Does it hurt?"

Hannah shook her head and said loudly, "Grandma, I don't feel hurt! You should ask the other party if it hurts!"

She really regretted it, he had it easy, and had not turned into a pig's head yet!

Hannah glared at Peter who was on the opposite side.

It was Peter's mother who came. Mrs. Szell was looking at the bruise on her son's face with a distressed expression. This was a heavy hand!

She was annoyed and furious, but she still said, "Peter, how many times have I told you! Why are you being mischievous at school again? Isn't this adding to the teacher's workload?!"

"How many times have I told you! You have to listen to Ms. Montague at school, and help Ms. Montague wipe the blackboard and desk with homework, have you done it yet?!"

"You still dare to fight with your classmates, you, you, you...you really want to piss me off!"

After speaking, she immediately said to Ms. Montague heartbrokenly, "Ms. Montague, I am really sorry! I know my child is always mischievous. You are so busy with work, and you usually work so hard in class, and you have to correct homework after class... Late at night I have to prepare lesson plans... My family's unfilial son is really, really..."

Peter curled his lips slightly, as if he was very dissatisfied.

He glanced at Lilly quickly, feeling a little depressed again.

Lilly's family was really nice, even though the other party beat him up, but...

He was still very envious, her family members protected her, even if she got into a fight and was criticized by the teacher, her grandparents also protected her.

Unlike his mother...

No matter what happened, his mother would first say that he was not good.

Peter's complexion became even uglier, and he looked disobedient.

Where was his mother? Still talking on the sidelines, asking the teacher about her health, and talking about family matters...

After the flattery, Ms. Montague's mood improved a lot.

She waved her hand and said, "Mrs. Szell, you don't need to say anything, this matter is not Peter's fault, it was Hannah who hit people first."

Hannah suddenly exploded, "Yes, I did it first! Then why don't you ask me why I did it?! You are the teacher."

It could be said that it was very rude for a student to speak this way.

Ms. Montague, whose face was just a little brighter, suddenly exploded with anger!

"Have you ever talked to the teacher like this?" She said sharply, "Look at how spoiled your children are!"

"Every one of you refuses to be disciplined, and if you don't learn your lessons, I think you will grow up rotten!"

Ms. Montague was so angry, she was absolutely rude!

With such a big sister, Lilly would be ruined sooner or later, she really did not want to talk about it!

Old Mr. Crawford's face darkened!

He said sharply, "It is indeed wrong for children to fight, but if you don't ask the reason, just a few words to conclude a child's future, do you really think you are noble?!"

The old man's aura was still there. After all, he used to be the head of the Crawford family. Ms. Montague was immediately silenced...

Chapter 886 Evil Spirit: Bootlicker

Ms. Montague almost laughed angrily.

Was she the teacher or were they the teacher!

Just as she was about to speak, old Mrs. Crawford said directly, "Ms. Montague, don't talk about those meaningless things. We are here to deal with the children's affairs, not to listen to your criticism."

"Why did the two children fight, and why did you say on the phone that it was our Lilly, who fought with this little boy?"

Old Mrs. Crawford was still brooding, as if Ms. Montague had blamed Lilly for everything as soon as the call was connected.

After coming for so long, she didn't even figure out what happened!

She was getting impatient!

Did this person know how to be a teacher at all?

Ms. Montague opened her mouth.

She was overwhelmed.

There were also parents who messed with her, but this was the first one with such an oppressive aura...

She even had an illusion that these two elders were not parents, but leaders...

Peter's mother saw it, and it was worth it!

How dare a parent talk back to a teacher?

She smiled and said quickly, "Ms. Montague, calm down, calm down..."

Then she made all sorts of insinuations to Old Mrs. Crawford, "Everyone calm down, the teacher's job is not easy, so let's not cause trouble for the teacher, shall we?"

"Children are naughty. It's okay to fight. We also would not hang on this issue with our boy's female classmate."

"However, your method of communication is not good. How can you talk to the teacher like this? When the time comes, the children will learn how to do it. How will the teacher's work be done and how will the teacher take care of it..."

"When we send our children to school, we should trust the teacher wholeheartedly, and believe that the teacher is for the good of our children! We must cooperate with the teacher to do all the work..."

Mrs. Szell's words brought Ms. Montague back to her senses.

Immediately, she felt very upset, right, what did she do wrong?

Was there anything wrong with her painstaking efforts to teach their children?

Old Mrs. Crawford was really speechless, she said to Lilly, "Lilly, tell me."

Ms. Montague glanced at Lilly immediately.

Lilly was not afraid at all, and said, "It was like this at the beginning. When I first came to school, my classmates asked me what my name was."

"I just said my name is Lilly, and Peter took the lead in saying how could someone's name sound like a Leek, it's so ugly, and also called me Big Leek!"

"He also said that when his mother scolded people, she said, 'How stupid you are, like a useless leek', so he kept calling me Big Leek!"

Lilly's statement was very clear, and Peter's mother was suddenly embarrassed...

However, what made her embarrassed was not that her son gave others a nickname, but that her son quoted her words and let the teacher know...

Mrs. Szell hurriedly wanted to save a few words, but it was a pity that Lilly didn't give her a chance.

Lilly pointed to Peter, and said, "After class, he kept calling me Big Leek. I told him not to call me any more. It's very rude, and he won't listen!"

"That's why I was very angry. At this moment, my brother and sister came, and when I heard it, my sister beat him up!"

When Lilly finished speaking, she proudly raised her chin.

Yes, it was her sister who beat him up!

They were right, Peter did not listen, her father taught her to stand up for herself when someone bullied her, naturally he had to be punished!

So Lilly felt that she was right, her brother was right, and her sister was right, even if she hit someone first, she was right!

However, Ms. Montague said, "It's really wrong for him to call you a nickname! However, your beating is even worse!"

Anyway, she just decided, a few bickering words were harmless, what was wrong with having a nickname? Children liked playing around, and the nickname of Big Leek was not very unpleasant.

However, the situation of beating people was different. God knows how she was criticized when she went to the teaching affairs just now. It was conceivable that this month's mobile red flag of the advanced class would not be her turn!

When she was the class teacher, she once said that she would lead Class 1 (1) to be the class that leads in everything and be the best in everything... This incident was a slap in the face for her!

Old Mrs. Crawford didn't understand the whole story until now, and she became even more angry.

This teacher was blind and biased, so she should not be a teacher!

Old Mr. Crawford said coldly, "Ms. Montague, you did not pay attention to the cause of the matter. You don't care about the person who provoked our children by speaking rudely first. Instead, let our children go out to punish and appease the instigators. A pool of mud was stirred up indiscriminately, is this the behavior you should have as a teacher?!"

He was harsh and very rude!

Ms. Montague became anxious, and Peter's mother was also very upset.

Why did they call her child a troublemaker!

It was simply making a fuss out of a molehill. Could a nickname be called a provocation? Who in the child's family had never given others a nickname? ?

"Let's go!" Old Mrs. Crawford held Lilly with one hand and Hannah with the other, and left without looking back.

Drake, Josh and Zachary followed behind, while old Mr. Crawford had his hands behind his back, his expression was ugly.

"Ms. Montague, please do it yourself!" The old man dropped a sentence.

Ms. Montague was so angry that his chest hurt, and he kept stroking his chest, so angry that he couldn't speak.

Peter's mother hurriedly said, "They were really too much, I have never seen such parents, sooner or later they will spoil their children..."

"Hey, Ms. Montague, don't be angry, calm down, calm down, what should you do if you are angry? You are responsible for the education of forty children in the class. We all know how hard you are. Everything you do is for the children. Well, no matter what you do, our parents actually understand! Support it!"

"Today's matter is also our Peter's fault. His female classmate still won't give in to him and fight with others... Doesn't this cause you trouble!"

Peter's mother was eloquent, and eight out of her ten sentences were flattering.

The bootlicker on her head, "..."

It was over, today was considered to have hit an iron plate, the little girl knew that she was very powerful without looking... The aura on her body was shocking!

However.... Why didn't she catch him?

Chapter 887 Turn Your Head and Face the Principal

The live broadcast was live in the family group. As soon as old Mr. Crawford and Old Mrs. Crawford left the house, Blake searched for evidence that Ms. Montague accepted gifts and cash gifts from parents.

Anthony called a business leader of Hallow County on the spot - when he came last time, he invested in the industrial development of the entire county by the way.

Now Anthony was the sponsor of the entire county.

So he didn't dare to delay at all, and immediately found someone to find the top person in the county, and then found the education leader.

So old Mrs. Crawford and old Mr. Crawford had just brought the children home when the primary school principal's phone rang.

"What... There is such a thing!"

"We have expressly stipulated that corruption and bribery... Will definitely result in expulsion of teachers..."

"Is it really handled like this? Ms. Montague is too self-righteous!"

The principal stood, nodding on the phone, his face sullen.

He was criticized by his superiors.

The superior directly ordered him to investigate Ms. Montague immediately.

What kind of investigation was this? As soon as he hung up the phone, the evidence was sent to his mailbox!

When the school bell rang, the principal suppressed his anger and walked towards Class 1 (1).

Besides, Peter's mother, flattered Ms. Montague all afternoon.

Finally, when school was over, Ms. Montague, who was half dead with anger, had to stand up and prepare to lead the students out of the school.

Peter's mother sighed, "Hey... It is really difficult for the teacher, she had to painstakingly lead the students well..."

"Ms. Montague, why don't you rest today, I'll take the children out..."

It was afternoon school time, and parents had come to pick up their children.

Each class had a pick-up time slot.

Ms. Montague shook her head, "No need, this is my job, and I still have to do it."

Peter's mother was moved, "Ms. Montague, you are really... so touched. Where can I find such a good head teacher in our class? Just tell me if you have anything to do, and I promise you will call me..."

"Oh, by the way, let me do the cleaning of the classroom today? I saw that the ceiling of the classroom had not been cleaned for a long time. I'll get some parents to come..."

Ms. Montague was not in the mood to say anything, so she nodded.

Peter's mother immediately sent a message in the class group:

In order to keep our classrooms clean and tidy, and to create a good learning environment for the children, we are now recruiting five parents to clean up in the classroom after school. Parents who can come please put your names on the list: 1. Peter's mother signed up.

Peter's mother belongs to the parents committee. As soon as the news came out, several parents immediately signed up.

Outside the school gate.

Ms. Montague came out with Class 1 (1) students. Because she was in a bad mood, she got angry when she saw the students laughing and not queuing up.

"What are you doing? Line up!"

"For those who are not lined up, those who are playing, then everyone will wait for them, and we will leave only after they are done playing."

The children finally made it to school, and they couldn't wait to run to their parents' arms and go home.

Now there were a few boys playing and fighting, which delayed them, and all the students immediately looked over.

Those male students suddenly felt guilty and anxious. Being criticized in front of so many parents and classmates, the children who had just entered the first grade of kindergarten could not bear it, and a boy wiped tears on the spot.

Ms. Montague glanced at it, and saw the boy wiping his tears, but she felt a sense of joy.

That was right, a head teacher should have the majesty of a head teacher, if you did not obey, just stand there!

The parents of those children had embarrassing expressions on their faces.

The other classes were all gone, and Class 1 (1) was still standing because of those male students.

The students in the same class disliked several male classmates.

The few male students gradually couldn't bear it any longer, they were uneasy and lowered their heads...

This was a cold violence initiated by the teacher, all the students against those male students.

However, no one realized it.

Even some parents among the few male students felt that their children had embarrassed them.

So when he was finally able to pick up the children, the father of two scolded them in public.

Some parents kept apologizing to Ms. Montague.

Some parents picked up late and greeted Ms. Montague one after another.

Although Ms. Montague was in a bad mood, she still smiled at a few parents and said a few words about the children's situation at school.

However, when she turned to face the parents of those mischievous students with poor grades, her smiling face collapsed in a second, and she ignored those parents with a straight face.

Several parents and family committee members who were about to go in for sanitation stood beside Ms. Montague, talking and laughing in a low voice:

"Ms. Montague, you must be very tired today, right? Look, your expression does not look too good."

"Ms. Montague, I'll help you check the assignments later! Being a teacher is so hard, you should rest on the sidelines."

"Ms. Montague, let's go have a meal together after finishing cleaning later..."

When the principal came out, he saw such a scene, and the anger rushed to the tip of his hair with a groan.

On top, the middle of his head, which was already bald and shiny, became even brighter in an instant.

"Ms. Montague! Come to my office!" The principal said angrily.

Ms. Montague was facing several parents and family committees and nodded with a smile, and when she turned around, she met the principal's angry face.

Her heart suddenly thumped...

Chapter 888 I Swear, I Did Not Take The Gifts From The Parents

"Is this how you are as a teacher?"

In the office, the principal was so angry that he slammed the documents on the desktop on Ms. Montague's head.

He was so angry that he couldn't hold back!

Ms. Montague quickly said, "Principal, those parents are just kind. The parents of the students often ask for dinner for the students, but I never promised..."

The principal sneered, "No? You nodded just now, and I saw it with my own eyes and said no?"

Ms. Montague, "I just nodded politely..."

Slap!

The principal smashed the mobile phone in his hand on the table.

He was so angry that his chest heaved, and for a moment he was so angry that he lost his voice and couldn't speak.

The principal's office was very quiet, except for the beeping, beeping, beeping, and beeping of the printer.

Ms. Montague subconsciously glanced at the printer, but the printer was in the office, and she didn't know what it was printing, but she just felt restless and irritable when she heard the sound.

In the dead silence, the principal who drank a few sips of tea finally recovered his voice and said:

"There was a fight in Class 1 (1) today, what's going on?"

Ms. Montague thought to herself, it really was because of this incident that all the troubles had come to the principal, and Lilly's parents must have reported it!

She was already upset enough to make a fuss over the academic affairs side, but she didn't expect to make a fuss with the principal, so couldn't they save some time?

"The situation is like this, Peter, a boy in our class, joked with the new girl, Lilly, and gave her a nickname. Before I had time to mediate... Lilly dragged her brother and sister over to beat him. "

Ms. Montague sighed as she spoke, "It's really wrong for others to call her nicknames, but it's definitely worse to form cliques and fight!"

"So I asked Lilly and her brothers and sisters to go out and stand for punishment..."

The headmaster stared at her, "Is that really the case?"

Ms. Montague panicked. After thinking about it, she didn't tell a lie, did she?

"That's true, absolutely true!" She said.

The headmaster was really angry, "Did Lilly bring her brother and sister here?"

Ms. Montague opened his mouth and coughed, "Hmm... This is indeed my misexpression. It was her brother and sister who came to her after class and happened to see..."

"Why did they beat people?" The principal asked again.

This Ms. Montague quickly replied, "It's just because someone called her a nickname as a joke..."

The headmaster wanted to smash things again, but he had already smashed all that could be smashed on the table, and the cup was ceramic and needed to be smashed.

He could only slap on the table fiercely, and said angrily, "Lilly repeatedly told Peter not to give her a nickname, you really didn't mention it at all! It's so biased, did you accept bribes from Peter Szell's family?!"

Ms. Montague's heart thumped again, "No, absolutely not!"

"It's just because taking a nickname is just a trivial matter, it's insignificant. It's very common and normal for children to like to call others nicknames!"

"Isn't it the worst thing to form gangs and fight?"

Of course, there were also many students hypocritically saying that it was not good to take a nickname, it hurts the soul and so on.

If she had to tell the truth, she felt that it was just a child trying to gain attention!

What was the point of caring about other people's gossip? She could choose not to listen!

What else could hurt the soul? Why didn't they say it hurt the soul if they fail the exam? Why didn't they know how to work hard?

Anyway, no matter what the principal said, Ms. Montague always had words of defense.

She refused to admit that she accepted gifts and bribes. As a teacher, of course she knew that she could not accept bribes. If she admitted it, she would be fined!

The principal suppressed the anger in his heart, took a sip of water, and said, "Someone reported that you accepted bribes and gifts from students' parents. What do you have to say?"

Ms. Montague quickly said, "Nothing! I really think that fighting is more serious than nicknames, so Lilly and the others should be punished instead of Peter. Maybe it's because of this that Lilly's parents think that I am taking favors... But I swear it's absolutely nothing."

The principal sneered, "Oh? Then you please swear."

He was really going to laugh out loud, he wanted see what outrageous lies Ms. Montague can come up with.

Ms. Montague raised her hand, her words were plausible, and her face was misunderstood with grief and indignation:

"I swear, I have never accepted gifts, bribes, or dinner invitations from students' parents... If what I say is untrue, let me get hit by a car when I go out! Get bitten by a dog when I walk! I have sores on my head and bleeding on my feet. Pus, the sky strikes five thunders!"

The principal, "....."

He backhanded out the evidence of her accepting bribes.

"I swear well, as expected of a teacher," The principal sneered, "Let's see, this is the proof that you received bribes from ten parents including the Smiths, the Greyharts, and the Lorrens, at the beginning of the semester."

"This is evidence that you received expensive gifts from Peter's parents, and this is evidence that you had dinner with the Smiths, the Greyharts, the Lorrens and other parents."

The headmaster threw the photos and documents that had just been printed out of the printer on Ms. Montague's face.

Chapter 889 Retribution

Ms. Montague only felt her head buzzing, and subconsciously picked up the photos and documents in her arms...

Looking at it, it was like falling into an ice cellar in an instant!

The picture on the photo was a picture of her eating with the parents of the students, and there was evidence of receiving bribes from the parents of the students...

"No, principal, listen to my explanation!" Ms. Montague said hastily, "It's not like what you see!"

"They must have fabricated it, the photos are all photoshopped!"

Impossible, she did things so discreetly, who would have got her photo!

Evidence came out just after the report, it could not be so fast, so it must be photoshopped, fake...

The principal was too lazy to listen to her sophistry.

"As a teacher, you should know what the consequence is when you accept bribes from students' parents," The principal picked up a document on the floor, which he just threw out in a fit of anger.

I had to pick it up by myself, and I was even angrier when I thought about it.

So he furiously signed some documents and pushed them out, "This is your disciplinary document, Ms. Montague, pack up and go!"

"You are expelled from our school!"

Ms. Montague's mind buzzed, and it went blank for an instant!

The Central Primary School in Hallow County was the best primary school in the entire county, even if looking at several adjacent counties, it was ranked among the best.

It took her a lot of effort to get in...

There were numerous people who applied for this school and countless people fought their way into this school, and she was expelled like this?!

Just because a naughty little boy gave someone a nickname and caused a series of things, she was fired?

Ms. Montague couldn't accept it at all!

"Principal! Listen to me, things are really not like this..."

The principal didn't listen, so he started to chase people away.

Ms. Montague gritted her teeth, and said again, "I am not satisfied with the decision! I want to appeal to education..."

"Student fights are more serious than nicknames. Even when it comes to the higher-ups, I am justified. You didn't listen to my explanation and fired me directly. This is against the rules! I don't accept it, I want to appeal..."

"Fuck off!" The principal was really pissed off by her, and all the foul language came out,

"Get out!"

Appeal!

Damn it, it was the one from above who told him to expel her. As the principal of the school where the incident happened, he was the last one to know about it.

How dare she tell him to appeal!

Ms. Montague was rudely kicked out of the office, and she really felt that there was something inside.

She did not realize Lilly's parents were capable of this.

However, she still didn't think she was wrong!

So what if they had the network, they could not directly bully a teacher.

She also had a cousin who worked as a staff member in the Education Ministry, and she swore that she would definitely appeal!

Ms. Montague felt that she had been treated unfairly, and she thought even worse of Lilly.

When she went downstairs, she strutted on her high-heeled shoes again, and wished she could break the heels...

Just as she was thinking about it, the heel really broke.

"Ah--"

Ms. Montague's eyes were terrified, and she fell downstairs in an extremely twisted posture!

Bang bang bang bang—boom!

Ms. Montague fell terribly, and hit her head hard on the wall at the corner of the stairs, almost knocking her out.

"Woo..."

The pain was so painful that she burst into tears. She curled up and squatted with her head on the spot, gasping for air.

"Damn it...!" She stood up after a while, kicking the wall angrily.

Result.....

Her high heels opened inexplicably, exposing her toes.

Caught off guard, her thumb kicked against the wall like this, half of the nail cover was lifted off, and blood gushed out instantly...

"Ahhh—" Ms. Montague fell down in pain!

It hurt so much that she forgot about calling her cousin in the Education Ministry...

Ms. Montague squatted at the stairs, angry and aggrieved, tears streaming down her face, the teachers walking around pretended not to see her.

Everyone had seen the file sent to the mailbox by the school!

The document mentioned the punishment of dismissing Ms. Montague. Not only that, but in the teacher work group of the whole school, the principal personally spoke, emphasizing that Ms. Montague received bribes and gifts from students' parents, and because of this, she favored Peter.

This kind of person was simply a disgrace to their teachers!

It was because there were people like her that everyone's impression of the teachers became worse and worse.

So who would care about her?

Ms. Montague wanted to find someone to help her, but in the end she was ridiculed and despised by everyone's eyes, which made her feel extremely uncomfortable.

Everyone... Knew about it?

She quickly took out her mobile phone, and sure enough, she saw the principal talking about it in the work group.

Ms. Montague's expression suddenly became ugly, and she stood up angrily and went to find her cousin.

It was so dictatorial! She expressed dissatisfaction and wanted to appeal. Before the final result came out, the principal directly slandered her like this!

Ms. Montague was so angry that her eyes were red, but as soon as she went out, a dog rushed out of nowhere, and barked at her calf.

She was so frightened that she trembled, and the dog was still chasing and biting her. Ms. Montague didn't care that the nails on his toes were bleeding, so she ran away.

Just after leaving the school gate, a car honked and crashed into her.

The car stopped in time, but knocked her down. The owner of the car got off and cursed, "Look before you cross!"

The owner cursed a few words and drove away.

Ms. Montague wanted to cry but had no tears.

All this was seen by the principal upstairs.

He was a little surprised.

Just now Ms. Montague swore that if she took bribes, she would be bitten by a dog while walking and hit by a car...

Really come true?

The headmaster shook his head and didn't think much about it. After all, it was too mysterious, and he could only blame it on Ms. Montague's retribution for doing too many bad things.

Chapter 890 Opinions About Lilly's Parents

After Ms. Montague went back.

In the evening, she found her cousin and complained. She was crying and said that the principal was bullying.

She avoided the most important part and explained the reasons, focusing on the fact that she was treated unfairly, and how much she worked hard...

The cousin was so angry that she found the leader the next day, good guy, she was scolded directly and almost lost her job...

Then she realized the seriousness of the matter, her cousin didn't tell her the truth!

So when Ms. Montague called to ask about the result, she was scolded by her cousin in turn, and even said cruel words about breaking up the relationship...

Ms. Montague felt distressed.

What was the matter!

How could such a small incident become such a big mess, causing her to lose her job?

It must be Lilly... Yes, it must be her!

Ms. Montague immediately called the Crawford family.

Old Mrs. Crawford just heard the voice of Ms. Montague, and hung up the phone without saying a word.

Ms. Montague was not reconciled. As the class teacher, every student would fill in the home address when the school started. She knew where Lilly lived.

She went straight to the door, but before she could see who opened the door, she saw a shadow rushing towards her, and she flew away with a word of 'fork out'.

She could not even get in the door...

Ms. Montague left the residence in embarrassment, and walked on the road very angrily, thinking over and over again how things got to where they are today...

Just as she was thinking, the gloomy sky suddenly rumbled, thunder rang out, and dark clouds overwhelmed the city. It seemed that it was about to rain.

Pedestrians on the road were in a hurry, but Ms. Montague was not in the mood, walking with a limp...

Just listen to bang--crack!

A bolt of lightning suddenly struck the small tree not far in front of her!

Ms. Montague was taken aback. She was so close that the hairs on her arms stood on end due to the lightning.

She subconsciously raised her head to look at the sky, and immediately her pupils shrank, and another tiny bolt of lightning struck down, scaring her so much that she couldn't even care about her toenails, and ran wildly...

Bang!

The tiny lightning struck Ms. Montague's head, splitting her hair into a chicken coop.

Luckily she was not electrocuted into charcoal, but it also frightened her so much that she lost her soul.

The unlucky ghost had long been hiding under the eaves of the building, and kept saying, "It's not me, this time it's really not me!"

It turned out that Ms. Montague was so unlucky before, of course it was the work of unlucky ghosts.

The harem spirit said, "Okay, okay, I know you didn't do it, and you don't have that much ability to let the lightning strike down!"

The unlucky ghost, "..."

Of course it wasn't Lilly, Lilly had gone to school a long time ago.

All the ghosts looked at the sky, and at this moment, they all thought to themselves in sync God is always watching from above...

Finally, after Ms. Montague went back, the wound on the top of her head that had been struck by lightning could not be healed, and she developed sores.

As for the foot... The nail of the toe that was damaged by the kick, the wound repeated for various reasons, and pus came out...

In an instant, she thought of the oath she had sworn to the principal—bitten by a dog, hit by a car, struck by lightning... With sores on the top of the head and pus on the soles of the feet.

Everything had come true!

Forget it, at night she would always see things moving inexplicably in the room. At first she thought it was caused by her nervousness, until one night she heard someone knocking on the door of her room, subconsciously woke up and opened the door... ..

A female ghost in a red wedding dress stood outside the door...

"Ah--!!"

If she did nothing wrong, she should not have been afraid of the ghosts at night?

Anyway, from then on, Ms. Montague shrank completely in fright. She wanted to make a fuss with some parents, but now she didn't even dare to say anything, and she didn't go to those parents again to help her 'testify'...

Class 1 (1) had a new head teacher. No parents of the students knew where the original head teacher, Ms. Montague, went after she was fired.

It was just that the few radical parents who habitually give gifts and vow to let their children win at the starting line occasionally gather in small groups to discuss why Ms. Montague was fired.

A parent said: It can't be because of our gifts...

Peter's mother: No, we did it very secretly and protected Ms. Montague very well. Before I went, I double checked if I had let anything leak.

Everyone agreed, they were all delivered at home or to her doorstep.

Who had such great ability to spy into their home.

Even if they saw them on the road, who could be sure that they were there to give Ms. Montague a present?

Suddenly a parent said: That's the reason... I know another teacher well, and she even showed me Ms. Montague's punishment document.

The parents in the small group fell silent for a moment.

"We were all good at first, with our joint efforts last semester, how much better our Class 1 (1) has become! The class ranked first in all aspects, and there was no problem."

"That's right, this new classmate came back after taking a year off from school, and something happened all of a sudden."

"They just have a lot to do! I dare say that Ms. Montague's resignation is inseparable from their family's report, and they must have reported it."

"What's bothering her, really."

Everyone was a little unhappy. They were used to their children getting the attention and care of teachers everywhere, and their grades were always among the best.

Now that Ms. Montague was gone, it meant that their children would become like other children without any special care. How could this work?

After spending so much money and gifts, it turned out to be nothing. The more they thought about it, the angrier they became, and the more they had problems with Lilly and her parents.
