Finally, Britney gave her an assured answer, which destroyed her last hope.

"He will not remember you."

Becky felt pain. She looked at Britney. Britney poured a glass of champagne to her and said calmly, "A man like Joseph knows clearly what he needs. If he remembers you, it proves that he likes you. And if he really likes someone, he will take some action. He will let you approach him and give you the opportunities to get closer to him. It may even be possible for him to be close to you. So Becky, has he contacted you since that night?"

Becky didn't answer her, and then she found an excuse, "Because he didn't have my phone number."

Britney seemed to have heard the funniest joke, so she just laughed, "Do you really think it enough for him to have your contact information? Do not be silly. Does he need your phone number if he really wants to find you?"

Becky felt so embarrassed. She knew that Britney's words were true, and she herself regarded that reason as untruthful, so she was just modest, "So what should I do?"

"So what are you anxious about? Do you think Joseph is the kind of man who your beauty will lure? Actually, so many women would like to be with him. Today, the most important thing for you is to let him have impressions on you. At least you need to let him know you when you meet each other next time." As she stopped here, she made signs towards the location of Joseph, "Do not do it that way."

Becky followed her signs.

There was a slim girl approaching Joseph in a red dress, just like the flames. She was indeed enthusiastic and bold. Her face was nearly attached to Joseph. As Joseph was tall, he could easily see the woman's crest when he looked down. What a pity! Joseph frowned.

And then Joseph apologized politely and went far away from that girl. He walked to the other side of the room alone. This was the tenth girl who wanted to know Joseph but was refused by him, and Joseph had changed his position over ten times. Every time he was alone, some businessmen would chat with him.

Becky sighed and thought that this man was so excellent that women tended to pay attention to him.

"That woman is the daughter of a boss of a listed company, but Joseph still didn't pay attention to her. So you know how much effort you must make to attract his attention." Britney patted her shoulders and said sincerely.

In the middle of the banquet, Joseph walked out and to the end of the corridor. He got through the ringing call. The voice at that side was low but anxious.

"Sir, the girl nearly crashed all the expensive objects. She is so furious that I can't get it controlled."

"Buy a new one." Joseph's look was cold.

"She scolded me and even hurt me. My forehead got injured. Sir...I think you'd better find another nanny. I can't do it well."

Joseph calmed himself down and said lightly, "Does she have meals?"

"She is not willing to eat." Hearing the words, Joseph frowned and said after a long time's silence, "Okay. I will arrange another one to look after her."

The woman was so grateful and thanked him many times.

After the conversation, Joseph called Daisy immediately. He just said, "Find another nanny, not the one who has served an average family. And you need to order her to guarantee Irish's nutrition intake no matter what methods she uses. And a family doctor is needed."

After that, he hung it up.

Looking at the night views outside the window, he thought of Irish's furious eyes. He had thought that she would struggle against them, but he had never expected that she would hit someone.

Such an annoying woman!

Joseph was more and more serious.

Another ten minutes passed. When he prepared to go back to the hall, he passed by a room and heard some strange voice.

Joseph stopped his footsteps and soon planned to leave. Actually, he didn't have the habit of taking charge of others' business.

But just then, the door was opened, and a woman with tousy clothes ran out of it, crying sadly. He didn't have time to respond, and a woman just met into his bosom.

The woman ran into his bosom and begged, "Sir. Please help me..."

Soon a strong man went out and scolded someone, "You really think that you are famous for acting in two dramas? I like you, which is a compliment to you. But you..."

These vulgar speeches ended as he met Joseph's eyes.

"You...you, Mr. Dover?"

The woman in his bosom held Joseph tightly and raised her head, staring at him pitifully, "Please help me, please."

It was not until now that Joseph saw the situation clearly, so he just pulled the woman aside and looked at the man across from him. It was Kim.

Joseph would not have remembered such a businessman as Kim. He remembered him so clearly because Kim dared to like his woman and even regarded him as an eyewitness!

So he will never forget him!

"Nice to meet you," Joseph said lightly as a greeting or as a satire.

Mr. Kim was so stressed to see Joseph here and got more stressed by hearing his words. He immediately explained, "You see. You have nothing to do with this case. She is just a new star with whom have signed a contract. And I am giving her a lesson since she is so stubborn."

As he was treated badly by Joseph last time, his businesses didn't process smoothly, and the most profitable company went into liquidation. Even Britney went to another company. Kim felt it was so strange, and after inquiry, he knew that he had made Joseph unhappy. Later Joseph's love relationship with Irish was disclosed, and he realized he had made a big mistake.

Later he asked for Joseph's forgiveness and hoped that he could let him have a way out, but it was so difficult for him to meet Joseph without an appointment ahead of time. He wanted to make an appointment but was notified that it would be three months later. Mr. Kim was desperate since he couldn't hold on for even thirty days.

So he had to give up his big businesses and survive by relying on his small companies.
