

Enchanted 752

Irish was sure that Britney also felt astonished about Becky's behavior. Becky attracted people's attention successfully by taking advantage of Joseph. It was natural that Britney would not let that happen.

Irish figured it out, so she spent some money to help Becky and hyped up her rumor about Joseph. Of course, it was a piece of negative news.

When Irish found the hotel manager through someone well-informed, she found that a group of people had come there, trying to discover Becky's past since people must be interested in that. But they all failed because they didn't pay enough money. Just as the old saying goes, money makes the mare go.

Therefore, Irish bought off the boss and the members of all the clubs. Of course, it was impossible for her to bribe some senior leaders since most of them came from notable families, and they would certainly not do such a thing for Irish because they were afraid that it might have a bad effect on their careers. What's more, if Irish really wanted to buy them off, she had to spend millions because Irish could understand that they were risking their lives and their future. In that case, Irish needed to afford them a large sum of money to guarantee their future life.

However, it was beyond her capability. That was why Irish only bribed the ordinary staff of the clubs, except for the staff in the nightclub where Becky served as a barmaid there.

The manager of the nightclub asked for a large sum of money since he was clear about what kind of risk he had to face to disclose the secret between the famous stars and rich businessmen. That was why Irish was willing to pay him so much money.

Besides, Irish also needed a middleman, which meant that she needed a web celebrity to help her. However, it was not an ordinary person, and instead, the man's identity was very mysterious. The person liked to reveal the privacy of others, and his screen name was "ping-pong ball."

No one knew his real name, let alone his sex, age, and background. But Irish didn't care about that, and what she really cared about was that people paid great interest in the news he revealed. Irish wanted to teach Becky a lesson, so she had to pass on a message to this mysterious man. Of course, the money wasn't paid to him because she didn't care about money at all.

What he really needed was startling information.

So Irish spent a lot of money on those well-informed people to get some secrets. And then she attracted the attention of "ping-pong ball" with those secrets, and then she deliberately disclosed some information about Becky and Joseph. In this way, "ping-pong ball" was taken advantage of by Irish imperceptibly.

Just as Irish expected, there was a lot of negative news about Becky. However, Irish didn't worry that people would figure out the truth because she withdrew the money from Joseph's bank card that he had given her earlier. Irish even didn't care that Joseph would investigate this matter because she knew that it was easy for him to find out the truth when she withdrew a large sum of money from his bank card. Indeed, Irish intended to let Joseph know that she had manipulated everything behind.

The next day.

The web celebrity "ping-pong ball" did reveal the truth through his Facebook, pointing out that the man Becky dated was Joseph, the manager of the Runestone Group. And he even disclosed the specific time as well as some photos of their date. He described her as a material girl in sharp words and pointed out that Becky took the initiative to devote her body to Joseph's fun, even if she knew that it was impossible for Joseph to marry her. Joseph also was regarded as an irresponsible man since he had an affair with Britney before.

Anxious, Daisy took the computer to Joseph and said, "Mr. Dover, if you still don't respond to this news, I am afraid that you may get in more trouble."

Taking a glance at the news, Joseph kept peaceful without a mood change.

"Mr. Dover, shall we make some investigations about "ping-pong ball" since he disclosed so much false news?"

There must be a manipulator behind "ping-pong ball," or he dared not be inhibited from disclosing Joseph's news. Joseph looked through the news and then replied indifferently, "Just wait and see."

Shocked, Daisy didn't understand why he stayed so calm, 'Isn't he afraid that Irish would misunderstand him? Does he really have an affair with Becky? Thought Daisy to herself. Hesitant, Daisy was also not sure about that, and even she was aware that something had happened between Joseph and Irish since they had a weird relationship. But Daisy knew little about his private life because she was just Joseph's assistant.

However, Daisy didn't hope that Joseph would have an affair with Becky because Daisy felt that Irish and Joseph were perfectly matched.

"Mr. Dover, I think we'd better take some steps?"

After hearing this, Joseph still remained calm and replied, even without raising his head, "I am sure someone is much more anxious than us."

"What do you mean?" asked Daisy. "Well, Mr. Dover, what shall we do now?" added Daisy.

"Wait," replied Joseph briefly.

Daisy was completely confused since she couldn't read Joseph's mind.

All the people in the company were clear about the relationship between Roy and Cassie, and it was also not a secret that they were getting married.

Now they worked at the same company while Roy was Cassie's superior. People envied them but also blessed them too.

Compared with Joseph, Roy was less busy than him, although he was the chairman of the Runestone Group. He'll call Daisy as soon as he finishes his work, and then they will go for dinner together before driving her back.

Cassie also got used to getting Roy's phone call at 6:00 pm daily. It was sunny, and Cassie went to the restaurant with her colleagues for lunch. A large area of white orchids was planted outside the restaurant, but the snowy petals began to wither while some tender leaves thrived. Cassie couldn't help but sigh that summer was coming soon. She didn't react until her colleague called her.

Walking into the restaurant, Cassie felt hungry since she had worked for the whole morning. Cassie enjoyed the meal while the food here also tasted very delicious.

It was a new restaurant since many courses were innovated. It was said that the boss of this restaurant was a rich second generation. Many celebrities came here, so it became well-known quickly in a short span of time.

When they almost finished the meal, footsteps were heard, and it was getting closer.

"Miss Lin?" A woman's voice was heard.

Cassie was eating, and she didn't expect someone to call her. Shocked, she raised her head and found a woman dressed elegantly standing in front of her with a smile. It was Lynn.

Astonished, Cassie looked at her with her mouth opened slightly. "Nice to meet you, Mrs. Siewert," Cassie greeted her.