

Chapter 26:

Elle's POV:

"SHE DUMPED YOU?" Talia practically shouted at me even though we were sat opposite each other.

"Well kind o , I don't really understand what happened or what it meant." I sighed.

"How about you go from the start?" she asked.

"Okay, all day I had been sort of ignoring her but not because I was annoyed with her or that we had had an argument, but because I wanted to surprise her with prom. Like it was so hard to keep it a secret from her because I normally tell her everything. So I later texted her to come over to mine so I could ask her to prom and that's when she told me she never loved me. She said that we aren't right together and that neither of us even know what love is because we are still young or something. What am I meant to do?" I asked as a tear rolled down my cheek before I quickly wiped it away.

"So what you are telling me she didn't actually say that you are breaking up?"

"Well no but-"

She cut me o , "so technically you are still together."

"You aren't listening, she literally told me she never loved me."

"So you are telling me that she faked her whole side of your relationship?" she asked.

"Honestly I don't know, I don't know how anyone could fake what we had together." I stated.

"Well on the topics of break ups I broke up with him and now I'm seeing Lucas." she said proudly.

Lucas? Who the fuck is Lucas, I mean I never even met her last guy.

"I don't think I know him?"

"You don't? Well he looks like Brad Simpson from the Vamps."

"Oh I never really listened to the vamps when I was younger."

"Well he's fit." she stated.

I didn't insult him did I? I mean I'm happy for her but damn I was just talking about my break up. Or as Talia put it not actually broken up.

Aurora's POV:

How could I have messed up this badly?

I used to not understand what love is but what I'm feeling right now must be heart break. It's like my heart is physically aching in my chest. It's like nothing in the world mattered anymore apart from her. It's like I just get butterflies thinking about her.

I used to think that love only existed in fairytales or that love was a socially constructed entity. I mean I already sort of knew what love was but the love that I knew of was the unconditional love that you feel for your family, in my case my brother. I also never ed believed in true love because of my parents, they never loved each other, in fact I don't even think that they love me.

But because of her this all changed, I knew I loved her. However, only now have I realised that I am in love with her.

"Hey Jake could I maybe talk to you about something kind of important?" I asked him.

I know my brother probably isn't the best person to ask about relationship advice but he's all I have. I know he o en plays girls but that's only because he has his heart set on someone in particular but will never tell me who.

"Yeah sure what's up?" he asked as he sat down on the sofa next to me.

"Well you know Elle, we were kind of in a relationship."

"Aurora I already knew this," I gave him a confused look, "many things gave it away but mainly the way that you would look at her, I have never seen you look at anyone like that before." he stated.

"I messed up bad I-" I couldn't even finish what I was going to say before my tears where falling down my face.

"Hey, hey it's okay just tell me what happened, was there a fight in paradise?" he joked.

"I- I told her I wasn't inlove with her," he pulled me into a hug, "I do love her and I'm so stupid that I am only just realising this now." I choked out.

"And how did she take it?"

"She told me to get out, I could tell that she was pissed yet she never actually shouted at me or anything."

"Well I think it's a good sign that she never shouted as she still cares about you and didn't want to like scare you or anything. But as I said before I saw the way you looked at her but I also saw the way she looked at you."

I looked up at him confused.

"Don't act like you didn't notice, her eyes literally never le you. I'll give you an example, like say if you were just watching a film or something she would never be watching it be watching you. I also think that she good for you because she cares about you and I can tell. I would also never let anyone hurt you okay, I love you." he hugged me tighter.

"I know that she loves me and I now know that I loved her I just... How am I supposed to win her back?" I asked.

"You have prom soon right?"

I nodded.

"Is it masquerade?"

I nodded again, not sure where he is going with this.

"Well I think you should go and win your girl back, like with the masks she isn't going to know that it's you so I think that you should steal a dance with her and then whisk her away under the moonlight, simple."

"Simple? How am I meant to even get a dance with her?"

"Just use your charms, I mean if she also loves you like you say she should be drawn to you naturally."

"I don't think it works like that, sorry to burst your bubble."

"What? Next you are going to tell me that Father Christmas isn't real." he said dramatically.

I mean I haven't got anything to lose.

A/N:

I knowwww I said I wasn't going to update for a bit but it was this or physics revision soooo yeah.

Anyway hoped you enjoyed this chapter and feel free to leave a vote or comment xxx