Chapter 521

Jeremy had been AWOL the entire day

Cornelia had a full-blown panic attack. She paced nervously around her room, determined to track him down no matter what. She tried giving him a ring, but it was like trying to get blood out of a stone, no answer. So, she thought about calling his colleagues. But then, it dawned on her, that she didn't have his colleagues' digits.

She didn't know squat about Jeremy. Even after being hitched for two years, she was still in the dark about his job....

Feeling like a fish out of water, Cornelia thought of Marcus and Briana. These siblings knew Jeremy better than she did and might have contacts she needed. After some pondering, she shot a message to Marcus: "Hey, President Hartley, sorry to bug you this late. You don't happen to have Jeremy's work buddies' contact, do you?"

After sending the message, she stared at her phone, waiting for a reply. But Marcus was like a ghost, no response.

Feeling a bit stumped, Cornelia decided to bite the bullet and give Marcus a call.

It took forever for him to pick up. As soon as he answered, Cornelia blurted out "President Hartley, sorry to be a pain and call you this late. I just wondered if you have Jeremy's colleagues' number?"

But the voice on the other end was Dr. Dawson's: "Cornelia, Marcus is swamped, hasn't got time for your call. If there's nothing else, I'm going to hang up"

Cornelia wasn't ready to let this lead go cold: "Dr. Dawson, could you maybe ask him he has Jeremy's colleagues' number?"

Dr. Dawson replied: "Sorry! Marcus is off-limits, I can't help you" And then she hung up

Dr. Dawson was off her game today. Feeling high and dry, Cornelia decided to give Briana a call. No answer the first time, but Briana picked up the second time.

Briana sounded like she just woke up: “Cornelia, what’s up?”

Cornelia said “Briana, sorry to disturb your beauty sleep. I’ve been trying to reach Jeremy all day, and I’m worried sick. Do you have his colleagues’ number, maybe! can reach him through them. Or is there any other way to get hold of him?”

Briana suddenly sounded more awake: “Cornelia, are you saying you can’t reach your hubby?”

She knew Marcus took their marriage seriously, he wouldn’t just ignore Cornelia’s messages.

Cornelia nodded hastily: “Yeah, Bri, can you help me reach him? As long as I know he’s okay, it doesn’t matter if he calls me back.”

Briana said: “Cornelia, cool your jets, let me try to reach him first, see what he’s up to

After hanging up, Briana immediately dialed Marcus’s cell, first his personal one, but it was switched off.

Next, she tried his work phone. As soon as she got through and said, “Hey bro, she heard Dr. Dawson’s voice saying, “Bri, Mr. Marcus is tied up right now, he might not be able to take your call.”

Briana replied, “Dr. Dawson, Cornelia’s looking for my brother, she can’t reach him and she’s freaking out. No matter how busy Marcus is, I hope you can get him to. reply to Cornelia ASAP”

Dr. Dawson was silent for a few seconds on the other end of the phone, then slowly said. “Bri, Marcus might not be able to call Cornelia back right now.”

Chapter $22

Briana was pissed off, "Why can't he call Cornelia back? She's his wife. He might be caught up with stuff, but what's more important than his wife?"

Dr. Dawson replied, "Marc is in the hospital. He's not well"

Briana was shocked. "What happened to my brother? Is it serious?"

Knowing Marc, he would've definitely called Cornelia back if it wasn't serious.

"He's in a coma right now," Dr. Dawson replied.

Upon hearing this, Briana was anxious, "I'll go explain to Cornelia. Which hospital are you in? I'm coming now."

"No need for you to come. I'm here with Marc. And don't tell Cornelia, Marc doesn't want her to know," said Dr. Dawson.

This made Briana even more furious, "My brother is lying unconscious and you didn't inform us. I didn't blame you for that. Now I want to see him, and you're stopping me? Do you think you're closer to him? Let me tell you, Cornelia is the closest person to my brother. They're legally married, and no matter what happens, you should tell her"

Dr. Dawson replied coldly, "Now you remember that you're the closest ones to Marc? How many dangers has he faced these years, do you know? Who was with him when he was in danger, do you know? We were the ones who always stood by his side, protecting him!"

With that, Dr. Dawson hung up.

Briana, listening to the busy tone, felt something was off, but couldn't pinpoint what. Now wasn't the time to ponder though. She needed to placate Cornelia and not let her worry.

So, she immediately called Cornelia back, "Cornelia, I just spoke to Jeremy's colleague. He told me Jeremy didn't reply because his phone was stolen and he hasn't had a chance to replace it yet"

"Is that really the case?" asked Cornelia.

"If you don't believe me, I can give you his colleague's number. You can ask him yourself, replied Briana.

Hearing this, Cornelia was finally relieved, "That's fine, as long as he didn't run into some kind of trouble."

He's definitely not okay! Your intuition was spot on!

Although Briana wanted to tell Cornelia the truth, she didn't want her to worry and made up a story, "Cornelia, he's a grown man, what could possibly happen to - him? Be honest, do you think he's run off with some other woman if he doesn't contact you for a day?"

Cornelia replied, "Not really..."

After giving it some thought, Briana decided to tell Cornelia about Marcus. Cornelia was her sister-in-law, and if everyone kept Cornelia in the dark about Marcus, she'd feel awful when she eventually finds out.

"Cornelia, there's nothing wrong with Jeremy, but my brother is in some trouble, continued Briana.

"What happened to President Hartley? Cornelia asked.

"My brother's in the hospital. He's ill, replied Briana.

"Is it serious?" Cornelia asked, concerned.

"It seems to be somewhat serious. Would you like to come to the hospital

Chapter 523

Cornelia asked, "What's wrong with him?"

Briana replied. "I'm not really sure what's up, I just heard from Dr. Dawson that he's sick and in the hospital. Cornelia, would you mind coming with me to visit my brother at the hospital?"

That morning, Cornelia saw Marcus getting all cozy with Natalia at the Riverside Terrace Club, and then he got sick in the evening. Was it because he usually kept his desires on a leash and let loose all of a sudden, his body just couldn't handle it?

If that's the case, Cornelia thought Marcus deserved it.

But his wife, she was really getting the short end of the stick. He was out there messing around, and when his health took a hit, those women wouldn't be there for him. The burden of caring for him fell onto Dr. Dawson and his wife.

The more Cornelia thought about it, the more sickened she felt, "Bri, I'm currently at Southern Peak, and it's not convenient for me to accompany you to visit President Hartley. If I return to Riverton and President Harley is still in the hospital, visit him then."

"You're at Southern Peak? Can't you come back tonight?" After asking, Briana didn't even let Cornelia answer, "There are still train tickets from Southern Peak to Riverton. It's a quick ride. Cornelia, just hurry back. I'll pick you up at the station."

Briana was so enthusiastic, it was kind of hard to say no to her. But every time Cornelia thought about Marcus's actions this morning, she felt sick to her stomach. She didn't want to see him before she had a chance to adjust her mindset. And her going to the hospital in the middle of the night as an outsider would only cause trouble.

"Bri, I need to stay with my grandma, I'm really sorry."

Briana nodded disappointingly, "Alright then. Cornelia, you rest up, I'll hang up now!"

It was a shame, Cornelia was always worried about Jeremy, and she sounded like shit was on the verge of tears on the phone. But when she heard about Marcus being sick and in the hospital, she didn't seem worried or sympathetic at all, and wasn't willing to go with her to visit him.

Guess Cornelia didn't really care much about Marcus, and her brother needed to step up his game.

She wondered if Cornelia would regret not going to the hospital today when she finds out that Jeremy and Marcus are actually the same person.

After confirming that Jeremy was okay, Cornelia finally breathed a sigh of relief. She thought she could get a good night's sleep, but as soon as she lay down, the scene from this morning kept replaying in her mind

-The messy room, the entwined couple....

"Ahh!" Cornelia smacked her forehead, telling herself over and over again, "Cornelia, stop thinking about all that crap. Marcus is just your boss; his private life has nothing to do with you. You just need to focus on doing your job."

That's right, some things you can't just forget by not thinking about them, the harder you try not to think, the clearer the images in your memory become. She could even hear the sounds of them in bed...

Cornelia tossed and turned all night because of this, and didn't fall asleep until late into the night.

She didn't sleep well, was woken up by the alarm in the morning, and her eyes were super puffy.

Seeing her like this, the two elderly ladies were very worried, "Nelly, is it because you're not used to this bed, causing you to not sleep well?"

Cornelia couldn't say it was because she didn't sleep well due to her boss's affair. She awkwardly nodded, "That's probably it."

Granny Luisa said, "Then you should go take a break after breakfast"

Cornelia: "Granny, I'm fine. I get my energy back in a bit. Cornelia woke up early to have breakfast with the two old ladies, then walked with them in the yard and chats, spending as much time with them as possible.

Her main purpose of coming to Southern Peak was to accompany the two grannies she spent the whole day shut in her room sleeping, she might as well not come.

During the walk, the conversation somehow veered back to Comelia and Jeremy, and naturally, the topic of having kids came up again.

Comelia really didn't want to continue this topic, so she quickly changed the subject. Grannies, what do you want for lunch? I can cook for you, okay?"

Granny Luisa said. "No need, someone is already preparing lunch."

Granny Rebecca said. "Next time remember to bring Jay with you to Southern Peak We want to ask when he's planning to have kids."

Granny Luisa said, "Or I can call Jeremy now to ask what he's thinking?"

Cornelia quickly intervened, "Granny, Jeremy's phone was stolen, and we can't get in touch with him now."

Granny Luisa said, "Then we'll contact him later. Anyway, you two need to start planning for a baby, and you can't delay any longer. If it drags on, we two old ladies might not see your child even when we're six feet under")

This kind of pressure to have children made Cornelia feel stressed. She originally bought a ticket to return to Riverton in the evening, but she changed it to the afternoon, returning to Riverton earlier

Back in Riverton, she had some time to kill, so Comelia decided to hit the mall and buy some clothes, otherwise she'd have nothing to wear during the summer. The nearest mall to her home was the Riverton Holiday Plaza.

This mall is a large complex incorporating a shopping centre, offices, and a five-star themed hotel. It's conveniently located above a subway station and is one of Riverton's most famous five-star shopping centres.

The first to fifth floors of the mall have more affordable brands that the average office worker can afford.

The sixth floor features restaurants offering dishes from all over the country. Generally, a meal for three costs about $100, which is within Cornelia's budget.

The seventh to ninth floors offer international luxury brands, with the cheapest clothing starting in the five figures. It's a place for the rich.

The tenth floor also has restaurants, but these are high-end ones, with meals starting at $1000 per person.

Places like these, Cornelia and her friends could only afford to come once a year. Even if they had some savings in their accounts, they wouldn't want to come a second time. Paying the bill after a meal felt like they were cutting off a few pounds of flesh.

Cornelia made her way to the first floor.

When she heard this voice, Cornelia realized it was Natalia.

She turned around to see Natalia walking towards her in stilettos, "Cornelia, it's really you. I thought I was seeing things. Are you here to shop for clothes to go?"

"Yes" Cornelia looked at Natalia

The weather was hot today. Natalia had ditched her usual simple attire and was wearing a white long-sleeved bubble dress, with a small scarf tied around her neck. While speaking, Natalia lightly pulled her scarf, revealing a mark that looked like a hickey under the scarf.

Natalia excitedly grabbed Comelia, "Cornelia, are you shopping alone? Wann a team up?"

Comelia looked down at Natalia's hand gripping her arm, paused, then subtly pulled away, "Ms. Reese, I can only afford to shop from the first to fifth floor"

Natalia, seemingly oblivious to Cornelia's aloofness, grabbed her arm again, " My brother just wired me some money, so we could shop from the sixth to ninth floor together. If you see anything you like, I can buy it for you"

Cameron thought she was really dating Marcus now, so he wired her a big sum of money today, hoping she could dress up and not embarrass herself in front of

Comelia said, "I won't help you chase after President Hartley, so you don't need to butter me up."

Natalia said, "Comelia, I can't live without Marcus. Would you rather see me die?"

Comelia pulled her arm free, took two steps back and kept her distance from Natalia, No one can't live without someone else. If you're determined to make your own life miserable, that's your business"

Natalia

*blinked, tears welling up in her eyes, making her look pitiful, "Cornelia, it's because you're the only one who can help me. **

Comelia coldly said. "The only one who can save you is yourself. Don't pin your hopes on others, especially someone you're not even close with."

Natalia wiped her tears, "Are you not helping me because you also like Marc? Is it because you already slept with Marc?"

Cornelia sneered, "So if I don't help you, I'm the bad guy. Is that your idea of wanting to be friends with me?"

Natalia panicked, "Comelia, I didn't mean that, I just want to know if things are as I suspect... If they are, I, L

I

Cornelia said. "You what?"

Natalia said, "I might give Marc to you."

Comelia couldn't help but laugh, "Is Marcus yours? You can give him to me? Do you see him as a commodity that can be traded?"

Natalia lowered her head, murmuring, "I feel like if I'm competing against you, I don't stand a chance."

Seeing her serious expression, Cornelia thought for a moment, then asked, "I want to ask you something, and you have to answer me."

Natalia said, "Ask away."

Comelia asked, "Have you hook up with Marcus?"

Natalia was about to shake her head, but then remembering Xavier's words, she firmly nodded,

"Comelia, I... you know, my dream since childhood was to marry Marc. The night before last, I finally had the chance. He wanted me. Why would I refuse him?"

Cornelia didn't say anything. She didn't even understand why she asked Natalia. She saw it with her own eyes, yet she doubted what she saw, hoping to get a denial from Natalia.

But this answer disappointed her!

Natalia clung onto Comelia's hand, squeezing so hard it hurt. "Cornelia, is it because had a thing with Marcus that you don't want to be friends with me any more?" Comelia looked at Natalia, who seemed truly desperate to be her friend, but she couldn't be friends with someone whose values were so different from hers. "Natalia, we were never truly friends to begin with..."

"Natalia, from now on, I won't rope you into chasing after Marcus, and I won't mention him in front of you. Can we still be friends?" Natalia's voice was urgent, almost pleading.

Comelia was softening, unsure of how to respond when a gentle voice came from behind, "Natalia, who are you chatting with?"

Natalia's face changed, and she quickly moved towards the source of the voice. "Mom, why are you here?"

The person was none other than Natalia's mother, Clair.

Comelia turned around to see a woman in her forties, dressed head to toe in designer labels.

Clair gave Comelia an arrogant glance before looking away, as if another look at Comelia would dirty her eyes.

"Natalia, I've told you so many times, you're a Reese, you shouldn't make friends with just anyone. Why can't you listen?" She patted Natalia's head in a seemingly gentle manner, but her tone left no room for discussion.

"Mom, she's not just anyone. She's Marcus's assistant. She's with him every day and he values her a lot," Natalia defended.

Upon hearing that she was Marcus's assistant, Clair's attitude did a 180. "Then why didn't you introduce her to us earlier?"

"Natalia, I'm gonna head out," Cornelia said, turning to leave. She had no interest in arrogant people, and had no desire to be involved with them.

From behind, Clair's sharp voice rang out, "She's Marcus's assistant, but she's nothing more than a glorified errand girl, acting all high and mighty in front of me."

Hearing the mocking voice, Cornelia whipped around, smiling at Clair, "For a woman of the Reese family, and the lady of one of the top four families in Riverton, you sure don't know the first thing about manners. Just barking around like some stray dog. I wonder where you picked up such a lack of decorum"

With that, Cornelia turned again, walking away with grace. She had to shop for clothes, cook dinner, and wait for Zack and Abigail to come home.

In the Reese family, few dared to talk back to Clair. Clair was left fuming, unable to conjure up a retort, and could only watch Cornelia leave.

"Cornelia..." Natalia wanted to chase after Cornelia, but Clair stopped her. "What did you call that woman?"

"She's Cornelia Is there a problem, mom?" Natalia asked.

"Where is she from?" Clair asked.

"I think she's from Rosenberg," Natalia answered.

Clair's face went pale, her heart pounding. "You can't have any more contact with her"

"Why?" Natalia was confused.

"I just don't want you to have any contact with her. You need to listen to me, and you don't need to know why" Clair stated.

"But I can only get close to Marc through her..." Natalia started.

"You'll have to find another way. No matter how you get close to Marcus, you can't have any contact with her Clair instructed.

Clair immediately pulled her into a hug, gently patting her back and saying, "Hang in there, Natalia Just a little longer, everything will be alright"

Natalia pushed Clair away, rolled up her sleeve, and shoved her bruised arm in Clair's face, "Look at this, all done by Cameron. He gets pissed off outside and takes it out on me at home. If I stay in that house any longer, he'll beat me to death. Why do you keep telling me to hang in there? Am I even your child?"

Smack!

Clair slapped Natalia's face hard, looking furious, "I raised you, gave you the best life possible. Now you're all grown up, yelling at me and questioning if I'm your real mother. You've really disappointed me, Natalia."

The slap rang loud and clear. It should've hurt, but Natalia felt nothing. As if her body had already numbed to this kind of pain.

She touched her slapped face

and suddenly laughed, "So now even you're hitting me? You gave birth to me and raised me. All so you could hit me whenever you want?"

"You're crazy!" Clair looked at Natalia coldly, gestured for a bodyguard, "Take her home, don't let her embarrass us in public."

Natalia gave a cold laugh, "So, speaking the truth is now embarrassing? But me throwing myself at Marcus isn't? He's a married man, and he loves his wife. But you want me to be the mistress and that's not shameful? Because he's Marcus, because he's richer than us, the Reese family. I should throw away my dignity to get close to him. This world really worships money!"

Clair slapped Natalia again out of anger, "Take her home. She's not to leave the house without my permission."

Natalia shook off the bodyguard's hand, "You better keep your word, don't let me leave the house."

Clair was fuming. "You!"

As the crowd grew, some even took out their phones to take pictures. Clair ordered the bodyguards to disperse the crowd, then left the mall herself.

Once back in the car, Clair kept thinking about Comelia's face. After some deep thought, she dialed a number, "Do you have any recent pictures of that kid?"

Whatever the response was, Clair nodded, "Photos from her teens would do, send them over."

Soon, she received a photo. Upon seeing the girl in the picture, she paled. Her hand was shaking so much she could barely hold onto her phone.

After a while, she composed herself and deleted the photo. Then she redialed the number again, "When did she come to Riverton?"

The person on the other end of the line said, "She came to Riverton for college and has settled there. At the end of last year, she also brought her grandmother to Riverton."

Hearing this, Clair looked slightly panicked, "An old woman her age also came to Riverton? Do they know something?"

The person on the other end said, "What could they possibly know? That car accident was a mere accident, the police found nothing suspicious back then. What could an old woman and a child possibly know? The girl was accepted into University of Riverton. Due to some problems at home, she was kicked out of Rosenberg and stayed in Riverton."

Clair asked, "She's so lucky, what problems could she have?"

The person responded, "A few years ago, when she was a freshman or sophomore in college. She got bored during the holidays, seduced a neighbor's husband and was caught by his wife. The incident was huge and was on the local headlines. She became the most hated person in the city"

A light sparked in Clair's eyes, "Tell me the details. If possible, get me those newspapers. The more detailed the better."

The person on the other end of the line chuckled, "When she was kicked out of Rosenberg and forced to stay in Riverton, I knew you'd need this information someday I've saved the newspapers, screenshots of online reports, and photos of the scene for you"

Clair said, "After all these years, you're still the kindest to me."

Zack stood his ground. "I'm not like them."

Abigail asked him, "How so?"

Zack explained, "I grew up with you guys, playing girly games. You've influenced me to the point where I don't have those playboy thoughts."

Abigail jokingly patted Zack's shoulder, "Buddy, lets go to Thailand sometime. We need to make your body match your mind."

Zack looked down at his body and quickly buttoned up his shirt, "I'm the only child in the Ruck family. My dad wants me to carry on the bloodline. If I got surgery in Thailand, he'd kill me"

Cornelia and Abigail burst into laughter at Zack's antics.

Cornelia was even laughing so hard she was crying. She wiped her tears with a tissue "Zack, stop kidding around and answer my question seriously, without any prejudice."

Zack pondered and then replied, "To be honest, I've dreamed of having multiple wives But then I remember you guys always picking on me and that idea flies out the window."

Abigail punched him, "When did we ever pick on you?"

Zack replied, "Aren't you doing it right now?"

Cornelia said, "Stop the small talk, answer me properly."

Zack added, "I think everyone has the potential to be unfaithful, not just men, women too. It's all about whether you can control it with morality. Do those who cheat not know it's immoral? Of course, they do. But knowing this, they still do it. It shows they think with their bodies, seeking only physical stimulation. Morality can't restrain them. Do those good men who love their wives and children not find other women more attractive than their wives? Sure they do. However, they can control their desires and never cross the line. They stick to their principles."

Hearing this, Cornelia couldn't help but give Zack a thumbs up. "Zack, you've got some deep thoughts. You're absolutely right, we can't generalize. There are unfaithful and faithful men, just as there are faithful and unfaithful women."

Abigail nodded in agreement.

Zack continued, "Since we're on the subject, let's talk about Jeremy."

Cornelia said, "Zack, I'm telling you. We can talk about Jeremy, but you can't badmouth him."
