

Impulsive Vow to an Enigmatic Husband (Cornelia Stewart) Chapter 611

Chapter 611

Deep down, Leonardo knew that he and Cornelia were neither husband and wife, nor lovers

Cornelia had never looked at him as a man, and that was probably the second mason.

The more Leonardo thought about it, the angrier he got. What pissed him off even more was that Cornelia, the one who was causing him all this grief, didn't care at all. "Every girl has their period every month what's the big deal?"

While Leonardo was speechless, Ryan burst out laughing "Leonardo, this is the first time I've ever seen a girl leave you speechless It's quite a sight to see"

Leonardo, "Get lost"

Ryan tried to suppress his laughter. "Alright, I'll stop laughing at you."

Cornelia put down her fork, "Do any of you know when the banquet is going to start? I'm starving I want some real food"

Maybe it was because she had traveled with Marcus and tasted all kinds of delicacies, she had become too picky about food. The regular pastries that were made in large batches just didn't appeal to her. After eating a few, she felt sick

Ryan, "The Reese family's banquets are always a hassle. Young people usually don't want to come a second time. Even party lover Briana didn't come. If it weren't for Marcus, you wouldn't see us here tonight either."

Cornelia, "We're not going to wait another two hours to eat, are we?"

Ryan, "We might as well go out and eat. If you can't stand the hunger, let's go. I'll treat you."

Leonardo, "Ryan, why are you so nice to Cornelia?"

Ryan, "Because her husband is my good friend. I'm looking out for her on his behalf"

Leonardo, "Why would I not know her husband if you do?"

Ryan, "No one said you didn't."

Leonardo, "Who is it?"

Cornelia cleared her throat, "Weren't you going to take me out to eat? Are we going or not?"

Cornelia's main purpose for tonight was to meet Natalia. Now that she had met her, there was no need to stay any longer. She'd go fill her stomach first.

Ryan immediately stood up and made a gesture of invitation.
"Of course! It's my honor to have a beauty like you dine with me."

Cornelia picked up her handbag and put on her shawl, 'Let's go then "

Thinking about the delicious food she was about to eat, Cornelia's steps were light.

Ryan said, "I've always been curious about how you and your husband get along?"

Being both husband and wife and superior and employee, it was interesting that at Cornelia didn't know that the CEO she worked with every day was her husband.

If possible. Ryan would love to stick around Cornelia just to witness her reaction when she found out Jeremy was her CEO.

But truth be told, very few people knew that Marcus also went by the name Jeremy. Even he didn't know that until Marcus entrusted him to draw up the divorce papers

Leonardo, who had always loved hanging out with Marcus since they were kids, might still not know that Marcus also went by the name Jeremy Cornelia asked, "Don't you know everything? Why are you asking me?"

Ryan replied, "You already know?"

Cornelia countered, "What do you think?"

Did Cornelia already know? If so, he had missed the moment when Cornelia discovered the truth.

Chapter 612

Ryan suddenly got hit with the boredom bug

Leonardo was like, "Are you two going at it again with your cryptic chit-chat? Mam and Cornelia are practically glued together. I get it when they're talking in codes. But you two? You barely know each other How come you have secrets I'm not privy to?"

Ryan shrugged. "Give it some time, and you'll get it."

Everyone kept telling him to wait, but he wanted to know right now. Leonardo was about to lose his cool. He snapped, "No more 'give it some time I want to know now!'"

Ryan suggested, "Why don't you ask Cornelia?"

Leonardo turned to Cornelia. "Cornelia..."

"Apologies, dear guests!"

An announcement suddenly interrupted their conversation. "We have an emergency at the birthday party. Please stay put and avoid wandering around"

The voice belonged to Cameron.

Hearing the word 'emergency'. Cornelia's heart skipped a beat. She immediately turned to go find Marcus, but Leonardo quickly grabbed her "Wait, Cornelia. The announcement said to stay put Where are you off to?"

Cornelia lost her cool.

"Let go of me! I have to find Marcus. I can't let anything happen to him."

Marcus' situation was special, and there were many people who wanted to harm him behind his back.

Cornelia feared that the emergency was about Marcus. She needed to find him and ensure his safety.

Seeing how flustered Cornelia was, Leonardo held on tighter "Calm down, Cornelia Marcus will be fine."

"Let me go! I'll see for myself if he's fine Just as Cornelia was trying to wriggle free from Leonardo's grip, Cameron's voice came again

"There's no need for panic. The emergency is not a security issue. My father's necklace for his wife has gone missing. We suspect a thief might've sneaked in. Please keep your belongings safe and watch out for unfamiliar faces. If you find any clues, please inform me immediately."

Cornelia was speechless. She really wanted to swear.

A missing necklace was just a missing necklace. Why called it an emergency? What a drama queen.

Leonardo said, "Really? All this fuss over a necklace?"

Ryan chimed in. "What if the necklace is worth 30 million dollars?"

Leonardo doubted, "30 million dollars? I find it hard to believe that Granger would spend that much on a necklace for Clair."

Ryan added. "I'm not sure if Granger would do that. But I've heard about that necklace."

Leonardo was curious. "Do tell."

Ryan explained, "About a year ago, a mysterious wealthy man paid a fortune for a necklace called 'Heavenly Radiance'. He said it was for his wife. But the man was very secretive, only leaving behind two initials, with no other information."

Leonardo laughed. "That couldn't be Granger. He's the type who'd want a horde of journalists around even when he's being intimate with his wife. He wouldn't miss a chance to show off and opt for secrecy"

Ryan continued, “The necklace was the last piece by famous Parisian designer Wayland, and it was his proudest achievement. Wayland spent three years painstakingly crafting the necklace for the woman he loved most, naming it ‘Heavenly Radiance’. It symbolized eternal love, or more accurately, love that never fades.”

30 million dollars? Paris? A mysterious wealthy man? A necklace for his wife?

After hearing Ryan’s story, Cornelia seemed to have something on her mind, but before she could speak...

A group of people walked hastily towards them. Among them was a woman in black whom Cornelia had never seen before. She pointed at Cornelia and claimed, “It’s her. I saw her with my own eyes. She stole Mrs Reese’s necklace.”

Chapter 613

“Who the heck are you? Do you realize we can sue you for defamation?”

Leonardo and Cornelia’s relationship was mostly squabble-filled, neither of them big fans of each other, but if anyone tried to tarnish Cornelia’s reputation, Leonardo wouldn’t stand for it

He continued, “Ryan, you’re a lawyer, you should teach this spiteful woman a lesson. Defaming others can lead to serious consequences. How many years could she be sentenced to if it’s severe?”

Ryan played along. “That depends on the severity of the situation and how much damage the slander has done to the person’s reputation and life.”

The woman in black was clearly prepared. She fearlessly retorted, “Well since there’s a lawyer among you, can you kindly tell this thief what the consequences of stealing are? Especially when it’s something worth thirty million dollars?”

Without giving anyone the chance to respond, the woman in black eyed Cornelia, "You're not bad looking quite pretty actually Made a decent amount of money through shady means, I suppose. Why the need to steal the necklace?"

In society the most effective way to stigmatize a woman was through malicious slander. Cornelia had seen too much of this over the years.

Now being attacked like this, she barely flinched.

"Who the hell are you? If you continue this nonsense, I'll make you regret it."

Coming from a wealthy family, Leonardo wasn't used to being bullied Hearing such an insult, he got instantly pissed,

"Look, he's getting upset. Guilty, perhaps? The woman in black raised her voice, attracting the attention of the guests.

With the crowd growing, naturally, it caused a stir. Cameron appeared at the scene just in time, "What seems to be the problem here?"

The woman in black pointed at Cornelia and yelled, "This woman stole Mrs. Reese's necklace"

If it wasn't for his upbringing that taught him never to hit a woman, Leonardo would've slapped her, "Try spouting that nonsense again"

Cameron held back an agitated Leonardo,

"Leo, hold your horses. If there are accusations against Cornelia, we'll clear her name. It's not a big deal"

Leonardo shook off Cameron's hand, "It might not be a big deal, but isn't this damaging to one's self-esteem? Cameron, no one's bullying Cornelia as long as I'm here"

Cameron frowned.

"Everyone is standing around now If Cornelia can't prove she didn't steal the necklace, it might tarnish her reputation and may even affect the Hartley Group."

Leonardo retorted, "Pshh! All the sweet talk. I think this woman in black is the one who stole the necklace. She's just pointing fingers at us first."

The woman in black countered, "You suspect that I stole the necklace? Did you see me take it?" She took off her coat and handed it to Cameron, "Mr. Reese, please clear my name in front of everyone."

After taking off her coat, she was only wearing a thin slip dress, through which her underwear pattern could be vaguely seen.

Cameron went through her coat, "You don't need to do this. We can sit down and have a proper conversation to clear things up. If others don't do this, it might seem like they're hiding something"

The woman in black said, "Mr. Reese, no more words, just tell me, is the necklace in my coat pocket?"

Cameron held up her coat and shook it. "Everyone can see, the pockets are clean, nothing inside."

The woman in black turned to Leonardo, "Mr. Collins, I've proven my innocence. Now it's time for her to do the same."

Chapter 614

Leonardo tightly held Cornelia's hand "Cornelia, let's get out of here. We don't have to deal with these people"

Cornelia remained silent, just quietly observing everyone else's performance

When a strange woman, backed by a crowd blocked their way and accused her of theft, Cornelia had already realized that this so-called 'necklace lost incident' might be a trap set up by Clair

If her guess was correct, then the necklace that Clair lost would definitely show up somewhere associated with her.

She was wearing a dress, without pockets, so the necklace couldn't possibly be on her.

So the only possible place for Clair's lost necklace would be the handbag she carried

The handbag had always been by her side, barely out of her sight.

But wait this bag had been out of her sight.

When she met Natalia in the lounge, Natalia accidentally knocked her bag off the table, and then Natalia picked it up for her. Before, when Natalia left, she seemed to apologize to her for no reason.

After reviewing the process in her mind, Cornelia was pretty sure she had figured out what had happened.

If Clair's necklace was found in her handbag, she would be unable to clear her name no matter how she explained.

So, she absolutely couldn't give up her bag!

Cornelia looked at the crowd, the woman in black who accused her and Cameron's eyes were full of malice, it was obvious that they were the ones who set up this trap together

Cornelia looked back and saw Natalia behind a pillar in the distance.

Natalia was also looking at her, but because of the distance, Cornelia couldn't see Natalia's expression clearly.

The woman in black was pressing hard, not giving Cornelia a chance to breathe, "I've proven my innocence, should she not prove hers as well? Or does she think Mr. Wilson can really disregard everything and take her out of here?"

Cornelia withdrew her hand, her cold gaze swept over the crowd, and everything reminded her of the time she was falsely accused in the past.

It seemed like everyone was waiting for her to prove her innocence, but in fact, they all believed she was the thief and wanted to see her embarrassed when exposed

In the past, she was young and thought that as long as she explained, people would understand

Now she understood that there were some things that didn't need to be explained at all.

Cornelia smiled and said, "Who are you? Do I know you? If you weren't someone I know, I might think I had desecrated your family's grave, which would make you smear me like this in front of so many people."

The woman in black, "You... you really have a way with words, I can't argue with you. Let's let the facts speak, dare you show your bag to everyone? If you didn't steal anything. I'll kneel down and apologize to you"

Cornelia scoffed. "Do I need someone like you to kneel and apologize? What good does your apology do me? Since you say I stole the necklace, then you should provide evidence to prove I stole it."

Chapter 615

Cornelia looked coldly at everyone, speaking slowly and forcefully "Why do you demand that I prove my innocence? Just because of your word, I have to prove I'm not guilty. Is this fair? Can I live a peaceful life? If a dog barks at me, do I also have to prove that I didn't steal its food?"

The lady in black didn't expect Cornelia's reasoning to be so clear, so she helplessly glanced at Cameron

Cameron always knew that Cornelia had a bad temper, and that she was not an easy person to deal with, she would never let anyone check her bag.

Luckily, he didn't actually need to

He looked at the necklace faintly visible around Cornelia's neck, "Could you please open your shirt collar and let us see your necklace?"

"You want to see my necklace? What gives you the right?" At this moment, Cornelia was almost certain that the necklace around her neck was the real Heavenly Radiance.

From the first day she worked with Marcus, she heard from Ben that Marcus went to Paris before heading back and spent 30 million dollars on a necklace for his wife.....

Cornelia had no idea that Marcus had delivered this 30 million-dollar necklace to her in disguise.

The necklace that Marcus spent 30 million dollars on couldn't possibly be fake

So, there was only one possibility, Clair's Heavenly Radiance was a knockoff.

If this got out, not only would Clair be embarrassed, but the whole Reese family and even the Reese Group would be humiliated. This could potentially affect the Reese Group's stock.

Cameron said, "The necklace around your neck is the one she lost. Now, if you give the necklace back to us, I can let it go, and this matter can be put to rest. But if you insist on keeping something worth thirty million dollars, I can't just give it to you, and we will have to call the police to handle this."

Upon hearing this, Leonardo got angry "Cameron, what are you talking about? This is an insult to Cornelia's dignity"

"She's just an assistant working for Marcus, maybe occasionally doing some special tasks. What dignity does she have." With Marcus not around, Cameron didn't hold back his words

He had always wanted to humiliate this woman, but every time he saw her, she was with Marcus, which didn't give him a chance to do so.

"Heh, Cameron, don't drag President Hartley into your dirty thoughts." Cornelia scoffed, "Are you saying the necklace around my neck is identical to the one your stepmother lost?"

Cameron nodded, "Many people have seen Heavenly Radiance tonight, I'm not just making things up"

The onlookers echoed, "Yes, yes, we've all seen it. The necklace Mrs. Reese lost looks exactly like that."

Cornelia started laughing. "It's surprising that the wife of the Reese Group is wearing a knockoff and shamelessly claiming it's worth 30 million dollars."

Cornelia's words were like a depth charge thrown into a calm lake, instantly causing a great uproar.

The fact that the lady of the Reese family was wearing a knockoff necklace was more shocking than an assistant stealing it

Most of the guests at the birthday party were there for their own interests, not many were sincerely celebrating. Many people secretly hoped that Clair's necklace was a knockoff, so they would have a juicy gossip topic in the future

Cameron's aim was to show everyone that Cornelia was poor, indicating that she couldn't afford a real necklace and therefore had ill intentions when seeing the real one. But now Cornelia had taken the first step, which annoyed him, "You're talking nonsense! The two necklaces are identical, the only person who could be wearing a knockoff is you!

"Did I say my necklace was real?" Cornelia chuckled, "The necklace around my neck was bought by my husband from a street stall, and it only cost a few bucks. But to me, even if it's just a few bucks, as long as it's from my husband, it's priceless."

Cornelia's candid confession that she was wearing a knockoff ruined Cameron's plan, but he wasn't going to let it go, "Do you think that by saying this, you can shake off the suspicion of theft?"

Leonardo, "And what do you want to do then?"

Cameron said, "Ask her to open her bag and we can check it"

Leonardo replied "Or you could call the cops and let them handle it"

Cameron shot Leonardo an angry look "Are you implying I do not dare to call the police?"

Leonardo shrugged "Whatever floats your boat"

"Nobody's leaving until the cops get here Stay put," Cameron pulled out his phone and dialed 911. After explaining the situation briefly he shot Cornelia and her friends a glare before storming off

The cops would take some time to arrive, so the spectators began to disperse. Some went to grab food, while others grabbed drinks, planning to refuel before the drama

continued

Once the others had left, Cornelia and her group found a place to sit.

Ryan eyed the necklace around Cornelia's neck, partially hidden beneath her clothing. He leaned in and whispered, "Is that a star pendant on your necklace, Cornelia Cornelia nodded.

Ryan said, "Wow! So you're the real owner of the Heavenly Radiance!"

It turned out that the buyer of the $30 million necklace in Paris a year ago was Marcus

Cornelia admitted, "He didn't tell me I had no idea..."

The "he" she referred to was obviously Marcus. Ryan understood, "If he gave it to you, it's gotta be legit."

Leonardo asked, "What are you guys on about? I'm lost."

"Nothing" Cornelia turned to Leonardo, "Mr. Wilson, I need a favor..."

Leonardo said, "Shoot!"

Cornelia said, "If I'm not mistaken, the necklace they're looking for is probably in my bag."

Leonardo took a deep breath "Thank God you didn't let them search your bag. Who's trying to frame you? How can I help?"

Leonardo didn't suspect Cornelia of being a thief. His first thought was that someone was trying to frame her.

Cornelia grinned, "Smart!"

Leonardo glared at her, "You're cracking jokes at a time like this?"

Cornelia retorted, "Would you rather I cry?"

Leonardo suggested, "You could give me the necklace. If they find it on me, I'll say I borrowed it just for fun. That should defuse the situation."

Cornelia shook her head, and a hint of coldness flickered in her clear eyes as she said "No way. I didn't provoke them, but they're trying to harm me. I won't just let it slide."

Leonardo asked, "What's your plan?"

Cornelia whispered something in Leonardo's ear. He nodded, "Don't worry, I've got you."

Chapter 617

Leonardo seemed to be quite laid back and unreliable on the surface, but when push came to shove, he never disappointed. That was why Cornelia entrusted him with a key part of her retaliation against the Reese family.

"Mr. Wilson, I'm counting on you"

“No worries, I won't let you down,” Leonardo enthusiastically patted Comelia's shoulder, “Cornelia, once this is all sorted, introduce me to your husband, will you?”

He wanted to see what kind of guy could make a girl as outstanding as Comelia so reliant on him.

Comelia replied. “Sure, I'll arrange that”

Leonardo, “It's a deal, then”

Comelia nodded, “It's a deal!”

After he left, Comelia rubbed her sore shoulder that he'd smacked, wincing in pain, “Why's he gotta be so rough?”

Ryan laughed. “That's just him. He's so crude, if he wasn't a Wilson, he'd never get a girlfriend.”

Cornelia asked, “Mr. Ryan, do you have a girlfriend?”

Ryan answered, “Cornelia, you are truly someone who can handle big things. In the face of crisis, you're not only calm but also concerned about whether I have a girlfriend”

Cornelia shrugged. “What's the use of panicking?”

Ryan's gaze landed on Comelia, openly sizing her up, “Is it because you have Marc that you're not afraid?”

Cornelia paused, then chuckled, “Oh right, I totally forgot about President Hartley”

Ryan suggested, “Let Marc handle it then. See if those troublemakers still dare to mess with you.”

Cornelia shook her head. “No need, I can handle this on my own. It's my problem, and I'll deal with it.”

“The Reese family is clearly targeting you. This is no small matter. They won't let you off easily. The Reese family has a lot of clout in Paverton, don't underestimate them.”

As a lawyer, Ryan had a keen sense of judgment. He knew that tonight's event was a trap set by the Reese family for Cornelia

Ryan didn't know what grudge Cornelia had with the Reese family or why they had chosen to target her at such an occasion, "When did you make enemies with them?"

Cornelia pointed to her necklace, "Maybe it's mainly because we don't get along. The first time I met Cameron, I could tell he had a problem with me. Today, at such an important occasion, Clair was flaunting her 30-million-dollar necklace everywhere. I wore the same one as her, so they're bound to have a beef with me"

Ryan laughed, "It's kind of funny, they probably never expected to see the owner of the Heavenly Radiance wearing it here."

Cornelia sighed, "There's definitely more drama to come, let's just sit back and enjoy it."

Ryan asked. "Are you sure you don't want Marc's help?"

Cornelia shook her head, "If I can't handle something this minor, how am I fit to work alongside him?*

Ryan added, "You're not just his assistant, you're his wife. In your work, you need to be a competent assistant, that's your duty. But in life, you don't always have to be tough. You can show some vulnerability, let him know you need him"

Unwilling to show weakness, Cornelia retorted, "Who says a woman has to rely on a man in marriage? I want to be the woman who can fight alongside him, not always depending on him"

Cornelia believed no one was born to protect others. Including Granny Luisa, Briana, many people in the Hartley Group all needed Marcus' protection. He had always shielding them from the storms.

He was no Iron Man, he was not invincible. He was just a human being who can feel tired and exhausted, with human emotions.

And she, she didn't want to be a burden to him, she wanted to move forward with him. If he was tired and needed to rest, she wanted to be his rock.

Ryan finally said, "Marc is lucky to have you."

Chapter 618

Cornelia said with a grin, "It ain't just 'cause he has me that he's lucky. He's such a stand up guy so any girl he marries would be a lucky one

Hearing this, Ryan was once again taken aback by Cornelia

The first time he met her, he had a divorce paper in hand, thinking she was cheating on his friend. His first impression of her was not good at all. Back then, all he saw was a pretty face, with no redeeming qualities whatsoever.

But every time he saw her, she gave him a different impression

She was really a kind hearted, well mannered, and capable girl.

Ryan said. "If you need anything just tell me."

Cornelia replied, "Just having you around, supporting me, is enough."

Ryan said, "Suddenly. I'm kinda curious

Cornelia asked, "Curious about what?"

Ryan said, "Between you and Marc, who has the decisive say in making decisions at home?"

They were both strong willed and efficient people.

In the workplace, they had a superior-subordinate relationship, with Marcus being the superior But at home, they were husband and wife. So, who called the shots?

Marcus was always the one giving orders, and Ryan could hardly imagine him taking orders from anyone else

Cornelia didn't catch his drift and said, "Of course, it's President Hartley who calls the shots. I'm his assistant, can I defy the chain of command?"

Ryan clarified, "I'm not asking about that. I'm asking who's in charge when you two are alone at home."

Hearing this, Cornelia blushed, trying to keep a straight face. She stared at him coldly and said, "Don't ask such questions."

Ryan said. "Isn't this the most normal thing between a husband and wife?"

Cornelia retorted, "Why don't you go ask President Hartley yourself?"

Ryan didn't have the guts to do that.

About fifteen minutes later, the police arrived.

Cameron led the police straight to Cornelia and said, "Officer, my stepmother lost a necklace worth 30 million dollars. There's a witness who said it was this woman who stole it. The witness also confirmed that the stolen necklace is in this woman's bag"

Cameron had left for a while, but his people had been watching Cornelia's bag to make sure she didn't pass the necklace to someone else.

Nonchalantly, Cornelia opened her bag and gracefully took out a sparkling necklace, asking, 'Is this the necklace you're talking about?'

At first glance, this necklace looked identical to the one around her neck. But the feeling was completely different when held in hand. It was easy to tell the real deal from the fake one.

"There you go, I saw it with my own eyes. She stole it but didn't admit it. Now everyone has seen it, right? The woman in black raised her head high, as if exposing Cornelia was some kind of heroic deed

Chapter 619

Seeing Cornelia pull something suspicious from her bag, the onlooking guests began to chatter. "Is President Hartley's assistant really a thief?" "No way I've heard President Hartley is a strict boss, and if she didn't follow the rules, she would have been fired a long time ago."

"Maybe she never stole before, but seeing a necklace worth 30 million dollars, she couldn't help but be tempted"

Cameron was pleased with the crowd's reaction, just as he anticipated. "Sir, how are you going to handle this?"

Cornelia interrupted Cameron, speaking calmly. "Hold your horses on punishing me. Let me double check, is this necklace the one Clair lost?"

Cameron responded, "Bring it closer for me to see"

Cornelia politely handed the necklace over to Cameron. After examining it, he confirmed, "Yes, this is indeed the Heavenly Radiance my stepmother lost. Now, I'm curious to hear how you'll defend yourself"

Cornelia calmly addressed the crowd. "The Heavenly Radiance is the last work of Paris artist Wayland made for the one he loved, marked with two letters on the star pendant"

Looking at the necklace in Cameron's hand, she continued, "Sadly, Mr. Reese, this necklace is not only poorly made, but it also lacks the signature letters. It's clearly a knockoff"

Cameron smirked and retorted. "So, if you say it's fake, it's fake? What gives you the right to say that? Even if it's fake, it doesn't prove you didn't steal it. Besides, this necklace is the real Heavenly Radiance, worth 30 million dollars. The amount you stole is significant enough for you to serve years in jail. Officer, the evidence is clear now, you can take her away"

"What's the rush?" Cornelia looked ahead as a curtain dropped from the second floor. The lights in the banquet hall dimmed, and a spotlight shone on the curtain.

Two figures appeared on the curtain, Clair and Natalia.

Clair handed the necklace to Natalia, whispered something in her ear, and she nodded before leaving.

The scene switched to Natalia and Cornelia. Natalia was following Cornelia, and while she was talking with someone, Natalia discreetly slipped the necklace into a small gap in her bag.

Everyone understood what happened at that point.

Ryan questioned, "Cameron, what the hell is going on? I never expected you to frame a friend."

Cameron clenched his jaw, glaring at Natalia in the corner. The idiot, he repeatedly warned her to plant the necklace in Cornelia's bag without leaving a trace. But he didn't expect the fool to do it under the most obvious camera.

It was unclear whether it was an illusion or not, but when Cameron looked at Natalia, he felt that she had a strange smile on her face.

Cameron believed his home court advantage would protect him, "Cornelia, I didn't expect you to have help. You even made this confusing fake video."

Everyone saw the video and understood what Cameron was trying to do to Cornelia. Even though the truth was clear, no one was willing to stand up for her.

To them, benefits outweighed the truth.

Helping Cameron was beneficial, while helping Cornelia risked retaliation from the Reese family, making life in Riverton difficult.

After some time, someone finally asked, "What letters are engraved on the star?"

Cornelia replied, "HC H for hero, C for Cara, the nickname of Wayland's wife. If you don't believe me, you can check the details of the star on the Paris auction website."

She made up a story on the spot, just to get by.

Someone actually took out their phone to verify her story.

Cameron didn't know the necklace was fake, so he didn't stop them. "Take your time, check thoroughly, it would be even better if there are pictures to compare the details."

Suddenly, Granger's chilly voice rang out from behind him, "You ungrateful child, shouldn't you be entertaining your guests instead of framing an innocent girl with a fake necklace?"

Chapter 620

I've told you time and again, if you really like someone, you gotta chase her fearlessly. But if she gives you the cold shoulder, you gotta stop bugging her, and certainly not do something as appalling as today"

Cameron asked, "Dad, what are you doing?"

Granger raised his hand and slapped Cameron, with such force that a clear handprint appeared on Cameron's face.

Again, Cameron asked, "Dad, what's wrong with you?"

Granger yelled, "You moron! You're grown up and you're still pulling such bonehead moves. Apologize to Ms. Stewart right now and beg her forgiveness"

Cameron started. "Dad"

Granger slapped him again, "I said apologize!"

He leaned into Cameron, lowering his voice, "Cornelia may have already slept with Marcus... This could have serious repercussions. Apologize to her now, and we'll settle the score with her after Marcus ditches her"

Cameron didn't fancy apologizing to an assistant, but he had no choice now that his own father was demanding it, "Ms. Stewart, I'm sorry. I shouldn't have believed that woman and misunderstood you I hope you can be magnanimous and not hold it against me."

The woman in black standing nearby looked flabbergasted. It was him who had asked her to slander Cornelia, but now it was being pinned on her.

The woman in black never imagined that even worse things were waiting for her.

Granger said, "Although you were misled, you are also at fault... Sir, this woman has a history of misdeeds, and I have evidence. You can take her away"

The woman in black was staring in disbelief at the father and son duo. Were they actually abandoning her?

"Granger, you."

Granger said, "Don't worry, I'll take care of your family and children."

It was an outright threat

The woman in black was left speechless.

Those who danced with wolves, always ended up in the wolves' belly. She was case in point.

Not only did Cameron apologize to Cornelia, but Clair also showed up.

She admitted, "I apologize, everyone. This necklace I'm holding isn't real, but a knockoff I paid to have made. I even lied and said it was a birthday gift from my husband. I'm sorry..."

Whatever they were saying. Cornelia had no mind to listen anymore.

She looked up, scanning the room, and her eyes fell on a dark corner where she saw Marcus" tall figure.

There was no light there, and Cornelia couldn't see his face, but he could see her clearly.

Her private cell phone received a message. It was from Jeremy.

Don't be scared! I'm here!....
