

Chapter 2 Please Me

The man stared at her coldly. His nose was sharp and straight. He curled his thin lips, flashing a mocking smile at her. Although he was sitting in a wheelchair, he had a domineering demeanor and no one dared to get close to him.

Was this the rumored horrible man?

Vanessa Shell was stunned. After a long while, she sat up on the bed and said without looking into his eyes, "Of course I'm Erica..."

"Haha!" Scott Yardley sneered. Then, he took an envelope from his pocket and threw it in front of Vanessa.

Vanessa picked it up and opened it. In the envelope, there were some photos and information about her sister, Erica Shell.

Had he already known her true identity right from the beginning?

Vanessa tightened her grip on the envelope. She bit her lower lip and looked at Scott but did not dare to say anything.

"Do your parents think that I would marry just anybody only because I am crippled?" he asked.

Vanessa lowered her eyes and explained, "I am also the daughter of the Shell family..."

"Well, you're also a daughter who just got divorced. Do your parents think that I'm willing to marry a woman who has just divorced another man?" Scott said coldly.

Upon hearing his sarcastic and straightforward words, Vanessa suddenly thought of the incident from a month ago. She bit her lower lip and tried to maintain her composure...

The man said coldly before she could calm herself down, "I'll give you five minutes to get out of this house."

"What?" Vanessa looked up and saw him staring at her.

Vanessa knew that the Shell family would be in trouble if he chased her away. All her family members had pinned their hopes on her. Therefore, no matter how reluctant she was to stay here, she could not leave. She couldn't destroy the Shell family.

Vanessa calmed herself down and mastered the courage to look straight into his eyes. Then, she said, "I know this marriage was arranged by your parents. So, clearly it makes no difference to you. Otherwise, you would not have agreed to this marriage."

"I guess it would be better for you to let me stay rather than marry another woman. I promise that we would stay away from each other," she continued.

Vanessa raised her hand to pledge herself as she spoke in a determined way. Then, she looked cautiously at him, afraid that he was not going to accept this offer.

The way she looked now...

Scott narrowed his eyes and looked at her. After that, he smiled and said, "Do you really want to stay here?"

Vanessa's heart skipped a beat when she saw him smile. She felt that something bad was going to happen. However, she still nodded her head.

Scott smiled and looked at her in disdain. This was not the first time he had seen a woman try to replace her younger sister to marry him in hopes of a wealthy life.

He stared at her and said, "Well, I'll give you a chance to stay..."

Hearing this, Vanessa's eyes lit up.

Then, he said, "But, you have to please me."

Vanessa was stunned. This was incredible! "Do you understand?" he asked.

Then, he said mockingly, "Please don't tell me that you don't know how to please a man. You were married before."

Upon hearing this, Vanessa balled her fists.

She was married to Jonathan Lowell for two years. However, he never slept with her with the excuse that he was very busy. A month ago, she saw Jonathan with a pregnant woman, she was enchanting and seductive...

Her nightmare started right that moment...

"Say something!" Scott said impatiently. Then, he reached out his hand and pulled off the quilt!

"Ah!" Vanessa shouted.