Chapter 1001 Nicole Follows Bad Examples

Nicole frowned slightly.

"Alison? Ernesto?"

She subconsciously shouted and saw Ernesto poking out his head with some food on the corners of his mouth.

"Mrs. Green, are you done?"

"What are you doing?"

Nicole looked at him in confusion.

Ernesto came out from the corner and hid a pastry behind him. He had only taken a few bites.

"Haven't you had lunch?"

Nicole just shook her head, thinking that something had happened to them.

"Where's Alison?"

"She went to the bathroom."

Hearing Ernesto's reply, Nicole got depressed.

Alison went to the bathroom while Ernesto was eating.

Two actions didn't match each other.

"Stop eating. Follow me back to the Shaw's. We can dine together."

"No, Mrs. Green, I'm not going. There are still a lot of things to do. Mr. Green has arranged a lot of work for me. I haven't finished it yet. Since you don't need me for the time being, I just want to take this opportunity to eat something."

Ernesto was a little embarrassed.

Nicole found that his pastry turned cold. She didn't know when he bought it.

During this period of time, when Samuel was not around, the workload of Ernesto had considerably increased. Moreover, he took over Jacob's job and needed to run the company. It was really difficult for him.

"It's not good to have cold food. If you don't want to go to the Shaw's for dinner, then have a bowl of hot beef noodles at the door. It's my treat."

"No need, Mrs. Green. I'm fine with this. It saves me time and can fill up my stomach. It won't delay anything. I can still drive."

Ernesto said frankly.

Nicole felt uncomfortable and distressed.

"Alright, listen to me and have a meal. Let's go!"

Nicole grabbed Ernesto's hand and dragged him away.

Ernesto was stunned. Then he hurriedly shook away Nicole's hand in the next moment.

Heavens!

If Samuel knew that Nicole held Ernesto's hand, he might break Ernesto's hand.

Nicole was somewhat surprised.

"What?"

"Well, Mr. Green will be jealous."

Ernesto stuttered, but Nicole laughed out loud.

He was funny.

However, because of Ernesto, Nicole's uncomfortable mood had somewhat eased up.

"Alright, I won't hold your hand. Hurry up and leave. Take me to find Alison."

Since Nicole ordered, Ernesto didn't dare to delay any longer and followed behind Nicole respectfully.

Chapter 1002 She Laughs Like a Fool

There was a pair of baby tiger-head shoes in the box.

What was this?

Nicole looked at Edwin in puzzlement. Edwin was obviously much more excited than Nicole.

He took the shoes with trembling hands, bursting into tears.

"She still keeps this thing. I thought she didn't care about it anymore."

Edwin placed the tiger-head shoes on his face, and tears rolled down his cheeks.

This frightened Nicole.

Edwin was a strong-minded man. Even when Audrey died, Nicole didn't see Edwin so sad.

"Grandpa, what's happened? Whose shoes are they? Are they my mother's?"

Nicole guessed, but Edwin waved his hand and directly went to his room with tiger-head shoes.

Watching Edwin's lonely and sad back, Nicole turned to look at Alison in doubt.

Alison shook her head.

Nicole was completely confused. She knew that Edwin might think of some sad memories.

If she had known it earlier, she wouldn't have been so curious.

"What should we do now?"

Nicole looked at Alison.

Alison frowned and thought for a moment. "Mr. Shaw must have remembered something. Leave him alone for a while."

"Alright then."

Nicole was a little hungry, but it was not the time to eat now.

She took out her phone to read latest news.

Steve came in with a large bouquet of roses in his arms.

"Steve, have you been chasing after a girl? Or has someone had been chasing after you? Roses are pretty."

Nicole teased Steve.

Steve put the rose directly in front of Nicole and said, "They are for you."

"Me?"

Nicole was startled.

"Who gave it to me?"

"I don't know. Someone from the military region sent it over."

Steve's answer surprised Nicole even more.

Just at this moment, Alison kicked the rose out.

"Alison, what are you doing?"

Nicole got depressed since the roses that Alison kicked away were in a mess.

"I'm afraid something inside is not good for you."

Chapter 1003 He Is Handsome

"Who?"

Nicole quickly ran over and saw a little boy standing up from the ground. It was obvious that he had fallen from the wall above.

When he saw Nicole, he blushed with embarrassment.

"Miss, I'm sorry. I fell down carelessly."

The cute little boy was about seven or eight years old. If he hadn't worn boy's clothes, Nicole would have thought he was a little girl.

"Why are you on our fence?"

"My house is next door."

The little boy explained.

Nicole did not know who was living next door to Edwin. Since the boy lived in the military compound, he must be some army man's family

Nicole took a fancy of the little boy at first sight.

"What is your name?"

"My name is Nash Cawker."

Nash replied.

His surname was relatively rare in Seapolis City. Nicole did not figure out for the while who his parents were. She smiled and said, "I'll walk you back through the main door."

"No need."

Nash hurriedly waved his hand.

A young girl's voice came from the other side of the wall.

"Nash, where have you gone? Did you climb over the wall to talk to Zoe again? Let me tell you. If you don't come back, I'll tell Daddy and he will order you to stand at attention. He won't allow you to leave the military!"

Nash pursed his lips in dissatisfaction.

"Got it. I'll go back now. What a rat."

Nash replied reluctantly.

That girl didn't answer.

However, Nicole got a clue from the conversation between the siblings.

What?

Nash came here to look for Zoe.

What was going on?

How could Zoe find such a handsome boyfriend?

Nicole looked at Nash as if she were his mother-in-law.

Nash suddenly felt a little uncomfortable.

"Miss, I'm leaving first!"

After that, he tried to climb the wall, but Nicole grabbed his collar and pulled him down.

"Exit via the door. A gentleman won't climb the wall."

"I promise I won't ever do it again."

Nash looked like a child who had done something wrong and hung his head in shame.

Nicole smiled, "Zoe went out to draw from life. Don't know that she isn't at home?"

Nash suddenly looked up.

A little girl's voice came from the other side. It sounded like she felt wronged, but she held back her grievances.

Lucas didn't show any mercy at all. He turned off the video with a cold face. When he turned around and saw Nicole standing behind him, his cold expression disappeared.

"Mommy!"

He jumped down from his chair and quickly came to Nicole. Then he stood with his feet together and saluted Nicole seriously.

"Mother, I'm here!"

He wore a smile, looking like Samuel.

Nicole's heart was about to melt.

"Lucas, good job."

Nicole's eyes were filled with tears.

Lucas hurriedly served a glass of water for Nicole.

"Mommy, why are you here? I didn't expect you to come to see me."

"Nonsense. Cannot I come to see my son?"

Overwhelmed by emotions, Nicole took the cup that Lucas handed over.

"Did you send the flowers?"

"Samuel paid for them."

Lucas jumped onto the chair and shook his legs. The smile on his face was very adorable.

"Mommy likes them very much."

"Of course. I'm in good taste."

Lucas felt that Nicole had lost weight, so he blamed Samuel for not taking good care of Mommy. He couldn't help but say, "Mommy, don't work so hard. You and Zoe just need to enjoy a happy life. Samuel and I will support you."

Nicole was slightly shocked. Then, she smiled and said, "Lucas, are you asking me to stop working and be idle at home?"

"It's natural for men to earn money and women to spend it. What's the problem?"

Lucas looked as if it was a matter of course, which amused Nicole.

"Where do you learn this? You are just a kid. Don't brag. By the way, who were you scolding just now? You were so strict. I heard that the little girl was about to cry."

"If she can't stand it, she can leave."

Lucas was quite hard-hearted.

Nicole frowned. "Lucas, you shouldn't be so strict with girls."

"Mommy, there's no difference between men and women here. Forget it. What has Samuel been busy with? Why did he need me to help him to give you flowers? To do it by himself can show his sincerity. Samuel doesn't know how to chase after women. I wonder how he got you."

Lucas complained.

Nicole coughed.

Samuel didn't need to chase after girls.

Many women were obsessed with him. If he was a good flirter, how could Nicole be with Samuel?

However, there was no need to say this to Lucas.

"Can I visit your base?"

Nicole thought that since she had come here, she would take good use of this opportunity. Perhaps this was the only chance she had in her life to enter the military region.

Lucas shook his head and said, "Mommy, our base is the core department of the military region. You can't. I'm sorry."

Chapter 1005 I Can Trade You a Secret

Lucas suddenly realized a problem.

Why was Mommy's belly flat now?

His heart skipped a beat.

He had kept chatting and joking with Mommy just now and actually forgot such an important thing that the baby should be big enough to make Mommy's belly look conspicuous now.

But Mommy's belly was flat, and she didn't seem to be pregnant at all. Was there anything wrong with the baby during his absence?

Lucas went back to search for Mommy's information on the Internet again but couldn't find anything valuable.

Nicole's miscarriage did not cause any disturbance on the Internet, let alone leave any trace.

Lucas frowned and went to Mark's office.

"I want a vacation."

Mark was slightly stunned.

"I've asked the guards to escort your mom away. But what the hell do you want a vacation in such an important period during which your team's research project is about to get approved? You, as the leader of the team, actually quit now? Do you know the consequence?"

"I quit! I am not the only officer in the army, but I am the only son of Mommy. How can I stay in the army and ignore her? What do you want her to do? Samuel should be in the police station now, right? If he can't come out, the other people may be against her. If anything happens to her, who can bear the responsibility? Grandpa Mark, can you?"

Although Lucas was young, he still spoke with confidence.

Mark frowned slightly.

"I remember that the system of the army is a separate system. Did you hack the system again and investigate some information?"

Lucas did not answer, seeming to admit.

Mark sighed and softened his tone.

"Lucas, I know you're worried about your mom, and I'm worried, too. She's not just your mom, but also my niece. But you have to believe me, and we will solve the problems properly. Don't worry. Now that you are no longer a child, you are a military officer and you have to shoulder the responsibility. Since you have chosen to be a military officer, you should know that the national interest outweighs everything else. Most of the time, you should give up some interests of your small family for the interests of the rest in the country. Jason and your great-grandfather will also come to help your mom. Besides, do you think your daddy is that useless? He is the man who is framed by someone and obediently goes to the police station for investigation? When does he become such a useless man?"

More concerns would lead to more troubles. Lucas was too anxious to think about the thing rationally under such a circumstance.

Now that he heard what Mark said, he was stunned.

Although Samuel had failed to protect Mommy a few times, it was still the first time he had been so useless.

Lucas understood what Mark meant. Perhaps this was a trap set by Samuel, but he was still worried.

"Mommy..."

"Don't worry, your great-grandfather has arranged for someone to protect her. You won't be able to help even if you go back now. Not all bad people will commit high-tech crimes, so you, a high-tech talent, is unable to help with that, and even you may have an opposite effect. You'd better stay in the army and do your research."

Mark had clarified the matter so clearly now. If Lucas didn't know what to do, he would be sorry for his military uniform.

"That's all?"

Nicole had thought that Elvis would entrust her with other things, but she didn't expect to deal with the aftermath.

Elvis put on a faint smile.

"That's all. I've experienced many things in my life. I loved, and I hated. My life was not in vain. In this life, Una and I are couples, and we want to be together in the next life. On the way to death, I am not alone."

A wisp of happiness appeared in Elvis' eyes.

A mixed feeling touched Nicole's heart.

There was no doubt that Elvis was a bad guy! But to Una, he was a good man.

It was he who built a paradise for Una, in which she could have lived a happy and peaceful life until now. Although she could not have a baby, having such a man's love was also a happy thing for her.

"Okay, I promise you. But how can you be sure that Una will commit suicide for you? If she wants to live, no one can kill her."

"If she wants to live, please take good care of her. Without me, she will be like a withered flower. It won't take much time to take care of her, for she won't last for long. I just hope that you don't hate her. She's innocent."

A trace of sadness flashed through Elvis' eyes.

He had wanted to protect Una all his life, but he never expected that he would be unable to fulfill his promise in the end.

Nicole fell silent but seemed to agree to his entrust.

The living room was quiet for a moment. It was so quiet that it was a little depressing.

Elvis sighed and continued, "Don't you want to know what the secret is?"

"If you want to tell me, just go ahead. If you don't, then forget it."

Nicole suddenly felt that everything was meaningless.

Elvis was about to die, so no matter what he had done, the hatred should be subdued at the moment of execution.

After all, he was Samuel's uncle. Only considering his deep affection for Una, Nicole felt that she would help with the Elvis' funeral affair, let alone she was the daughter-in-law of the Green family and Petty's sister-in-law.

So, she didn't ask any more about the secret.

Elvis looked at her and sighed again, "Nicole, you are very kind, and you are also a good woman. But you are really not suitable to be the daughter-in-law of the Green family. If it weren't for Samuel's protection, you would have died a long time ago."

Nicole did not take a firm hold of the phone, so it fell to the ground and caused a loud sound. Fortunately, the phone was of good quality and was still ringing.

Alison hurriedly squatted down and picked up the phone, then handed it to Nicole.

Nicole took a look. It was Petty.

She took a deep breath and got through the call.

"Petty, what's the matter?"

"Nicole, when are you coming back? I hear from my mother that you're coming back for dinner tonight. Do you have time now? I want to have a maternity inspection. My mother asked Zac to go shopping. I'm afraid the doctors will be off work when he comes back."

Petty said embarrassedly.

Nicole frowned slightly.

"Why didn't you go to the hospital this morning?"

"My mother forgot to remind me, and she told me just now. Shall I go to the hospital tomorrow?"

Petty thought that Nicole was busy and hurriedly said.

Did Lillian really forget to remind Petty? Or did she intentionally tell Petty now?

Nicole did not know Lillian's intention. But she felt that it was obvious that Lillian wanted her to go with Petty as Lillian instructed Zac to go out.

Since Lillian had set a trap for her, wouldn't it be too disingenuous of her not to jump in?

Nicole sneered, "I'm not busy. I'll be back soon. By the way, I'll give Gabrielle a call. If the doctor is off work, we can go to the Military Hospital for a maternity inspection, and we can avoid queuing up."

"Thank you, Nicole."

Petty had a hard time during her pregnancy and did not like to wait in line. However, she had to queue up in the Central Hospital.

If Nicole could send her to the Military Hospital, no matter what, it would be easier and more convenient for her. After all, Nicole kept a good tie with Director Gabrielle.

After Petty hung up, Nicole put her phone away.

She looked in the direction where Elvis had left.

Apart from having affection for Una, this man really didn't care about Petty at all.

She left the Second Prison.

Alison hesitated, seeming to say something.

Nicole smiled, "Do you want to persuade me not to go back to the Green's?"

"You know it's a trap, but you still want to go back. Isn't that a bit stupid?"

Alison's words were very bold.

But Nicole liked her boldness very much.

"Lillian has been preparing the trap for so long. It's not a good idea for us to always hide from her. Why don't we just see what tricks she plays?"

The more indifferent Nicole was, the more worried Alison became. But Alison didn't say anything.

The two of them returned to the Green's.

When she saw that Nicole was followed by Alison, Lillian was stunned for a moment and couldn't help but ask, "This is..."

Chapter 1008 How Ruthless Lillian Is

Nicole didn't consider too much. She just thought of seizing this chance to protect Petty, taking advantage of Lillian's unpreparedness. As for Zac, Nicole had never suspected him before.

Was Zac in the same league with Lillian?

Nicole deemed it was unlikely, but it could not be completely ruled out.

She thought for a while and called Zac.

"Where are you?"

"Tasty Supermarket. Nicole, what's wrong?"

When Zac received Nicole's phone call, he was a little astonished. The first thing came to his mind was Petty's safety.

Nicole said calmly, "I want to see you. Wait for me there and I'll pick you up."

"Alright."

After hanging up, Nicole asked Alison to drive to Tasty Supermarket.

While driving the car, Alison could not help but say, "You are as busy as a bee all day long. If I didn't know you, I couldn't believe that you're Mrs. Green. So many women envy you. But in my opinion, being Mrs. Green is not easy."

Nicole smiled faintly and did not refute.

Indeed.

Being Mrs. Green was not an easy task.

If Nicole didn't love Samuel, she would have given up long ago. To Nicole, love was the most important thing.

For the sake of love, she could endure everything.

Nicole did not speak and tried to avoid this topic. Alison noticed that and stopped talking.

The car stopped at Tasty Supermarket. Zac was waiting for Nicole at the entrance of the supermarket, carrying a lot of things he had just bought.

"Get in the car!"

Nicole did not get out of the car. She opened the window and talked to Zac.

Zac was a little bit confused. But he got into the car soon.

Nicole glanced at what Zac bought. They were just some foods, not necessary for today. Obviously, Lillian had purposely sent Zac away.

"Did Lillian ask you to buy these things today?"

Nicole asked.

"Yes, she said these were needed tonight. Nicole, what happened? Is there something wrong with Petty?"

Zac was anxious.

Nicole waved her hand and didn't say anything else.

"Don't worry. Since we've discovered it now, let's see how to solve it. After all, that's the way it is. None of us expected that she would attack you. After all, you're Petty's husband, and Petty likes you so much."

Nicole was also shocked, but now she could only quickly stop the loss.

"Doctor, should we send Zac to rehab?"

That was what Nicole was most afraid of.

What if Petty couldn't see Zac when she woke up?

How should she persuade her to stay here and have a rest instead of returning to the Green's?

The doctor looked at Nicole and then at Zac.

Zac's face was pale, and he trembled with rage.

"Lillian is really ruthless. She's actually Petty's mother! No! I can't let her stay by Petty's side, which is also good for Petty. She may affect my child. Fortunately, she came back after Petty was pregnant. Otherwise, I don't know if there will be any problems with my child."

The more Zac said, the angrier he became. If he had a knife now, he would probably kill Lillian immediately.

Nicole understood his feelings.

After all, as parents, they all cared for their children.

Nicole patted Zac on the shoulder and comforted him, "I and Samuel aren't considerate enough. Sorry to make you suffer."

"It's not the fault of you and Mr. Green. One can never be too careful. No one would have thought that Lillian would do that. I'm afraid that Petty can't take it when she knows about it."

When Zac mentioned Petty, he sounded distressed.

Seeing that Zac did not complain about Petty because of Lillian's fault and did not vent his anger, Nicole felt relieved.

"Doctor, what exactly is going on?"

The doctor knew about Petty. It was obviously unrealistic for Zac to go to the drug rehabilitation center now. She pondered for a moment and said, "Mrs. Green, we can set up a separate room in the sanatorium for Mr. Neo to recover from drug abuse. However, it would require Mr. Neo's strong willpower to do so. After all, we can't help you here by force. And if you fall into the habit again, there's a good chance that Mrs. Neo will run into you."

Zac looked down and pondered.

He looked like he was in pain.

To be honest, it was unbearable for everyone addicted to that. Moreover, with Petty's situation, Zac was really conflicted.

Nicole did not urge him. The only one who could make the decision was Zac himself.

After a long silence, Zac finally made up his mind.

"I want to stay here. Petty needs me. I can't let her find out all of this. She used to yearn for family so much. If she knows that the family she yearned for is like this, I don't know if she can withstand it. I know that I may not be able to stay in rehab here, but I have no choice. With my wife and child behind me, what else can I do?"

Nicole was not surprised by his choice.

She nodded and let the doctor operate.

Only Zac and Nicole stayed in the room.

Zac whispered, "Nicole, I hope you can help me hide it from Petty."

"Nicole, what do you mean by that? I don't understand."

Nicole sneered, "Seriously? I've been back for so long, but you haven't even asked me a word about Petty. Don't you care about her?"

Lillian's face darkened with irritation, but she forced a smile, "You took her out for a maternity examination. She must have stayed at the hospital if she didn't come back with you. She didn't feel good recently, so I was prepared for that. You're her sister-in-law. I believe you won't hurt her."

Nicole couldn't deny that. Lillian had taken advantage of her concern for Petty.

Nicole put on a self-mocking smile.

"You are careless enough to entrust me with your daughter."

"Of course, I trust you."

Lillian agreed.

Nicole put her hand on the Duck Soup and said with a smile, "Is there any drugs in it? Why don't we find a doctor to have a test?"

"What do you mean?"

Lillian couldn't maintain a smile in anger.

Nicole poured the soup to the ground and said calmly, "I met Zac halfway. He suddenly passed out on the road, twitching. I took him to the hospital. Do you know what did the doctor say?"

Lillian looked around.

She suddenly overturned the table.

Nicole was prepared for that and promptly took a step back, almost got hurt by the falling table. Lillian was pressed against the wall by Alison when she was about to escape.

"You are like showing off before an expert. You can't escape in my presence."

Alison said scornfully.

"Nicole, you have no way to escape even if you get me. My people are waiting outside. Samuel is not helpful because he was kept in the police station. If you dare to hurt me, you will soon die a painful death," Lillian said fiercely.

Nicole shrugged. She couldn't understand the confidence in Lillian's words.

"You're such a smart person, why don't you understand the situation now? Without Samuel, I'm still protected by the Don family, and my grandfather. Your people outside don't dare do anything to me, against the Don and the Shaw family."

"I know, but before they receive your call and come here, you will be suppressed by my people. At that time, they have to be obedient to me."

Nicole became alert at Lillian's words.
