Don't Try to Escape, My Wife!

Chapter 1041 I Will Enjoy Everything You Cook

Fill left the hospital. So did Lucas. But when they separated at the entrance of the hospital, Fill glanced at Lucas and whispered, "Are you working in the military now?"

"Yes, don't be caught by me."

Lucas said indifferently with a meaningful look.

"Damn you!"

Fill cursed.

"I'm your father's best friend."

"Don't talk nonsense. My daddy is an honest businessman. How can he make friends with you? Don't show up in front of my daddy too often. Don't ruin my daddy's reputation."

Finishing his words, Lucas got into the car.

Fill was so angry that his breathing sped up.

Look at this child!

He was as heartless as Samuel.

He worked so hard for Samuel.

But now, he was despised by his son.

Fill made a gesture at the direction where Lucas left to show his disdain.

Lucas saw it from the rear-view mirror and whispered.

"Childish."

Then he put on a faint smile.

Nicole knew nothing about this. She just hoped that Trevin could bring back the ancient book.

Thirty minutes later, Blair pushed Samuel out.

"How is he?"

Nicole hurried to walk over.

Blair took off his mask and said indifferently, "He's fine. It's a sudden onset, but his illness can hardly be cured and I don't find a good way yet. Now you need to calm him down. He can't be too tired and he needs to be relaxed."

"OK."

Nicole looked at Samuel worriedly.

Samuel's face was not pale anymore. He knew he had frightened Nicole, so he smiled and said, "I'm fine. It hurt just for a while."

"Shut up."

Nicole glared at him, but then she stepped forward to support him.

"Does he need to go to the hospital?"

Blair waved his hand and said, "No. It won't be so helpful for him at hospital."

"Alright."

Nicole was about to help Samuel, Blair

Samuel put away the phone as if nothing happened.

Nicole said gently, "Come for dinner. Wash your hands."

"OK."

When Samuel got up, Nicole reached out to help him.

"I'm fine. I can make it myself."

"Let me help you. I don't know when you will get sick again."

Samuel's mouth twitched when Nicole said this.

"Did you call Eagle just now?"

Nicole asked casually.

"Yes, Melissa has a kidney failure. It's acute."

Nicole was slightly surprised hearing this.

"How could this be?"

Samuel knew what she was thinking about. He hurried to say, "It has nothing to do with us. Maybe something was wrong with her kidney long ago, but it's discovered now."

"Then what will you do?"

Nicole helped Samuel sit on the chair.

Samuel looked at Nicole and suddenly smiled, "Just wait and see."

"What?"

Nicole was puzzled.

"Just wait and see. But don't worry, I won't let Melissa die. I will send her to the hospital. Then I will send her to the police and take the legal proceedings. Are you feeling better now?"

Samuel knew that Nicole was kind. Even if she was hurt, she did not want Melissa to die because of her. Samuel did not want her to be worried. However, even if he handed it over to legal system, he still had other ways to revenge on Melissa.

As she hurt Nicole, he would not easily let Melissa go. Being in prison was not enough. However, he wouldn't tell Nicole about this.

It was better to hide those things from Nicole.

Samuel made up his mind. Nicole nodded.

"Great. It's not because I don't want to take revenge on her. We have children and our business. It's really not worthy doing that for Melissa. Sometimes I wonder if we can use violence. We can indeed feel better for a while in that way, but what about our children? Some people are always in the darkness and waiting for opportunity to hurt us hard. No matter who get hurt, I can't afford it. Samuel, I'm in love with you, and we have children, so I become a coward now. Can you understand me? "

"I see. Don't worry. I won't let you worry about me."

Samuel held Nicole's hand tightly.

Nicole was somewhat relaxed.

Jacob hugged Olivia and didn't wanna let her go. Now, he really wanted to be with her all the time.

Olivia was entangled by him. She touched his nose lightly with her fingertip and smiled, "Am I not enough for you? You want a woman on each arm? Do you think your are an emperor with your harem?"

"How dare I? I'm fine as long as you are by my side."

Olivia was flattered. She had to admit that men's sweet words could blind women.

"Don't bore me with compliments! It's Michael's call. He asked me to go back and record songs. Everyone has put in a lot of effort on this album, and they all want to become famous. Besides, Nicole's filmmaking company has just started. It needs to make something. I can only help with this album, so I'll try my best."

Olivia looked at Jacob and she said earnestly.

Jacob knew what Olivia was like. She would do the thing she had determined to do.

"Alright. Let's get married when it's available. I heard that Tim had got married. Can you believe he was one step ahead of us?"

Jacob complained. Olivia couldn't help but smile. She asked, "Your comparison has little significance."

"Why? How long has he known Evelyn? But they're married. How about us? We've known each other a long time!"

"Forget it. You haven't asked me to marry you yet. I'm not Evelyn. You wait."

Olivia pushed him away and walked out with her bag.

"I'll go with you."

Jacob quickly get changed and chased after her.

Samuel didn't know what had happened to Jacob. He threw away the cigarette butt and drove to the south of the city. He was about to buy a piece of cake for Nicole.

After Nicole took her lunch break, she smelled the fragrance of food.

"What did you cook? It smells so good?"

It was Nicole's voice. She went downstairs and saw Samuel reading the financial newspaper.

Samuel folded the newspaper with a smile and said, "I cook the Duck Soup for you, but it still needs to simmer for a while. You can drink it later."

"Duck Soup? You went to the supermarket?"

"I bought the duck at the market."

Samuel smiled faintly. Nicole leaned over and wrapped her hand around his neck. She sat on his lap like a spoiled child and asked, "You're so good to me. What can I do for you in return?"

"Hey, come on."

Samuel pulled her hand down, but he was reluctant to let her go.

Nicole said and pouted, "What did I do to you? I can't sit on your lap anymore?"

"What are you talking about? Nicole, you wait. When I'm available, I'll also pester you."

Nicole ignored his words.

She glanced at him scornfully.

Chapter 1044 How Could They?

"Dear, what's wrong?"

Seeing Braden collapse, Mrs. Bush couldn't help but tug at the corner of his clothes.

Braden had given up everything because of Melissa. Mrs. Bush also knew that he didn't even want his own reputation, let alone Nicole. He only wanted to make it up for his daughter. But just now, the nurse's words were like a bolt of lightning that directly smashed onto Braden's head.

Not biological?

How could it not be biological?

Braden's mind had been thinking about this question.

"Dear, do you still remember the paternity test when you first found Melissa?"

Braden suddenly grabbed Mrs. Bush's hand on the backhand side. The strength of his hand caused Mrs. Bush to frown.

"Didn't you do that paternity test?"

"What? Me? Back then, Melissa said you did it."

As soon as Braden said, Mrs. Bush was stunned.

"I haven't done it. I was not capable of managing it."

Only then did Mr. and Mrs. Bush realize that they might have been tricked by Melissa from the very beginning.

"Liar! Bastard! I'm going to kill her!"

Braden roared as he was about to go into the operating room but was stopped by the police.

"Stop! Don't you know who you are now? What are you doing now?"

These words were like cold water, instantly pouring on Braden's body.

He was a prisoner now!

For Melissa, he did everything he could even to offend Nicole. Even his reputation had been ruined. Now that he was old, he would still be imprisoned for Melissa. But now, he was told that Melissa was not her biological child. No matter how hard Braden tried, he could not take the result.

"I need to ask her in person! Or, we can do another paternity test."

Braden no longer cared about his identity as a prisoner and had always wanted the correct answer.

The policeman couldn't help but buckle him into a chair.

"Behave yourself! If you do this again, I'll take you back."

Mrs. Bush hurriedly pleaded for mercy.

"Sir, please be gentle. He's almost sixty. He can't stand this kind of torment."

She cried and pleaded for mercy, and her eyes suddenly saw Nicole and her husband.

"Let's go."

Nicole felt that there was no need for her to stay here.

The farce had ended, and the ending was clear.

Samuel noticed that she was exhausted and asked in a low voice, "Will you save Melissa?"

Nicole glared at him and said, "Do you think I'm the Virgin Mary? Melissa wanted to kill me. I won't save her. I have sent her to the hospital and will pay for her treatment on humanitarian grounds. That's all. I won't do anything else, not mention to give her my kidney. The wound on my back hasn't healed yet."

Samuel laughed.

"I thought you were soft-hearted."

"That depends on who the person is. Besides, I can do nothing about this. Let's go."

Nicole held Samuel's arm and was about to leave, but she was stopped by Mrs. Bush.

"Nicole, it's a misunderstanding. Your father and I were tricked by Melissa. Please forgive us. Samuel is powerful in the Seapolis City. Your father is so old. Please help him get out of here. After all, you're his daughter, right?"

Nicole had met some shameless people, but she had never met such a shameless person.

"When you wanted to kill me a few days ago, why didn't you remember that I was your daughter?"

Nicole shook off Mrs. Bush's hand and left.

Nicole would be depressed if she stayed here any longer.

Samuel glanced at his bodyguards and they stopped the Bushes.

He wrapped his arms around Nicole's waist and said softly, "Don't get angry for irrelevant people. It isn't worth it."

"I'm not angry. I just feel very tired and a little sad. Why do the Bushes care about blood so much? Conversely, the Hawkes love Maddie very much. Why are the Bushes so mean? It doesn't matter that Melissa is not related to the Bushes by blood. As long as they regard her as their own daughter, they can live together happily."

"They are different. Stop thinking about it. You must be tired after the farce. Shall I take you out for a walk?"

Samuel noticed that Nicole was in a bad mood and would like to cheer her up.

However, Nicole said languidly, "I don't want to go anywhere. I would like to go to the military region to see my son. Is it OK?"

Samuel felt that Nicole was deliberately making things difficult for him.

"The military region is restricted and I haven't returned to work there. So I can't go in."

"Even if you return to work, I still can't enter. I know the rules of the military region."

Samuel was a little worried that Nicole was in a bad mood.

"How about I take you to the Shooting Club to spend time?"

Nicole was interested in Samuel's suggestion.

"Shooting Club? Is there such a club in the Seapolis City?"

Lucas was detained in a club once, so Samuel almost banned all the shooting clubs in the Seapolis City. Nicole was somewhat surprised.

Samuel smiled and said, "I know you like it, so I have kept one. I have taken over it, and the staff there are my friends. Don't worry. It's safe."

Nicole looked at Samuel. She didn't know that he had done so much in private. She was somewhat touched and felt much better.

"OK. I'll show you some respect and go there."

"Thank you for showing me some respect, honey. Let's go."

Seeing that she felt much better, Samuel heaved a sigh of relief.

After they got into the car, Nicole asked suddenly, "Did you record what Major had said?"

"Yes. Although I speculated that Melissa's renal failure was not acute, I didn't expect that Major would reveal this. Of course, I recorded it. This is evidence."

When Samuel saw Nicole staring at him, he regretted that he walked out with wet hair.

"Nicole, please don't look at me like that!"

If it was permitted, Samuel would be happy to be intimate with Nicole. But now he couldn't do that.
When he saw Nicole wanting him, he just didn't know how to response.

Nicole suddenly laughed.

She had no idea that Samuel would be so shy.

"I am not doing anything. Why are you so panic?"

Nicole smiled and then threw Samuel a towel.

"Sit down."

Samuel did not dare to go against Nicole.

He could do everything except for sex.

After Samuel sat down, Nicole wrapped his hair with a towel and blow-dried it. Then she gave him the clothes.

"Don't show up if your hair is still dripping wet. Do you know that handsome man with dripping hair is so sexy? I'll think too much when I see you being like this."

"So, is it my fault?"

Samuel smiled gently.

"Or what?"

"Of course, my fault."

Samuel was so nice and lovable that Nicole didn't know how to play tricks on him.

"I'll forgive you this time."

After being together with Nicole for a while, Samuel went to the study to work.

Nicole had a good night's sleep.

When she woke up at ten the next morning, Samuel was left.

Samuel said that he would take Nicole to do morning exercises. But he didn't wake Nicole up in the early morning.

Nicole stretched and got up. She washed and got dressed but didn't see Samuel.

Wendy brought Nicole a bowl of bird's nest soup.

"Mrs. Green, Mr. Green ordered soup for you."

"Where is he?"

Nicole yawned but felt very tired.

She wondered why she was so tired though she did nothing last night.

Wendy answered, "Mr. Green went to the company early in the morning. He said that he had something to deal with and told you not to wait for him. He might not come home at noon."

"Alright."

"What are you doing?"

Nicole looked at Samuel with her twinkling eyes.

Samuel suddenly realized that Nicole seemed to be mistaken. He coughed awkwardly and said, "Stop messing around and get down to business."

"What business?"

Only then did Nicole recall her purpose in coming here.

"Oh. About my company."

Nicole immediately became anxious.

"Isn't Daisy arranged by you? She should be pretty good. Why can't she solve the problem? Is there something that I don't know?"

Nicole had no doubt about Daisy's business ability. What she was worried about now was that someone might deliberately set a trap for Samuel. She wouldn't allow it to happen.

Seeing her being anxious, Samuel smiled and said, "There is indeed a small problem, but don't worry, I will handle it. Have you had breakfast?"

"Look at the time. You still have the mood for breakfast?"

Nicole felt that there was something wrong with Samuel.

Samuel hurriedly picked up the phone and called the secretary department.

"Order some breakfast for Mrs. Green at the restaurant."

After hanging up, Samuel smiled and said, "No matter when, your health is the most important. Not eating breakfast is bad for your stomach."

"It's almost noon, and the company..."

"You have me. Just go and eat."

Nicole had to take back her words.

Samuel was the biggest pursuit in her life, but she never thought that this man would take care of her for a whole life.

She gradually calmed down.

Soon, the secretary sent the breakfast.

Nicole did not have much appetite, but she still obediently had it under Samuel's gaze.

As she ate, she asked, "What exactly happened this time?"

"Let's talk after breakfast."

Samuel insisted.

With such a persistent husband, what else could she say?

She finished the breakfast quickly, and Samuel brought a cup of hot milk. She frowned and then drank it up.

Samuel whispered after she finished the breakfast, "Actually, it's nothing. It's just a competition between peers."

"Don't fool me. If it's a competition between peers, Daisy is able to solve it. I don't believe you'll give me an idiot."

Chapter 1048 We've Got Plans

"The draft of the military? Now our company is doing business with the military?"

Nicole raised her head and asked Chris.

Chris looked around and said, "This is only a draft. Mr. Green asked us to design it now. If it can be used, we could cooperate with the military. If we can reach an agreement on the cooperation, our group will become a semi-militarized group. That would be awesome."

"Let your capabilities speak for you. There are quite a lot of designers in the military."

Nicole cast a damp over them in time in case that they would overestimate themselves too much.

"Sure. Catherine is right."

Although Chris was older than Nicole, he quite respected her, because Nicole did have a talent in design. Although she abstained from the design competition some time ago, she was pushed to the high ground due to the plagiarism scandal that Melissa instructed.

Nicole pointed to a part of the draft and said, "Here needs adjustment. This is what I think. Civil cars are fine, but military vehicles must be explosion-proof and shockproof with good safety performance. The design here is too fancy and it does not fit. So, my suggestion is to work on this. You can go through the details by yourself."

Chris looked at what Nicole had pointed out and frowned, "Catherine, if we want better safety performance, it should stand out a bit more here. But it will affect the overall beauty of the car. You know, appearance is the first thing to know about a car. If it doesn't look beautiful, it can't compare with other cars."

"But you can't lower the safety performance of the car just for its beauty. Do you think it will be better to have a change here?"

Nicole took out a pencil and directly sketched a few strokes on the design paper. With that, the shape of the whole car immediately had a substantial change.

"It's fantastic."

Chris was simply amazed.

Nicole was also satisfied with it.

She really liked designing cars. Now, she quit this job to start a company. Although she didn't regret it, she still enjoyed picking up the pencil again.

"Alright, all of you take your time to work at the rest details. I should go. I'm afraid Samuel would call me again if he couldn't find me."

Nicole stood up and was about to leave.

Although she was passionate about design, this was the drawing of the design team. She could only give a few suggestions. If she participated too much, it would be annoying.

She knew very well when enough was enough.

Chris and the others sent Nicole out of the design room.

Nicole had just left the design room when she saw Samuel standing in the corridor and looking at her with his smile.

She stuck out her tongue and walked towards Samuel.

"How did you know I'm here?"

"Apart from this, what else do you like about my company?"

Samuel stretched out his arm.

Nicole naturally grabbed his arm.

"You've done with your call?"

"Yeah, Mike said he would bring Viola to the Seapolis City this afternoon. What are you going to do?"

Samuel wasn't worried that Nicole would lock Viola up. Besides, it seemed not that easy to lock Viola up somewhere.

However, Nicole smiled and said, "What? Just bring her to the military compound and find my grandfather. Anyway, Viola is also his granddaughter. Having not seen her for so many years, he certainly will teach her the rules of the Shaws, won't he?"

Chapter 1049 Samuel Was Angry

Hearing the word "again", Nicole instantly frowned.

Zoe was really too naughty!

"Isn't Samuel there? Why doesn't he stop Zoe?"

Nicole's words made Steve feel even more helpless.

"Ms. Nicole, don't mention it. Mr. Green is standing there and giving Miss Zoe backup."

Nicole was stunned by Steve's words.

Backup?

Samuel was supporting Zoe?

How could that be?

Nicole stood up immediately.

Edwin hurriedly said, "Nicole, Zoe is still a kid. You can talk to her rationally if she did something wrong, but don't smack her. Also, Zoe won't fight with others for no reason. It must be someone else's fault."

"Grandfather."

Nicole was speechless.

Edwin really spoiled Zoe too much.

He blamed others first before he could even figure out what had happened.

"Don't go. It's not suitable for a commander to watch children fighting. Steve, stay at home with my grandfather."

As soon as Nicole finished speaking, Steve hurriedly agreed. But he quickly took a step back when he saw Edwin glaring at him.

"Don't be afraid. My grandfather is a paper tiger now."

Nicole patted Steve on the shoulder and quickly walked out.

Before she could walk out, Nicole heard Zoe's voice.

"Let me teach you a lesson so that you know who I am!"

Nicole frowned.

This was Zoe?

Why did she sound like Yasmeen?

This was obviously not Zoe's style.

Nicole quickly walked out while thinking.

There were already a few people gathering outside. Nash and Naomi were both here. They did not get involved in the fight. There were also a few other children in the military compound. The older ones were seven or eight years old, and the younger ones were about the same as Zoe.

At this moment, Zoe was riding on the back of a boy of seven or eight years old, kicking and punching him.

This was really indecent.

Just as Nicole wanted to go stop Zoe, she saw Samuel standing at the side with his hands crossed on his chest. Although he did not speak a word, his cold attitude could even make the air frozen.

Samuel was angry!

Nicole was clearly aware of this.

"Joseph is in danger."

Morgan sent the message.

Nicole quickly found Morgan's phone number and called, but no one answered.

She suddenly felt nervous.

"Mommy, what's wrong with you? You don't look well."

When Zoe came out, she saw Nicole's pale face and asked.

Nicole hurriedly ran out.

Samuel was talking to Rhys about Zoe when he saw Nicole running over in a panic and immediately went to her.

"What's wrong?"

"Joseph is in danger. Morgan sent me this message, but I called back and no one answered. Last time I heard that he went to Africa, Samuel, I was a little scared."

Nicole's words instantly reminded Rhys.

"Mr. Green, a horrible riot happened in Africa recently. I heard that many people were taken hostage."

Rhys' information was absolutely reliable because he was in the military.

Samuel and Nicole's face instantly changed.

"I'll go to Africa immediately."

Samuel immediately asked Ernesto to take the helicopter.

"I'll go with you," said Nicole.

"No, you have so many things at home and Viola will come over. You need to deal with your company's affairs and look after Zoe. Nicole, you have more responsibilities than me. I promise I will tell you the situation by phone at any time after I arrive, okay?"

Samuel looked at Nicole worriedly.

He knew that Nicole cared about Joseph and hoped she could follow him, but it was not a good time for her to follow him.

Nicole knew Samuel was right, but she was still a little anxious.

"I don't know the riot. But since the military has been alerted, the situation must be not good. Samuel, you must bring Joseph back."

"Don't worry, I will. He is Vincent's only child. Even if I risk my life, I have to save Joseph."

"Don't risk your life. You need to come back to celebrate your birthday with me. You promised me."

Nicole quickly covered Samuel's mouth.

"Of course. Isn't there three days left? Don't worry, I'll be back as soon as possible."

Samuel looked at Rhys.

"My daughter's matter is not settled. We'll deal with it after I save Joseph."

Then Samuel immediately asked someone to send Nicole back to the Shaw's, while he quickly left.

Edwin also received the message. When he saw Nicole coming back, he worriedly asked, "Are you alright? I heard that Samuel has gone to Africa. Do I need to ask Steve to come over and help?"

"It's fine, Mr. Shaw. Samuel can handle it. I'm just worried about Joseph."

"Why did he go to Africa?"

Edwin was also a little worried.
