

Escape Wife 1191

Chapter 1191 He Is Threatening Her

"Mommy..."

Joseph was somewhat worried and sad.

When Nicole met his eyes, she suddenly realized she wasn't the only one who felt sad.

Joseph had to face such a difficult choice at a young age. Now that he said this, it meant that he knew Morgan well.

Nicole quickly suppressed her emotions and whispered, "Do you still think it's better for her to come and take a look because she's from the Harper Town?"

The child truly had a strong attachment to Samuel.

Joseph nodded slowly, his eyes turning red.

"Then call her and see what she says."

Hearing this, Joseph suddenly looked up at Nicole.

"Mommy, aren't you afraid..."

"Yes, but I'm more afraid that Samuel would leave us."

Nicole said in a gentle voice, sorrowful and distressed.

If something really happened to Samuel, she didn't know if she was brave enough to live alone in the world.

When did she become so attached to him?

Nicole revealed a bright but slightly dreaded smile.

She seemed to have seen through everything and decided to let it go.

Joseph was a little scared.

He grabbed Nicole's hand and said in a trembling voice, "Mommy, don't leave us."

Joseph was like a pitiful puppy, asking for the last bit of love.

Nicole came to her senses and realized how cruel she was.

How could she be so pessimistic in front of such a young child?

Joseph was sensitive. He immediately guessed that Nicole wanted to die with Samuel.

He became more afraid in shock.

He didn't know what he, Lucas and Zoe could do without parents in their lives.

Admittedly, there would still be many people around who cared about them, but none of them could replace Nicole and Samuel in their minds.

Nicole held Joseph in her arms, saying in a low voice, "Sorry for making you worry. Call Morgan. As long as she can save Samuel, I can give her whatever she wants, even the Green family's property."

She was quite decisive in saying this.

Nicole did not know how much money the family had, nor did she find anyone to work out the number. She only knew that the asset of one group was enough to support many people for generations, let alone the mines in Africa.

However, she didn't care and was willing to give all the money to anyone who could bring Samuel to life.

Joseph nodded and went to the balcony with his phone but did not follow what Nicole said.

The Green family's fortune was enough to make someone lose himself or herself.

Nicole didn't care, which didn't mean Morgan was the same.

If she really wanted to do something, she could do lots of things with the property.

Chapter 1192 What If I Don't Agree?

Hearing Morgan's words, Joseph did not say anything. After hanging up the phone call, he came to Nicole.

Nicole was still rubbing Samuel's hands to warm them up, but no matter how hard she rubbed, Samuel didn't get warmer at all, as if he was frozen.

"Mommy, she said she would be here soon. I'll wait outside."

Joseph's eyes were filled with tears.

He couldn't see this. It would remind him of his father.

The man who pretended to be Vincent.

The guy took Joseph as his real son sometimes, especially when he was dying.

Joseph had mixed feelings about that.

He couldn't leave his family in trouble anymore. As long as he could protect his family, he would do whatever it took.

He could feel Morgan's anger and misery in her voice, but he was too anxious to care about her feelings.

Joseph knew that people might think he was threatening Morgan, but he didn't care. He only hoped that there would be no fewer people in his family.

Before Nicole could say something, Joseph got up and went out.

Nicole looked at Joseph's back and felt sorry for this child. She always thought that Joseph had put too much blame on himself, though he didn't need to do so.

She was afraid that Joseph would get over-tired, but now she didn't know how to comfort him.

Since Joseph left, now there were only Samuel and Nicole in the room.

Nicole was still rubbing Samuel's hands. She didn't feel panicked, but more at ease.

Even if the road ahead was paved with thorns, she would follow him without any regrets.

Nicole turned up the heat in the room.

She could feel the heat on her face, and she was sweaty. However, Samuel was still cold. She was immediately struck with sadness.

Morgan came soon. Nicole didn't know if she lived nearby or if she took a taxi. She was too exhausted to think about those things.

When Joseph saw Morgan, he was calm and called her "Master".

Lucas was somewhat surprised, and his face was somber.

Lucas knew that Joseph had doubts about Morgan, but now Joseph asked Morgan to come here, so Samuel must be in a bad condition.

Something suddenly occurred to Lucas and he said, "Joseph, where is my ring?"

When Lucas took the ring from Zama, he didn't know what was special about it. Lucas gave the ring to Trevin when he looked for the ancient book in the Harper Town. Trevin and Nicole beguiled people into believing that Trevin betrayed Nicole, and the ring was lost.

However, no one knew that Joseph had this ring now.

How did Joseph get the ring? Lucas was the only one who knew what happened. It was Trevin who asked someone to give the ring to Joseph.

Chapter 1193 I Am Too Anxious

Nicole left with Joseph. Before she walked out, she took a glance at Samuel with mixed feeling.

She wanted to stay and guard Samuel, but Morgan refused.

Perhaps it was because the unique treatment of the Harper Town could not be known by others.

But Joseph was Morgan's disciple, anyway.

And he was her only disciple. Could it be that Joseph was not allowed here, either?

According to Morgan's behavior, it seemed that no one was allowed here.

Confused as she was, Nicole was delighted to hear Morgan's words that the chances were ten to one.

Everything else didn't matter as long as Samuel could recover.

After leaving the room with Joseph, Nicole followed Morgan's instructions and had the surveillance camera removed.

"Mommy, we could have secretly monitored her. What if she did something to Samuel...?" Lucas disagreed.

Nicole turned to him and whispered, "I don't think Morgan would do that. Anyway, she's Joseph's master. Even for the sake of Joseph, she won't go too far."

Nicole was flattering Joseph. Meanwhile, she was reminding Lucas of Joseph's feelings.

Joseph's heart wrenched. He was so moved that he could hardly hold back his tears.

Nicole really treated him as her own child. He swore to himself that he would defend them forever.

It hit Lucas. He turned to Joseph with embarrassment, "Joseph, sorry. I was just too anxious."

"Never mind. I see."

Zoe did not say anything. Ever since she returned from the Cawker's, she had remained quiet. She walked over and held Joseph's hand, as if she had made him a promise.

She promised that she would always be there, never leaving or forsaking.

Joseph tightened his grip, anxiously waiting with Nicole.

However, after they walked out of the room, Morgan suddenly knelt down and kowtowed to Samuel when she thought the surveillance camera had been removed.

When she raised her head again, tears had streaked her face.

"Mr. Samuel! Mr. Samuel!"

She choked up, but she didn't know what she should say.

Samuel was still in a coma, but Morgan appeared to be somewhat different.

She appeared to be respectful and devout.

She took out a silver needle and directly acupuncture it into the back of Samuel's head.

Morgan stated as she cried and kowtowed. But Samuel just set his eyes on her and said nothing.

At this moment, his handsome face seemed to have dyed gold. With a flash, it gradually faded away and finally recovered.

He now appeared as usual.

Leaning against the head of the bed, Samuel seemed to have lost in thought.

The past of the Harper Town flashed in his mind as an old movie.

He saw some strangers but acquaintance as well.

Mr. Shaw was there, too. He looked like a young man at that time.

Samuel picked up a cup and casually shook it.

This cup was prepared by Nicole. The water inside was still hot.

When Samuel shook it, a lot of water splashed out and fell on his hand. It felt warm, just like how Nicole impressed him.

Nicole!

Samuel's eyes lit up slightly.

Why was she Mr. Shaw's granddaughter?

Morgan was confused since Samuel was silent for such a long while. She couldn't help but look up. But a cup was immediately hurled towards her.

She didn't dare to dodge, so she could only endure it.

The cup sideswiped Morgan's cheek and hit the wall behind her. With a cracking sound, it shattered into pieces.

Morgan swallowed.

Samuel now appeared to be really strange. She had no idea about whether it had anything to do with the Golden Bug. He scared her.

Samuel's lips curled up as he said indifferently, "You can't tell it to anyone, including Joseph. Do you understand?"

"Yes."

"Now that you said that I have a Memory Bug in my blood, what about my sons, Joseph and Lucas?"

Morgan hurried to shake her head.

"No, the Memory Bug is passed from generation to generation. It only exists in one generation. We will pass it to our descendants only when we are dying."

Samuel sneered.

His laughter carried infinite mockery. Morgan thought it unpleasant to hear, but she didn't dare to look up.

"Even if the Harper Town is not destroyed by those people, I will find some men to ruin it!"

Morgan was shocked by his words.

"Mr. Samuel, you...!"

"Parents as they are, they did harm to their kids. Now that they only know how to bring disaster to their kids except keeping bugs, what do they live for? For such an evil town, even a fire is not enough."

Samuel stated as he went angry. His cold eyes went scarlet. He did stay motionless, but in Morgan's eyes, he bared his teeth and showed his claws, wishing he could tear her apart.

Nicole suddenly felt suffocated.

"Samuel..."

Nicole sounded confused and sad.

Samuel could only see red in front of him. He was filled with the killing intent, as if there was a voice shouting in his ears, "Kill her. Kill her!"

He was filled with rage. Blood seemed to be the only thing that could calm him down. However, that sad voice sounded familiar. Hearing the voice was like being touched by someone's soft hands. It felt warm and sweet.

Samuel loosened his grip on Nicole.

Nicole hurriedly struggled away and covered her neck as she coughed. She stared at Samuel with her beautiful eyes.

Something was wrong with him!

His eyes were wandering, and they were scarlet. It seemed that Samuel had fallen into a nightmare.

His breaths were also somewhat messy as he became more and more aggressive. It was as if he was going to destroy the whole room.

"Samuel, wake up! I am your wife, Nicole! Wake up!"

Nicole shouted.

Samuel frowned. He seemed to be in deep thought, but also at a loss.

Although Nicole did not know what was going on with Samuel, she could endure no more.

She quickly stepped forward and slapped Samuel in the face.

"Wake up!"

"You're dead!"

Samuel suddenly grabbed Nicole's hand. Just as he was about to break it forcefully, a sparkling tear dropped on the back of his hand.

"Are you crazy? Do you want to kill me? Samuel, you fucking bastard! Do it! Kill me now!"

As she spoke, Nicole took a step forward. She even stretched out her neck.

"Do it! Come on, do it!"

Samuel was somewhat dazed by Nicole's angry curses. He seemed to have remembered something. His eyes gradually became clear as he saw Nicole crying in front of him.

Perhaps it was because she was angry, or perhaps it was because she was sad, Nicole wiped her tears with her free hand. Seeing this, Samuel turned up the corners of his lips.

With Nicole's hand in his palm, Samuel pulled her into his arms.

Nicole was instantly surrounded by Samuel's familiar and cold scent.

"Let go of me, you bastard! Aren't you going to choke me to death? What's the point of hugging me now? Bastard!"

Nicole hit Samuel on the chest.

Samuel smiled even more.

"Stop it, darling. Your hand will hurt."

To Samuel, Nicole was not hitting him, but tickling him. Seeing that she was tired, and that her face had turned a little red, Samuel said to Nicole gently.

Nicole felt extremely wronged.

She was so worried about Samuel before entering the room. To her surprise, after she went in, Samuel almost strangled her to death as if he had gone crazy.

Chapter 1196 I Know How I Should Treat My Wife

As if knowing what's on Lucas' mind, Samuel flicked Lucas on the forehead and said, "No matter what I become, I am still your father."

Lucas rubbed where he was flicked and said dejectedly, "Why can't you give up the habit of flicking?"

Samuel smiled slightly, exuding a warm aura.

"How is Mommy doing?"

Lucas asked worriedly.

Samuel glanced at him and whispered, "She is my wife. I'd never hurt her."

However, he couldn't help recalling that he had almost throttled Nicole to death when she had entered the room.

He looked around to evade Lucas' gaze, feeling somewhat guilty.

Lucas did not notice Samuel's strange behavior and muttered, "Don't be so sure. Who knows what you will do to Mommy?"

"Shut up!"

Samuel frowned, bringing pressure that could not be challenged. Lucas was stunned.

"Samuel, I don't like the way you are now."

Lucas spoke bluntly, not afraid of offending Samuel at all.

Samuel was surprised.

"What are you talking about?"

"I don't like the way you are now. You make me feel that you are not the person I knew. You are lofty, evil and indescribably strange. You are so different now. I don't like the new you."

Lucas spoke with dignity, showing no sign of being afraid.

Samuel was dazed by this.

Lucas disliked him?

What was he like in the past?

He was tolerant, indifferent, mild on the outside and wild on the inside, and scheming.

These words were synonymous with him.

But was he different now?

He just became less tolerant.

Some hostility filled his heart, which was hard to get rid of. Everyone and everything around irritated him. He wanted to explode, to fight and to kill!

As soon as Samuel said that, Edwin instantly became solemn. Meanwhile, Nicole looked amazed at Samuel and felt that Samuel's voice was murderous.

Was it an illusion?

Nicole didn't dare to say anything. She remembered what Samuel looked like in front of her not long ago. He seemed to be delirious back then, but how about now?

Nicole looked at Samuel again. When she found that he did not seem to get a clouded mind at all, with his eyes clear, she could not help but frown.

Edwin paused for a second and spoke indifferently when he looked at Samuel.

"It's a military operation. You should know that we all have a confidentiality agreement. I can't tell anyone about it."

"Oh, that's right. There's a confidentiality agreement."

Then Samuel smiled evilly and Nicole was agitated.

Samuel didn't smile like that before. However, he was enchanting with that smile.

Nicole stepped forward right away, held Samuel's arm, and said, "Why did you ask about the Harper Town all of a sudden?"

"Nothing. It crossed my mind. I just wondered. Besides, Emory is still under investigation. I'm afraid it has something to do with that, so I asked."

Samuel's words made sense.

Edwin glanced at Samuel. He felt that Samuel did look murderous, but now Samuel didn't look like that anymore.

Edwin might get it wrong.

Edwin recovered his calmness and said, "Where are you going to travel? Have you decided yet?"

"Not yet. We just want to get around."

Samuel answered gently and looked completely different from what he looked like when he asked that question.

Nicole was afraid that Samuel would look fierce again, held his arm at once, and said, "I get some clothes ready. Come in and see if what else you need to take with you."

Samuel looked at Nicole and smiled. Without saying anything, he followed Nicole into the bedroom.

As soon as Samuel entered the bedroom, Nicole closed the door, looked at him with feigned anger, and said, "You freaked me out. You looked horrible when you questioned my grandfather. And you looked like you wanted to kill him."

"What would you do if I really wanted to kill him?"

Samuel stretched out his hand and put her hair behind her ears. His eyes grew tender.

Nicole was terrified.

"What do you mean? Are you really going to do something to my grandfather? Samuel, is something wrong with you? I feel like you've become a different person since Morgan detoxified you, especially in front of my grandfather. Do you want to avenge the Harper Town?"

Nicole asked bluntly.

Samuel was surprised this time.

Chapter 1198 Just Trying to Tease Her

Nicole noticed the change in Samuel's gaze, and she immediately threw herself into his arms bashfully. She whispered, "Don't ... don't stare at me. It's embarrassing."

Samuel smiled with a sense of tenderness dawning in his eyes.

"My silly girl."

She was such a silly girl.

Endowed with favorable conditions, she would definitely have been happier, if she had fallen in love with an ordinary man. However, she had chosen Samuel, a man with an embarrassing identity and endless trivialities. Samuel was aware that the affections Nicole held for him was well worth treasuring.

This was not the first time Nicole had heard these three words from Samuel.

All along, everyone thought that she was silly and persistent, but if Samuel treated her badly, how could she hold on to their relationship?

However tough the future would be, she was never afraid. Instead, what she truly feared was that Samuel stopped loving her. As long as he remained faithful to her, she had nothing to fear, no matter what was ahead of her.

Thinking of this, Nicole tightly hugged his waist and whispered, "Samuel, we will always be happy together, right?"

"Sure. We will."

Samuel could feel Nicole's uneasiness.

Perhaps it was his current situation that unsettled Nicole, or perhaps it was the truth behind the Harper Town that scared her. But no matter what it was, as long as it hindered their relationship, Samuel would not allow it.

If the truth behind the Harper Town was the cause, he could just give up digging into it. Nobody and nothing could force him to do what he was not willing to do. Never could those old stuff or Golden Bug manipulate him.

A trace of coldness flashed in Samuel's eyes.

The positive answer put a smile on her face.

What she wanted from him had always been so simple.

Samuel said softly, "Why don't we go to the Valence City?"

"Valence? Where is it?"

Nicole looked up with a trace of doubt in her eyes.

Samuel smiled faintly, and then he lifted Nicole and put her down on his lap.

Nicole subconsciously put her arms around his neck, but she felt that this posture was a little flirtatious.

Before she could get off Samuel's lap, Samuel stopped her.

"Don't move. Any move is flirting. You know, I can't take it."

Nicole's face reddened.

"I, I didn't flirt with you. It's the posture's fault."

There was a hint of shyness in her voice, making Samuel even more delighted.

"You don't like it? I think it's good."

"Samuel, we have been married for years, you know. What if the children see us...?"

"This is our bedroom. The children won't break in."

Samuel loved what she was like right now.

Samuel took a look. It was Blair. He thought that Blair called due to the bugs in his body, so he answered it in a casual tone.

"What? You still want to use me for research? Do you expect to examine the structure of the bug?"

Samuel's tone slightly stunned Blair.

When Samuel came to him, he wasn't so calm. He had mania as if he would kill someone. Now, he had changed so much.

Who helped him?

Nicole?

Blair assumed it was because of Nicole. Seeing that Samuel's mood was stable, he whispered, "Aren't you going on a trip?"

"Right. You want to join us?"

Samuel did not think that Blair would make a phone call just to chat with him. His relaxed expression gradually disappeared. He looked at Nicole and the children standing beside him. It was impossible for him to answer the phone without them hearing it.

Blair was stunned.

Not long ago, Samuel said that he wanted to take his family on a trip and didn't want anyone else to join. Since Samuel asked if he wanted to go, his wife and children were possibly by his side.

As Samuel's good friend, Blair quickly understood what he meant. He whispered, "Hurry up and leave, otherwise you won't be able to leave for the time being."

Samuel frowned slightly.

Not be able to leave?

What did he mean?

Who would dare to stop him from leaving?

Samuel looked around and did not see Edwin. His beautiful eyes narrowed.

"Where's Edwin?"

Samuel asked, seemingly casually.

Nicole was slightly stunned and said, "He just went out with Steve, and asked me about the Harper Town. I said that Morgan was from there."

Nicole did not hide this from Samuel.

Samuel immediately understood something.

Edwin may have gone there.

Blair may have heard some news, so Samuel immediately said to Blair, "Got it. Don't bother to see me apart. Take good care of your wife. Don't forget to treat me after you have a child."

"Got it. Hurry up and leave."

Then Blair hung up the phone.

Samuel pondered for a moment.

Emory had been taken into custody. Would he also be investigated because of his time in the Harper Town?

Once he was investigated, he would have no control over the situation.

This was the first time Samuel did not want to follow the rules.

Blair called him at this particular time. Obviously, Blair did not want him to stay and be investigated.

He wasn't clear about what was going on. But since Blair called, it meant that the matter was a little tricky.

Looking at his wife and children beside him, Samuel suddenly raised the corner of his lips His smile was so evil that he looked like Asura.

Nicole felt shocked.

There was mocking in Samuel's cold eyes.

"Do I have a choice?"

It made Jacob very sad.

"Mr. Green, I will listen to you. No matter what decision you make, I will follow you. I will not regret it."

Jacob looked firm.

Samuel snatched Jacob from the jaws of death, so Jacob would not regret taking risks for Samuel.

However, Samuel patted Jacob's shoulder. "Don't be silly. Jacob, you've got a family. Think about Olivia and your futures. You should keep her safe."

"But Mr. Green, I also want to protect you."

Tears gathered in Jacob's eyes.

If it wasn't for Samuel, Jacob would never have such a good life and happy marriage.

However, Samuel shook his head. "No one will protect me forever. Only my wife and children could make it. So, Jacob, you can leave after this. You've got enough money to support your family. I know that Olivia and Nicole are good friends. But if we can't solve the problem, I won't contact you guys for a while. I will leave Nicole's company to Daisy, so that you don't have to worry about Olivia's career. You just live a good life, and that's very helpful to Nicole and me."

Jacob's eyes were so red that he almost cried.

"Mr. Green, you leave the Seapolis City in a hurry. And you even leave all your properties to Ernesto. I know you must get into trouble. I won't leave you now. I can't be that ungrateful."

But Samuel held Jacob's hand tightly and whispered, "I did use your connections to get my family out."

"I can keep protecting you."

"As I said, you should take good care of Olivia. Jacob, you are a man. And you got to protect your girl. Don't let Olivia suffer like Nicole. Olivia is a good girl. Nicole cares much about her. So, you must treat Olivia well. Besides, you don't want to spend your honeymoon with us. Don't worry. I will call you after I solve the problem. At that time, you must come out with me."

Samuel smiled. He was so confident that Jacob got a complicated feeling.

The more dangerous it was, the calmer Samuel became. Jacob had known about this.

Jacob really wanted to be with Samuel through this whole thing. But nobody could change Samuel's mind once Samuel made a decision.

Jacob nodded in frustration.

Nicole and Olivia chattered about what had happened recently. They didn't hear what Samuel and Jacob had said behind them.
