Chapter 121: She was well informed

"What's going on?"

Jacob frowned slightly and subconsciously asked the bodyguard who was following him.

The bodyguard quickly went out to check and then he came back with some hesitation.

"What's the matter?"

Jacob knew the bodyguard very much. His indecisive manner made him somewhat surprised and uneasy.

The bodyguard took a deep breath and said, "the woman outside is Zama. She heard that President Green had entered the operating room, so she is clamoring to come in."

Jacob was helpless.

Zama was Samuel's wet nurse. Although she didn't do a good job last time and was fired by Nicole, Jacob did not send Zama out of the Seapolis City, but found a vacant house of the Green family for Zama to live in.

Jacob knew Samuel's feelings for Zama. Although Zama was a servant, Jacob tried his best to make Zama live a better life. Unexpectedly, it made Nicole get into trouble.

Jacob looked at Nicole in embarrassment.

"I'm sorry, ma'am."

"Samuel's just had an accident, and Zama is very well informed. She knows immediately that she should come here to look for Samuel, and she is really worried about Samuel."

Nicole's words made Jacob a little stunned, and then he realized that something was wrong.

In order not to affect Samuel and Nicole, Jacob specially arranged Zama in a relatively remote suburb, where there were not many people but the air was very good. He even found two servants for Zama to serve her. Even if Zama got the news, she couldn't have come so soon, let alone know about it so soon.

Jacob's eyes changed.

"Ma'am, do you mean..."

"This is the hospital. Samuel is still in the rescue. I'm not in the mood to deal with these things, and I don't want him to be disturbed. You can solve it yourself"

Nicole was a little tired.

She knew that Zama was suspect, but Jacob was thoughtful.

Zama had been taking care of Samuel since he couldn't walk. After all these years, she was almost equal to Samuel's second mother. Although Zama was a little unfriendly to her, she was for Samuel's good, and she didn't know her real identity.

Now that Samuel was in the emergency room, Nicole really didn't want to have any more conflicts with Zama, which made Samuel in a dilemma.

Over the past five years, there seemed to be a lot of things that she had put Samuel in a dilemma. For her sake, Samuel had risked his own life. That was enough for Nicole.

Chapter 122: Should he continue to hate him?

Allen put his mobile phone aside. His eyes were dark and unclear. He seemed to be shrouded in the cold winter. The low air pressure made the whole office cold and terrible.

The secretary shivered when she came in.

"President Brook, Mrs. Brook called and asked you to go back to the old house this evening."

"Get out of here!"

Allen was in a bad mood.

He wasn't as calm as he was on the phone. He was even a little violent, which made the secretary a little scared. She quickly backed out and quickly closed the door of the office.

Allen knew why Mrs. Brook asked him to go back.

He was going to be thirty. At this age, other men's children could run, but now he didn't have a girlfriend to marry. No wonder Mrs. Brook was worried.

But except Nicole, he really didn't want anyone else to be his wife.

He remembered seeing Nicole for the first time. She had long hair and entered the campus lively. She asked him with a smile, "excuse me, how can I get to the teaching building?"

At that moment, his heart was lost.

More than ten years have passed, but he still couldn't let go of this woman. It was a pity that she didn't love him!

Allen punched his desk. He hated the unfairness of his fate and his soft heart. If he didn't let Nicole go back to the Seapolis City, would she and Lucas still be with him at this time?

But if he didn't let Nicole go back, she cried all day for Zoe's illness, and he couldn't bear it.

What should he do?

Let go or fight hard?

Allen's mind was in a state of turmoil.

He seldom smoked. Because of Lucas and Zoe, he almost gave up smoking, but at this moment, he strongly needed nicotine to ease his mood, otherwise, he was afraid that he would go mad.

Smoke was floating in the air. Allen coughed and his tears came out.

At first, he tried to restrain himself, but then he simply no longer covered up his emotions, allowing a line of clear tears to flow down the corner of his eyes.

He had the authority and decision-making power of the whole French Financial Street, but he couldn't win back a woman's heart.

He felt very sad and ridiculous.

Outside came the frightened knock of the secretary.

"Go away!"

Allen threw everything on the desk to the ground. The loud noise made the Secretary shiver again. She wanted to turn around and run. However, she hesitated for a moment and said, "President Brook, the hospital called to say Zoe is not in good condition."

Allen pushed the chair straight away and opened the door to the office.

"What did you say?"

His tone was anxious and he smelled of tobacco. The tears on his face had not dried up. The secretary had never seen him so embarrassed and subconsciously stunned.

"What did you say?"

Allen roared like crazy.

The secretary regained consciousness.

Chapter 123: My godfather was really powerful

Samuel thought Lucas was fun. He was like he was when he was a kid. He was a little arrogant and stubborn, and he didn't want to owe anyone else.

He used to think it was bad for him to do so, but now when he saw Lucas, he suddenly felt that there was nothing wrong with doing so.

It should be a lot of fun to have such a cute little son, right?

It was a pity that he missed the five years of his growth, which was the regret of his life.

“Did your mother ever tell you that you are actually stubborn?”

Samuel teased Lucas.

Lucas was just hesitating whether to continue to hate Samuel. Hearing this, he was a little depressed.

“My mommy only told me that I was very much like my unreliable dad.”

“Unreliable?”

Samuel felt that he had been wronged.

Why was he unreliable?

But now that his son was a little stubborn donkey that needed to be gently stroked, Samuel was not angry.

“Tell me about your mommy's life over the past five years.”

The saddest thing for Samuel was that he hadn't been with Nicole and their son for five years. He knew more or less how much the fire had affected Nicole, but it was different to hear Lucas say it himself.

Lucas was a little angry, but he whispered, “I was young and didn't know very well. I just heard Godfather say that in the first two years, Mommy never dared to close her eyes, go out or see something with light. Godfather also said that Mommy suffered from depression for a period of time and wanted to jump down from the 32nd floor. If Godfather hadn't found it in time, there might be no Mommy now.”

Lucas's voice was getting smaller and smaller, but Samuel's heart suddenly sank to the bottom.

“Depression?”

“Yes, I checked it online. Depression is not easy to treat. Godfather said that if it wasn't for me, Mommy would really not want to live.”

Nicole really suffered too much at that time. When the child she desperately gave birth to was diagnosed with congenital renal failure and could only live for a few years, Nicole felt that her world had collapsed.

Zoe was tortured by medical equipment at a young age. If it wasn't for Lucas, Nicole might have jumped out of the building with Zoe in her arms.

At that time, she thought it was boring to live.

Her husband abandoned her and even wanted her and the baby to die. Her baby was born sick, and she was burned by the fire and couldn't meet anyone. At the moment when the baby opened her eyes, her appearance scared the baby to cry.

It was a fatal blow to Nicole that her hard-earned child rejected her embrace.

Chapter 124: We really didn't do anything

Samuel looked at Lucas. Lucas turned his head on purpose and didn't look at him.

Yes!

He did it on purpose!

Samuel was so arrogant before!

Even if he felt that Samuel was a little better than Godfather, he would not admit it now.

But Samuel didn't know what Lucas was thinking. He just looked at his own son in dismay and felt that he had a long way to go before his son could fully accept him.

Nicole was actually awake. She could not help but feel a little funny as she watched the father and son quarrel.

She never knew that Samuel had such a childish side. She was surprised that he had an argument with a four or five-year-old.

When she saw that Samuel was very angry, Nicole finally couldn't help laughing.

"Mommy, are you awake?"

When Lucas heard Nicole's laughter, he turned around and looked at Nicole with concern.

"Yes."

Nicole found out that Lucas kept her holding his little hand in order not to disturb her rest.

"Is your arm numb? Why don't you take your hand back? Let me have a look."

Nicole got up quickly and released Samuel's hand.

The source of warmth suddenly left, and Samuel was depressed. Especially Nicole didn't look at him since she woke up. She focused all her attention on Lucas. Samuel was suddenly upset.

He was a patient, OK?

"Ahem!"

Samuel coughed on purpose and hoped to attract Nicole's attention. Unfortunately, Lucas had long been aware of his meaning and immediately said, "Mommy, I can't move my arm."

"It's OK. Mommy will rub it for you."

Nicole heard Samuel's cough and was going to look back, but when she heard what Lucas said, she immediately rubbed Lucas's arm.

In her opinion, Lucas was still a child. He had just gone through such a terrible thing, but he had numbed his arm to take care of her. As a mother, she couldn't ignore him.

Samuel's an adult, and there was a doctor here, so there should be no problem.

Nicole thought and ignored Samuel.

"Are you feeling better?"

Nicole asked Lucas softly.

Lucas immediately nodded and said, "yes, but it's still numb. Mummy, rub it a little more."

"OK."

Nicole fondly smiled at Lucas and said softly, "don't be so silly in the future. If Mommy is asleep, you can take out your hand.

It's OK. Mommy won't wake up."

"Samuel! You are too cunning!"

It was too late for Nicole to react.

Samuel kept laughing. The next moment he kissed Nicole in a domineering way.

Nicole was afraid to touch his wound and tried not to touch his chest, which made Samuel even more unscrupulous. His big hands touched everywhere and made Nicole blush.

As soon as the gun was about to go off, Nicole pushed him away.

Her face was as red as sunset. She was panting and her body was a little soft. She could only stare at Samuel, but she didn't expect her watery eyes to be more provocative.

Samuel felt like he was going to explode.

He said in a hoarse voice, "you don't know how I've been for five years. I haven't had sex for five years. Can't I kiss you?"

"No way!"

Although Nicole was pleased with what he said, she thought it would be cruel if Samuel hadn't touched another woman in five years. However, when she thought of Samuel's injury, she still held back her heartache.

"You have to recover first."

Samuel's eyes brightened.

"You mean we can do that when I'm healed?"

"I didn't say anything."

Nicole looked at Samuel and thought she had dug a hole for herself.

Just then Jacob came. He was inexplicably envious and felt that he should find a woman to fall in love with, otherwise, he would be a bit intolerable to be abused.

"Ahem! President Green, I bring food."

Jacob coughed on purpose.

Nicole seemed to have been exposed all of a sudden. She blushed even more and couldn't stay in the room for a moment.

"I'll get Lucas back."

With that, she ran away.

Chapter 126: Are you sure you're my own son?

“Mom, it’s not what you think. There are many things you don't understand. I have time to explain to you.”

“You don't have to explain. Zama has served you for many years. Could Zama lie to me? You have to break up with the girl she doesn't like as soon as possible. Also, I heard that the woman had a son. Samuel, the Green family is not short of money, but I don’t want to raise children for others. Joseph is Vincent's son. If you take someone else's son into our family, what will you do with your property in the future? If you give too little, he will speak ill of you. If you give too much, I will not be happy.

After all, he is not a child of the Green family. You're not young. Why are you still so impetuous? I thought you were reasonable. What happened? I heard Zama say that woman is very lewd, isn't she? You have to have a good wife. You have to listen to me.”

Mrs. Green didn’t give Samuel a chance to explain.

Samuel was helpless.

“Mom, Lucas is my son. He's a child of the Green family. If you don't believe it, I can show you the paternity test. Do you really think your son is stupid? How can I fight for someone else's child? Zama doesn't know the situation. Lucas has just come back. I'm afraid some people may harm him, so I didn't disclose Lucas’s identity. Catherine is not the kind of woman you said. I'll talk to you about it later. Don't listen to Zama. Zama is hostile to her.”

“You defend her before you marry her? Zama is hostile to her? Everything Zama does is for you. Think about it. Zama has always been more thoughtful than me, your mother. Samuel, you are sometimes confused, but we are elders and bystanders, so we naturally think clearly. You have to listen to what we say. I don't like that woman anyway. Zama doesn't like her, and neither do I. What’s more, she hurt you. The children of the Green family don't need to work hard. The property left by the elders is enough for you. Vincent died for faith and justice. You are the only son I have. Don't worry me anymore, will you? ”

Mrs. Green was overbearing.

Samuel wanted to go on, but there was a ring on the other end of the phone.

“Well, I have something to do. I have to hang up. Let Jacob take good care of you. I'll go back to see you in a few days when I have time. And I heard you sent Zama to the suburbs? Was that woman's idea? Listen to me. Transfer Zama back to the Green family's old house, or I'll get angry with you. Do you hear me? You grow up. You abandoned your wet nurse for a woman. You are ungrateful.”

Mrs. Green hung up and neither of them was happy.

Jacob heard it clearly and said nothing. In fact, he couldn't give any good advice at this time. Obviously, Zama said something to Mrs. Green, so she didn't believe Lucas was her grandson and didn't even ask.

Samuel was really upset.

His mother and his wet nurse did the same. He couldn't handle them. But Nicole was the woman he wanted to pursue in his life, and Lucas was his own son. He couldn't forgive himself if he didn't take him home.

When Samuel thought of everything that happened five years ago, he was more distressed and guilty.

“Don't let Nicole know about it for a while. I'll call my mom again sometime. As for Zama, I need to talk to her.”

Samuel sighed and was worried.

He experienced being tortured by several women. But there was one thing he was sure of. This time he wouldn't let Nicole suffer anymore.

Jacob nodded and did it immediately.

Nicole came back with Lucas.

When Jacob saw them, he immediately said with a smile, “Lucas, I bought your favorite braised fish.”

Chapter 127: I'm afraid of you crying now

Samuel would like Lucas to leave early, but he is worried about Lucas' safety.

Fortunately, Macon was still in the Seapolis City. Samuel called Macon and asked him to send Lucas back to the Green family's old house. He hoped that Macon could stay in the Green family's old house for a few days to look after his two children.

Lucas was glad to hear that Macon would protect them.

The kidnapping made Lucas realize that some of the things Macon taught were particularly useful. What he lacked was self-defense. If Macon could stay and teach them, he could guarantee that he would grow up soon.

A kidnapping incident made Lucas deeply realize that only when he was strong could he protect himself and his mommy and not let her and his brother worry.

It didn't matter how much he suffered for this goal.

Thinking of this, Lucas jumped out of his chair.

"Mommy, I'll go back first. You don't have to worry about me. With instructor Macon here, Joseph and I will be safe. Take good care of this man here."

From Lucas' tone, it was not difficult to tell that he adored Macon and disliked Samuel, which made Samuel very speechless.

Why did Lucas worship others without knowing how brave and capable his father was?

But Lucas didn't give Samuel a chance to talk. He waved directly at Samuel and said, "I'll wait outside the door so that I won't be disgusted again."

Then he made a face and ran away with the braised fish.

Nicole's lips rose slightly.

Lucas hadn't been so childish for a long time. She even thought her son had grown up. She didn't expect that he seemed to release his nature in the Seapolis City, and he was more or less childlike.

"Lucas is a lot more cheerful after he came back to the Seapolis city."

Nicole was telling the truth.

Maybe here he didn't have to watch Zoe suffer every day. He didn't have to watch Nicole cry every day, and he didn't have to worry about Zoe dying on the operating table one day.

Chapter 128: I don't want her to have a good time

"Forget it. You'd better not say it."

In the end, Samuel couldn't resist his anxiety and refused Nicole's answer.

Nicole looked at him and didn't know how to explain Zoe to him. She never thought that Samuel would think of Allen. When she heard Samuel say no, she was relieved.

Seeing her relieved, Samuel was depressed again. The chicken soup that he thought was good to drink became tasteless.

"I'm full."

"You only drank a little."

Nicole looked at the soup bowl in her hand and looked at him helplessly.

"I'm hurt. I can't drink too much."

Samuel made an excuse.

Nicole saw that he was not happy, but now Samuel was not in good health, and if she told him about Zoe, he would go to France immediately. With his current physical fitness, he may have fallen ill before he arrived in France, let alone visit Zoe.

Nicole didn't care that Samuel got angry. She put the soup bowl into the lunch box and said faintly, "if you're hungry, eat more. It can stop the food from getting cold. It's greasy, but it's good for your wound. You should drink it."

Nicole didn't explain her relationship with Allen at all. Samuel became more and more depressed.

"I'm tired and want to sleep."

"Well, I'll be here with you."

Nicole knew he was not happy. She just obeyed him, which made Samuel more and more upset.

He wanted to lose his temper, but when he saw Nicole's dark circles, he held back and loved her.

"Go to bed and we can sleep together. Look at your dark circles. People will think I hit you."

Nicole saw that Samuel was clearly depressed but cared about her. She suddenly smiled and felt warm in her heart.

"I can rest in Lucas' bed. You have injuries. If you want to be with me, you should recover as soon as possible."

This obviously hurt Samuel again.

He lay down and turned over and left his back to Nicole.

His childish movements made Nicole's lips rise slightly. It was like Samuel was like five years ago and they were still them at that time.

But she knew they had changed after all.

Chapter 129: What are you going to do to me?

"Samuel, what are you talking about? How can you say that to me? I've been working hard for you and Joseph over the past five years. What have I done wrong?"

Samuel was suddenly disgusted with Riley.

He rarely punished women, and Riley certainly wouldn't tell the truth now. Instead of wasting time with her, it was better to change the strategy.

Samuel looked at Riley coldly and said, "this is the last chance I'll give you. Riley, as long as you tell me what you've done to the people of the Green family, I can promise you I won't let you go to prison, but if you give up this opportunity, you will have no relationship with the Green family in the future. Of course, in Joseph's impression, you will naturally get sick and die."

Riley panicked when she heard that.

"What are you going to do to me?"

"It depends on what you say to me."

Samuel's cruelty almost destroyed Riley's last fluke.

"You can't do this to me! Samuel, I spent five years of my youth raising your son and contributing to the Green family. How can you do this to me?"

Samuel saw Riley coming at him. He immediately pulled the guard aside to block him in front of him.

Riley was caught off guard and hugged the guard.

The guard was a young man. He blushed when he was hugged by Riley, and he was even at a loss.

Riley became angry.

"How dare you take advantage of me? Do you want to die?"

She slapped him in the face.

The guard was caught off guard and was slapped. He was really angry.

Samuel was glad he wasn't touched by Riley, otherwise, he would be sick for days and might make Nicole sick. His face darkened again at the thought.

"It seems that you don't repent. It's a good place. You can think it out and come to me at any time."

With that, Samuel left the room without any nostalgia. "It's too small here," he said to the director. "You can put Miss George in the interrogation room. If she doesn't say it, don't give her food or water until she says it."

The director nodded immediately.

Riley broke down.

"Samuel, you can't do this to me! Joseph is still young. He can't do without his mother! Don't you fear that he will know the truth and hate you? You're sorry for Vincent. Do you want his son to lose his mother? How can Vincent be relieved underground?"

Chapter 130: President Green, be careful

After leaving the police station, Samuel got on the car and suddenly felt the air in the car was very stuffy.

Today, he was going out to ask Riley what happened five years ago, but she mentioned Vincent.

As an informer, Vincent was very secretive. In order to protect him, the superior took all kinds of protective measures, but in the end, Vincent's identity was revealed.

At the time, Riley was the only one around Vincent.

Riley was a suspect. The superiors planned to investigate her, but she was pregnant at that time.

She was pregnant with Vincent's baby!

Mrs. Green knew that Riley was pregnant with Vincent's baby and wanted to get her back in person. Samuel stopped Mrs. Green and he brought Riley back.

But Samuel didn't stop investigating Riley. All the evidence suggested that Riley was highly suspected.

Samuel didn't know what his brother Vincent felt like before he died, but he must have loved Riley, and for this reason, Samuel stopped investigating. He even took Riley back to the Green family for Vincent's son.

But the thorn went deep into Samuel's heart and couldn't be pulled out.

Now Riley mentioned Vincent again. It reminded Samuel of his previous doubts. He thought it necessary to investigate deeply. Even if Vincent blamed him, he had to know the truth because he was not alone now. He had a wife and son to protect.

Samuel lit a cigarette again and smoked silently. He had not smoked for a long time, but now he urgently needed to comfort himself with cigarettes.

Riley said that Vincent died for him. There was one thing that nobody knew. It was just a secret between them. But Riley knew it, which showed how much Vincent loved her and how much he believed in her. But this woman didn't love Vincent, which made Samuel very uncomfortable.

At that time, Samuel took part in a secret mission in the army. Later, because the mission was leaked, he had to quit the mission and go home to inherit his family business. However, he and Vincent were twin brothers, and they looked the same.

If Vincent stayed in the Seapolis City, where he could protect him, he might not have died, but he went to the place where his mission had failed.

Being revealed was a fatal injury to Vincent, but Samuel got the news that someone thought of Vincent as him and targeted him. After knowing all this, Vincent did not clarify his identity but lived as Samuel. He wanted to protect Samuel.

So when Vincent died miserably, Samuel was in pain. He didn't know all this until Vincent died. However, Riley knew that, which meant Vincent told Riley his plan.

In addition to what Nicole went through five years ago, Samuel wanted to know what role Riley played in Vincent's death.

The cigarette was a little choking.

Samuel coughed violently. His eyes were red, but he didn't stop.

He even had a strange idea. If he coughed his heart out, would he be more comfortable and not so sad and heartbroken?

The cigarette soon went out. Although Samuel still couldn't calm down, he couldn't stay outside for too long. He was afraid that Nicole would wake up and worry about him.

After cleaning himself up, Samuel drove back to the hospital.

Nicole was still asleep.
