Chapter 1211 You Are Really Calm

Nicole also heard this music and couldn't help but be stunned for a moment.

She was familiar with Samuel's ring tone, but this was obviously not it.

"Is something wrong? Or is there something wrong with Fill?"

Nicole subconsciously asked.

However, Samuel smiled and said, "It's fine. I've arranged everything. However, it's from Fill. I'll go answer it. You stay here."

"Alright."

Hearing that it was Fill, Nicole did not have any desire to ask more because she knew Fill was loyal to Samuel.

Samuel took the phone and walked out.

Only then did Nicole completely relax.

The hot spring here was really good, making her whole body feel relaxed and comfortable.

Unknowingly, Nicole leaned against the rim of the hot spring and fell asleep.

After Samuel came out, he directly pressed the answer button.

"What is it?"

Samuel was not very pleasant.

Fill knew that he had brought his children and wife here to travel, but he still called him. That could only mean that there was something important.

Hearing Samuel's cold voice, Fill could not tell whether Samuel was angry or not. He quickly said, "Someone has come to look for traces of you nearby."

Samuel suddenly paused, then sneered and said, "They are persistent. Who is it?"

"Chief Zack. I don't know who ordered him to look for you like you're a fugitive. This reminds me of the moment when I was expelled and put on the wanted list many years ago."

Fill said sarcastically.

Samuel's eyes lit up slightly and he whispered, "I see. Arrange it. Since they want to find me, let them. They probably won't be able to come to the Nine Dragons Pool."

"That's right. They all thought that you ran away. No one expected that you would have the mood to take your wife and children on a trip. But just in case, you should watch your back. After all, he is not a rookie. He has made some achievements in the past few years."

Fill's tone was filled with worries.

Morty was slightly surprised, then he smiled and said, "Sam, do you take me as your enemy?"

"Right now, I don't know who still my friend is."

Morty's expression changed.

He said seriously, "You don't need to care about what Mr. Shaw said. You and I have been through so much. No matter what you decide, and no matter what Mr. Shaw's attitude is, I always got your back."

Samuel finally breathed a sigh of relief.

"Thank you."

"No need, bro."

Morty hung up the phone then.

Samuel was touched.

He was somewhat surprised, but he was also relieved. At least, he was not a fugitive, and the person who got a say in this matter believed him. This was enough to let him feel assured. Otherwise, even though he still had a sliver of a chance of winning against them, he might not be able to keep his wife and children out of it.

Now he could finally have a rest and have fun with his wife and children.

Samuel smoked another cigarette, and then returned to the hot spring room, only to see Nicole sleeping soundly. He was surprised and suddenly laughed out.

She was really weak.

Samuel stood up and went forward, pulled Nicole out of the hot spring, wrapped her in a bath towel, and then carried her to the lounge.

The bed in the lounge was also renovated and built over a hot spring, and people could feel the warmth when lying on it.

Samuel did not take off the towel for her and just lay down and fell asleep with Nicole in his arms.

In his sleep, there seemed to be a woman touching his head gently, with a smile on her face.

"Child, I hope that you will be stronger in the future. Although you have shouldered too many things, mom believes that you will always find a way to be happy. Life is too short and mom can't give the happiness you want. You can only fight for it by yourself. I'm sorry, son, I'm really sorry, but mom can do nothing about it."

The woman's voice was very soft, as if she was whispering.

Samuel wanted to see her face, but it was in vain. There was always so much mist around, making people feel uncomfortable. However, that voice was somewhat familiar, and it sounded just like Zama.

Zama?

Samuel felt slightly cold.

He suddenly opened his eyes and looked around. For a moment, he couldn't figure out where he was.

The phone beside him had already been turned into silent mode, and it was vibrating now.

Afraid of disturbing Nicole, Samuel picked it up and walked out.

"What now?"

Samuel sounded impatient, with a trace of displeasure and anger.

Fill was surprised for a moment and said, "The results of Ballard's test have come out."

Samuel frowned slightly.

Samuel let go of Nicole's hands gently, but just as Nicole continued to eat soup dumplings, Samuel calmly said, "The cause of Ballard's death has been confirmed. Are you sure you still want to eat more?"
Nicole put down the soup dumpling in her hands when she heard these words.
"You did it on purpose!"
Samuel did not deny but nodded and said, "Yes, I did it on purpose. What's wrong? Do you have any objections?"
"We will wait and see."
Nicole felt that Samuel was not gentle at all.
She looked at the food in front of her and said, "Take it away!"
"Okay."
Samuel directly took it out. There was already a waiter waiting outside. He took the plate from Samuel's hand, turned around and left the lounge.
Nicole felt somewhat disappointed.
She thought to herself, "Why Ballard committed suicide?"
When Samuel came back, he saw Nicole holding her chin with one hand. She narrowed her eyes as she thought about something.
He held Nicole in his arms from behind.
"Stay away from me."

"Be good, I just want to hug you."

Nicole calmed down when she heard Samuel's words. She sighed softly and comfortably leaned against him. She whispered, "Ballard's suicide was not an accident, right?"

"Yes, Ballard was afraid that Tim would see him die miserably, so he committed suicide himself. In this way, he could die with dignity in a normal way."

Samuel's words somewhat shocked Nicole.

"He committed suicide for Tim?"

"That's right. Ballard was a real scum. Everyone thought that he was not qualified as a husband or a father. What surprised me was that he could whitewash what he had done by making such a great sacrifice for his only son. It seemed that he valued his son to some extent. "

Samuel said softly and sadly.

Nicole did not say anything, but she agreed with what Samuel just said.

"How is Tim doing now?"

"I don't know. I was not there. Fill said nothing either. Tim must be sad now, but Evelyn is with him. He should be fine."

Nicole nodded when she heard what Samuel said.

'Yeah, Evelyn is with Tim.'

'He is no longer a poor boy. He has his own family now.'

Nicole felt glad when she thought about that.

Samuel told Nicole about the test results Fill had told him, and he also told Nicole about his worries. He even asked Tim to run a physical examination so that Nicole would feel less concerned.

"Mr. Green, it's time for dinner."

They had been playing for a long time.

Nicole shook her sore neck and said, "This game is quite fun. We can play one around every day."

"Mommy, are you serious?"

Zoe looked at Nicole excitedly.

"Of course."

Nicole patted Zoe on the head gently.

They then went to dinner.

Seeing the game on the table, Zoe said happily, "Wow, pheasant! It must be delicious!"

"Foodie."

Seeing Zoe's shining eyes, Lucas and Joseph both smiled.

"You call me a foodie? Then you must be full by seeing the meal rather than eat it? Am I right, Joseph?"

Zoe snorted at Lucas, expressing her discontent.

Lucas shook his head and sat down.

Samuel sat beside Nicole and looked at the delicious food on the table. He then smiled, "Eat more. You have been exhausted these days."

As he spoke, he picked up a piece of chicken for Nicole.

Nicole was very angry.

She was so exhausted all because of him!

Nicole glared at him, but her coquetry made Samuel want to get her again.

"Not now! Kids are here."

Lucas didn't want to see them.

After coming here, he found that Samuel was simply too shameless.

Samuel even wished everyone could see how much he adored Nicole.

He was really too shameless.

It might be because under his indifference, Samuel had suppressed his passion for so many years.

This was really horrible.

Lucas even got goose bumps on his arms. Seeing him, Nicole felt even more ashamed.

"Shut up and eat."

Nicole picked up a few pieces of chicken and stuffed them into Samuel's mouth.

Samuel glanced at Lucas and Lucas back with disdain.

This bastard!

Samuel muttered in his heart, but he was still enjoying the meal.

Zoe felt that she was really in heaven. No matter what she was doing, her family was there with her. She really liked this feeling.

When Joseph saw her greasy fingers, he quickly took out a napkin and handed it over.

"Eat slowly. This isn't a race. You can have this chicken drumstick as well."

Joseph gave his chicken drumstick to Zoe.

"Thank you, Joseph."

Samuel picked up Nicole.

She thought at first that they were going back to the lounge, but she soon found themselves in the mountain.

"Where are we going?"

Nicole looked around and asked.

Samuel smiled and answered, "Dare to run off with me?"

"We are married with children. What are you talking about?"

Nicole sensed an air of self-indulgence in Samuel.

Samuel laughed out loud.

"Who said you can't run off if you have children? Leave alone the children! Let's run away, just two of us."

"Nonsense."

Nicole didn't even want to argue, but the smile remained on her face.

After a few steps, Nicole saw a waterfall splashing down from above.

"We are at the Nine Dragons Pool?"

Nicole remembered that the lake was too small to create a waterfall.

Samuel said cheerfully, "Yes, the waterfall behind the Nine Dragons Pool."

"Really? What a beautiful scenery! I thought the Nine Dragons Pool was simply nine small pools with a legend."

"Let's go in and take a look."

Hearing his words, Nicole was stunned for a moment.

"Go in? Are you joking? This is a waterfall!"

There must be something wrong with Samuel, she thought.

However, Samuel directly asked someone to bring over two disposable raincoats. After they put them on, he held Nicole's hand and walked over.

The water wasn't very cold and even carried a trace of warmth.

"Is this hot spring water?"

Nicole couldn't be more surprised at this point.

Samuel nodded and smiled, "Surprised?"

"Of course!"

She was overjoyed at the beauty in front of her.

The couple walked towards the waterfall step by step.

A fantasy suddenly appeared in Nicole's mind. It was as if she and Samuel were about to enter the fairyland. They held hands for now and for always.

She turned to look at Samuel. The man of her dream was drop-dead gorgeous.

Samuel used to be cold and oppressive. Now he just wanted to surprise his wife, and this simply act was far beyond enough to make this woman fall desperately in love with him.

Nicole could felt her heartbeat.

Her affections towards this man seemed like the vintage wine: the longer it was kept, the better it tastes.

"Stop looking at me. There's plenty of time for you to do so later in your life. Now mind the slippery road."

Samuel's words instantly brought back Nicole's thoughts, and she blushed.

Before Samuel could come up with a solution, Nicole suddenly raised her head, which made Samuel put his phone behind his back in a hurry.

"Look how happy you are."

Samuel said with a smile.

Nicole said happily, "Yeah. Such a beautiful place made them all envious. They were all asking me where this place is."

"Did you tell them?"

"Absolutely no! Although I also want to contribute to the tourism here, I'm not stupid. If I told them, our location would be disclosed to them then. I will not be tricked."

Nicole was like a proud little girl. Samuel was obsessed with this proud little girl. Samuel was, nevertheless, feeling worried because of Tim.

"Nicole."

"What?"

Nicole looked up at Samuel again.

Seeing her slight excitement and joy, Samuel refrained from expressing his worry.

"Nothing. If you like the scenery, just take a good look. You'll have to go to bed soon."

"I see."

Nicole nodded and then went to chat with several people.

Samuel took out his phone again and checked the medical report in his hand, narrowing his eyes.

Lead poisoning?

How come Tim got lead poisoning?

He had a medical examination when he and Evelyn got married.

Why wasn't he diagnosed as being poisoned by lead then?

Samuel felt a headache.

He sent the medical report to Tim and said, "Take a look at your own medical report. You have lead in your body. Didn't your premarital check-up report inform you of that?"

Tim was obviously a little surprised by the medical report and replied, "When I registered marriage, I happened to be in hospital due to a car accident. How could I have a medical examination?"

"Then why did a doctor fail to find that there was too much lead in your body?"

This made Samuel confused.

Tim became silent.

That was right.

He must have been thoroughly examined by doctors when he was sent to the hospital after the car accident. Why didn't they find that he got lead poisoning?

And now this medical report was made by Samuel's man, so it was authentic.

So, someone at the hospital purposefully altered his medical report?

"Tim, there's another possibility."

Samuel's words stunned Tim.

"What?"

Chapter 1217 Good Girl, You Deserve a Reward

Safes were usually used to keep very valuable things.

It was either money or critical documents or evidences.

Fill's eyes gleamed.

"Find someone to pry open the safe. I have to know what's inside."

Following Fill's order, one of his men walked over and got down to it.

It took about half an hour to open the safe, and the gold bars inside almost shocked everyone.

"Holy shit, Kody is quite rich. He has saved up so many gold bars. They worth a lot. He's smart to exchange money for gold."

Fill's man's words made him frown slightly.

There were about a dozen golden bricks in front of him, neatly placed together.

Nowadays, very few people exchanged money for gold bars and kept them at home. He didn't expect Kody to do such things.

There were only two reasons for him to do so.

One, this person especially liked gold bars.

Second, it was not convenient for him to deposit money.

In the current information age, Kody could carry money simply with an ID card and a mobile phone. Why would he change money into gold bars and put them at home?

Now the gold bars were still there, but he had run away. Kody must have left in a hurry.

Fill gently supported his chin with his fingers as he contemplated.

Why?

Suddenly, something popped into his head.

Fill looked up and said to his men, "Go check Kody's ID card and personal information. Search the people in the Seapolis City more than 20 years ago."

His men were slightly confused.

"Fill, do you suspect Kody is an alias?"

"If it's his real name, how could he have no ID card and no account? He would easily get away with money rather than gold bars. Why does he put them at home? So, I think he has no ID card and no account. Go investigate who died in the Seapolis City more than 20 years ago and carefully search here. Take back the cups, toothpaste, and toothbrushes for testing. Try to take the DNA and send it to the database to confirm his identity."

Once Fill found the key point, he acted very quickly.

Everyone followed Fill's instructions.

Tim was also destined to be sleepless all night because of his physical condition.

The only person who wasn't affected was Nicole.

Nicole excitedly chatted with them for a while, but Samuel grabbed her phone and took it away in her reluctance.

"I haven't said goodbye to them yet."

Nicole was a little depressed.

Samuel said uncompromisingly, "It's very late. Hurry up and go to bed. Tomorrow we'll take photos at the Nine Dragons Pool, and then we'll go to other places."

Nicole knew that if they started photo-shooting travel tomorrow, they would be very tired. So she stopped arguing.

"Have you found the photo studio so quickly?"

Samuel shook his head and said, "Why do we need a photo studio? I have a photography team. I just need to call and ask them to go with us tomorrow. In this way, we won't be embarrassed."

"That's not bad."

Fill was also a little excited.

The subordinate said in a hurry, "Kody was not truly surnamed Ricardo, but Cater. He used to be the owner of a small furniture factory in the Seapolis City. He was Ballard's classmate. When his business somehow failed, he had a drink with Ballard. But then, Kody disappeared."

Fill frowned slightly.

"Is there anything strange about this?"

"No, but strangely enough, he sent his wife and child away before leaving the Seapolis City, and then changed his name, too."

Hearing this, Fill furrowed even more deeply.

Did Kody change his name just because of the business failure? Did he left the Seapolis City in that way so that no one would know about his past? But over the past twenty years, he only worked as an ordinary casino manager. So why would he even abandon his own child? That was so strange.

"Is there anything else?"

"Yes, we found out that Fernanda is his biological daughter."

Fill's eyes suddenly narrowed.

"Who?"

"Fernanda."

It reminded Fill of something.

More than 20 years ago, Kody knew Ballard. And Ballard got poisoned before Kody left. Now, Kody's daughter, Fernanda, met Tim. And Tim got poisoned with lead.

Was that a coincidence?

Fernanda was Kody's daughter. How could this be a coincidence?

Fill felt that this was impossible.

"Dig further! I want to know when Fernanda and Kody started contacting each other."

"I know."

The subordinate quickly left.

Fill felt a little headache because of the high-intensity work.

He rubbed his temples and shook his head.

"Fill, something happened at your home."

Another subordinate walked in.

Fill's eyes suddenly turned cold.

Home?

Whitney?

The atmosphere in the room instantly froze.

"Where is she?"

"They stopped her, but several guards got injured."

The subordinate didn't dare to complain, but from his tone, clearly, he was not happy about that.

A sturdy body suddenly pressed her down.

"Fill, get lost!"

The woman's face turned pale.

Fill laughed ruthlessly. He was in a rage, but there were some inexplicable emotions in his heart.

"I heard you hurt five of my men. How amazing you are! Ysabel."

Yes.

Her name was Ysabel, not Whitney.

She looked so much like Whitney.

But they still had some differences.

Ysabel's eyes were not as pure as Whitney's.

Whitney only cared about herself and the army. So, when she looked at Fill, her eyes were as bright as the star and with only him in it.

But what was in Ysabel's eyes?

Slaughter! Anger! And even hatred!

Yes!

She hated him!

But so what?

Ysabel was terrified when she saw Fill sneer. She just tried to assault his men and escaped from here. When she hurt his men, she knew that he might kill her, but she wasn't scared.

She couldn't stay here.

Because someone important was waiting for her to save.

Fill looked so scary that she thought he was about to kill her.

"Say it!"

Fill suddenly held her chin. He looked as angry as a bull and even wanted to kill her.

Ysabel was afraid, but she didn't regret what she had done.

She must leave!

"Yes! Do you try to kill me? Fill, if I can't kill you, I can't finish my mission, and the people I most care about will be in danger. I don't want him to die, so I have to do that."

"Him? Is he your boyfriend?"

Fill's eyes were cold and filled with hatred.

In the past few days, this woman was like a clam and didn't say anything. Today, she finally spoke, but her words pissed him off.

This woman had a boyfriend.

All right.

Ysabel was so pretty. How could she not have a boyfriend?

But when Fill realized it, he couldn't control his hatred.

Ysabel looked at him fearlessly and said, "Of course! He is my boyfriend, my fiancé. As long as I kill you, I can go back and marry him."

"Well. Boyfriend. Fiancé."

Fill said in a low voice. He smiled but looked even more frightening.

He was like a Satan from the hell. The smile before he killed people was wicked and mysterious.

Chapter 1220 Dennis' Death

A look of surprise came over Ysabel's face, which angered Fill.
"Do you think that your boyfriend will come to rescue you? No, he won't. If he really loves you, he wouldn't send you to me."
Fill's harsh words shattered Ysabel's hope.
She pursed her lips and glared ferociously at Fill, wishing she could tear him into pieces.
Sensing her anger and sadness, Fill felt pain.
She closely resembled Whitney.
How could he say such harsh words and did such a cruel thing to someone who looked like Whitney?
He raped Ysabel forcibly!

It was ridiculous!

This was once the thing he disdained the most, but now he did it. He raped a woman who looked like Whitney. It made him feel like he raped Whitney.

Fill felt so annoyed that he slammed the door and walked out.

After he left, Ysabel breathed a sigh of relief.

Her shoulders drooped. She felt pain all over her body, especially her vaginal orifice.

'This damn man!

He took my virginity!

I will kill him!

I promise!

Ysabel swore to herself inwardly.

Fill quickly went outside and his subordinate handed him the phone.

He didn't answer the phone right away. Instead, he took the phone back into the study. Then, he said coldly, "Are you jealous as your beloved woman slept with me?"

The man on the other side of the phone gulped.

"What are you talking about? She won't sleep with you. She loves me!"

"So what? I forced her to sleep with me. She looks so much like Whitney. I won't give her back to you intact. Isn't that why you sent her to me?"

Fill didn't care that others knew what he was thinking.

Everyone knew how he felt about Whitney. A brief investigation would tell. The man had gone to great lengths to find a substitute for him.

Fill sneered. His face was entirely devoid of expression. He was like a ghost in hell that had long since lost human emotions.

The man was silent for a while. Perhaps he was trying to suppress his emotions, or perhaps he was thinking about how to talk to someone like Fill.

"Are you trying to seduce me with a woman? Or are you trying to recruit me?"
