

Escape Wife 1321

Chapter 1321 What Would He Do from Now on?

William used to be an elegant man, but now he was tortured to this extent.

Sally didn't know what the king had done to William, but she could guess it from what she saw.

Sally intended to ask Nicole, but she was afraid that William would run away once she left.

She finally found him after great efforts. She would never let him disappear from her sight again.

Sally ordered some food. She was told that Samuel had the food prepared in the kitchen.

Sally hurriedly said, "Tell the kitchen not to add coriander. He doesn't eat coriander."

Although her voice wasn't loud, William still heard it.

No coriander?

It felt like ages ago.

When he was imprisoned in that dark cellar, he had eaten the stale food, let alone coriander. He wouldn't be able to survive without that disgusting food. He even had something that could barely called food stuffed into his mouth.

Thinking of this, William felt disgusted.

He was now like a dirty, sloppy, and shameful rat in a ditch. How could he be with Sally?

Even if he still loved her and didn't care about her past, but so what?

He was not worthy of her anymore.

William had always hoped that he could leave the cellar. But now, he wished he could be locked in that cellar without seeing anyone.

He did not care how others thought about him, but he could not bear to be seen like this by Sally. Unfortunately, it happened.

William turned on the tap, and the water sprayed on his body. He didn't have the warm feeling for a long time.

He thought that he would die in that dark cellar. He never expected to be free again.

Now, a simple hot bath was a luxury for him.

His hair was tangled up, so he picked up the scissor and cut his long hair. Although his hair was badly cut, he felt much more comfortable in this way.

While William was taking a shower, Sally went to find clean clothes for him. Seeing Samuel had the clothes prepared, she then cooked and even boiled a pot of wine for William in the kitchen.

William was still in the bathroom when Sally returned.

Nicole also wanted to check on William, but Samuel carried her to bed and whispered, "Tonight belongs to them. Even if you have any questions, don't ask tonight. You should go to bed now. It's getting late. Take a good rest and talk to William tomorrow, alright? Don't worry. We will have a chance to talk with him."

Samuel knew that Nicole was excited to meet William. After all, William and Xander were twins. Seeing William was like seeing Xander.

Nicole had never seen Xander in person before. Even though she had seen his photo, she missed the chance to see Xander one last time.

This was a lifetime regret for Nicole.

Therefore, she kind of saw William as her father.

"Why do you have a needle hole on your neck?"

Sally asked anxiously. Her hands were trembling.

William paused for a moment, but he remained silent.

"Can you talk to me? William, can we go back to before? Now you do not even want to talk to me, do you?"

Sally raised her voice. If Nicole were here, she would probably be shocked. After all, Sally was a very elegant woman in everyone's impression. Even when she was hunted down, she did not frown for a moment. But when she was facing William, she was like a furious dinosaur that was about to go mad at any moment.

William knew Sally too well. Sally used to be as gentle as a pool of peaceful water. No matter how urgent the matter was, she would resolve it calmly. However, Sally's behavior now reflected his mistake.

He was the one who pushed Sally to this state. But how could he explain this to Sally?

Should he tell Sally that it was the king's people who injected poison into his body? Should he tell her that there are many poisons in her body and they were torturing him, and he will die at any moment? Or should he tell her how suffering his life was in these years?

All of these would only make Sally feel more guilty and depressed. She would cry her eyes out. If that was the outcome, he did not want to say anything. The last thing he wanted to see was Sally in sadness.

Sally suddenly threw the thruster in her hand when she saw William remained silent. She squatted in front of William and forced him to look into her eyes while holding his head tightly.

"William, do you want to hide and never talk to me for the rest of your life? Are you blaming me? Are you blaming me for not saving my virginity for you and compromising my life?"

"No."

William did not want to talk, but he could not help when he saw the tears on Sally's beautiful face.

"What do you mean by saying no? If not, why are you doing this to me? You have been ignoring me! Do you think that I am embarrassing you just by standing in front of you? Am I bothering you? If you say yes, I will disappear immediately and never appear again for the rest of my life!"

Sally was going to collapse.

William was the only person she had ever loved in her life, and she still loved him. How could he not know?

William saw the determination in Sally's eyes. He sighed softly and whispered, "You know that was not what I meant."

"Then what do you mean?"

Sally was no longer a mature woman anymore at this moment. Instead, she was like an unreasonable little girl. However, William never found it bothering. His gaze carried a trace of doting.

He touched Sally's long hair and said in a low voice, "I just do not know what to say."

"I want to know everything. I have been looking for you for many years. I want to know what you have been through. What did the king do to you? What did you do to survive all these years?"

"Why are you forcing me? What can you do even if I tell you? Time cannot be reversed, and we cannot go against the king either. Everything that should happen had happened. Knowing it will only make us sad. It is like making me experience all the difficulties again. Is that what you want?"

Chapter 1323 Don't Make Things Difficult for Him

William looked at Sally with some fascination. She hadn't seen him like that in years. Sally smiled brighter.

"Do I look good?"

She asked like a shy little girl.

William nodded. But he soon realized that he was being frivolous. He hurriedly lowered his head and didn't dare to look into Sally's eyes. But Sally was quite content.

"Get up and freshen up. I'll make you some food. Right, Nicole and the others may come later. Please give me a hand. Well, you know Nicole, right? She brought you out yesterday. She is Xander's daughter, and your niece."

Sally knew that William hadn't been in contact with the Don family for years, so he didn't know much about Nicole. Nicole brought him out yesterday, but Sally thought William didn't recognize Nicole.

But William actually knew.

"I know who she is. She's the child of my brother Xander and your sister Audrey. But she doesn't look much like them."

Sally was stunned and then explained, "Nicole had an accident before. She had a face-lift. She looked a lot like them before the surgery. You can take a look at her previous photos."

"Alright."

William paused and was thinking about the accident mentioned. But he didn't ask. He just pondered in his heart.

Sally then left the room.

William heaved a sigh of relief. He couldn't keep calm in front of Sally.

After Sally left, William tidied himself up. He was still wearing the same clothes as yesterday. But compared with what had happened to him in the cellar, he was now content.

Time and circumstance could change everything and dilute everything. Now William had none of the arrogance of his youth. He was more mature now and less talkative.

Nicole didn't sleep very well. If Samuel didn't stop her, she would have come to see William in this evening.

It was morning. Nicole heard a noise in Sally's room and she quickly ran over.

She was a little nervous, and her hands were sweating.

Samuel was amused, and then knocked on the door.

William was nervous. He told himself that he was free now, and he needed to adapt to the current society and the world.

William prepared and finally said, "Come in."

His heart was beating fast. When he saw Nicole and Samuel, his nervousness and anxiety vanished at once.

"It's you. Good morning."

William greeted them.

Nicole was stunned.

When she saw William last night, he was in a mess. She couldn't even tell what William looked like. But now, William was cleaned up by Sally. He looked exactly the same as the photo Nicole saw before.

Chapter 1324 It's His Destiny. Don't Blame It on Me

"Impossible for this life? William, is it what you really think?"

Sally might have cried out all her tears these two days. Although she was sad now, her eyes were so dry that she couldn't shed tears at all.

William flinched at her words, but he still whispered, "We have lost each other this life. I will make up for it to you in the next life."

"We are now living this life, and you are promising me the next life? William, do you still remember the promise you made to me? You said you would treat me well and pamper me like a princess forever. This is how you treat me?"

Sally's voice carried a trace of mockery, making William bow his head in shame.

"Forget those words. It's all my fault. If you hate me, you can swear at me or anything you like. I won't blame you."

"You won't blame me? William, do you know if I will blame you? Let me tell you, no matter how you treat me, as long as I don't want you to go, you are not going anywhere. Don't talk nonsense."

Sally placed the prepared food on the table when she finished speaking, and then left the room.

Nicole was a little worried about Sally. She glanced at William and before she could say anything, she heard William say, "Go and see her. Don't let anything happen to her."

"Alright."

Nicole rushed to chase after Sally.

Samuel looked at William with a trace of inquiry in his eyes.

"William, you have something hard to say?"

Although Samuel said it as a question, he knew the answer.

William had suffered a lot in his life. He thought that he could keep it all to himself. However, when Samuel said so, he couldn't help but feel somewhat sorry for himself.

"How can you tell?"

"From your eyes. Your eyes are all about Sally, but you said something that hurt her. And you even said you don't want to be with her. I am a man, too. I think I understand what you really think."

Although Samuel's voice was calm, what he said still stunned William a little. He then gave a bitter smile.

"So if you can tell, Sally can certainly tell, right? I thought I've made it flawless to say something to hurt her while hurting myself. But it was just a joke."

William looked at the food on the table, and they were all his favorites. Thinking of Sally's expression and words just now, he whispered, "I might not be able to become normal again in this life. Do you think she would be happy to be with a man like me?"

Every time when I thought I would die, I would be rescued. As time went on, death became a luxury for me. Later, I found that I had lost the most basic function of a man. However, it didn't matter to me anymore. I might have died like a rat in a stinking ditch in that cellar or turned into a pile of bones without anyone noticing. I didn't expect that you would rescue me. Now I'm glad I am out, but I'm also upset about it. I don't know what I can do now. I don't have the strength to do anything now. Sally blushed for Nicole's questioning. She didn't know how to face Nicole. She didn't know that Nicole and Samuel had seen her meeting with the king. Otherwise, she would be even more embarrassed now.

"Do you think I'm wimpy? I didn't killed him and I've even been involved with him. Even if I knew where my parents were, I couldn't go back. I was unfilial. But what could I do? I couldn't escape his control.

William is my life. I know I was selfish, unfilial and indifferent to my parents and my family. But so what? All I want is William. As long as I can be with him, I don't care how much I sacrifice."

Sally was a little guilty at first, but in the end, there was only obsession left in her eyes.

What she wanted in her whole life was only William.

Nicole had never experienced Sally's growth environment. She did not know what Sally had experienced, but she believed that she would not be able to withstand it. Otherwise, Sally would not have become so extreme.

"Sally, no one is going to accuse you of anything. Do whatever you want. I will support you."

What Nicole could do now was to support Sally. She felt that this was what she should do. Sally and William were couple. If it weren't for the king, they would have been together. How could there be so many tragedies?

All in all, the most hateful person was the king.

"What is the name of the king?"

Nicole never knew the name of the king.

Sally paused for a moment and said coldly, "His name is Leo, and he is not a good person at all."

Nicole felt the name was too common. It was so common that so many people called Leo. She could not remind anything of this person at all.

"I'll ask Samuel to check his background later."

Nicole believed in Samuel's hacking skills. Now she didn't want her son to involve in these things, so she just asked her husband for help.

However, Sally said in a cold voice, "There's no need to investigate. I'll just tell you what you want to know."

"What?"

Nicole was a little surprised.

Sally whispered, "Do you still remember Laurel Miller?"

"Laurel Miller? Laurel?"

How could Nicole not remember Laurel? Back then, if it weren't for Laurel, she wouldn't have doubted life at all.

Recalling how Laurel was nice to her at the beginning, Nicole did not expect that Laurel would want her to die in the future. However, when Sally suddenly mentioned Laurel, Nicole did not quite understand whether the person she was talking about was Samuel's adoptive mother or not.

Seeing Nicole was puzzled, Sally nodded and said, "It's her. Actually, she should be Leo's cousin."

"What?"

Samuel frowned and whispered, "Let's think about what we are facing now. The mining is not going smoothly." Justice Lee is confused.

He then reported everything to Morty. Although Samuel knew that Emory would report to the higher-ups, Morty was his direct supervisor. Samuel had to fulfill his own duties.

After listening to Samuel's report, Morty couldn't stay calm anymore.

He said, "I'll go talk to the old man and see if he has any good ideas. Protect William as hard as you can. At worst, send him back to Capital City. I'll get you a helicopter."

Considering William's safety, Morty decided that Samuel should suspend the mining.

Samuel had no objection.

After hanging up the phone, Samuel returned to the bedroom. He noticed that Nicole also happened to hang up the phone.

"Who was it?"

Samuel asked subconsciously.

Nicole whispered, "Emory. He was instructed that the mining should be suspended before we found a suitable solution. Too many people have died. The leaders think that the lives of the warriors should not be wasted."

"Mr. Morty thinks the same. He might send a helicopter to send William to Capital City for recuperation."

Samuel knew how important William was to Nicole, so he told her about it.

Nicole was slightly astonished, but after a moment, she felt that this might suit William better.

"What about Sally? Did you tell him anything about Sally?"

Samuel nodded and said, "Mr. Morty will send Sally back too. After all, she is Edwin's only daughter now. Edwin has had a tough life. Morty won't disappoint him."

However, Nicole said worriedly, "If Sally and William go back, Zayn will be in danger."

"Not necessarily."

Samuel shook his head and said, "If Leo wants to control Sally, he must keep Zayn alive. Otherwise, he won't get any useful information from Sally. Judging from Sally's attitude towards Zayn, Leo must think that Zayn is very important to Sally. So, he won't kill Zayn."

Nicole knew that what Samuel said was true, but she was still worried.

"What about us? What should we do? Are we going back with them? If we do, will those people stop hunting you? Will they stop investigating Emory?"

"I don't think so. Mr. Morty has known what Sally said. Those people are currently examining all the female Freemans. Before they finish the investigation, Emory and I still need to trick them," Samuel explained.

Nicole agreed with him. After all, they had gone through a lot of things. She could wait.

Nicole frowned as if she was considering something.

Samuel took a step forward and took her into his arms. He said softly, "I know you're worried about Zayn and Trevin, right?"

Chapter 1327 It's None of Your Business

After Samuel left the room, Morty called him.

"Stop all operations in the mine. If possible, I hope you can go to Country F to find out if my aunt is there."

Morty's voice carried a trace of pleading.

Samuel knew Morty well. He rarely begged for help. Now, he deigned for his aunt. Anyway, Samuel had to go to Country F with Nicole. So, he agreed.

"OK, send someone to pick up Uncle William and Sally."

Samuel knew things would be easier if he brought Sally back to Country F, but Nicole had been feeling sorry for Sally. He did not want Nicole to take risks anymore.

Morty hurriedly said, "I have sent out a helicopter. It will arrive in five hours."

"I'll wait for them to leave before I act."

"Please be careful. Let me know if you need any help. I will do everything I can."

Morty would give anything to find his aunt.

Samuel nodded.

After hanging up the phone, Samuel went to the bedroom.

Nicole was still sitting on the bed with the blanket in her arms, her face full of grief.

"What's wrong? Are you not feeling well?"

Samuel was a little worried. He took a step forward and touched her forehead, but suddenly, she grabbed his wrist.

"Do you hate me?"

"What are you talking about? How could I hate you?"

Samuel made a wry face.

Nicole was being so much fun.

Nicole refused to let it go. "I already said I could do it, but you ran away...."

Samuel was at a loss again.

"Have you been thinking about it?"

"Yes."

Nicole nodded solemnly.

Samuel smiled, "Your health is not good. What if you collapse? Don't think nonsense. When you recover, I will give you a night to remember."

"What are you talking about?"

From throat to temple, Nicole was all one hot blush.

Samuel rubbed her hair and smiled, "Hurry up. Mr. Morty just called. He has sent a helicopter to pick up Uncle William and Sally. With Sally, Uncle William will recover soon."

"Don't you think she is asking for too much?"

Samuel said in a very cold voice.

But Nicole held Sally's hand and said, "Come on. After all, Zayn is my cousin. We should try to help him. It's about his life."

Now that Nicole had said so, what else could Samuel say? He could only stand aside and remain silent.

Sally's eyes were filled with tears. She looked at Nicole and whispered, "Nicole, I know that you both don't like me. I also know what kind of person my sister is. Perhaps I will never be able to be a woman like her in my lifetime. She is noble. She has her principles and bottom lines. But I am selfish. I do things only for myself. If I were you, I would also disdain people like me. But I've been like this. I didn't know who to trust since I was young. The only person I could count on and believed in was myself. So I didn't tell you everything. I'm very sorry. I understand why you are on guard against me now. But please, you must save Zayn."

Sally only made a request just now, but now she gave an order. Samuel frowned. Just as he wanted to say something, Nicole said, "Sally, we will try our best. But you know that sometimes we can't even protect ourselves. It is not that easy to protect someone. Now that you insist like this, I can only say that we will do our best, but we cannot guarantee the result."

Everyone understood it. Since Sally had said so, Nicole did not want Samuel to get angry again, nor did she want the contradiction between Samuel and Sally to aggravate. So, she could only say everything that Samuel wanted to say first.

It was OK for Nicole to say these words. But if Samuel said that, Sally couldn't take it. This was the difference between a niece and a niece's husband.

Sally nodded, pondered for a moment, and whispered, "I'll leave it to you then."

After Nicole and Samuel came back to their room, Samuel sighed, "You are too good to Sally. She did not tell us much truth."

"I know. But what she said is also true. The environment she lived in since childhood made it impossible for her to trust anyone. It was her way to protect herself. You care about me, so you think she is not sincere to me. But in fact, she might have tried her best to be nice."

Nicole's words made Samuel a bit upset.

"You are just too lenient to your relatives."

"Aren't you lenient to me as well?"

Nicole knew that Samuel was worried about her and felt unfair for her. She hurriedly held his arm to coquette.

What else could Samuel say since she did so?

They stayed in the room. They cared much about going to Country F.

Morty's helicopter arrived very soon.

William and Sally were taken on the plane.

Seeing the plane be gone, Nicole sighed, "I hope they could live a happy life in the future."

"You should think about what we do next rather than their future."

Samuel was somewhat dissatisfied with the other people distracting Nicole.

Nicole hurriedly said, "With you by my side, I won't be in trouble, will I?"

"Oh, Nicole."

"Are we here already?"

Nicole pushed Samuel aside and looked outside of the window excitedly.

Country F was a modern country. It was full of Eastern European-style architectures. Nicole was nearly dazzled.

"Does Leo move all the buildings in Eastern European countries to here? No wonder the country is closed to the outside world. If other countries see their landmarks here, they will sue him."

Nicole muttered, which was funny to Samuel.

Her point was truly unique.

"Come on. We should get off the plane first. This plane is not registered here. We have to fly back before they find out."

Samuel whispered.

Nicole stunned slightly.

"Is the flight going back? Then what about us? Are we just staying here? Samuel, are you serious?"

Nicole was already worried. Now that she heard that the plane was flying back, she felt more nervous.

Samuel rubbed her head and smiled, "It is fine, we have someone here."

"Really?"

"Have you forgotten? Phoenix is here."

Nicole immediately reacted when she heard the name.

"That is right. Phoenix is here. Is Phoenix a man or a woman? Is Phoenix good-looking?"

Nicole was so curious that she could not stop asking questions.

Samuel knew that she was nervous. He did not say anything. Instead, he took Nicole's hand and got off the plane.

The pilot made a gesture and the plane departed.

Nicole suddenly felt lonely.

"Why did he leave just like that?"

Looking at Nicole's reluctant look, Samuel was depressed.

"Do you want to stay with him? Do you need me to ask him to come back and take you with him?"

"No, no, no. I am just saying."

Nicole recognized the jealousy in Samuel's words and immediately changed her tone.

Samuel glanced at her, then grabbed her hand and walked forward.

Fortunately, the people of Country F had the same skin color as them, so they would not be too eye-catching while walking on the streets.

The place they landed was a small hill. After getting off the hill, Samuel opened the back of his phone, threw away the SIM card, and inserted a new one.

"What's wrong? Nicole, are you there?"

Samuel asked anxiously. He quickened his steps but because those weeds were very tall, he was unable to find Nicole for a while.

When Nicole heard Samuel's voice, she hurriedly said, "I'm here. Don't worry. Walk in the direction of ten o'clock."

With her guidance, Samuel quickly found Nicole.

"What are you doing? Did something happen to you?"

Samuel kept thinking that Phoenix had said that there were wild animals here, so he was afraid that if Nicole got attacked.

Nicole shook her head and whispered, "Look at that. Is it a house?"

Looking in the direction Nicole pointed at, Samuel faintly saw the outline of a house, but because the weeds around were too tall, it was hard to see it clearly.

Nicole was a little afraid of peeing in the wild. She gripped Samuel's clothes and whispered, "Why don't we go take a look? If it's a house, we can use the bathroom."

"Even if it's a house, it might have been abandoned long ago judging from the weeds in the surroundings. It might not have a bathroom."

Samuel knew that Nicole wanted to go to the toilet in the house. However, it was a harsh time. He didn't want anything to happen to Nicole.

Nicole shriveled her lips in frustration.

Looking at her expression which was the same as his daughter's, Samuel softened his heart.

"Let's go and check it out. Even if it's abandoned, it's safer inside than being outside."

Hearing Samuel's words, Nicole immediately smiled.

"I know my husband is the best."

"You are so sweet now."

Samuel was also in a good mood.

They held hands and walked towards the house step by step.

It looked very close but it took them a long time to get there. If Nicole hadn't relied on her strong willpower to control her urine, she would have peed in her pants by now.

After walking for about half an hour, the two finally arrived in front of the house.

The surrounded weeds and ivy had covered the entire house. No one would be able to find out it was a house if they didn't look carefully.

Samuel couldn't help but admire Nicole a little. It was amazing that she could recognize it as a house.

Nicole was a little excited.

"Look, I told you it was a house."

She was like a child who had solved the riddle correctly, laughing as she ran to Samuel to ask for the reward.

Samuel smiled and tapped her nose. "Fine, my wife is the best. Wait here and I'll remove the weeds. Otherwise, the door won't open."

As he spoke, Samuel took a step forward. He took out a military dagger from his boot and cleaned up the weeds at the door.
