Chapter 1711 I'll Make Your Infection Come True

When Morty arrived, he felt the atmosphere here was quite stressful. However, seeing him arrive, Jacob and others felt quite excited.

"Mr. Morty, why are you here? It's quarantine area. You shouldn't have come!"

Jacob had recovered a lot under the care of Joseph and others.

Morty was touched. Although Morty had always been cold and decisive, there was no way to control that emotional feeling at such a time and under such a situation.

"Have you got better?" Morty asked.

He helped Jacob up.

"I'm much better. Thank you, Mr. Morty," said Jacob.

When Olivia entered, she saw Jacob looking at Morty in excitement. She frowned.

She couldn't quite understand how a soldier felt when seeing his boss after experiencing life and death. However, she didn't like seeing the scene, especially after she overheard something when Nicole was calling Lucas on the phone. For a moment, she looked unfriendly to Morty.

"You must have forgotten the danger after recovery. You've been seriously injured. Why did you get up? Do you have a death wish? Let me tell you. If you can't recover, I'll marry another man with your son!"

Upon hearing it, Jacob looked embarrassed.

Morty was quite brilliant, and he naturally could sense that Olivia didn't like him.

He cast a glance at her.

If it weren't for Jacob, Morty wouldn't think Olivia that important. However, considering Jacob's current identity, how much the Kent family had sacrificed, and the relationship between Olivia and Nicole, he must tolerate her.

He couldn't do anything as he must make up for the mistake made by his father.

"I agree. You should take a good rest, Jacob. I'm going to talk to Lucas and Joseph."

Morty patted Jacob on his shoulder.

Chapter 1712 Why Are You Angry Again?

Morty believed that he was quite shameless. Lucas was still a kid, but he thought about the honey trap. Thinking about the risks that his daughter would take when coming over, he was pretty worried.

However, when he was hesitating, he was taken aback suddenly.

He was worried about Michele's safety, but how about Samuel and Nicole? Weren't they concerned about Lucas and Joseph? However, they still sent over their children without any hesitation.

Morty suddenly blushed.

He had always thought of himself as an outstanding man. However, compared to Samuel, he always believed that he was born into a better family. Right now, he even couldn't compare to a woman. What right or condition did he have to feel so superior?

Suddenly, Morty realized something. He immediately posted his apology through his personal Twitter account and called Michele right away, asking her to come over.

Seeing Morty's apology, Aron was so angry that he almost fainted. It was just like making everything open to the public and let them know what they had done to Nicole and Night Elf Empire. Besides, Night Elf Empire had been exposed. Even if Aron wanted to deal with it in secret, it would be impossible.

"This bastard! He even wants to ask Michele to go there! Is he out of his mind?" Aron cursed.

Michele was still preparing for setting off, but Yasmeen had arrived at the quarantine area.

Lucas was taken aback when seeing her.

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

"To help you. Daddy said the epidemic here is quite serious, and the firewall has been under attack all the time. During the epidemic, seldom people dared to come over. Even if the hackers wanted to help, you wouldn't let them get involved because it's about national security. I volunteered to come here to help you. In the past years, I've been studying network technologies. Although I'm not as genius like you, I should make the firewall last longer. Besides, Daisy said she would also help me from Country Z if I couldn't make it. You know Daisy is suffering from asthma, so she couldn't get here. Right now, our countries are in good terms and counting on each other. We could share any confidential information," said Yasmeen indifferently.

However, Lucas suddenly stood up from his chair.

"Are you a fool? Don't you know it is an epidemic area here? Don't you know your identity currently? If you got infected, how would you go back to your country? You don't have a small family. There are tens of thousands of citizens in your country behind you. Yasmeen Shaw, can you be smarter?"

When Morty came here, Lucas didn't even move. But now, he stood up in anger. Others couldn't help but glance at Yasmeen.

Lucas wondered if it would be good for him to learn how to cook.

He believed he was pretty smart, so he could learn it fast, couldn't he?

As he thought, he didn't show it on his face. He bent down his head and took a bite on the noodles. They tasted pretty good.

Soon, he finished the noodle soup. Then he saw Yasmeen just finished applying the medicine on her skin and hadn't started yet. He frowned again.

"Hurry up and eat," he said.

"No rush," said Yasmeen.

"You'd better learn how to eat fast here. Otherwise, you can't even drink the soup. After I'm gone, you'll stay in my room. If you need any help, just go to Edison and ask him to help you. Don't get too close with others. Your identity is different. When I'm not here if they bullied you..."

Suddenly, Lucas paused.

Thinking about how skilled Yasmeen was in fighting, he shushed in silence.

Yasmeen was still waiting for him to finish his words. Seeing that Lucas stopped, she asked, "If they bullied me, could I bully them back?"

"Ehn."

Lucas nodded. He couldn't help but recall how Yasmeen had pestered him for a fight when they first met.

He realized that he had overthought.

"If you have any questions, you can also ask Edison."

"I see," said Yasmeen.

Suddenly, Lucas didn't know what else to say. Heaving a sigh, he said, "I have to go in a minute. Do you want to take a look at my current work?"

"Daisy has told me already. I can start working right away," Yasmeen answered.

"Mrs. Green, the virus mutated."

When receiving the information, Finn felt quite anxious and worried. The mutation speed of this virus was breakneck. Nicole's former antidote formula couldn't work any longer, which was quite horrible.
However, Fill and the group of men had been impacted the earliest.

How could it be?

Nicole was confused, and Samuel frowned deeply.

“Hasn’t Paul been found yet?”

“Nope.”

Since Paul and his group left, they didn’t receive anything information. Although some rumors said they died because of the virus, their bodies were not found, so Finn couldn’t confirm it.

Samuel wanted to go out, but Nicole stopped him.

“Stay here. I’ll go check on them,” she said.

“Do you think I’ll allow you to go out alone at this time?”

Samuel looked at Nicole’s eyes helplessly.

However, Nicole whispered, “I feel that I might have missed something important. That day, Fill got sick because of the noodles. The bowl of noodles for you was given to a soldier outside because I was afraid it would become cold. Since you are fine, it means the mutated virus has something to do with the noodles I cooked. The suspects have been controlled by us, but I’ve forgotten what that soldier looked like. He must be still here. If the virus is spread, I’m afraid we won’t be able to control the consequences at all.”

“Hence, you want to take the risk yourself and leave me here as a backup?”

Samuel knew Nicole well, but he’d rather Nicole be the backup instead.

He wondered since when she thought he was so weak.

Of course, Nicole could sense how aggrieved Samuel felt from his tone. She laughed and said, “Mr. Green, you are a talent. You must stay here.”

“Fuck off!”

This was the first time that Samuel scolded Nicole in rough language, but Nicole felt quite delighted.

"Hi, Mr. Green."

When Samuel saw Ernesto and Alison, he was slightly taken aback.

"Why are you here? Aren't you still in quarantine?"

Samuel knew that Alison was quarantined. However, they suddenly showed up in front of him instead of following the standard procedure. He frowned slightly.

Ernesto looked at Alison, who looked guilty, obviously. Ernest took his hand and said, "Mr. Green, the virus mutated."

"How did you know?"

Samuel sensed something right after asking them.

"Does it happen in the quarantine area..."

"Not really. I've found something."

Alison felt quite frustrated in the past few days, but she had been used to letting Ernest arrange everything for her. Right now, when facing Samuel, she realized that she shouldn't be so depressed now. Hence, she took a step forward.

"What did you find?"

Samuel knew Alison's identity. Upon hearing that she had killed her family, he didn't feel delighted for her. Instead, he felt so sorry.

Everyone spoke highly about the ones who killed their families out of righteousness. But humans had hearts. How could they completely cut off the family affection?

Others who never experienced such pain wouldn't understand it at all.

Seeing that Alison had lost a lot of weight, Samuel felt quite concerned.

Alison also read Samuel's feelings in his eyes, but she didn't want to admit being weak. She said in a lower voice, "After my parents passed away, I went into their study to look for information. They had created two viruses, one mutated and the other one ordinary. They brought the ordinary one here. According to their original plan, the mutated virus would be released in two weeks. However, I gave them no chance, so they were off-guard. This is the formula for the mutated virus. So far, I haven't found the antidote formula yet."

"Is it because of what happened to the Night Elf Empire? I can swear..."

"Not necessary," Samuel interrupted Morty's words.

He looked at Morty with a complicated expression but didn't speak anything else.

However, Morty could still feel that Samuel distanced himself from him.

After all, some things had changed.

In the past, Morty heard that he would be pretty lonely after taking over that position, but he didn't believe that it would happen to him. After all, he had so many good buddies already.

However, they left gradually.

He didn't want to face the current situation at all, nor did he hope to see it. However, he couldn't do anything.

Samuel knew how sad Morty was. However, what Aron had done this time truly disappointed them. If it weren't for Morty's sake and he used to risk his life to protect this country, Samuel wouldn't have let it go so quickly. However, he didn't care about it either.

Sometimes, one could let go of something in an instant.

There were always a lot of heroes in this world. Samuel would go, but he would leave Lucas and Joseph. He just hoped that his sons wouldn't be disappointed in the future.

All Samuel wanted was to take care of Nicole.

Nicole cooked some dishes for Lucas. He enjoyed them very much, delighting Nicole a lot.

With Samuel's help, Nicole arrived at the hospital of the military region.

Initially, Nicole had thought that Lucas was seriously injured. She trotted to the operation room but was told that there were no operations today.

Noticing how nervous Nicole was, Samuel asked his men to check Lucas's ward number. Then he took Nicole over.

In the past fifteen years, Nicole had always spent some time with Lucas every year. Every time, he looked spirited and confident. However, at this moment, she found his eyes without any focus. She burst into tears.

Lucas, in his twenties, had inherited the excellent look and determination from his father. He was almost six feet two. Standing in front of the French window, he was peering out of the window. Nicole and Samuel didn't know where his wound was, but Nicole couldn't help shedding tears.

"Lucas, where's your injury? Show me."

Nicole directly stood in front of Lucas and pulled him.

Her heart skipped a beat. Immediately, she reached out and waved her hand in front of his eyes.

"Lucas, say something. Don't scare me! Lucas!"

Samuel saw Nicole was crying, but Lucas seemed to have heard nothing or seen nothing. He looked so isolated in his own space. Samuel was also panicked.

"You brat! You scared your mother to cry!"

Samuel kicked Lucas on his leg.

He used much strength, which brought Lucas back to his senses.

When seeing how worried Nicole looked, he was touched.

“Why are you here, Mom?”

“I heard you got injured. Where is your wound?”

Nicole looked at Lucas up and down carefully but failed to find his injury. She felt more worried.

She wondered if his injury was in a place that she couldn't see.

As she thought, she wanted to take off Lucas's clothes. However, Samuel stopped him.

Chapter 1718 I Don’t Want to See You

A trace of panic flashed through Yasmeen’s eyes, but shortly she covered it.

“What are you talking about, Lucas?”

“Stop pretending. Yasmeen, I thought you’ve changed better in the past years. It turned out it was just my illusion. You are still the arrogant, willful daughter from the Shaw family without caring about others’ feelings, aren’t you?”

Lucas shook off Yasmeen, feeling a slight pang in his heart.

In the past several years, Yasmeen had been graceful and gentle. She treated others with good manners and was exceptionally hard-working. For the sake of the Green and the Bradford families, he had to take care of her after she came here to study.

In the beginning, Lucas refused to do so. Later, he found that they could get along well, and he gradually had a crush on her. After all, they had a lot of hobbies in common. However, he kept wondering why she had appeared in the place where he carried on his mission.

An ordinary person wouldn’t be able to get up there.

Lucas didn’t want to wonder if Yasmeen had anything to do with that terrorist because he wouldn’t be able to face that hostage as soon as he thought about it.

He was highly shocked, so he was entirely focused on Yasmeen, who showed up on the scene all of a sudden.

Lucas recalled what he was thinking at that time.

He was worried that Yasmeen would be found by others.

Hence, he hadn't heard clearly what the kidnapper said. When Yasmeen was almost exposed in his colleagues' sight, he pulled the trigger in a hurry. Since he wasn't concentrated, he didn't calculate the distance and the wind direction accurately, so the kidnapper grabbed the hostage to block his bullet in a panic.

The hostage was only twenty-three years old.

Due to his absent mind, his bullet went through the hostage's womb. She wouldn't become a mother all her life.

Chapter 1719 I Admit What I’ve Done

Lucas stared at the empty computer screen, his mind blank.

When he realized what he had done, everything was over.

He actually could recover the deleted content, but he suddenly snapped shut the computer. A trace of determination flashed through his eyes.

After tidying himself up, Lucas stood up and left the bathroom. Yasmeen was gone. He suddenly felt an emptiness in his heart. He sat down on the bed, lost in thought.

Since he couldn’t hear anything, he was often in a daze. He thought about nothing, though.

When Nicole and Samuel came back, Lucas was napping.

He frowned slightly as if he was quite bothered even when sleeping. Looking at him, Nicole felt so sorry.

She walked over and tucked her son into the quilt gently.

In the past, Lucas was quite alert when sleeping. He could wake up immediately when hearing the slight footsteps. However, it seemed he couldn’t hear anything now. He was sleeping soundly.

Nicole had an indescribable feeling when staring at him, tears welling up in her eyes.

Samuel felt sorry for her, but he didn’t know how to comfort her.

After a while, Nicole put the food on the table aside. Then she left the ward.

Samuel followed her, only to hear her say, “I want to call Davon and asked him to come over and give Lucas a checkup. I don’t believe Lucas is deaf now. He’s so young. He...”

“Honey, Lucas’s deafness is temporary. I asked the doctor. In his mission, the bomb exploded next to his ear, so it caused temporary deafness. No worries. His ears would recover in a week at the latest,” Samuel explained hurriedly.

“What if it’s not temporary? After a week, the optimal treatment time would be missed.”

All Nicole was concerned about now was her son’s ears.

"What are you looking at? Write down what I've said."

Lucas frowned slightly. He looked around all people at the scene coldly, emanating a significant pressure.

Maddie immediately said, "No! Lucas, you'd better think about the consequences for it. You are a major now. The feats stamp on your body can cover a whole office, but these feats can't compare with your deliberate mistake. Do you understand? If you really have admitted it and let them write the report like that, your military-political career will end.

"Don't you like the military the most? Didn't you swear to stay here forever? You said you were so anxious that you calculated the wrong direction and trajectory speed. Lucas, no one will believe what you said. You joined the military when you were five years old. It's been almost twenty years already. Anyone can make such a stupid mistake, but you! You must have been affected by something at that time, right? As long as you tell us, the leaders will investigate it clearly. At that time, although you will be punished, you won't be forced to resign."

Maddie was so upset about the forced retirement that Lucas might face.

Lucas had always been a pride for the military region. His contributions made in the past several years couldn't be copied by anyone else.

If such an outstanding soldier would resign from the military, he should leave in this way.

The leaders should ask him to stay, and his colleagues should hold a farewell ceremony for him instead of being forced to resign.

Maddie knew how much Lucas loved the military. If he was asked to leave, he'd rather be killed.

She just couldn't believe what he had said.

He said he had miscalculated the wind direction because of his anxiety, so he mistook the kidnapper's movements. Even a new recruit wouldn't make such a mistake. He was an experienced soldier. How could it be possible?

Others all thought the same as Maddie.

"Major Green, you might not be in a good mood right now. We'll come back in a few days," one of the people from the military headquarters said.

"Write down what I said," Lucas insisted in a colder tone.

Looking at the soldiers in front of him, he knew how much they liked and respected him as his colleagues. However, he wanted to protect Yasmeen, so he must take all responsibilities.
