

Escape Wife 1761

Don't Try to Escape, My Wife!

Chapter 1761 It wasn't for you since the very beginning.

Julian chased her closely and didn't mean to give up. Lucas deliberately slowed down when he rose into the air with his mouth slightly twitched upward.

Yasmeen and Jaydon also breathed a sigh of relief because he slowed down, otherwise, they were really afraid they could not control spitting out.

It was also at that time that Yasmeen realized that Lucas was not the same kind of person as her and they were really in different worlds.

Although she was a foreign princess and had also experienced emergencies before, it was the first time for her to get involved in such a contest of life and death.

She had been with Lucas for 20 years and thought she knew him very well, but she suddenly found that at that moment Lucas was shining like a diamond, which made her unable to move her sight away from him as if he was born to belong to the sky, as if he had long been integrated with the plane.

If he didn't really like it, if he hadn't been trained for a long time, he wouldn't have such tacit understanding and such excellent skills.

Was it really right to let an eagle, who should be soaring in the sky, fell to the ground and became an ordinary human being?

For the first time, Yasmeen had doubts about her own pursuit.

Lucas noticed Yasmeen was gazing at him and thinking about something, but now he couldn't have too many things in his mind, the lives of these three people were in his hands, so he could only whisper, "Don't think about those messy things in your mind. Hurry up and send a message to the ground. Tell them to come to encircle those people behind us and let them have no return!"

"Okay."

Yasmeen quickly returned to her senses.

She called Michele immediately. After all, except for her phone number, she didn't know anyone else's. She had Edison's private number, but she felt it was inappropriate to call him. It was just like Lucas would call Edison rather than Michele if he needed to make reports.

Michele really didn't want to answer the phone when receiving Yasmeen's calling, but she knew that Yasmeen must be with Lucas. She took a deep breath, suppressed the complex emotions in the bottom of her heart and finally picked up the phone.

"What's wrong?"

"Lucas asks you to quickly start the defense, surround, chase and intercept the people behind us, and strive to make them have no return."

"I wouldn't apologize! It's all her fault! If it wasn't for her, would you have left? Lucas, have you forgotten that? You once said you would be in the military for the rest of your life. You said you would fight with us for the rest of our lives, but what is it now? You left us for a woman and reneged on our oath. You are a bastard!"

Michele burst into tears.

Morty was a little angry.

"Michele, apologize."

"Dad, do you also think it's my fault?"

Michele had really been in a particularly low mood lately and was particularly vulnerable to stimulation.

Morty saw his daughter secretly shed tears in her room more than once, and he was distressed too, but he knew that whether Lucas stayed or not was actually his personal choice. He didn't need to be responsible to anyone.

Michele was forcing him to do what he was unwilling to do.

She did this because she liked Lucas, but the more she did it this way, the farther away Lucas was from her.

Morty had mixed feelings in his heart.

Lucas said coldly, "I regard you as my sister, but my sister can't be so unruly. Besides, any decision I make has nothing to do with Yasmeen. It's not right for you to vent your anger on her because of me, not to mention you even hit her. Michele, have I spoiled you like this these years? If so, it's my fault. I'll certainly reflect on it in the future and hope you stay away from me. After all, a teacher like me can't teach good students, so as not to bring shame on you and your family."

His remarks were too harsh. Although he didn't mention Morty's name, he cursed him as well.

Morty can't help but feel a little embarrassed.

"Lucas, Michele is spoiled by me. I apologize to Yasmeen."

Chapter 1763 It's none of your business.

Seeing that Yasmeen's face was white as a sheet, Lucus looked at Morty and said, "Uncle Morty, that's enough. Don't hold a grudge against me. I didn't speak too ill of you. What's more, if I didn't say that, can you realize you doting on Michele? In the future, I wouldn't be around her. Can you give her a hand in time when she makes trouble? She has to learn to grow up, and today it's Yasmeen who is aggrieved. I am a man. Can't I say something to defend my woman?"

Lucus was now very calm. It seemed he had become quite a different person.

Morty sighed, and the tension was released from the atmosphere.

"I didn't pay much attention to her growth these years. I thought she wouldn't have any problems with you. But....."

“Stop, Uncle Morty. It’s meaningless to say it again. I have told you early that I didn’t have that kind of feeling for Michele. Even if there was no Yasmeen today, she still won’t be my girlfriend. She is just my little sister. But I know Edison kind of likes her. The Kidd family is also influential. You can consider to let him be your son-in-law.”

Hearing Lucus want to make a match between Michele and Edison, Morty rolled his eyes and said, “Do you think I’m blind? Otherwise, why should I let Edison go abroad with Michele? I just think it’s good for them to cultivate their feelings in a foreign country. You are just an ungrateful boy. I took great pains to cultivate you, and you just leave at will. Do you still have a conscience?”

Yasmeen also understood what was going on after hearing what Morty and Lucus said. These two people had friendships between generations. Just now, they created a tense atmosphere deliberately. They simply did not take it to heart.

Feeling that Yasmeen wasn’t worried anymore, Lucus said in a low voice, “It’s not a big deal. I can help you train a group of special forces every year.”

“That’s settled?”

Morty’s eyes instantly lit up.

Lucus didn’t say it again, but his pursed lips made Morty know that he wasn’t joking.

A batch of special forces one year was enough.

Morty was suddenly not that chagrined and even stared at Yasmeen happily.

“How is your dad recently?”

Morty’s question made Yasmeen blush with shame.

She said with some embarrassment, “I really don’t know. I only care about Lucus these years.”

This was the truth.

“I’ll accompany you to visit

Morty also didn’t want to be a third wheel. He quickly waved his hand and said, “Hurry up and go. You don’t need to stay here with me. But Lucus, Yasmeen was flushed by hearing that.

“You can just call me Yasmeen.”

“We can’t. You are the first girl that Lucus has brought back home. Brother Joseph told us before that we can only take the girl whom we want to marry back home. So, Yasmeen, can we have our red packets?”

Lucus was speechless.

Lucus had been in the military region all these years. He always doted on them when he came back home. He didn’t expect that they dared to ask Yasmeen for the red packets directly.

“Red packets? Do you want my punch?”

Lucus’s words instantly depressed Tanner.

Yasmeen smiled and said, “It’s okay. It’s my first time coming to your family. I ought to give you the red packets.”

“Then add my WeChat.”

Eaton hurriedly showed his WeChat QR code.

Lucus looked at them and had nothing to say. Then he heard Samuel say in a low voice, "Joseph, Lucus, you two come in for a moment."

Joseph and Lucus looked at each other.

Lucus came back late and wasn't quite sure what had happened before, so when Samuel asked them to come in, he wanted to ask Joseph.

Joseph shook his head and said he didn't know either.

After they entered the study, Samuel took out a document from the cabinet and handed it to them.

"You are both going to get married and start a business now. Joseph will be engaged soon, and Lucus will get married too. This is the share of the company. I made a distribution very early. You two brothers both have half of the Green Family's property."

Lucus didn't care about how Tanner and Eaton felt. He directly took Yasmeen's hand and said, "Let's go to my room and have a look."

“Okay.”

Although Yasmeen had sneaked into Lucus's room many times before, and also allowed by Nicole, this time Lucus personally invited her to his room. Yasmeen felt something different and also a little shy and excited.

Lucus ignored Tanner and Eaton and took Yasmeen to go upstairs. While walking, he said to Nicole, "Mom, my dad wants to take you out for a trip. If you see someone more handsome than my dad, you can hook up. That's okay. Your son will always support you."

“Fuck off!”

Nicole laughed out and scolded him, but was somewhat relieved.

Now, Lucus went steady with Yasmeen. Joseph would also be engaged. She couldn't imagine that she and Samuel were getting old.

Since she made peace with Samuel, she felt time passed so quickly. It seems that her sons had grown up and she and Samuel were getting old in the twinkling of an eye.

Nicole felt a little grieved, and also relieved.

When Samuel came out, he saw Nicole staring in the direction of the corridor with a vacant look, and immediately understood Nicole's mood.

He took a step forward and grabbed Nicole's shoulders and then whispered, "Our children have their own lives to live. It's so good that they all have their lifelong companions now. In the future, we can set our minds at rest. We can go to travel all over the world."

“Okay.”

Nicole smiled to her heart's content.

Samuel already had some white hair on his temples.

Nicole fondled his cheek and said in a low voice, "Lucus, I want to eat shrimp."

Samuel originally thought Nicole would say something sentimental. He didn't expect Nicole would talk about the hustle and bustle of normal daily life with him at this moment.

"Okay, the kids are all back today. I'll cook the shrimp for you."

"I'll give you a hand."

Chapter 1766

Thinking of these, Yasmeen hesitated.

She knew better than anyone that Lucas had been looking for the person who donated the kidney these days. If it was not because of her background, Lucas might find out it was her.

Did she really need to tell Lucas the truth now?

Let him know that he owed her a kidney?

Yasmeen suddenly felt bitterly perplexed.

Everyone knew she liked Lucas, but she wasn’t sure if he liked her.

Perhaps he reluctantly accepted her just because she had been bothering him all the time and their families were getting along quite well.

Yasmeen was always confident and proud, but now she was fearful and suspicious of her relationship.

She felt upset when Lucas didn't accept her before, but he was her boyfriend already, and she was still distressed.

She hoped that the relationship with Lucas had to be pure. He accepted her only because he liked her. If Lucas knew the fact that the kidney inside him was donated by Yasmeen, he must feel guilty and give her whatever she wanted, even something that was beyond his ability. However, a relationship based on gratitude was not what Yasmeen wanted.

What she wanted was a relationship of equality and love.

But if she didn't tell the truth, she had to keep telling lies to cover the previous lies, and she also didn't want things to go in that way.

It really drove her crazy now.

Lucas felt his eyes sore as he had been checking the bill for a while, and he suddenly noticed that Yasmeen was in the bathroom.

Did she lock herself in the bathroom because of embarrassment?

Lucas launched himself off the chair and strode over to the door of the bathroom. He knocked and asked, "Yasmeen, are you all right?"

"Oh! I'm fine."

Yasmeen then realized that she had stayed in the bathroom for long.

Well, she would just have to accept what it was now, for she could do nothing about it.

She took a deep breath and opened the door as though she was going to do something huge.

Lucas put his head on the door. All of sudden, Yasmeen opened it, and he collapsed into her.

Chapter 1767 What Exactly Did You Want from Me

"What?"

Apparently, it was the first time Lucas apologized to someone. He felt a bit upset. Knowing that Yasmeen looked curious at him, he felt increasingly embarrassed.

He threw his jacket to block her annoying gaze and jogged away.

Yasmeen felt a familiar freshness, and the next moment, her sight was dark. When she removed the jacket, Lucas was gone.

She felt complicated. She felt glad and also sad.

She didn't confess all to Lucas in the end.

But if she had a choice, she would never let him know anything about it.

After leaving the room, Lucas found no place to go.

Here is the Green's and his home, but he still felt strange to it.

Well!

He had been living in the troops, and now he had a distant feeling to his home.

While Lucas was in sadness, he suddenly saw that Joseph's room was not close, and he walked toward it at once.

"Joseph!"

Lucas knocked on the door politely, push it open, and entered.

Joseph was on his project. As Lucas came in, Joseph chanced a glance at him and said in an undertone, "Sit. I gotta finish this formula first."

"Okay."

Lucas sat on the chair casually, picked an apple, and bit it without washing it.

It tasted quite sweet.

The sound that Lucas ate the apple was so clear in the quiet room that Joseph was interrupted and put aside his project. He looked at his little brother Lucas, whom he grew up with didn't see often, and said, "Go ahead. What can I do for you?"

"You finish?"

Joseph was in bewilderment.

In fact, he wanted to explain it to Lucas, and he knew the way he talked to Lucas was not right. But he just couldn't tell him the truth yet.

Joseph pinched the bridge of his nose, looking fidgety. He hadn't had such a feeling for a long time.

Suddenly, his phone rang. Joseph checked it. His look got grim, and he grabbed his jacket and jogged out of the room.

"Mon, dad, I need to go out. Don't wait at lunchtime. I might come back late."

Joseph spoke to Samuel and Nicole in the kitchen. And then, he went out without another word.

Lucas saw Joseph leaving through the window, frowning.

He was worried about Joseph. Joseph was a good fighter. He would be offended if Lucas sent someone to protect him.

They got along pretty well, although they hadn't lived together for many years. So, Lucas didn't want to sabotage the relationship.

Joseph left the Green's for Becharm Club.

As he entered it, he could feel the indulgence in it, although it wasn't the nighttime yet. The super loud music made him feel very uncomfortable.

He was tall and handsome. His appearance had attracted a lot of attention from the crowd. He ignored them. He directly walked to the bar counter and grabbed the wine cup from a woman with heavy makeup.

"Mia Gust, it's enough!"

His voice was not loud but filled with a bit of coldness. It sounded depressed and scared.

Mia raised her head slowly and laughed as she saw Joseph.

Mia was exhausted out of crying, and she passed out.

Joseph got in the car and drove to a private villa.

As he reached it, a middle-aged woman came out. When she saw Joseph, she bowed and said respectfully, "Mr. Green, how are you?"

"Luna, from today on, she stays here, and you have to take good care of her for her pregnancy."

"Got it."

Luna didn't ask who she was. She had served Joseph for years. She had never seen him bringing any girl home. To her surprise, the first girl he took home was a drunk and pregnant woman with heavy makeup.

'It might be Joseph's baby.' Luna guessed.

Luna immediately became wary.

After Luna took Mia into the house, he suddenly felt a bit upset. He pulled his collar. As he felt someone behind, he narrowed his eyes, turned around, and saw a girl standing before a red sports car.

She looked familiar, but Joseph couldn't remember who she was.

"Why do you follow me?"

He was always cautious and alarmed. If anyone was following him, he would observe immediately. But he didn't see this woman following him, so he couldn't help being vigilant.

As Joseph looked vigilant, the woman put on a friendly smile. Her face twisted out of two dimples, which Joseph seemed to see before.

"Do I know you?"

“Joseph, I am Kylie Gust. I am back.”

Kylie smiled sweetly. The familiar smile made Joseph pause surprisedly, and he immediately search the name in his mind.

He suddenly remembered who she was.

She was the granddaughter of old Gust.

Old Gust was a great doctor. She went abroad for further study a few years ago. Joseph saw her off when she departed. It was said that she was not interested in medicine. She went to a medical college because of Joseph. And she went abroad as an exchange student.

At that moment, everyone looked at Lucas and Yasmeen.

They were whispering something to each other intimately. As everyone paid attention to them, they looked around quickly and surprisedly.

And then, Yasmeen's face was reddening very soon.

But as to Lucas, he glanced at them and said quite calmly, "What? After seeing mom and dad's intimacy for years, do you guys still not get used to it?"

And they all looked at Samuel and Nicole. Samuel happened to look at Nicole lovingly.

Silence fell in the room.

Well, they should get used to it.

Samuel gave a sharp look at Lucas, who pretended not to see it. He fed himself a bite of steak and spoke lowly to Yasmeen, "We don't have to care them. Let's eat and drink."

Zoe sat near to them. She heard what Lucas said and felt offended.

Tanner and Eaton looked confusedly at each other and then continued eating with their heads down.

Joseph Look askance at them and also continued eating with his head down.

Yasmeen felt an irresistible urge to laugh, but she held it back.

Nicole was in embarrassment. She cast a grim look at Samuel, coughed, and asked, "Joe, you are going to get engaged. At what time do you think it will be proper that Samuel and I visit the Gust's?"

"The Gust's?"

Lucas was bewildered.

The Gust family was one of the old families in the Seapolis City. It was said that the Gust family had made some great achievements in the medical field. Some of them were very influential, especially old Gust, who now was considered as the current greatest doctor in the country. He was Joseph's doctor.
