Don't Try to Escape, My Wife!

Chapter 231: You Don't Know What Love Is

Allen looked at Nicole. There was deep hatred in her eyes. It was so unfamiliar as if a sharp dagger was pierced into his chest, exposing the darkness he was hiding under the light. It was so painful and unbearable.

He had been trying to touch Nicole's bottom line. He had wondered about his position in Nicole's heart. But now, when he saw Nicole's cold, unfamiliar, and even hateful eyes, Allen found he could not bear it.

"Catherine, is it good for you to slander me like this?"

Allen felt endless pain. Everyone could see his disappointment and loneliness toward Nicole.

But Nicole said indifferently, "Did Mr. Brook plan to cut me off from the Greens the moment he had my face changed and had me turned into Catherine? No matter how deep the friendship between Mr. Brook and me is, it won't endure Mr. Brook's repeated destruction and extravagance. You know my most important people better than anyone else. Yet you have attacked them. What do you think I should do? Keep enduring for the sake of saving my life so that all the people I care about are destroyed? Allen, you keep saying that you love me, but you don't know what love is."

Nicole never thought she would say these words to Allen one day.

She had never wanted to fight Allen in public, but Allen went too far.

She had always endured and conceded, but did Allen think she was feeling remorseful?

She, Nicole, didn't owe anyone!

What she had owed the Brooks and Allen were already paid off.

Nicole's eyes were slightly cold.

"Mr. Brook, let us leave. Otherwise, I don't mind perishing together with you."

Nicole wasn't trying to scare Allen.

Allen knew she never exaggerated.

"Perish together? You don't care about anything, do you? Don't you care about Zoe and your parents?"

Allen thought Nicole was crazy.

He had always considered Nicole courteous and polite. He didn't know she could go crazy like this. But her madness was not for him.

"You admitted it, didn't you?"

Nicole took a step forward. She was only one step away from Allen, so close that Allen could smell her unique fragrance.

He even wanted to hug her, but Samuel was staring at him. Samuel's cold eyes were fixed on Allen as if he would cripple Allen as long as Allen made a slight move.

In terms of martial power, Allen admitted that he could not defeat Samuel.

So he restrained himself.

Although Nicole had known everything, her heart ached when she heard Allen admit it.

It was him!

Charlotte did not lie to her!

Nicole's eyes were frighteningly cold. Allen retreated a little.

Chapter 232: Her Household Registration Is Canceled

Samuel's face darkened a little bit.

He should send Jacob to South Africa to do something.

Samuel swallowed hard and covered Nicole with the quilt again. He remembered what a restless sleeper this woman was, so he went to find a pajama and put it on Nicole.

"What are you doing? I'm sleepy!"

Nicole muttered, pushing Samuel subconsciously. Her cat-like strength was tempting.

Samuel swallowed again and whispered, "If you weren't too tired, just wait and see."

Nicole didn't hear his threats. She tilted her head and fell asleep on his shoulder.

Samuel was helpless.

He just wanted to stay by his wife's side while she was asleep. Why was it so difficult?

Samuel sighed and tucked Nicole in before leaving the bedroom.

The moment the door opened, Jacob took a step back so that he couldn't see anything inside. Then he said, "Mr. Green, Allen went crazy. The clients who cooperated with us are saying they'll withdraw their capital."

After all, this was the United States, and it was Allen's world. Many merchants followed Allen's instructions.

Although Samuel also had a place in the United States, he was not that outstanding. Besides, Samuel hadn't planned to expand his territory here, so his business here was not so well-known.

Now that Samuel was confronting Allen, the Greens' business was the first to be affected.

Samuel's eyes narrowed slightly.

"How much can we lose?"

"About three hundred million. Money is not the biggest issue. Something is wrong with our western development plan."

Jacob's voice was a little down. Samuel closed the door. Though he knew Nicole was sleeping, Samuel still whispered so that she was not disturbed, "Go to the study."

"Yes!"

They went to the study.

Samuel wanted to light a cigarette, but he thought of something and held it in his hand instead.

"Tell me what's wrong, in detail."

"Our western development plan was funded by us and operated by the local people and local dealers. Back then, our business in the United States was unstable. And you said we did not intend to expand our market here, so we only cooperated with them."

"Bullshit!"

Samuel rarely got angry in front of other people.

Lawyer Dupont had been working with Samuel for many years, so he knew Samuel's temper. He found Samuel difficult to deal with when being so irritable.

"Mr. Green, there's nothing you can do. You are the overlord of the Seapolis City, but Allen is the overlord here."

"But is there anything I can do?"

Lawyer Dupont shook his head.

Samuel was extremely depressed.

Lawyer Dupont's phone rang. He answered it and his face became more upset.

"What happened?"

"Mr. Green, I just heard something from the Civil Affairs Bureau. Allen has confirmed to the bureau that Catherine died five years ago. Mrs. Green is an illegal resident."

Hearing these words, Samuel wished he could beat Allen up.

This despicable man!

He made Nicole an illegal resident.

With her domestic household registration canceled and her identity abroad as Catherine erased, now Nicole couldn't stay in the United States, let alone getting married.

"Have Jacob arrange for my wife to leave the United States instantly!"

Samuel made an immediate decision.

No matter how many obstacles Allen had placed on him, he would overcome them. However, once Nicole was involved, it would be a little tricky.

Jacob learned the seriousness too.

They needed to be better prepared for Allen's tricks.

His unexpected and despicable acts were hard to defend against.

Jacob rushed to the bedroom hoping to take Nicole away while she was asleep, but Nicole woke up as if she knew he would come.

"Why are you in such a panic? Where's Samuel?"

Seeing herself wearing pajamas, Nicole was relieved.

She was afraid Samuel hadn't put on pajamas for her and Jacob would see her naked.

Jacob was upset when he saw Nicole woke up.

"Why did you wake up so quickly, madam?"

"What do you mean? If I don't wake up now, are you going to let me sleep until night? Allen will take action. Arrange for Samuel and me to leave the United States immediately, before Allen notices anything."

"Someone is following us."

Nicole's voice wasn't loud, but Jacob's hands trembled.

At this moment, those who were following them couldn't be Samuel's people. They were likely to be Allen's.

Sweat started to break out on Jacob's forehead.

"Madam, if anything happens, take another car and I'll lure them away."

Nicole's face became serious.

"Can you see whose people they are?"

"I can't see clearly, but definitely not ours."

Jacob started to speed up.

Everyone in the car was nervous.

Nicole did not want to involve too many people. She looked around and said, "Put me down in front and drive away."

"Madam!"

"Listen to me. Give me the location of the jet. I'll go there myself or find another way to leave here. I can't let Allen's people get me. He'll use me to threaten Samuel. As long as I don't appear, and they don't find me, they can't threaten Samuel. By the way, help Samuel as much as you can with the incident on the construction site. As for the family of the deceased, don't just check their relationships. See if any of them needs money recently. It might be a breakthrough."

Nicole's words enlightened Jacob.

"Why haven't I thought of it?"

"Get rid of them and slow down when you turn to the corner in front. I'll jump off the car."

Nicole's bold decision shocked Jacob.

"Madam, what are you talking about? Jumping off the car is very dangerous!"

"Can't be more dangerous than being dead. If I'm caught by Allen, I'd rather die."

Nicole's eyes flickered with determination, making Jacob unable to ignore them.

This was his madam!

She was worthy of Mr. Green!

Though Jacob didn't quite agree with Nicole's suggestion, they had no other choice.

"Madam, if you do it, Mr. Green will chop me up."

Jacob was so helpless.

Nicole smiled and said, "No, you're just as important in his heart."

Her words warmed Jacob's heart.

Chapter 235: I'm Not That Fragile

Nicole hurriedly lowered her head but failed to conceal the shock in her heart.
How could it be her?
Audrey was very similar to the woman in the photo she took from the Dons!
She suddenly remembered Viola's family photo.
Could this woman be Viola's mother?
It couldn't be so coincidental, right?
Nicole felt troubled and uneasy.
Audrey asked curiously, "Ms. Nicole, do you know me?"
"Oh, no, I don't. I just saw your picture in Viola's family photo. So, I was a little surprised."
Nicole said with a smile.
Audrey frowned slightly when she heard the name of Viola.
"I see. Are you and Viola friends?"
"Not really. I met her at the sanatorium. There was a small conflict between us."
Nicole didn't want to be friends with Viola.
That woman swore to rob her of a man. How could she make friends with her? Unless she was out of her mind!

Audrey, however, did not care much. She said, "You are injured. I know a thing or two about it and bandaged it up for you. This place is remote, so the doctors seldom come over. If you mind it, you'd better hurry up to the hospital."

"Thank you for saving me. How can I repay you?"

"Never mind. I like to be quiet as well as create things alone. So, from time to time, I will come over for drawing. There's food in the refrigerator in the kitchen. If you're hungry, feel free to make food. Don't worry about me. I'm a freak mostly."

With that, Audrey walked out.

She was really a freak.

Nicole said to herself. She was indeed hungry. Now, it was a bit pretentious to say that she needed no food. Besides, she had no place to go now.

She followed Audrey out of the dark room and saw her go straight to the bedroom.

"Mrs. Yate, are you going to rest? I'll make some food. Why don't you go to bed after having it?"

She could tell that Audrey was quite sleepy, so she asked.

Audrey paused for a moment, then turned around and said to Nicole, "I'm not married. You can call me Ms. Shaw or Auntie Audrey."

"Ah? Aren't you Viola's mother?"

Nicole was puzzled.

Chapter 236: Sometimes Traditional Things Are the Best

Without hearing Samuel's reply, Nicole knew that Samuel was thinking a lot. She sighed and said, "Actually, there's nothing wrong with my life. Don't worry too much. I have promised you that I will grow old with you. Now you just need to take care of your affairs. I'll wait for you."

"Okay."

Samuel nodded.

He didn't know what else he could say right now. Having a good wife like her, what could he ask for? It was useless to say more. Right now, he could only solve his problem quickly and bring Nicole home.

"I'll contact you tomorrow. Bye."

After all, this wasn't her phone, and it was likely to expose her for talking too long.

After Nicole hung up the phone, she was somewhat disappointed.

This was the first time she was separated from Samuel.

After she was rescued by Samuel from the Fallen Angel Club last time, she thought that she would never be separated from Samuel again. But now, only a few days later, they were again.

How could it be so difficult to stay together for the rest of their lives?

Allen's obsessive love left Nicole speechless, but she wouldn't take Allen's methods lightly.

Nicole didn't know if it was because she was thinking too much, or because she had slept for a while. She wasn't sleepy at all.

She sat on the sofa with a blanket. In this decoration style, she felt relieved.

Now that she was idle, she took the drawing paper and brush. When some ideas came to her mind, she bent over the coffee table and began to draw.

With time passing by, she felt sleepy. Sitting on the floor, she fell asleep with her upper part of body on the coffee table.

After Audrey woke up in the morning, she was surprised to see Nicole sleep on the coffee table.

Her long hair covered her face, but not her beauty.

When Audrey walked to her side, she found that Nicole was drawing sketches of cars.

There were all sorts of cars, including sports cars, sedan, and off-road vehicles. They were all similar, as if she wanted to design a series.

Nicole's drawing style was very delicate, but with a trace of masculinity. It was hard to tell it was drawn by a woman.

Perhaps it was because Audrey also liked drawing. She picked up the sketches and looked at them carefully.

This child's painting was excellent. It could be seen that she must have received professional trainings when she was young. No wonder she was able to see the bleakness and sadness in Audrey's paintings.

Audrey smiled in relief.

She wrapped a blanket around Nicole and put the sketches aside before heading to the kitchen.

The kitchen has been cleaned up by Nicole.

It looked like she was a neat girl.

This was much better than her daughter, Viola.

Audrey once again praised Nicole.

She opened the fridge, cooked some food, and took it to the dining table.

Nicole was awakened by the fragrance of the food.

Chapter 237: She Is My Guest

Hearing that, Nicole immediately listened keenly.

"Auntie Audrey, so you do know Xander, right? Do you know anyone from the Dons?"

Audrey no longer said anything. She just put down her chopsticks and whispered, "Take your time. I go upstairs."

"Auntie Audrey ..."

Seeing her like this, Nicole felt that she might have been abrupt just now. But did she really have anything to do with the Dons?

If Xander's girlfriend and she were sisters, did she know what happened to the illegitimate son or daughter of the Dons back then?

This haunted the old lady of the Dons. If Nicole could find out about it, it would be great. But the premise was that Audrey was willing to say it herself.

However, seeing Audrey's current state, it was obvious that she didn't want to say anything.

Nicole felt that she shouldn't have asked so directly just now.

She looked at the food on the table which was almost untouched. It was her fault.

Nicole also had no appetite.

She put away the food and tidied up the kitchen.

Now that Audrey had locked herself up in her room alone, she had nothing to do. The main reason was that she could not go out yet. It would be troublesome if someone found out her.

Not only did it implicate Audrey, it could also involve Samuel in it.

Nicole looked at the empty room and felt a little lonely.

No wonder Audrey's painting style always captured a trace of sadness. If a person stayed in such a house for a long time, she would probably be lonely.

Nicole came to the coffee table and looked at her draft. Now, it seemed that this was the only thing she could do.

She sat down again and began to draw.

Last time, the Brooks had already taken all the right of the car cooperation project with the Greens. However, the Greens got nothing. Now that she was the matriarch of the Greens and Samuel's wife, it was reasonable for her to draw a few design drawings the family.

Nicole put all her energy into the sketch.

Audrey came out.

She saw Nicole's serious expression, as if she had seen herself many years ago. She used to work so hard and hoped to change her life with the pencil in her hand.

But she did not expect that she would succeed and lose her lover.

Audrey leaned against the stairs, her eyes blurring with tears.

Xander!

Twenty years had passed. She thought that she could stay calm when she heard this name again, but she didn't expect that her heart would still hurt so badly.

Back then, he had left so resolutely that he didn't even have the chance to speak to her personally. He had joined the army without hesitation, leaving her nowhere to find him.

It had been almost thirty years, and this man had been dead. But she still felt heartache because of his name.

"What? Are you shocked? Do you really think that no one knows about it?"

Viola looked at Nicole mockingly, then hurried into the room and deliberately knocked her on the shoulder when she passed by Nicole.

"Well, sorry! I didn't see you. You won't tell my mother about such a trifle, right?"

With that, Viola swaggered into the villa.

"What's that smell? What are you doing at my mother's house?"

Viola was obviously looking for trouble.

What smell could it have in this villa?

Nicole ignored her and went back to the coffee table to tidy up her design drawings.

"Wait, you didn't steal my mother's painting, did you? My mother's painting is worth a lot of money. Don't have any evil thoughts at the sight of it."

Viola's words were a little insulting.

Nicole looked at her and said word by word, "These are my own drawings. Please take a good look."

"Come on, you? Can you draw? Stop bragging! Put these things where they are! You can't touch them until my mother comes back and says they're not hers. You should behave like a guest."

With that, Viola sat down on the sofa.

As if she had seen the thin blanket that Nicole had used, she threw it onto the ground.

"What is it? Why are you putting it on the sofa? My mother is a high-class person. She can't be compared with a low-class person like you. Do you know that? How shameless you are! An unregistered person has the cheek to eat and drink at my mother's place! What? Does Samuel not care about you? Or does he abandon you?"

Viola's words became more excessive.

Nicole felt her heart hurt badly, but she didn't bother to talk to Viola. She turned around and went back to her room.

"Stop! I haven't finished yet. Where are you going?"

Viola acted like a lofty Queen.

Nicole turned around and said coldly, "Miss Yate, I am your mother's guest, not yours. This is also your mother's home, not yours. Therefore, please don't teach me a lesson like a master. You don't deserve it!"

"What did you say? Dare you say it again!"

Viola was enraged.

She jumped up from the sofa and was about to beat Nicole.

At this time, Audrey came back.

"Viola, what are you doing?"

Audrey's voice was not loud, but it stopped Viola.

Viola, who was arrogant and domineering just now, softened when she saw Audrey.

"Mom, how do you take this person in? Do you know that? She is an unregistered resident. If the police find that she is in your house, we'll be in trouble."

Chapter 239: Because of Your Relationship with the Dons

Nicole was so happy that she hurriedly put down her chopsticks and went upstairs. She picked out a dress from the clothes that Audrey bought for her and put it on.

It had to be said that Audrey had a good taste. This dress was in an ink painting style, and it fit Nicole perfectly with a trace of artistic charm.

She looked at herself in the mirror and felt that she no longer looked like herself.

When Nicole went downstairs, Audrey's eyes lit up. She found Nicole attractive.

"You are so beautiful."

"Thank you. Auntie Audrey, you really have a good taste in clothes."

Nicole complimented her generously.

Audrey smiled, "Can you drive?"

"Yes!"

"Let's go."

Audrey gave Nicole a handbag. There was also a phone that Audrey had prepared for her. Nicole was deeply moved at the sight of it.

"Auntie Audrey, why are you so kind to me?"

Nicole didn't think a woman would not do this just out of pure kindness, so she couldn't help but ask.

Audrey paused for a moment and said, "Because of your relationship with the Dons."

Nicole was frozen again by the sentence.

Was this an indirect admission that Audrey knew the Dons?

"Auntie Audrey, you and the Dons..."

"Let's talk about it later. We have to leave now."

Audrey obviously didn't want to talk about it.

Nicole tactfully stopped asking and followed Audrey out of the villa.

Over the past few days, she was suffocated. Now that she was out in the fresh air, Nicole felt as if she had been reborn.

Seeing her breathing heavily, Audrey couldn't help but laugh.

"You really look like a child."

"Yes."

Nicole smiled embarrassedly and quickly got on the car.

She found Audrey's car expensive.

Nicole did not say anything. She checked and started the car.

"Auntie Audrey, where are we going?"

"The embassy."

Audrey's words struck Nicole.

"Embassy?"

"Don't you know the way?"

Audrey glanced at Nicole and thought that she didn't know the way. Nicole shook her head and said, "Yes, I know."

She didn't ask any further, but she felt that Audrey was a woman with a story.

Nicole immediately became excited, but Audrey held her hands tightly.

“Auntie Audrey ...”

Nicole didn’t say anything more, but her lips twitched. Obviously, she was anxious.

If it wasn’t a construction accident, the situation wouldn't be so unfavorable for Samuel.

Audrey shook her head and motioned for Nicole to wait and see what would happen.

Hearing the woman's words, the driver was also worried.

“Then what shall we do? Lee's corpse can't be buried until this matter is resolved. We have to find a way to make the court accept this case. Didn't that person say that it's easy to file a lawsuit?”

“How can I know that? Aren't you the one who have contact with that person? When we killed Lee, I just wanted to swindle some money out of the Eternal Group, and then run away. But you thought the compensation wasn’t enough and said that that person could give us $1m. But now, the Eternal Group doesn't compromise. That person hasn't given us a penny, and the court doesn't accept the lawsuit. Increasing livor mortis appears on Lee's corpse. If other people find out the truth, we will be sent to prison, let alone getting the money.”

The woman shouted hysterically.

“Shut up! Back then, it was you who knocked Lee to death with a brick. Are you blaming me now?”

The driver was also a little upset.

“Bah! I killed him only because he discovered our affair. Otherwise, I wouldn't kill my husband. You said that you wanted to marry me, take me away, and let me live a rich life, but now you're saying like that. Do you want me to bear all the blame? Don't force me into a corner; otherwise, I'll break up with you and tell them the truth! I warn you! Don't forget that you were the one who threw Lee off the roof! It was also you who contacted someone to swap the original document of the Eternal Group for a fake one. Others don't know about this, but I know all the things. There's no way for you to dump me!”

The woman was extremely ferocious at this moment.

Now, Nicole knew what was going on. She regretted not bringing Samuel here.

Audrey pulled her and they quietly retreated.

After getting into the car, Nicole said angrily, “Bastards! Lee discovered their affair so the woman killed him and her adulterer threw him off the roof, but they are blaming the Eternal Group and they want us to take the responsibility. How can they be so evil?”

“There are always many bad people. The society is filled with temptations and many people are seduced. However, they are responsible for what they do and God is watching them. Let's go.”

Audrey started the car and drove off.

Looking at her, Nicole suddenly felt that Audrey was unfathomable. At first, she thought that Audrey was a painter, or that she painted pictures for a living. But when she found out that Audrey was a minister, she felt that she was not good at judging people at all.

They returned to the highway.

Audrey asked, "You know how to contact your husband, don't you?"

"Yes, I do."

"You can meet him somewhere."

Audrey's words surprised Nicole. She was somewhat worried.

"Auntie, now I don't have an identity. If I contact him, I'm afraid that it will cause some problems."

"Then tell him to come to the embassy. No one will suspect that you are in the embassy."

Audrey passed her phone to Nicole, then turned the car around, and drove towards the embassy.

Nicole knew that she was much obliged to Audrey, and a "thank you" couldn't express her gratitude.

She quickly called Samuel.

"Who's that?"
