

Escape Wife 241

Chapter 241: What Do You Think?

Samuel's words made Nicole silent.

Even Audrey couldn't solve this problem. What could they do?

"It's very troublesome, right?"

Samuel didn't say anything, but held Nicole tightly.

They didn't have many opportunities to see each other, and it was impossible for them to meet in the embassy every time. Moreover, Nicole couldn't have an identity overnight.

Noticing Samuel's silence, Nicole knew that he was also worried.

She whispered, "If I forever can't have an identity, will you still be at my side?"

"What are you talking about? You are my wife, our children's mother and the hostess of the Green family. Whether you have an identity or not, my mother, the Greens and I will always recognize you. Don't think nonsense. We can finally find a way to solve your problem."

Samuel's words soothed Nicole anxiety.

She really didn't expect that one day she would become a person without an identity.

She couldn't take a car or plane. Nor could she register. She couldn't do anything that required any proof of identity. She even didn't know whether she could stay with Samuel in the future.

Thinking of this, she felt very uncomfortable, helpless, and aggrieved.

Samuel knew that she was in a bad mood, but he didn't know how to comfort her. After all, it was the result but not words that mattered. But now he didn't have any ideas.

They hugged each other for a while. Samuel whispered, "Are you still staying at Audrey's house?"

"Yeah."

"Stay there for another two days at most. I will come to pick you up then."

"OK!"

Nicole leaned against him and listened to his heartbeat, but she felt that it was somewhat illusory.

It was strange. Samuel was right beside her, but she felt that she could never see him again later.

Nicole felt that she might be suffering from depression.

"Samuel."

"Yes?"

"Have you got the wedding rings?"

Samuel was stunned for a moment. He nodded and said, "Yes, here they are."

“Let me have a look.”

Nicole's mood was lightened.

Samuel took out a pair of wedding rings from his pocket.

The wedding rings were very elegant with their names on.

Nicole looked at the wedding rings and was moved.

“When we got married eight years ago, you even didn’t propose to me.”

“Then how about I propose now?”

Samuel asked gently.

"Alright!"

Nicole didn't think drawing blood was a big thing.

It was pretty common. Moreover, she was touched that Audrey would try to help her solve the problem.

Although she didn't know how big the chance would be, having some hope was always good.

Though Nicole agreed, Audrey didn't feel better.

"Come with me," she whispered, "there's a blood collection room."

"OK."

Nicole obediently followed Audrey.

Along the way, many people greeted Audrey, but she didn't seem to hear them. She was somewhat absent-minded.

Although Nicole felt that Audrey was strange, she didn't ask any questions.

After they arrived at the room, Audrey said to the man inside, "Collect a blood sample for her."

"OK, Minister"

The man quickly collected Nicole's blood.

Audrey said to Nicole, "Nikki, you can go to the office and wait for me there. I have something to do now. I'll go back later."

"Alright."

Nicole didn't suspect her words and directly went back to Audrey's office.

Seeing that she was far away, Audrey said to the man, "Refine the blood sample. In addition to archiving it, I need some of her blood for another purpose."

“Alright, Minister Shaw. Please wait a moment.”

The man quickly saved up Nicole's blood and gave a portion to Audrey.

Audrey took the blood sample, drove away from the embassy, and arrived at a big hospital.

“I want to do a paternity test. How many days will it take?”

“Two to three days at the fastest.”

The lab technician was an acquaintance of Audrey. Seeing that she was anxious, the lab technician added, “If you are in a hurry, we can give you the result in a day and a half. However, we have to work overtime.”

“Many thanks.”

Audrey handed over two blood samples.

“This is confidential. Please keep it to yourselves. Except me, you can't tell anyone else the result.”

Audrey's solemnity made the lab technician feel stressed.

Audrey then drove away and returned to her office.

Because Nicole waited for too long, she fell asleep on Audrey's desk.

Looking at Nicole sleeping soundly, Audrey had mixed feelings.

The photo was slightly faded. It seemed to be an old photo. With only a corner out, it was like the Pandora's Box, so attractive.

Nicole didn't like invading other people's privacy, but now she really wanted to see the whole picture.

What was on the picture?

At Xander's studio, she saw a woman who resembled Audrey. Could Audrey also have such a picture here?

Nicole hesitated, but in the end, she was so curious that she gently pulled the photo out.

This was a picture of two people.

The man and the woman on the picture were a perfect match.

The woman was Audrey, and the man looked refined and polite.

Nicole turned the photo and saw "Audrey and Xander on Mont Blanc" on its back.

"Xander?"

Nicole's heart skipped a beat.

The man was Xander!

It was Xander at a young age.

How could Xander take a picture with Audrey?

It was self-evident what their relationship was.

Nicole was totally shocked.

It turned out that the woman on the picture wasn't some stranger who looked like Audrey or Audrey's sister, but it was Audrey herself. Xander and Audrey loved each other back then.

Then could Viola be Xander and Audrey's daughter? Was she the child that Old Madame Don had been looking for?

Nicole felt excited. She wished she could tell Jason the news right now, but she restrained herself.

Something was wrong!

It looked like that Viola was only 23 or 24 years old, so how could she be Xander and Audrey's daughter? Moreover, Viola also said that her father was the director of the sanatorium, Dominic.

What was the truth?

Nicole couldn't figure it out, but she also didn't want to ask Audrey, so she could only secretly insert the photo back as if she didn't know anything. However, she couldn't calm down.

She was puzzled, so she called Samuel.

"Baby, are you missing me? We parted just a few hours ago."

Samuel teased her.

Nicole whispered, "I am missing you all the time!"

Samuel didn't know what to say.

Nicole smiled, "Why? Don't you miss me?"

"Of course."

Samuel replied quickly.

Nicole was in a good mood, so she didn't care so much. She looked at the kitchen and saw that Audrey was busy cooking, so she whispered, "Samuel, I have found a secret."

"Mom, I'm your daughter! Your biological daughter! You chat happily with an outsider, but you treat me like this. Do you hate me that much?"

Viola shouted with a glare at Nicole.

Nicole felt that she was quite innocent.

She did nothing wrong.

However, she still stood up and said in a low voice, "Auntie, I'll tidy the kitchen up. You can have a good chat in the living room."

"No, I'll clean them up later."

Audrey wanted to stop Nicole.

But Viola said, "She lives here for free. She certainly needs to do the chores. Mom, why are you so nice to her?"

Audrey pulled a long face.

"What are you here for?"

"I want to see you! I heard that you went to work today, so I come here to see you. OK?"

Viola was annoyed. She placed the bag of nutritional products in her hand aside and pouted. Obviously, she was not satisfied with Audrey's attitude.

Nicole was slightly stunned.

How could Viola know that they went to the embassy today?

Could it be that Viola had arranged for someone to watch over them?

Audrey also realized that.

"How could you know that I went to the embassy?"

Audrey asked coldly, and her serious expression made Viola shiver.

"I just heard about it."

"Who said that? Are you monitoring me?"

Audrey glared at Viola angrily.

Viola felt that she lost face in front of Nicole. She straightened herself and answered loudly, "I asked someone to follow Samuel. I heard that he went to the embassy to see you, so I found out that you were at work. I am not monitoring you. I like Samuel, and I want to please him and be his girlfriend!"

"Samuel is married. Don't you understand?"

Audrey didn't know how she could have such a daughter!

But Viola said stubbornly, "No, he isn't married. Nicole Bush even doesn't have an identity now, so their marriage is illegal.

Besides, what kind of benefits can

Samuel have with her? If he marries me, you can help him gain a foothold in the U.S., right? Smart people all know that he should choose me."

"If love can be weighed, it is not love. Viola, when can you truly grow up?"

Audrey was so disappointed by Viola. She was so different from Nicole who was gentle, virtuous, and considerate. How could they have such big differences?

She increasingly felt that Viola's arrogance was unacceptable.

Chapter 245: Is She Going to Die

Allen looked around in surprise.

This was an upscale neighborhood, despite being remote. The working class could not afford a house here. Even the rich had to compete against each other for a chance to buy one. Unfortunately, not everyone was lucky enough.

He didn't expect Nicole to be here. No wonder he couldn't find her.

Allen opened the car door and saw Nicole lying on the seat with an apron. She was cooking just now.

The thought of her cooking in the kitchen reminded Allen of the past.

When Samuel was not around, Nicole would make porridge for him and tell him to take good care of his body. She would also make tea to help him concentrate on his work.

But it had become a thing of the past and meant nothing to Nicole.

How could this be?

They had spent five years together. How could she forget it?

She said that the person she hated the most was Samuel. She returned only to find a kidney for Zoe. But why was in love with Samuel again?

Was Samuel better than him?

He had everything that Samuel had. He even treated her better. Why didn't she choose him?

Allen was irritated and upset. But he didn't want to wake Nicole up.

When she was asleep, she was still as gentle as she used to be. It seemed that she didn't change at all.

But when Nicole woke up, they couldn't get along. She was sometimes hostile to him for the sake of Samuel.

After a struggle, Allen closed the door, started the car and drove out.

He drove slowly since he didn't know where to go.

Samuel knew all the villas Allen had. Once he found out Nicole was missing, he would suspect Allen. If Samuel insisted on taking her away and called the police, he would not be able to protect Nicole.

After all, she was not a legal citizen now.

While driving, Allen tried to find a solution. Before he realized, he had arrived at the company.

All staff were off work. Suddenly, he remembered the abandoned warehouse.

Yes!

No one thought of that warehouse!

Allen hurriedly drove the car to the warehouse behind him.

As expected, there was no one here.

Allen turned off the surveillance video and drove in. Then, he carried Nicole out in his arms.

He looked at Nicole who was sleeping. Although her long hair covered her face, Allen could recognize her.

Nicole changed her appearance for him five years ago. She belonged to him!

Only him!

Allen reached out to touch her face.

Audrey woke up and went downstairs. But she did not see Nicole.
She thought that Nicole was sleeping in the guest room. She went to the kitchen, but when she opened the door, she saw the kitchen in a mess.
It didn't seem that Nicole broke something by accident.
Audrey's heart sank and she ran to Nicole's room.
Her room was empty. The bed was neat. She didn't sleep here last night.
Audrey got anxious. She searched everywhere, but still couldn't find Nicole.
She began to tremble, her anxiety intensifying.
Audrey watched the surveillance footage and saw Viola had taken Nicole away. Audrey narrowed her eyes when she noticed the needle in Viola's hand.
"Damn!"
Audrey was so angry that she trembled. She called Dominic.
"Where's Viola?"
Dominic was surprised as Audrey called him very frequently these days. But Audrey's cold tone made his excitement dissipate at once. Dominic was stunned.

"She is out and has come back. She said she went to your place. Wasn't she with you?"

Audrey flew into a rage.

"I told you to look after her. No matter what happens, you should ask her to stay at home and let her wounds heal. Why don't you listen?"

"What's wrong? Audrey, what happened?"

Dominic realized that something was wrong with Audrey.

Audrey rarely lost her temper. She was always aloof to everyone. At first, Dominic thought she was just like this. Later on, he found that Audrey was just unable to love anyone.

How they got to know each other was rather interesting.

Audrey drank too much and mistook him as someone else. They had a one-night stand.

Unfortunately, Audrey was pregnant. The doctor said her health conditions were so bad that if she had an abortion, her life would be in danger. Audrey had no choice but to give birth to Viola who was brought up by Dominic.

It was a surprise to Dominic who was very excited to have a daughter. He had thought that Audrey would marry him. But Audrey refused, saying that she would never get married, let alone him. Dominic was disappointed.

Over the years, Dominic had been caring for Audrey. He was happy as long as he could see her and Audrey was with him.

However, Audrey didn't seem to like Viola. She was so keen to look after her.

She took the initiative to call him twice a day because of Viola. Dominic realized that something went wrong.

"What's wrong? What's wrong with Viola?"

Audrey almost lost control. She whispered, "You'd better find Viola now. Otherwise, I don't know what the consequences will be. Dominic, you can't discipline your own daughter. What else can you do?"

"Stop fighting!"

Audrey stood between them.

Samuel and Mike stopped, and their fists were inches from Audrey's face.

“Audrey, step aside, please. Today, I'll teach Samuel some lessons.”

Mike didn't want to stop, mainly because he failed to have an upper hand. The punches hurt.

Although Samuel did not say anything, he was still in a rage.

Audrey sighed and said, "I just went in and asked Viola. She said that she left her car and Nicole to Allen. As long as we find her car, we will be able to find Nicole.”

Hearing that, Samuel's expression became even gloomier.

"Mike, we're not finished!"

He suddenly turned around and ran out.

Mike knew what would happen to Nicole when Allen got her.

He was a bit depressed.

What was wrong with Viola?

Seeing that he was in a daze, Audrey gave him a push.

“Hurry up!”

“Oh. Yeah.”

Mike regained his senses and went out with Audrey. They both followed Samuel.

They came and left in a hurry. Staff at the salon didn't dare to stop them. Seeing them leave, they heaved a sigh of relief.

Samuel arrived at the Brook Group in no time.

“Anything I can help you with, Mr. Green?”

Secretary Cole stopped Samuel.

Samuel pushed her away.

Secretary Cole wanted to call security, but Mike covered her mouth from behind.

"You'd better keep quiet if you don't want to die. OK?"

Mike got a firm grip. She nodded in fear.

Samuel went to Allen's office. Seeing him resting, Samuel was swollen with rage.

Samuel grabbed his collar and punched him.

Allen woke up in pain. He was confused when he saw Samuel.

Wasn't he in the warehouse? Why was he in the office?

And why was Samuel here?

"Where's Nicole? Where is she?"

Samuel cut to the chase.

Allen was surprised.

Chapter 248: You're Not My Daughter

Even with an oxygen tank, Samuel found it difficult to go down to the seabed.

He lost strength and was almost unable to withstand the water pressure. However, Samuel did not want to give up. He simply couldn't give up.

Whether Nicole was alive was unknown.

He didn't believe she would commit suicide. The only explanation was that someone tried to kill her, and she didn't know what was going on.

Samuel did not know who did it. But he knew it was not Allen.

Allen wanted Nicole and went to great lengths to get her. He wouldn't let her die.

The pressure was so great that Samuel was unable to open his eyes. But he still did not want to give up.

His skin hurt as if it was pierced by needles. His injured arm was numb and he didn't feeling at all. But Samuel was still going down.

He seemed to see the outline of the car.

It had white roof. The car was bubbling.

Would Nicole be inside?

Samuel really wanted to swim over to take a look, but he couldn't hold on any longer.

Samuel tried to keep his legs and hold his breath.

The rescue team and search team would not risk their lives to reach the seabed. When they saw Samuel almost freeze to death, they tried to pull him up.

However, Samuel knew their intentions and punched them. He scared them.

Finally, they evacuated.

Samuel didn't care.

He drew in a breath and swam downwards with all his strength.

He finally touched the handle.

Samuel was thrilled.

"She doesn't understand what I mean. But you know too well. Dominic, don't you understand? I don't love you! I only love Xander. If I hadn't been drunk and mistaken you for Xander, I wouldn't have had sex with you and given birth to Viola! What did I tell you? I said that I don't want her, and I can't love her. But you said that you didn't care. You would educate her property. This was how you discipline your kid! Your daughter killed mine!"

Audrey was crazy.

She was hurting her family, especially Viola.

She was Viola's mother, so she couldn't avenge Nicole's death. But she couldn't let Viola get away with it.

Nicole was her daughter!

Poor child!

She had been sent away when she was little and had never come back. Now that Viola contributed to her death, how could Audrey remain calm?

Audrey was kind enough not to kill Viola. Did Dominic expect her to tolerate Viola?

For so many years, she didn't point a finger at Dominic's education just to protect Viola's feelings. Viola called her mom, which she accepted. However, she never expected that Viola grew up to be such a vicious woman.

Hearing that, Dominic tried to say something but failed.

He had always known that Audrey loved a man. When the man died, she wasn't able to love anyone else. But Dominic did not know they had a child.

Now, this child had been killed indirectly by Viola.

What should he do?

Viola could not bear it.

She had always felt that Audrey was cold and indifferent to her, but she didn't know why. Now she understood. But she wished she had never known it.

No wonder Audrey treated Nicole so well. No wonder she would cook for her and let her do anything she wanted. No wonder Nicole could stay in the villa.

It turned out that Nicole was her favorite, the child of her and her beloved man!

Viola could not accept it.

"She deserves it! She deserves to die! Why did you treat her so well? Why do you turn a blind eye to me? I have been by your side for more than twenty years! She's your daughter. I am, too. Why do you always ignore me? Mom, how can you treat me like this?"

Chapter 250: You Don't Deserve to Be Nicole's Friend

Quickly leaving the Brook Group building, the guy hopped into a car and called Jacob instantly.

"Mr. Brown, breaking news!"

"What?"

Jacob was all ears.

The guy whispered, "I just eavesdropped on the conversation between Allen and Charlotte. It seems that it was Miss Harrison who drove Mrs. Green to the Back Sea and tossed her into the water. Mrs. Green was still in a coma at that time."

Hearing this, Jacob was stunned.

"I see."

He hung up the phone and dashed towards the hospital.

Samuel, at the same time, was fighting with Mike like frenzied. He could think of nothing but to look for Nicole, and no matter what Mike said, he just wouldn't listen to it.

Blood had oozed out of the back of his hand as he pulled out the needle too violently before, but he didn't give it a damn. His bloodshot eyes revealed that he hadn't got enough rest for along time.

He didn't dare to close his eyes. He couldn't. Because every time he closed his eyes, he would see Nicole lying in a pool of blood with her eyes wide open in grudge, asking why he didn't save her.

"Sam, stop it. You'll die if you keep being like this, do you know?"

Mike had never seen him so crazy.

Samuel still ignored him and insisted on jumping into the sea to look for her.

This was what Jacob saw when he arrived.

The corners of his eyes were a little wet.

This scene looked so familiar. Five years ago, it was just like this - Samuel wished he could throw himself into the fire by her side. Now, Nicole was in the deep sea. How could he possibly bear it?

Jacob hurried Samuel and whispered, "Mr. Green, I've found out who did this."

"Who?"

Samuel's eyes suddenly turned frosty.

Mike also frowned slightly.

He was so afraid of hearing Viola's name, but right now, there was nothing he could do.

Jacob stared at Samuel and whispered, "It's Charlotte Harrison. Our source in the Brook Group confirmed that Charlotte had admitted it herself in Allen's office that she drove Mrs. Green to the Back Sea and tossed her into the water. Mrs. Green was in a coma before."

"Charlotte Harrison?"

Samuel's eyes were perishing as he murmured the name.

At the moment, Viola ran in, crying.
