Chapter 251: Mike's Weird Taste

Samuel glanced at Viola and Mike and left without a word.

Mike sighed and looked at Viola, who had fainted in his arms. He then ordered, "Remove all the surveillance cameras around here, and I want each of the footage destroyed. And, keep your mouths shut."

"Yes."

Those guys quickly left.

Mike looked at the waves in the sea and narrowed his eyes slightly.

A marvelous doctor just died like that.

It might be a pity for others, but Charlotte should have known the price of messing with Samuel.

Samuel had a fever again, but he didn't really care about it.

Seeing his face turning so red, Jacob said worriedly, "Mr. Green, please don't be like this. Mrs. Green would be so distressed if she ever knew it"

"Would she? She would be here scolding me right now if she could. But where is she?"

Samuel looked out of the window with a dull expression.

Jacob knew that he was distressed at the moment, but he whispered, "Mr. Green, Mrs. Green would definitely be okay. Everyone was sure that she would die in the fire five years ago, but didn't she come back in the end? We haven't found her body yet, maybe she does make it out alive again this time and just hasn't got the opportunity to contact us. Mr. Green, you have to take care of yourself so that you can have the chance to reunite with Mrs. Green. If you keep being like this and got yourself seriously bedridden, put Mrs. Green on the back burner, what about Miss Zoe? Don't forget that Miss Zoe is still waiting for your kidney to get through the surgery! She's still so little and doesn't know she has lost her mother. If she loses her father now, how could she take the hit?"

Samuel's eyes flashed, as if he had listened to Jacob's words.

He turned back and looked at Jacob, "Do you know how much pain I'm feeling right now? I'm a man! But I can't even protect my woman! What else can I do?"

"Many things. Like, Allen is behind all this, but he's still out there, alive. Mr. Green, Mr. Brook should pay the price for what he did."

"Right! You're right!"

Samuel seemed to have suddenly found a new direction and came back to life.

"What did those suppliers say?"

Jacob shook his head, "Nothing. Perhaps they knew the Brooks' influence in the United States, so they didn't dare to reveal anything.'

"Then have their wives and children under control. You know what to do if they still keep their mouths shut."

Samuel's voice was absolutely cold.

Jacob was stunned.

"Mr. Green, do you mean to threaten them with their wives and children? I'm afraid that's not quite appropriate, is it?"

"So what? You think I'm cruel? But aren't they the same when they did this to me? I was not interested in the US market before, but they have crossed the line. Now I'm gonna take this piece of the cake too, and trample the Brooks down my feet. If it wasn't for them, how could this happen to my Nicole? Now that she's gone, they'd better pick their side quickly if they wanna survive. Otherwise, I don't mind to shed some more blood"

Right now, Samuel was totally a devil who'd been let loose. It seemed that he wanted to drag the whole world down to hell for Nicole's death.

Chapter 252: You Don't Stand a Chance

"It was you?"

How could Allen not know what had happened right now?

Samuel only sneered and didn't even bother to say anything.

Allen could see that Samuel was covered in wounds. Although the wounds on his arms had been treated, they weren't taken much care of. Blood oozed out from his white shirt, looking a little scary.

The bruise on the back of his hand was eye-catching, while the blood hadn't dried up yet. Obviously, he had just come here from the hospital.

Allen said coldly, "Do you really think that you can shake the entire establishment of the Brooks all by yourself? Samuel Green, your ignorant pride is just a joke."

Samuel finally moved.

He grabbed Allen's arm, twisted it, and pushed him against the wall, saying coldly, "If Nicole is still alive, I might show some mercy to you. After all, five years ago, you saved her life, and you had feelings for my children. So no matter what you did, I could pretend that I didn't know. But you've gone too far. I had no choice but to fight back. Even so, I still left you a last chance. But Allen, for all that you've done, you shouldn't touch my Nicole. You shouldn't let Charlotte bring her to the Back Sea. And you shouldn't leave her in such peril. Don't you know that Nicole is the only reason of your survival? Now that she is no longer here, why do you think you can still make fortunes on this land? I may not be able to shake the Brooks all by myself, but what if all the venture capital firms just decided to join hands? How much money do you think the Brooks has to fight against them?"

Allen's expression changed at the last sentence.

"It's impossible! No venture capital company will cooperate with others. Let alone all of them joining hands. You don't have the power. Absolutely impossible!"

Samuel sneered, "What if I don't want the shares of the Brooks? And I can even pay them for that. Do you think they will still stick to their so-called principle?"

"Samuel, are you out of your mind? What's in it for you? You'll be seriously damaged too if you insist on doing so. By the time the Brooks is destroyed, the Greens will be on its last legs. What are you doing?"

"What am I doing? Nicole is dead. I want you and the Brooks to go with her, even if the price is the Greens! If it weren't for you, Nicole and I would have returned to the Seapolis City and lead a happy life by now. But because of you, she lost her identity and became an illegal resident. She had no choice but to hide, but was later plotted against. If you hadn't insisted on forcing her, would she be dead now? Allen, you've been relying on the Brooks power in the States to suppress me. And you even hired a killer to murder my daughter. If Nicole is still alive, I might settle these scores with you secretly and slowly. But now, not a chance.”

Samuel released Allen after he finished the words.

Allen felt that his arm was about to break.

Apparently, Samuel didn't show any mercy to him just now, and even wished he could tear off this arm.

Allen smiled in tears, "Do you think I want this? No! I don't want anything to happen to Nicole more than anyone else. When I saved her from the fire five years ago, she became mine. I was the one who changed her identity and gave her a new life. If it weren't for Zoe needing a kidney, Nicole and I would be happiest now. Samuel, it was YOU who destroyed everything. YOU snatched her away from me.”

"Nicole was for no one to snatch, because she had always loved me. If she really liked you, you had a lot of opportunities in the past five years, but you didn't stand a chance, did you? Nicole had refused you for five years, so you should let go. Allen, it's fine to love someone, but in the name of love, you kept hurting her. How could you say you love her? If Nicole really chose you, I would definitely not interfere and force her to stay by my side. However, the person she loved is me, and the person she chose is also me! You always wanted to keep her by your side. Now that Nicole's gone, you and the Brooks have to pay the price!”

Chapter 253: Won the World, Lost Her

"Can I go talk to him for a second?"

Allen said calmly, not having much hope. However, the people from the Procuratorate still nodded and let him go.

Samuel watched Allen walking towards him, his face was expressionless.

"Let my grandmother go. It has nothing to do with her."

His voice wasn't loud, but he knew that Samuel could hear it.

Samuel looked at him and sneered, "It has nothing to do with your grandmother? Does what happened between us have anything to do with Nicole? With my daughter Zoe? Have you ever thought of letting them go when you did those things?"

"Samuel, you've already won. The Brooks destruction has fall on my head. What else do you want?"

Allen was a little angry.

If he had known that Samuel was so reckless, perhaps he would have thought twice before making any move, or at least he wouldn't have lost so miserably.

But Samuel sneered, "Do you think I won? Even if you gift the whole world to me, can you bring back Nicole? As long as you can bring her back in front of me now, not to mention you, I can even let go of the Brooks."

There was a trace of grief in his voice.

Allen suddenly didn't know what to say.

If there were a second chance, perhaps he would let go and let Nicole pursue her own happiness. He just wanted to see her alive, leading a happy life. It would be much better.

"I apologize."

However, his apology wasn't accepted.

"Go repent in the prison."

Allen knew that Samuel was really angry this time. The Brooks was doomed, while Rachel ...

He sighed and left.

Seeing the Procuratorate's car take Allen away, Samuel's eyes darkened. Nobody could figure out what he was thinking.

Jacob didn't dare to disturb Samuel, so he just waited quietly.

Samuel suddenly felt that life was meaningless again.

He had wiped out the Brooks, dealt with Allen, and even threw Charlotte into the sea. However, doing these things didn't make him feel less empty deep down.

He was thinking of Nicole like crazy.

Her smile, her move. He even started to have the hallucination that she was right around him, as if he could see her as long as he turned around.

However, when he turned around, he only saw an empty backseat.

Jacob saw all his loneliness, but didn't know how to comfort him.

"Let's go back."

"I'll get someone on it immediately."

Samuel suddenly turned excited.

Yeah!

For so many days, they haven't found Nicole's corpse. And there wasn't even any corpse floating up, nor no rumor about corpses being salvaged. So where was Nicole?

No one would disappear from the world for no reason. If she survived, would she be rescued?

Samuel called Jacob hurriedly.

Just as Jacob fell asleep in a daze, he was woken up by Samuel's call. However, he simply sobered up without complaining.

"Mr. Green."

"Check it if there were any ships passing by the area of the Back Sea the night Nicole disappeared?"

A trace of excitement showed up in Samuel's voice.

Jacob immediately understood something.

"Yes, I'm on it!"

Seeing Samuel's swift and resolute response, Audrey finally got better.

"How long will it take us to get updated?"

"I'm not sure, but you can't stand in the wind like this. So let's go back to wait in the car."

Seeing her lips turn purple, Samuel was really afraid that something might happen to her.

This time, Audrey did not refuse.

She was a little frozen, especially when she lifted her feet.

Samuel did not say anything and directly carried Audrey to the car on his back.

There was a heating system in the car, so Samuel took out a kettle and handed it to Audrey.

"Have some hot water to get rid of the coldness. If there were any news about Nicole, we still have to hurry over."

"Yes."

Audrey took over the kettle.

Then her phone rang up.

Audrey took a look at the phone and threw it out of the window.

Samuel frowned slightly, but asked no question.

Audrey smiled bitterly, "Dominic is actually not bad to me."

"It's a pity that you don't have him in your heart."

Samuel's words made Audrey smile bitterly again.

"Yes, I don't have him in my heart. In my whole life, I only have one man in my heart, but he left too early. All these years in the United States, I felt like I was a walking dead until I met Nicole. The child made me feel very comfortable and close the first time I saw her, so I brought her back even though I knew that this girl was very likely to be unidentified. I never thought that she would be my daughter who has been missing for more than twenty years."

"Sometimes fate is so miraculous."

Audrey looked at the darkness outside. She didn't know what she was thinking. Perhaps she thought of Xander, or perhaps she thought of Nicole. In short, she was silent and didn't speak anymore.

Chapter 255: She Was Still Alive

"What strange thing?"

Samuel spun around, and Dick was startled by him.

"The supplies of our ship are rationed, but since we left the Back Sea, the supplies have been reduced, and the ship's medical kits have disappeared. Everyone thought there was a thief, but no one suspicious was found. As you know, this is a freighter, and we have a certain number of sailors on board, but we have less food every day, and at last, we had no choice and went ashore the city nearby to gather some food, and then we came back. Otherwise we wouldn't have survived."

Hearing this, Samuel's hope lit up again.

"Your food is all rationed?"

"Yes!"

"No one stole it?"

"It can't be! Our sailors are professionally trained, and as they have been at sea for a long time, it is impossible to be unruly. Everyone knows that, at sea, food and fresh water are the basic things that keep us alive, so no one would do that. But since we pass by the Back Sea in the United States, our food and fresh water have been decreasing, and we can't find who ate it. It is really strange. A lot of people said the ship might be haunting."

As Dick said so, he looked not well.

Sometimes after a long time at sea, many people would believe some legends. No matter whether they were scientific or not, they had to believe them. After all, no one could find a reasonable explanation.

Samuel didn't think so.

The food and water couldn't disappear into thin air, especially that they lost the medical kit.

Medicine kit?

Did someone get hurt?

Could it be Nicole?

"Can I go up and check it?"

"Yes!"

Dick knew that Samuel, the President of Eternal Group, had shipped cargo too, and of course he would not mess up with anything. Besides, the Director of the Port always brought in people himself who wanted to see the cargo. He couldn't stop them.

Samuel and Jacob followed Dick to the freighter.

The freighter was large and wide, and seemed very empty with all its cargo unloaded.

When Samuel got on board, he asked, "Where do you usually rest?"

"We have our own room. All rest in yonder room."

Dick pointed to the rest room.

Samuel went to check it. It was a dorm room, because all men lived in there, it was messy, and it smelled stinky feet!

He held his nose for a look, then stepped back to make sure Nicole wasn't hiding there.

"Are there any other places where you can hide people?"

and there's nobody.

Samuel didn't say anything until he heard it.

"I will talk to Mr. Bush and Miss Bush about this. The main thing is that Nicole is still alive, but her identity has never been decided. The identities of Mr. Bush and Miss Bush have been invalid, and Allen has removed Nicole's identity from the U.S. Nicole is now unregistered. No matter where she is, we have to figure out Nicole's identity first. I think Mr. Bush and Miss Bush will understand it,"

Mrs. Don was more or less worried when she heard this.

"Is there any news of Nicole now?"

"No, but I'm sure she'll get in touch with us."

Samuel's words silenced everyone.

Audrey whispered, "I'm already working on the identity issue. I've explained everything to my superior and I want to give my daughter a formal identity, but the problem is which name should I use, Nicole Bush or Nicole Don?"

Mrs. Don was a little embarrassed by this question.

She wanted Nicole to be entitled with the surname Don, but now Nicole was nowhere to be found. Nicole didn't know who she really was, and they didn't know what would Mr. Bush and Miss Bush think about it. They didn't know what they should do now.

"How about this: I'll go talk to Mr. Bush and Miss Bush about this and we'll get back to that. It would take some time for the political investigation, during which we will have a detailed discuss and try to find a perfect solution. Besides, I will speed up my efforts to find out Nicole. She should have the right to know her identity.'

Both sides nodded in agreement.

After this meeting, Mrs. Don insisted that Audrey go back to live with the Don family. Audrey couldn't refuse and went back with Mrs. Don.

Jason and Samuel walked behind them, saying with a wry smile, "I never thought the first woman I was attracted to in my life was my niece!"

"So, you are destined to be her uncle.'

Samuel was in a good mood.

He had removed a rival in love, which made him feel a bit relaxed.

Jason didn't respond to Samuel's teasing, just whispered, "I'm fine, but I'm not sure about Tim. His mother's been in such a bad mood lately, and he hasn't spared time to talk to you. If he finds out that Nicole has been missing and you came back alone, he might kill you."

"Speaking of Tim, I don't understand why he is so crazy about Nicole. Isn't he a playboy?"

Samuel never thought of Tim as a rival, nor did he think of him as someone who would love Nicole for so long, but Samuel knew what Tim had done for Nicole for so long.

Jason whispered, "I heard that he and Nicole had an affair when they were kids. He said Nicole saved him when they were kids."

"Oh?"

This surprised Samuel.

When they walked out of the Hilton Hotel, Jason asked in a low voice, "Won't you need me to accompany you to meet Mr. Bush and Miss Bush?"

"Who's that?"

Samuel just grabbed the phone, but there was no sound.

The brief silence made Samuel's heart tighten.

"Nicole, is that you? Is it you?"

Samuel's eager voice rang out, but the other side made a cold machine sound.

"Come to the Third Port. Come alone.'

And then the other party hung up the phone.

It was clearly a computer-generated voice, so it was impossible to tell who it was, and the conversation was too short to locate.

Samuel's eyes were cold.

He grabbed his coat and was about to leave the house when Laurel came down to meet him.

"Where are you going?"

"I just got a call asking me to go to the Third Port. I've got to go and see if it's a trap or not. I've got to look for a clue"

Samuel knew Laurel was worried about him, but right now he couldn't sit still.

Looking at Laurel's worried face, Samuel felt guilty.

"Mom, after this incident, I must spend time with you."

"Never mind, nothing would happen to me, but I really worry about you. What is going on with Nicole?"

Hearing Laurel's question, Samuel whispered, "What we know for sure is that Nicole is alive and she probably went back to the Seapolis City by freighter, but she didn't get in touch with us, so she might be in some kind of troubles right now. Just then someone called here and asked me to go to the Third Port. I don't think it a coincidence."

Hearing Samuel's analysis, Laurel looked somber.

"Did you find out Zama?"

Hearing the sudden mention of Zama, Samuel was stunned for a moment and then shook his head.

"I haven't had time to look for Zama yet, mom. You know, I've been busy with Nicole since I got back, so..."

"Zama is not to be taken lightly. She could even escape leave under the strict surveillance of the Don family, so it can be seen that the person behind her is of extraordinary strength. And now that Nicole's nowhere to be found. You better be careful."

Samuel frowned.

"Do you think Zama will hurt me?"

Samuel was not confident of the answer.

Although Zama was his biological mother, this woman was ruthless and merciless. She had been hidden deeply in the Green family for so many years. Now would she give up the plan she had been planning for many years for his sake?

Laurel let out a wry smile, unable to answer the question.

However vicious a tiger is, it would never eat its own cubs. But who knows whether Zama would not him?

"It pays to be careful."

"I see, Mother. Take care of yourself. I've asked Jason to send someone to protect you.'

Chapter 258: Impulse Is the Devil

"You know where's your mommy?"

"Of course, what else did I ask you to come here?"

Lucas was getting naughty.

When he saw Samuel trying his best to bear it, he stopped teasing Samuel. It was fine to make fun of him sometimes, but if he really angered Samuel, Lucas was still a little scared.

Although Samuel looked a bit awkward now, Lucas didn't dare laugh.

"Well, when mommy fell into the Back Sea, Finn got the news right away. Exactly, when Mummy was brought to the Brook Group by Allen, Finn knew about it."

Hearing that, Samuel looked gloomy.

"Manager Finn of Fallen Angel Club?"

"Yes, he's the manager of the branch of Night Elf Empire in America, and he put a tracker on mommy so he and the headquarter could see where she went."

Lucas's words reminded Samuel of something.

"The headquarter? Oh, I have forgotten that you are the heir of the Night Elf Empire, and of course you knew more than I did. So, you knew what had happened to your mommy, but you kept it from me for so long, and make me so anxious?"

Samuel's voice was cold and Lucas sensed danger.

Lucas started back nervously.

"Well, Samuel, impulse is the devil! Calm down, calm down!"

"How the hell could I calm down?!"

Samuel was really angry this time.

He was so worried about Nicole but his son, who had looked on coldly like a passer-by, told him that it was all in the hands of the Night Elf Empire.

He hadn't been so angry in years, especially that the smelly kid who hid it from him was his son!

Samuel now knew what it felt like to be teased by a young boy.

He raised his feet and kicked Lucas.

"Samuel, take it easy. Listen to me."

Lucas found that he was wrong.

How could he defeat Samuel?

Lucas turned around and ran.

"Stop! Brat!"

Samuel angrily ran after him.

Lucas was regretted now.

"Well, it's all over now, and neither your mommy nor I will blame you. Now tell me, where is your mommy?"

Samuel already knew that Nicole was rescued by Finn and returned with the freighter, but now he didn't know where Nicole was.

He was more or less worried.

Lucas was sad, but now that Samuel was so anxious, he looked up at him and said, "I have seen it clearly that you are really into mommy:

"Nonsense, that's my wife!"

Samuel felt that Lucas always challenged his bottom line.

"Wait, what do you mean by I'm really into your mommy? When did I not love your mother?"

Samuel suddenly questioned Lucas.

Lucas shook his head and said, "Five years ago, I didn't know what was going on between you and mommy. I heard everything from Mommy and Allen, and some of it was my own guess. I wonder, how could there is such a cruel man in this world? How could you abandon me and Zoe? And you even set fire to us?"

"It was a mistake. I never meant to hurt you."

Samuel just learned that although Lucas and Zoe were fine five years ago, it still had a big impact on them.

He was not in a hurry to find out Nicole. Anyway, Lucas was so calm now, so Nicole should be fine. Now it was more important to explain everything to Lucas.

Lucas nodded and said, "I don't know about that. To be honest, the last time when I came back, I just felt uncomfortable seeing mommy forgive you. How could a man like you, who had abandoned his wife and children, be forgiven so simply?"

"Brat! When did I abandon my wife and children? Don't talk nonsense. I truly care about you, Zoe and your mommy.

"But mommy didn't know you cared about her five years ago, did she?"

What Lucas said choked Samuel.

Yeah, if it hadn't been for the fire five years ago, he wouldn't have known how he felt for Nicole, but there was no need to tell Lucas about this.

When Samuel didn't deny it, Lucas continued, "So, I just wanted to see what you would do when you know mommy encounter difficulties. If you did nothing and really thought mommy would die, or you just came back so quietly, I would never recognize you as my daddy again, and you don't deserve my mother's love for you."

"Puppy, are you happy to see me go crazy for your mommy?"

The reason Lucas didn't tell him about Nicole's whereabouts turned out to be that. Samuel felt bitter.

Lucas nodded gravely and said, "Yeah, it seems that you are quite reliable. This is worthy of being my daddy."

"Thank you for the compliment." Samuel said seriously.

Lucas laughed and said, "You're welcome!"

"You want to be hit, don't you, boy?"

Chapter 260: You Like Much Alike My Husband

"To have a surgery tomorrow?"

The news came as a complete surprise to Samuel.

Although he knew Zoe's situation was not good, he didn't expect it to get that bad.

"Zoe couldn't withstand such a long walk,' Laurel signed, "I don't think Nicole would have let Zoe come back if not necessary. But now we can only do our best, right? The doctor said that it would be better to have the operation tomorrow. You are not in good health recently, so you need to have a rest. For Zoe's sake, and for your own, you'd better not go anywhere.'

It wasn't that Laurel was forcing Samuel to have a rest. She was just offering her own advice.

Samuel thought for a moment and said, "Mom, I see, but I have to go out tonight. I promise you, I'll be back in the morning, and I'll have a good rest for a day or two, and then I will accompany Zoe."

"Are you sure you'll be out tonight and back in the morning?"

Laurel didn't know what Samuel was going out for, but the situation was not good right now. They were all racing against the clock, and a lot of things didn't always go according to their plans.

Samuel fell silent.

He just wanted to see Nicole, to see if she was all right, and to make sure if she was there. If he didn't go to see her tonight, Samuel would feel uneasy and even lost.

But he was not sure whether he would meet other incidents and to come back tomorrow morning.

Whether he should go or not?

After Zoe's operation, she wouldn't be able to get out of bed for at least ten days.

Samuel didn't think he could live without seeing Nicole for ten days or a half.

He would not be relieved if he didn't see her being fine, even though he knew she was fine.

His heart that wanted to see Nicole seemed to have grown wings and was about to fly out.

Samuel mused for a while and said, "Mom, I'll try to get back."

Since Samuel say so, Laurel did not persuade him.

"Well, be careful."

"Thanks, mom."

Samuel turned around and was ready to leave, only to hear Lucas say, standing on the banister on the second floor, "You must come back tomorrow morning!"

Looking at his son's beautiful eyes, Samuel smiled and then turned away from the Green family.

Samuel left quietly. Few people noticed his, not even Jacob.

When he arrived at the base, Nicole wasn't there, and he went to Nicole's room, where there were signs that she had lived here.

The faint, distinctive aroma still seemed to float in the air.

Samuel went to the control room.

When they saw that Samuel was coming, they quickly got up, but Samuel stopped them.

"I want to see Nicole and Macon go inside the mountain."

Their training facilities were equipped with tracking systems that could be seen on the computer.

The people in the control room quickly switched the screen.
