Chapter 361 Armand Is Not a Bad Person

Samuel looked around but didn't see Zoe. So, he was getting a little anxious.

He asked a lady to go in the toilet and see if Zoe was there.

As the saying goes, money makes the mare go. The woman searched through the toilet carefully, but she did not see Zoe there. So, Samuel was panicked.

He lost his daughter!

There were so many people here. What if Zoe got kidnapped by a child trafficker?

Samuel was very anxious, but he didn't dare to tell Nicole now. He didn't want her get worried too. But he started to look for Zoe through his connections.

He had checked all the surveillance videos, but he didn't see Zoe in them.

There was no surveillance around the public toilet, so Samuel could not know when Zoe came out and where she went.

He was so anxious when Nicole called him.

"Babe, where are you? We'll go buy some food. You can bring Zoe over."

Nicole just got off the exciting roller coaster, and Lucas was crying out in delight beside her.

Hearing that they were so happy, Samuel said in a low voice, "OK, you guys go buy it. Zoe and I will be there later."

"Alright, hurry up. We're waiting for you!"

Nicole did not find anything wrong and hung up the phone.

Samuel was so racked with guilt and anxiety.

Zoe was his princess and his precious daughter. How did she disappear in the blink of an eye?

Samuel asked around, and the old man who sold ice cream said to him, "Are you looking for a beautiful little girl? She wears a white princess dress and has a very nice hairpin on her hair. I remember she talks sweetly to me. Is she about this tall?"

Samuel nodded.

"Yes, sir. Do you know where my daughter went?"

"She went there with a little boy. You could go down this road and see a bamboo grove. There are some giant pandas inside. Only a few people go there. So, maybe the two children went there."

Hearing that, Samuel did not dare to waste any time and ran over.

After walking for over a hundred meters, Samuel heard someone playing the flute. And he could tell that the person was quite good at it.

But Samuel was not in the mood to appreciate it. He followed the sound and saw Zoe sitting in a pavilion with a little boy in the bamboo grove.

The boy was playing the flute. Zoe held her chin with both hands and listened to it with admiration, which made Samuel very uncomfortable.

Zoe only used to look at him like that. Why did she look up to a strange boy now?

"Zoe!"

Samuel quickly walked over.

The boy stopped playing the flute and saw Samuel walking over. Before he could say anything, he saw Samuel picking up Zoe and complaining, "Why didn't you tell me before coming here? I was almost scared to death. I thought you were kidnapped by a child trafficker. Mommy and Lucas will be sad if you were taken away by a stranger."

Nicole pulled out a tissue and was about to wipe Zoe's mouth. But Lucas helped Zoe ahead of her.

Nicole was gratified by her son's meticulous care for her daughter.

Samuel's dissatisfaction also dissipated slowly.

"What did you guys do just now?"

Nicole didn't see Samuel and Zoe for a while, so she couldn't help but ask.

Before Samuel could say anything, Zoe began to complain.

"Mommy, Daddy is a bad person!"

Hearing Zoe's words, Samuel was bitterly disappointed.

"Zoe, how can you be so unreasonable?"

"I am telling the truth."

Zoe continued with great confidence, "Mommy, I met a boy named Armand. He bought me delicious food and played the flute for me. But after Daddy came to us, he said that Armand did something wrong and even criticized him."

"Who is Armand? What has happened?"

Hearing this, Nicole was confused, while Lucas' face darkened.

Pulling a long face, Samuel told them what happened just now.

Nicole broke out in a cold sweat after hearing it.

"You don't know that boy, but you followed him just because of an ice cream? Zoe, have you forgotten what you should do when meeting strangers?"

Nicole was instantly enraged.

Her daughter's stupidity indeed astounded her.

Zoe could run away with a stranger because the latter offered her an ice cream. What was worse, she even blamed Samuel for scolding that boy. How could she be so brainless?

Lucas' face also fell, but he didn't say anything.

Realizing that Nicole was angry with her, Zoe shrunk her neck and said, "But Armand doesn't look like a bad person."

"How do you know that? You can't tell good people from bad ones just by their appearances."

"I just can!"

Zoe retorted stubbornly, angering Nicole so much that she even wished to use something to break her daughter's head and see what was inside.

Seeing Nicole's angry face, Lucas whispered, "Mommy, she was just fooled by that boy and became less judgmental. Please be more patient with her. This is the first time for Zoe to come outside. It is inevitable for her to feel that everyone is a good person."

Chapter 363 We Have No Chance Left

Mrs. Don was rendered speechless by Nicole's words.

For so many years, Nicole had no idea about her true identity at all. She had just found out that she was a member of the Don family, and it was indeed true that she didn't give Nicole much care.

For a moment, Mrs. Don's attitude softened.

"Nicole, I know that you've suffered a lot all these years."

"I didn't suffer much. Instead, I even feel that my life in the Bush family is good. At least, my parents won't scold me because of an outsider's slander. They will hear my side of the story first. Mrs. Don, I won't stop you from liking anyone or recognizing an outsider as your granddaughter. I am almost thirty years old. When I need care most, my parents are always by my side. As for the Don family, I am just dispensable. Mrs. Don, not everyone thinks of the Don family as a good home. I'm doing well on my own now."

After saying that, Nicole turned around.

Samuel had already got off the car. Having seen what had happened just now, he put on a grim look.

"Mrs. Don, why did you come here and stop my car?"

"Don't ask her. I have no interest in this."

Nicole was telling the truth.

Even though she used to feel a kinship with the Dons, she was utterly disappointed in them now.

Samuel knew Nicole's distress, and he could not allow his beloved woman to be bullied like this.

"Since she has already come, I have to ask her which rule of the Don family you have violated. Is it worth letting Mrs. Don personally come here to scold you?"

Samuel's expression was so cold now that even Mrs. Don felt a little afraid.

Jason wanted to defuse the tension, but he heard Samuel say, "If you want to speak up for your mother, you'd better keep silent. I'm afraid that we won't even be friends after this."

Jason had no choice but to shut up.

Mrs. Don had always known that Samuel was a cruel man. Seeing his aggressive look, she couldn't help but be enraged.

"How dare you talk to me like this?"

"Then how should I speak to you? If you are Nicole's grandmother, I will show you some respect since you are an elder. However, as far as I know, Nicole hasn't entered the Don family's ancestral hall or the entrance of your house after she returned for so long. In that case, I can't see you as her grandmother and treat you with respect. You stopped us at my villa's gate and almost hit my car. How can I be friendly to you?"

Samuel said so straightforwardly that Mrs. Don became a little embarrassed.

Please have managed to stop the tears from falling down need to be the sake of Mrs. Don and her mother-in-law, and now the two elders' attitudes towards the words of an outsider than her own the more disappointed she would be. "I'll urge them to go through the formalities as quickly as possible. Have you decided which country you want to go to?"

Samuel knew that Mrs. Don had disappointed her today. That was why she wanted to leave France.

Nicole shook her head and said, "Everywhere is fine. I just don't want to be here anymore."

"Silly girl."

Samuel felt so sorry for her. Putting his arm around her waist, he whispered, "If I told you that I did all this, would you blame me?"

"What?"

Nicole looked at Samuel in surprise.

Samuel said embarrassedly, "I know that Viola always bullies you, and you don't want to be against her. But if you continue putting up with her, she will be more unscrupulous. So I asked Jacob to find some hooligans to kidnap her. After starving her for a whole day, I ordered them to throw her into the sea. I don't give a crap if she lives or dies. I didn't plan to inform you of this matter, but it's out of my expectation that Viola would frame you. I'm really sorry."

After hearing Samuel's explanation, Nicole wanted to laugh.

"It surprises me that you broke the law for Viola. If she finds any evidence, you, as the rightful heir of the Green family, will be sentenced to death. How could you come up with such an idea?"

"I just want to avenge you. Since she is Minister Shaw's daughter, you are always tolerant of her. However, did she ever show any kindness to you?"

Samuel felt sorry for Nicole.

She cared about her family and even endured grievances for the sake of them. However, no one really cared about her.

His heart ached for his beloved woman.

Nicole suddenly felt warm inside. The feeling of being cared for made her reluctant to leave him.

"Don't do this kind of thing again. Someone like Viola will be punished by God sooner or later."

"God is too busy to care much about worldly affairs. As long as she doesn't come looking for trouble with you, I will turn a blind eye to her behaviors. But if she insists on troubling you, I won't let her off. After all, you're the apple of my eye."

Samuel's words made Nicole even more emotional.

"Is that so? Am I the apple of your eye?"

"Of course."

Nicole quickly turned around to face Samuel. Looking at the handsome man in front of her, she put her arms around his neck and said, "Then sleep with me tonight."

She still remembered Samuel's physiological reaction before they left the house in the morning. It seemed that her mother's Chinese medicine had worked.

Her words frightened Samuel.

"Honey, can you stop messing with me?"

He was afraid that he would indeed become impotent if Nicole continued this.

He was a man with normal sexual desire. However, he could only restrain himself even if she used every means to sleep with him. He was nearly on the verge of breaking down!

However, Nicole did not know all this. She said in a soft voice, "Let's try it. My mother said that the prescription is very useful. You also had a reaction this morning. Let's have a try, shall we?"

Samuel even wanted to escape now.

Chapter 365 The Only One in a Lifetime

"Happy birthday, Mommy!"

Lucas and Zoe came out together, attired in white suit and white dress respectively.

Holding flowers in their hands, they looked at Nicole smilingly in the living room that was decorated like a paradise.

Only then did Nicole realize that today was her birthday.

Samuel came out of another room and he wore a black tuxedo. He looked at Nicole with a smile and said, "Happy birthday, honey!"

Tears welled up in Nicole's eyes.

"Thank you, thank you!"

She never thought that her birthday would be taken so seriously.

In the past, only her parents remembered to cook a bowl of birthday noodles for her to eat in the morning of her birthday. If she liked, they would throw a birthday party for her. However, as she grew older, she started to shun parties.

Ever since she married Samuel, she had never celebrated her birthday properly, because he could not remember her birthday at all.

Over time, she had forgotten to celebrate her birthday.

Now that her birthday was taken seriously, she had a complicated feeling.

Samuel slowly walked upstairs and took her hand, saying softly, "I didn't do well in the past, and I failed to remember your birthday, so you've suffered from my negligence these years. From now on, I will celebrate your birthday every year. Even if we are old, I will get up in the morning and make you a bowl of birthday noodles and say Happy Birthday to you, okay?"

"Okay!"

Nicole was not a cry baby, but now she felt like crying.

The sudden happiness took her off guard.

Actually, women wanted nothing but the care of their beloved ones, one word from whom could thrill her to bits.

Noticing that Nicole was tearful, Lucas and Zoe hurried over and said, "Mommy, we will celebrate your birthday together!"

"Good, good!"

Looking at the children, Nicole felt on top of the world.

"Let's go. We'll eat the birthday noodles first. I've planned a lot of activities for you today."

Nicole couldn't help getting curious.

They went to the dining room, where Mr. and Mrs. Bush were waiting. They said, "Happy birthday, Sweetie!"

"Thank you, Mom and Dad!"

Nicole felt she was the happiest person in the world.

After the family had their breakfast happily, Samuel was about to take Nicole and the children out.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush stayed behind as they wanted to give them some time alone.

Not knowing where Samuel was taking her, Nicole was expectant.

Nicole and Samuel had been running for a long time until they saw that no one was chasing after them.

Samuel burst into uncontrollable laughter at the sight of Nicole's guilty face.

Ignoring the gazes upon them, they laughed brightly and freely.

Nicole felt she had never been so free and willful, like a bird that broke out of the cage.

However, she felt good.

"Mom will think you lead me astray, won't she?"

Nicole asked with a smile.

Samuel wrapped her shoulders with his arm and said, "Follow the man you marry. Don't you know what kind of person I am? You should have gotten used to my way long time ago."

"Nonsense!"

Nicole gave him a stare and asked with a smile, "Where are we going next?"

"To the seaside!"

They hailed a taxi and went straight to the seaside.

They chased after each other like children, romping around the beach. Samuel pounced on Nicole and they fell to the sands. They started to hug and kiss each other passionately.

The sunshine was bright, and the sea water was warm. Their intensified passion drew the envious attention of the people around.

It was almost noon, and Nicole got hungry.

Samuel took her to a nearby seafood diner and had a simple meal. Although the dishes were ordinary, it was the best birthday meal Nicole had ever had.

"Do you think they will worry about us now that we've run away like this?"

"We are not children. Besides, I am with you. What are you afraid of?"

After lunch, Samuel took Nicole out to sea.

The sea wind caressed Nicole's face. Looking at the boundless sea, she suddenly felt that happiness was so simple.

Letting the yacht float on the sea, Samuel lay on the deck with Nicole and basked in the sun.

"When we grow old, I go fishing on the deck, and you read books next to me. What a pleasure it would be."

"Why do you want me to read? Can't I go fishing?"

Nicole felt the future that Samuel imagined was wonderful.

Samuel said with a smile, "Shouldn't girls be artistic? Reading books suits you well. How about drawing?"

Shen Mange did not refute, and she got interested when he mentioned drawing.

"Do you have any paintbrushes on board?"

"Yes!"

Samuel knew what she liked, and he had prepared everything for her.

Noticing that he was well prepared, Nicole shook her head and said, "Did you arranged this long time ago?"

"Come on in!"

Nicole said indifferently.

This was the first time she let in a Don.

Audrey was obviously flattered.

Samuel didn't stop Nicole. Instead, he opened the gate and let Audrey in.

Nicole's parents might stay at the Green's with the children last night, and they had not come back yet. Olivia and Jacob went out as well, so they were alone in the big house.

"Are you hungry? Would you like me to make you a bowl of noodles?"

Nicole asked in a low voice.

"I'll do that."

Knowing that Audrey definitely had a lot to say to Nicole, Samuel took off his jacket and went to the kitchen.

Noticing that Samuel treated Nicole very well, Audrey whispered, "It's a blessing to be able to find such a husband."

"Yes, he treats me very well. I am contented."

Nicole's eyes glinted with affection at the mention of Samuel.

"I watched the live broadcast yesterday. I feel gratified that he proposed to you in front of everyone in the Seapolis City, and the Green family gave you great support."

From her words, Nicole knew that she had become a celebrity in the Seapolis City yesterday.

"Samuel caught me off guard. I was unprepared."

"He likes you. I'm relieved that such a man loves you so much."

Audrey took out a key from her pocket and handed it to Nicole.

"I don't have anything to give you. This is the key to the studio I usually stay. I know you like drawing, so I give it to you."

"Thank you."

Nicole took it.

Although they were mother and daughter, they hadn't been together for many years, so the affection between them lessened.

Now that they were able to sit together and talk peacefully, Nicole felt it was good.

"The Don family..."

"Let's not talk about them."

Audrey interrupted Shen Mange directly, who let out a sigh of relief.

She was afraid that Audrey would come to lobby for the Don family. In that case, she might not be able to maintain such a good mood.

"Thank you."

"Nicole, I didn't stay with you and guard you, nor did I watch you grow up. This is the biggest regret in my life. However, it was my own fault, and I can't blame anyone else. I don't blame you for not forgiving me or not calling me Mom. I don't force you to go back to the Don's. I heard that Samuel helped you get your ID card and you are applying for a passport. You can go wherever you want. Life is short, so lead a good life and don't care about what others say. Understand?"

Chapter 368 Audrey Committed Suicide

Nicole was a little worried, but she knew that if she stayed, Audrey might not be able to say much.

Somehow she felt that something was wrong with Audrey today. Perhaps she had a difficult time with the Don family?

Perhaps her life had been too tough?

Nicole didn't know, but she couldn't ask.

She didn't want to ask about the Don family. She was afraid to hear that Mrs. Don adored Viola.

Nicole was sensitive about this kind of thing.

Therefore when Audrey asked her to leave, she left.

After she got in the car, she said to Samuel, "Do you think Minister Shaw is a little strange today?"

"No. What's the matter?"

Samuel was bewildered for he didn't know Audrey well enough.

"Nothing. Maybe I think too much. I feel she is down in the dumps today."

"Perhaps she thinks of your father."

Nicole nodded.

She felt sad at the way Audrey looked at Xander's photo.

"The greatest sadness in life is that your beloved one is dead. You love him, but he's gone. How are you going to pull through the next few decades?"

Nicole sighed.

She suddenly grabbed Samuel by the collar and said, "You have to promise that you will die after me. I don't want to live alone on the memories of you."

"What nonsense! We will grow old together. I promise you that I will not die before you."

"Remember your promise."

Nicole felt that their conversation might bring them bad luck, but she said it anyway. She had an uneasy feeling, but she didn't know what was wrong.

"Okay!"

Samuel didn't mind her nonsense and drove back.

Lucas and Zoe were staying at the Green's for two days, making the excuse of giving the private space to Samuel and Nicole. In fact, the old lady missed the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush had worked hard these years, so they went back home.

Olivia and Jacob were busy with something these days, going out early and coming home late, as if they had got over Tim. Although Tim did not apologize, Jacob did not seem to get in touch with the Louis family.

Everything seemed peaceful until Jason called, which completely disrupted Nicole's life.

Nicole insisted on staying behind to accompany Audrey. Unable to dissuade her, Samuel had to keep her company, feeling distressed for her.

She was not in good health, and she got too anxious about Audrey.

Samuel was worried that Nicole would collapse.

Mrs. Don came in without saying anything. She hired a care giver to look after Viola, and then she went home.

Jason had been waiting outside. When he saw Samuel come out, he whispered, "Let's talk."

"There's nothing to talk about. If it's about Mrs. Don, I think it's up to Nicole."

Samuel said indifferently, obviously reluctant to talk about this.

Knowing his mother had gone too far, Jason sighed and said, "My mother is old, and she is getting senile."

"Do you know why Minister Shaw committed suicide and tried to kill Viola?"

Samuel thought Audrey had gone to extreme this time.

Jason shook his head and said, "Perhaps it's because my mother adored Viola too much. Audrey has been thinking she owes Nicole, who could not go back to our family on Viola's account. This is a torture to Audrey. She was desperate to get Nicole back to the Don family and be Xander's daughter officially, but it was delayed because of my mother's foolishness. When Viola was kidnapped and thrown into the sea, she insisted that Nicole was behind the scheme, and my mother believed her. She started to speak ill of Nicole in front of Audrey. In the beginning, Audrey would argue with my mother. Later, the old lady was unreasonable and Audrey fell silent."

"It was Nicole's birthday, and Audrey said she was celebrating with Nicole. She only told me about that. I thought that she was in a bad mood, and she might feel better talking to Nicole, but I didn't expect she would do such a foolish thing after she came back."

As he spoke, Jason blamed himself.

If only he could have sensed something was wrong with Audrey.

As he listened, Samuel knew the root cause of the problem.

Audrey was the old lady's daughter-in-law, and she had been taking care of her on behalf of Xander. However, her other daughter tended to alienate the old lady from Nicole, so Audrey felt guilty with Xander and the Don family.

Perhaps there were quarrels between Audrey and Viola, which was unknown to outsiders, and Viola wouldn't listen to her. Therefore Audrey made a reckless move, killing herself and Viola to leave peace to Nicole.

Undoubtedly, Audrey loved Nicole, in a way that no one could understand.

It was a pity that none of them had noticed this.

Nicole stayed by Audrey's side. Looking at her quiet face, she couldn't understand why Audrey had chosen to die.

Jason decided to go back and check on the old lady. Samuel noticed that Nicole didn't eat or drink anything, so he went out to buy her some

Chapter 370 Get Lost with Viola

It was a sleepless night for Samuel, who managed to shield the ward from the turmoil outside. Audrey remained unconscious in bed, and Nicole was safe and sound.

When the sun shone in the next morning, Nicole woke up.

When she saw the coat on her, and she knew that it was Samuel's. She was bewildered. Why did she fall asleep?

Nicole knew that she couldn't sleep at all, but she drifted off. She got suspicious, but she didn't have time to figure out.

She came out of the inner room and saw Samuel clean Audrey's face.

He took good care of her as if she was his mother, which moved Nicole.

"I'll do it."

Nicole hastily took over.

This was not something a man should do!

However, Samuel said indifferently, "Go wash up first. If someone comes, I'm afraid you don't have time to wash up."

Nicole knew well who he was talking about, and she was going to ignore that person. However, they were in the hospital, and Audrey was unconscious, she thought she'd better not get into trouble.

Nicole went to the bathroom and washed herself up. When she came out, Mrs. Don had arrived.

When she saw Nicole, she had an angry look on her face, but she didn't fly into a fit this time.

That took Nicole by surprise.

"I heard that you kicked Viola out of the ward last night. Is that true?"

Stifling hard her emotions, Mrs. Don asked Nicole.

"Yes," Nicole said indifferently.

"Don't you know that she is a patient? Why can't you have a good talk?"

Mrs. Don told herself not to get angry. The person in front of her was her own granddaughter, and she couldn't get angry with her anymore.

However, her tone was harsh somehow.

Nicole turned grim again.

"Mrs. Don, if you think I treat her badly, please watch over her. Don't ever let her come to me for humiliation. Isn't that the best way?"

Mrs. Don turned gloomy.

"Grandma, it's all my fault. Don't blame my sister. I just want to see my mother. Even she doesn't care about my life, I can't leave her alone after all, can I?"

Viola came in without being noticed. When she heard Nicole, she put on her pitiful mask.

Mrs. Don's heart ached at the sight of Viola's delicate and pitiful face.
