

Escape Wife 381

Chapter 381 It Felt Good to Be Spoiled

"Viola, did you hear wrongly? Why would Nicole attack Audrey? This is absolutely impossible."

Mike's words angered Viola.

She pushed Mike away and said fiercely, "Are you suspecting me? Do you think I'm slandering her? Would I joke about such a big thing? My mom's missing! Nobody knows where she is, and she is so weak. Why are you defending Nicole? You mean she couldn't do it, but I could?"

Viola said that crying, and Mike was at a loss for what to do.

"Alright, alright. My bad. I was wrong. Don't be angry. Please stop crying. If you want, we can look for Audrey together."

"You said you would help me, right?"

Viola gripped Mike's wrist, her eyes filled with anticipation.

Mike decided to do his best when he saw the way his beloved woman looked at him.

"Yes, I will help you. I will drop everything else right now and help you. Ask me anything."

"Alright then. Help me find out where my mother is. No matter what, I have to find her."

"Okay, I am on it. You get up first. Let's go back to the hotel. You can't stay here, I'm worried."

Mike looked at the crowded road and was a little apprehensive.

He thought that Viola was fragile, and that although she was somewhat willful and domineering, she had suffered a lot since she arrived in the Seapolis City. Of course, Viola made it up for Mike to hear.

He never thought Viola would lie to him.

Viola did not say anything and followed Mike to the hotel.

Mike walked Viola to her room and went to find where Audrey was. Viola racked her brain about how to pretend to meet Mrs. Don by chance.

No matter what, she needed Mrs. Don's help in the city. If Mrs. Don ignored her, whom could she rely on?

Viola couldn't come up with a good idea but thought of the things in her hand. She quickly left the hotel and went somewhere else.

After Nicole and Samuel finished their meal at the Green's old mansion, they enjoyed some family time. Samuel waited for Nicole to wake up and brought her the travel brochure, saying with a smile, "Take a look. Where are we going first?"

"Have the visas been issued?"

"Soon. It will only be a matter of days."

Hearing that, Nicole cheered up.

It would be a good thing to leave town and travel.

"Have you asked where the children want to go?"

"Not yet. I figured I should ask you first."

Samuel hugged Nicole in his arms.

Nicole smiled and said, "It's up to the children. Anywhere is fine with me. As long as I'm with you, it's paradise everywhere."

"Who is the sweet-talker here? Let me see. Did you eat candy? Why are you so sweet?"

As Samuel spoke, he wanted to check Nicole's mouth.

Nicole smiled and dodged.

Nude photos of her were all over the Internet. Whoever released these must have hated her, because her face in every photo was not covered by mosaic. Most importantly, the men in them were different.

"Nicole from the Greens is ungraceful. Her photos are hard to look at."

This title made Nicole panic.

How could this be?

Who would have her nude photos?

Nicole couldn't put her finger on it and was on edge.

This meant she was naked in front of the whole country.

No matter how courageous she was, she could not bear this.

Did Samuel know?

He was having a video conference. What would those executives think if they saw the photos?

They just had had a sweet moment, but now it was like a dagger deep into Nicole's heart.

She quickly pushed the computer away and ran to the study in panic.

Samuel's video conference was over, and he was currently on the phone with Blair. They were having a good time, so Samuel did not notice Nicole.

"Blair, the medicine you prescribed for me had better be useful. Otherwise, if I can't get hard for real, I'll kill you."

Samuel said half-threateningly.

Blair smiled and said, "You can't get hard? Stop joking. That medicine can only last for a month at most. You will feel weak this month, but you can get better after that. However, you can't always hide from your wife like this. Are you planning on wasting this yummy beauty?"

"Screw you. It's none of your business."

Nicole's heart skipped a beat.

What did he mean?

Samuel wasn't sick at all?

He was avoiding touching her on purpose?

Moreover, he was this way because of Blair's medicine?

Why?

Why would he do that?

Nicole clenched her hands together, feeling as if she had been thrown into an ice cellar.

She couldn't figure it out.

Why would a healthy man wanted to be sexually incompetent? Was he tired of her? Or was there something else to it?

She wanted to leave, but her feet seemed to have taken root, and she could not move at all.

Blair did not know about Samuel's situation, saying with a smile, "Fine. I don't want to worry. However, the news of you and the Louis guy fighting on the streets has spread to Capital City! What? Do you have a grudge against the Louis family? As you know, although they are businessmen, they had political connections in Capital City. If you guys are falling out, you will meet with difficulties dealing matters in Capital City. You should take care of this."

Speaking of Tim, Samuel was irritated.

Who resented her so much and framed her?

Nicole couldn't figure it out. And it wasn't the right time to think about it.

She looked at Tim and said coldly, "Do you still view me as your friend? Or do you despise me as well?"

"No. I believe those are not your nude photos. I believe you. You're not that kind of person."

Tim looked at Nicole and suddenly felt distressed.

This was the first time he had seen Nicole being helpless. No matter what happened to her, Nicole used to be positive. He finally realized that Nicole was a woman. In the face of such things, she was upset.

He wanted to hug Nicole and comfort her, but he didn't dare to do so. He was not qualified to do that. If he did it today, perhaps Nicole would never forgive him.

Tim looked at Nicole with great care.

Nicole thought for a moment and said, "Can you help me? I need a hide for a few days. Don't let anyone else knows where I am."

"What about Samuel?"

"Especially don't let him know. I don't want to see him recently."

Hearing Nicole's words, Tim tried to say something. But he controlled himself when seeing Nicole's expression.

For now, he was still in Nicole's confidence. As she asked help from him, it was obvious that she had run out of road.

Tim felt miserable. He nodded and said, "I have an advice. But the place is in a dodgy area. There are all sorts of people in the area. Generally, others wouldn't expect you to be there."

"I see."

She no longer had an alternative in the matter.

What Nicole wanted was to hide from Samuel.

The last person she wanted to see right now was Samuel.

Tim hurriedly nodded and said, "Shall we go now or later?"

"Let's go now."

Nicole couldn't wait any longer.

She couldn't go back to the Green's, as there were probably a lot of journalists around.

Thinking of Laurel, who cared for her, Nicole was ashamed of disgracing her. She had to leave the Greens to prevent them from being disgraced because of her.

On Nicole's birthday, Samuel had proposed to her. Everyone in the Seapolis City knew it. And Laurel was responsible for their wedding. Nicole used to feel so happy, but now she felt so embarrassed.

Nicole stood up from the floor. She looked at Tim and asked, "Do you have a printer?"

"Yes!"

"I need it."

Tim was afraid that Nicole would hurt herself, so he did everything as she required.

Chapter 384 Nicole's Location

"What did you say?"

Samuel thought he had misheard.

Nicole cared for their children so much that she was able to sacrifice herself. How could she abandon them?

Did she issue a divorce agreement?

How could she do it?

How did she dare to do it?

Samuel was so angry that he got chest pains. He kept calling Nicole, but he failed to reach her. It seemed like she was deliberately avoiding him.

Why did she avoid him?

He was her husband. Shouldn't they bear the difficulty together?

When it happened, did she think she could disassociate herself from the Greens by issuing such a divorce agreement?

Moreover, the journalists didn't dare to go too far when she was a Green. If she divorced him, she would be in danger.

Did she know it?

Samuel was so anxious. But he couldn't get in touch with Nicole.

He put down his phone angrily. After some pondering, he picked it up again and called Jacob.

"Did Olivia see Nicole today?"

"No. We're looking for Mrs. Green as well. Olivia is anxious. We've searched everywhere possible, but we don't see her."

There came Olivia's cries through the phone. Obviously, Olivia failed to reach Nicole.

Olivia didn't know Nicole's location. Then, where was Nicole?

Samuel tried his best to figure out where she was, but he failed.

Nicole kept being trending online.

Even though the Greens had strived to stop the coverage of the incident and delete the photos, Nicole remained a hot topic. It was obvious that there were people stirring up trouble behind the event.

Who?

Who would frame Nicole?

All of a sudden, Tim occurred to Samuel.

Did he frame Nicole?

Although Tim cherished Nicole's reputation and wouldn't do such a thing, he probably would be exploited again. Last time, Nicole had suffered a lot because of his phone being used.

Thinking of it, Samuel drove to Tim's company.

However, Tim was not in the company.

Chapter 385 Now it's Your Turn

Lucas was the first to get the news of Nicole's accident.

Lucas started to realize something went wrong when his grandma, Mrs. Green, called the three of them together and talked about playing the parent-child game after Samuel left the house in a hurry.

Mrs. Green usually liked to play with them, but it was rare to see her serious like that.

Lucas was a thoughtful child. After playing with Mrs. Green for a while, he noticed that she was absent-minded. So, he took out his phone to surf the Internet when he was going to the bathroom.

Although those dirty photos were deleted by the Greens, the scandal spread everywhere. Lucas' eyes turned red.

'Who exactly slanders Mommy?'

'Where is mommy now?'

He finally realized he has not seen Mommy for a while.

Thinking of the way Samuel left in a hurry, Lucas knew something must have happened to Nicole.

Lucas' hands trembled slightly.

He walked out of the bathroom, went straight to Mrs. Green and asked, "Nanny, where's my mommy?"

Mrs. Green was stunned for a moment by what he asked, but she smiled and said, "Your Daddy and Mommy are out on business. They will be back later."

"Did Mommy leave home alone? Daddy is looking for Mommy, isn't he?"

Mrs. Green did not know how to answer his question.

Zoe blinked and asked blankly, "Daddy and Mommy didn't go out together? Lucas, what's wrong with you?"

Lucas felt hard to continue. Anyway, he couldn't let Zoe know about these things.

"Nothing, I'm just asking."

However, Mrs. Green knew about her grandson, and it was definitely not that simple. When she saw the phone in Lucas' hand, she immediately understood everything.

"Lucas, play with your brother and sister home for a while. It's not safe outside recently. Don't let them go out. You're a smart child, and you know what to do."

Lucas nodded.

He put down his phone, a little distressed. And he wasn't having too much fun.

Zoe was childish. She would be happy, as long as she had someone to play with.

Mrs. Green told all the servants to stop using the Internet. Even the TV at home was not allowed to be turned on.

"What's wrong?"

Mike was confusing. Was it because the cigarette? Because it was given by Viola? Why did Samuel react like this?

Did he faint from anger?

How weird!

"Hey, Sam!"

Mike stood up and wanted to pull Samuel up. But before he squatted down, he became dizzy.

"Oh man!"

Now even Mike knew they've fallen into the trap.

Was he the cat's paw to Viola?

When he thought of this, Mike felt extremely sad.

Nothing was more irritating than being the cat's paw of someone you loved. What's worse, Mike implicated his friend.

But it was too late now.

Mike turned blind and he fainted, knowing nothing about what would happen.

Viola walked up from behind. When she saw the scene, she smiled and kicked Mike lightly. After confirming that he had no reaction, she waved backwards.

Immediately, two men walked over. They obeyed Viola's orders and took Samuel away.

As for Mike, Viola was somewhat kind to him. She had someone support him to the hotel for rest.

Samuel did not know how long he had fainted. When he opened his eyes, he found himself completely naked and lying beside Viola.

"Are you awake?"

Viola was shy and timid.

Samuel felt a surge of anger.

"Damn woman!"

He grabbed Viola at the neck.

He knew that this woman meant him badly from the beginning, but for Mike's sake, he has tolerated her several times. He didn't expect that she plotted against him.

When he thought of himself lying with her, Samuel felt extremely disgusted.

Viola did not expect that Samuel would kill her the moment he opened her eyes. She screamed out of fear immediately.

Samuel seemed to keep his composure. But in fact, he was very irritated. Nicole was still nowhere to be found, and she had a bad reputation in the city. To make things worse, Viola spread such a rumor. To be honest, Samuel was concerned Nicole would mistake him when she saw the news.

But he could not allow Viola to get the upper hand and control his fate. He wasn't wired that way.

He wouldn't let her get away with it. He must teach her some lessons.

"You'll know what I'm going to do very soon!"

Samuel stood up and left.

Not getting what she wanted, Viola was so angry that her entire body trembled.

Nothing happened between her and Samuel. They just lay on the bed. Samuel was unable to do anything when he was unconscious.

She wanted to take advantage of the opportunity and ask Samuel to marry her. Even if he refused to do so, they would still have an affair.

But what did she get?

Her reputation was worse than Nicole's!

She was photographed and the paparazzi even threaten her to make these photos public. It should have been Nicole whose reputation was ruined, shouldn't it?

Why would it be her?

Viola was crying, while smashing things around her. But it wasn't enough to vent her anger.

When she was exhausted, she sat on the floor and stared blankly at the ceiling.

No!

She had to do something!

She had to turn the tables. She had to ask for help. She couldn't be controlled by Samuel!

But who could save her?

Viola called Mrs. Don without hesitation.

Mrs. Don was surprised to get Viola's call.

"Viola?"

She thought she heard it wrong.

Viola burst into tears, hearing her voice.

Seeing Viola fainting, Mrs. Don was very frightened. She hurriedly got her dressed and asked her helpers to drive Viola to the hospital.

The doctor examined her, saying her private part was hurt and she needed to rest. She fainted because she was overwhelmed by sadness.

Distressed, Mrs. Don stayed in the hospital and took good care of Viola.

Coming out of the hotel, Samuel went straight to Mike and beat him up.

Knowing that he was used, Mike didn't fight back. He endured it.

Samuel stopped when he was tired of beating him. He said, "Go back to the United States. You have nothing to do here."

He was driving Mike away!

Mike was surprised and sad.

They had been close for so many years. Why did they drift apart? He didn't want that.

"Sam, it was my fault. I was taken advantage by them. But you have to believe me. I didn't mean to harm you. You know it. We've been friends for so long. You know me, don't you?"

"I asked you to leave because we are friends. If it were someone else, I would beat him to death. You knew what Viola would do to me, didn't you? Tell you what. She stripped me naked, lay on the same bed with me, and told reporters to spread the rumors in the city. Nicole had a hard time and is nowhere to be found. If she sees the news, how can I explain it to her? Will she believe me? If it hadn't been for you, Viola wouldn't have been alive until these days. You asked me to spare her and I've made too many compromises for you. But you are blindfolded and you are deceived by her."

What Samuel said stunned Mike.

He had a premonition, but he refused to believe it.

How could it be?

Viola was nice. How could she do such a vicious thing?

Was she really a nice person?

She knew his feelings, but she used him to deceive and frame Samuel. Was he so naive that he failed to figure out what kind of person Viola truly was? Or was Viola too good at hiding her true self?

"Is there anything else that I don't know?"

"See for yourself!"

Samuel tossed a USB drive to Mike.

He was furious, but he didn't want Mike to be deceived anymore. Otherwise, there could be much serious consequences.

Mike's hands were shaking. He was reluctant to see the files in it. But he was a man. He had to be tough and face the reality.

He took the USB and plugged it in his phone. He saw Viola went into the hospital and how she attacked Audrey. Mike's face darkened.

"She told me that Nicole tried to murder Audrey. How could she lie to me?"

"Nicole tried to murder Audrey? What else did she say about Nicole? I don't know why you like her. Viola is such a despicable woman. Mike, I asked you to leave because you put me in an awkward position. Plus, I don't want you to be hoaxed by her. Don't interfere in my affairs with her. If you do it again, don't blame me for cutting ties with you."

Nicole waved her hand and said, "I can do it. Don't worry. I won't collapse until I find the person who harmed me. No matter who it is, I want to know what that person wants to do."

Seeing that Nicole insisted, Tim felt worried. But he could only say, "Take care. Just tell me if you need my help. I'll handle it."

"OK."

Nicole answered crisply.

After Tim left, she got more dazed.

The shadow of Samuel kept flashing in her mind.

He and Viola...

It was so ironic.

At first, Nicole did not intend to read it because it was just some hyped affairs. Just as Tim had said, it might be a misunderstanding or a scheme. However, she couldn't help herself and read the entire report.

Samuel said it was no big deal fooling with a woman.

The words broke her heart again.

It could not be true.

But if he didn't say it, would the reporters dare to write that?

Was he admitting that he had slept with Viola?

Nicole felt her headache got worse.

Now that she was in disrepute, with what right and position could she blame Samuel?

Actually, he had been nice to her, hadn't he?

He had protected her and done everything he could do. What else could she ask? And now he was just playing with a woman.

Thinking of this, Nicole lay on the bed, covering her chest with her hands. She felt severe pain all over her body.

When Tim returned, Nicole was nearly unconscious. She was woken up by him and took some medicine in a daze. After a while, she fell asleep.

In her sleep, she saw that Samuel left with a woman. No matter how she called his name, he did not turn around to look at her.

She lost her shoes during the chase, but she still lost him at last.

She cried out and kept saying that she was wronged, begging Samuel to stay. However, he could only see the woman beside him.

When the woman turned around, Nicole found that it was Viola.

She sneered at Nicole and said, "Nicole, I said I would take everything you have. Now it's just Samuel, and there's the Don family and old Mrs. Green. And your children; they'll call me mother. I'll vent my anger on them. What can you do to me?"

"No! No!"

Nicole suddenly sat up. She was sweaty.

"Thank god! You finally wake up. You nearly freaked me out!"

Chapter 390 Why Do I Feel That You're Not My Mother

Nicole suddenly stood up.

This news was a huge blow to her.

Tim foresaw that she might not be calm, but he didn't expect her emotions to change so much.

"Take it easy. Sit down and listen to me."

"What exactly is going on?"

Nicole asked directly.

Tim sighed and said, "It might not be a rumor. It's disgraceful, so the Don family has blocked the news. Mrs. Don was pissed off and scolded Samuel beside Viola's bed. I heard it from a nurse who is in charge of changing her dressing. It is said that her private parts were badly injured. Would she have herself harmed like that to slander Samuel? If she did, then she was too ruthless."

Listening to his analysis, Nicole felt terrible.

She had just thought it was Viola's scheme and nothing had happened between them. Samuel was just playing with Viola to deceive people. But how should she take the news now?

It didn't look as if Viola had hurt herself. However cruel she was, she would not do that.

Moreover, since Mrs. Don went to the hospital personally and blocked the news, it was probably true.

Nicole suddenly fell onto the bed as if her heart was pierced by a knife.

She could not believe that Samuel had slept with Viola.

Did she drug Samuel?

That was impossible!

Last time, Nicole drugged him, but nothing happened.

And Blair said he would not be able to have sex within a month after taking that drug.

Then how could Samuel do that to Viola?

"No! It wasn't Samuel! Definitely not!"

Nicole suddenly shouted out. She was so firm that Tim sighed.
