Chapter 391 Let's Go to the Casino

Mrs. Green felt relieved to hear what Samuel said.

"Alright, hurry up and do it. Don't wait for your son to question you. Otherwise, how could you explain to him?"

"I heard everything."

Lucas' voice startled them.

"Oh, my dear. What are you doing here? This is a matter between adults. Let's get out of here."

Mrs. Green hurriedly stood up and picked up Lucas.

Sometimes she didn't know what to do with her gifted grandson.

It was fine in terms of other things. But they always failed to hide affairs from him.

Lucas sighed and said, "Grandma, she is my Mommy. Who can she count on if I do nothing?"

"Your daddy will handle it."

"Daddy has too many things to do by himself, and there are also too many enemies outside. Look, he was already targeted by a woman and got involved in a scandal before he could do something."

Lucas had the newspaper in his hand and sighed. He occasionally glanced at Samuel.

Samuel was almost driven mad.

What does this kid mean?

"Wait a minute, are you my son or am I your son?"

Samuel was really depressed.

Mrs. Green laughed.

"Like father, like son."

Lucas laughed.

"Samuel, you're not responding to Mommy's divorce papers. Is that because you want to find out where those papers came from? You want to find Mommy's location, right?"

"You are right."

Samuel felt unpleasant as his son had hit the nail on the head.

It aroused Mrs. Green's interest.

"Did you find it? Have you found it now?"

"I found it, but it's useless."

Samuel sat weakly on the chair.

"The address was Tim's house. It's very likely that Nicole asked Tim to send the papers. I've also asked someone to trace Tim. But he has been basically eating, drinking, and having fun. He hasn't been to any special places."

His words instantly extinguished Mrs. Green's burning enthusiasm.

"Olivia!"

Jacob felt he was in a dilemma and didn't know what to do.

Olivia had always been the most active in matters concerning Nicole. When the affair between Samuel and Viola was exposed, Jacob had worked so hard to finally stop Olivia and now he blamed himself for saying these.

After stopping Olivia with great difficulty, Jacob hurriedly said, "I swear that I'll go pull Mr. Green back. And you don't go. The Green family is already full of trouble, and the children are also there and perhaps they still don't know about this matter. But if you go there to make a fuss, the children would know it. Then what do you think the children will be like?"

Olivia suddenly stopped.

No matter what anyone thought of or said to her, she could do anything for Nicole's sake. But when it came to children, Olivia still hesitated.

That was right. Lucas and Zoe were still young. As the impact of this matter was too great, it would do harm to their future if she let them know it, regardless of whether the matter was true or false.

Seeing that Olivia had temporarily regained her rationality, Jacob heaved a sigh of relief.

"You stay at home. I promise I'll go and pull Samuel back, okay?"

"Just let him show. When he has done too much, which makes Nicole do not want him, he will then regret!"

Olivia angrily turned around and returned to her room.

Jacob naturally knew that Olivia was just worried about Nicole. Being able to have such a friend like Olivia in her life was actually quite a happy thing for Nicole.

He smiled and followed Samuel's instructions and took some money over. After all, after working for Samuel for so many years, he knew that Samuel wouldn't do things too ridiculously.

He didn't ask about Viola's matter, but he knew that Samuel wouldn't really go find another woman at this special moment. Even if he wanted to, he wouldn't find Viola.

So, when Samuel said that he'd go to the casino, Jacob thought Samuel should have had his own considerations.

When Jacob brought the money to Samuel, Samuel had already changed into a casual suit. He held a cigarette in his hand and lit it, but he didn't smoke much. He was just holding it, thinking something.

"Mr. Green."

Jacob stepped forward and shouted before Samuel regained his senses.

"You've come."

"Yes."

Jacob got in the car and saw Samuel's worried expression, so he couldn't help but ask, "Why did you think of going to the casino?"

"There's nothing wrong if I go and contact with some people there."

Seeing that Samuel didn't want to say the truth, Jacob didn't ask more. They first went to a relatively small casino in the Seapolis City. Not long after, Samuel lost all the money Jacob brought.

"Stop her right away!"

Mrs. Don was moved by Viola's kowtowing. How could she bear to watch such a good child die?

Seeing that the persons beside her did not react, Mrs. Don angrily went forward herself and pulled Viola.

Jason was afraid that something bad would happen to Mrs. Don, so he had no choice but to ask for help.

Viola was stopped at the last step.

She couldn't help but breathe a sigh of relief.

What a danger!

She was still secretly in fear and her entire body was drenched in sweat.

If Mrs. Don did not pull her, she was really afraid that she would fall from the window, and everything would be over by then.

Seeing Viola's pale face, Jason said angrily, "You'd better behave yourself. I don't care what you did before. From now on, you represent the Dons. If you let me know any bad things you've done to the Dons, don't blame me for being rude to you."

When Mrs. Don heard what Jason said, she knew that Jason had compromised.

"Nicole, thank your uncle!"

"Thank you, uncle."

Viola obediently called Jason uncle.

However, Jason felt that it was extremely ear-piercing. He still felt that Nicole's call was the only one that was friendly.

Viola hugged Mrs. Don and cried until she was out of breath.

Seeing the two so intimate, Jason angrily turned around and left the room.

"What exactly is going on? Tell me clearly."

Jason asked someone who had been in the Don's for a long time.

That person told Jason some of the details. Of course, he learned these from Viola and Mrs. Don.

Jason couldn't help but frown.

"Samuel is definitely not such a person. Did Viola really get raped?"

"Yes, it was Mrs. Don who personally sent her to the hospital. When we went, Viola was naked. The doctor also said that it was a laceration. It was quite severe."

"Did you see Samuel there with your own eyes?"

"Samuel, see what do you look like now?"

Jason grabbed Samuel's arm and pulled him down.

Samuel glanced at Jason and said indifferently, "Young Master Jason? Didn't you go abroad? When did you come back?"

"You still know that I went abroad? I originally think you didn't know anything, just gambling at this table. Don't you know how the thing is going on now? Do you still have the mood to play here?"

"Then what should I play? To play with women?"

The more Samuel said, the more ridiculous it was.

Jason really wanted to beat him to death with one punch.

"Come out!"

Jason couldn't stand the miasma here.

Samuel did not struggle to resist much this time, allowing Jason's men to pull him out.

Jacob only followed and didn't make a move, knowing that Jason wouldn't really do anything too much to Samuel.

After they left the casino, they breathed better air.

Jason and Samuel went to a remote place.

Jason handed Samuel a cigarette, but Samuel refused.

"There is a saying, 'when bitten by a snake, a man will be afraid of the well rope (a rope looks like a snake) for ten years'. Don't you know how your Viola plotted against me? Just because of a cigarette. She made use of my best brother to let him pass me a cigarette, and I woke up to find I slept with her. Do you think I still dare to smoke cigarettes given to me by others? I don't dare to accept them anymore, especially those from the Dons."

Jason also felt embarrassed when he heard Samuel's words.

So he withdrew the cigarette.

"I don't know how Mrs. Don can be so mistaken. By the time I got back, Viola had already entered the Dons."

"That's right. Mrs. Don doesn't want her own granddaughter to be her granddaughter but insists on finding someone with bad intentions to be her granddaughter. Your Mrs. Don really has good consideration."

Samuel said in a strange way.

Jason glanced at him and said somewhat speechlessly, "I know you're angry. I'm not sure about this matter as well. However, what actually happened to Nicole? What happened to those reports and photos? Where is Nicole now? I see she sent a divorce agreement. Do the two of you really want to divorce?"

Samuel found that Jason was truly worried about Nicole. But Samuel still couldn't get past the barrier in his heart.

He said coldly, "I heard that Mrs. Don wants me to be responsible to Viola. I just happened to be divorced with Nicole. Isn't it better to marry Viola?"

"Samuel, what are you talking about? Let me tell you, if you dare to divorce Nicole, I won't let go of you!"

"Oh, you shout so loudly at me. If you want to show off your ability, you just shout at Mrs. Don. If it were not for her behind to help Viola, I and Nicole wouldn't go to this point today. You ask me where Nicole is? I also want to know. She ran away as soon as the incident happened. I searched the entire Seapolis City, but failed. She didn't say a word and directly sent me a divorce paper. What do you want me to do? The Dons are really good, caring for the outsiders but hurting their own family members. It's really rare in this world. If Young Master Jason has any leisure time, you should go back and take care of Mrs. Don. As for what I'm going to do or how I'm going to live, Mr. Jason won't have to worry about it. "

With that, Samuel turned around and left.

Jason was stunned.

Tim thought that Samuel had been losing money for so many days in a row, so he would appear uneasy. Unexpectedly, Samuel's confidence surprised him.

"Samuel, you look pretty calm."

Tim smiled faintly, but Samuel ignored him.

"Just cut the crap and start. Don't act like a pussy. Are you here to gamble? Or can't you stand to lose?"

He said that so arrogantly that Tim wanted to punch him in the face.

But Tim did not bicker back. The gamble soon began.

At the beginning, Samuel was losing. Not knowing whether it was luck or that he was born for it, Tim became proud.

"Samuel, let's call it a day. You've lost five million in just half an hour. You only got eight million with you. I will feel embarrassed if I win all your money."

Standing behind Samuel, Jacob was even more anxious.

Samuel never lost in business. Why was he so bad at casinos?

However, Samuel sat steadily on his chair and said indifferently to Tim, "It's only five million, which I can still afford to lose. Would you care about only five million?"

"Maybe you aren't good at this. Why don't we play another one?"

Tim suggested.

"As you please."

Following his advice, Samuel didn't fret at all, while Jacob stood aside and began to sweat profusely.

They then changed to the game of five-card stud.

Looking still calm and cool, Samuel seemed to be another man though. The luck had come to Samuel. He won Tim narrowly every time.

Tim watched the chips in front of him become fewer and fewer, and he could no longer laugh out loud.

Samuel still looked at him coldly and said, "Perhaps you are not good at it. Why don't we play another one?"

Jacob almost lost his balance.

Before long, Samuel had won his 5 million back. But did he need to be so arrogant now?

It was already lucky enough not to lose money. What exactly did Samuel want to do?

Tim looked at Samuel and thought that was just luck. He smiled and said, "No. Let's continue."

"Good for you. Then shall we?"

"Please."

Tim became serious now.

However, no matter how serious he became, he just kept losing in the next rounds.

Samuel had won more and more chips, but Tim's chips were losing. In less than an hour, Tim had lost all the chips in front of him.

He furrowed slightly.

Jacob also found it strange.

How could Samuel become such a gambling expert all of a sudden?

But why did he keep losing in other casinos?

Samuel said in his usual tone, "Continue?"

"Continue!"

"Where are we going?"

Jacob was a little confused and hastily stopped the car.

Samuel wondered why Jacob was so dumb today and glared coldly at him.

Jacob felt fear seared through him.

"I can figure it out. Trust me."

He began to think, and soon Jacob got it.

"You did it on purpose!"

"On purpose?"

"You lost money on purpose before just to give the impression that you are bad at gambling. And you never went to the same casino twice, so people would think you couldn't stand to lose. But your real goal is Tim and his casino, right?"

Jacob finally got his brain back.

Jacob knew Samuel wouldn't lose so much money in casinos since he never failed in business.

Seeing Jacob so complacent about his deduction, Samuel sneered, "Who was the one got heartbroken when I lost 20 million?"

"That's money after all, and it's 20 million, okay?"

Jacob muttered to himself. Well, he admitted that he couldn't see as far as Samuel. But taking 20 million as a ruse was something only Samuel was capable of.

Samuel glared at him and said, "When I was a venture capitalist, I always took out more than 20 million. In the end, you just don't trust me. It seems no one in the world, but Nicole trusts me. Haven't you learn anything following me for so many years?"

Jacob didn't know what to say after being criticized by Samuel, but hearing Nicole's name, Jacob didn't understand.

"Of course Nicole understands you, but even if she is here today, she might not be able to see through it. You just threw money out as if it's nothing to you. No one will know what's in your mind."

"You don't know that. Do you remember when Tim lost 10 million, a waiter came down from upstairs and whispered a few words to him?"

"Yeah. So what?"

The more Samuel explained, the more confused Jacob became.

Samuel glared at him again. He didn't want to explain.

Chapter 397 I Just Don't Want to Be with You Anymore

"What did you just say? Say it again."

Samuel's voice was not loud, but Nicole knew that he was angry.

She believed in Samuel. After all, no one knew Samuel's condition better than her, but she just blurted it out.

Though she understood him, she still has been resentful these days.

Even though Samuel was angry, Nicole was not afraid at all. She talked back bitterly, "What? I don't get the position to comment on what you have done? You keep saying you can't do it in front of me, and I even bothered to prepare medicine for you to make you feel better. Why didn't I expect you to be so capable? You literally get the lady into the hospital. Samuel, tell me, what else do you think I don't know about you? How long are you going to lie to me? "

Samuel's chest hurt with anger at Nicole's questioning.

"That's who I am to you? I am such a horny man who needs a woman like Viola to vent his sexual desire? Don't you know I'm freaking paranoid about physical and mental loyalty? I know that others don't understand me, but even you don't either? You also believe I did that to Viola?"

"What do I know about you? I've been with you for so many years, yet I had no idea that you would go fight with Tim after discovering my nude photos. I had no idea at all that to humiliate me and avoid sleeping with me, you would rather turn yourself impotent by asking some God-knows-what medicine from Blair! Samuel, if you dislike me, you should make it clear to me. You keep complaining that I don't believe you, but do you believe me? Did you ever ask me about it after such a thing happened? You didn't! Not only did you not, but you also despised me! You seem to dote on me and be so nice to me, but behind my back, that's how you treat me! If you had told me about it earlier, I promise I would never trouble you. I am not that cheap!"

She didn't want to cry. But provoked by Samuel, Nicole couldn't hold back her grievances.

She hid outside for the sake of the Green family and the children, but her resentment towards him never abated.

She didn't do anything but was treated unfairly. Not only did Samuel not comfort her, but he also did such a thing.

How many women in this world could endure the fact that their men would rather make themselves impotent by taking medicine than lay a finger on their women?

Nicole could never let go of that. No matter how much she tried to convince herself, she could not accept it.

Samuel was stunned at what Nicole said.

"When did you know?"

"What? Now you don't try to tell me that it's not true? Why stop lying to me for the rest of my life? I would feel better than I do now if you hold the truth from me and keep me living in a lie for the rest of my life. Samuel, I tell you what, I didn't do it! Regardless of whether those photos are real or not, I, Nicole Bush, have never done anything unfaithful to you! Don't you dare to disgust me with those things! I tell you, after this is cleared up, you and I will split up and have nothing to do with each other. "

The more Nicole said, the more aggrieved she became. Tears kept running down her face. She hadn't got over her cold yet and her face was red from anger or grievance or something.

Samuel said hurriedly, "Take back what you just said. What do you mean by 'split up and have nothing to do with each other'? Do you believe that you would get your way if you file a divorce agreement? Let me tell you, you can't get divorced without my consent!"

"Do you think I'm stupid?"

Nicole kicked him. Although she didn't have enough strength, she still looked formidable.

'I was almost tricked by this man.'

She was still exhausted, and Samuel had the audacity to say that he had taken Blair's medicine?

Samuel had no clue why she kicked him.

"What I said is true."

"Really? Explain to me now, if you really took Blair's medicine, what was that? Is the medicine ineffective on you?"

Samuel was suddenly enlightened to what she was referring to and explained with a grin, "Of course not. I took the medicines when I needed them. And since you've been missing from home recently, why should I take them? What? You want me to be impotent?"

Hearing his words, Nicole turned her head to the side without comment. But after a while, she said, "So, neither you nor Viola took the medicine? Or did she drug you?"

"Neither."

Samuel sat on the bed, wanting to smoke. But at the thought that Nicole was still here, he resisted his desire and just fiddled with the cigarette in his hand.

"What do you mean?"

Nicole suddenly found herself very concerned about it.

She was actually the same as Samuel. She was paranoid about mental and physical loyalty. If Samuel had something to do with Viola, although Nicole might not be able to break up with him, she knew she would never forgive him.

Sure enough, Samuel knew what Nicole was worrying about. After pondering for a while, he began, "Viola used Mike. She had Mike put a drug in the cigarette. When I woke up, I was already sleeping with her. The drug was so powerful that I couldn't do anything at all. And then the reporter came in, so nothing happened between me and her."

Nicole was somehow familiar with his description.

"Why do I feel that it's a bit like..."

"It's a lot similar to what we have experienced, isn't it?"

Samuel thought of it as well.

"If she were you, I would enjoy it and marry you back home. But it was Viola, and I'm sorry, I couldn't do it. The trick worked the first time. But if they try to do it again, how can I fall for that?"

Nicole flushed somehow, but she continued to ask, "But Viola is in the hospital, and she is suffering from avulsion. How do you explain that?"

"I didn't touch her. I went out of my room to look for Mike. If you don't believe me, you can check the security cameras of the hotel. As for who slept with Viola, I have no idea. She tried to frame me. "

"There's something at the Seapolis City that you don't know. How strange."

Obviously, Nicole didn't want to let him off so fast.

Samuel almost raised his head to swear.

"I have never ever done anything unfaithful to you. Nicole, me, my heart, and my body are all yours, always yours."

"Hurry up and leave!"

Nicole's first instinct was to let Samuel leave, as if Samuel was not her husband, but an adulterer.

Samuel was immediately angry.

"You're kicking me out? I'm your husband. Why can't I be with you? Where do you want me to go?"

Samuel said in disappointment.

Nicole listened to the footsteps outside getting closer and closer. She can't help but say, "I don't care who you are now? Hurry up and leave. I don't want anyone to see a man in my room."

Samuel's face turned gloomy.

"Tim is not a man? He comes here every day! Why can't I come if he could?"

"He doesn't sleep with me!"

"What the hell? You want him to sleep with you?"

Samuel's voice was so loud that Nicole hurriedly reached out her hand to cover his mouth in fear.

"What are you shouting about? What are you yelling? What nonsense are you talking? Tim and I are innocent. I am so mad at you right now. You should hurry up and leave!"

Nicole kept pushing Samuel. She didn't even give him time to put on his clothes and directly pushed him onto the balcony. His clothes and trousers were stuffed into his arms. With a "thud", she closed the door of the balcony.

The cold wind blew outside, causing Samuel to shiver. Looking at the heartless woman, she quickly tidied herself up, and even folded the blankets. Her speed was comparable to that of the army.

Samuel looked at his sorry state and gritted his teeth!

How dare she!

No one had ever kicked him out of bed. He had even been pushed to the balcony like an adulterer.

Wasn't she afraid that someone would see him, Samuel Green, standing naked on the balcony of her room?

Although he was furious, Samuel still put on his clothes reluctantly.

Motherfucker!

He hadn't showered yet!

Samuel's face clouded when he thought of this.

Nicole didn't care what he thought now. Not only did she fold the quilt, she also opened the window. She was afraid that there would be traces left in the room.

At this moment, there was a knock on the door.

"Miss Nicole, Mr. Tim asks me to bring you some snacks. He's afraid you'll be hungry in the middle of the night."

The waiter said politely. Nicole hurriedly responded, and then went to open the door.

When Samuel heard this, he was so angry that he wanted to scold the waiter.

Samuel wanted to take a shower and had to wait for the waiter to leave. Otherwise, he could be uncomfortable. He heard Nicole say, "What's going on outside?"

"Nothing. A gambler lost money and wanted to bet his wife here. They're causing troubles."

Don't Try to Escape, My Wife!

Chapter 400 Was Mr. Tim a Sore Loser?

He had planned to rest. However, the moment he closed his eyes, he thought of Nicole and he was horny.

After all, he was a man who had been single for more than a month and suddenly could sleep with his wife. How could he keep calm?

Samuel woke up again and took a cold shower. Somehow, he thought that the bed was a real eyesore and could not sleep.

He didn't feel it before. However, when he came back today, he found that this bed was ridiculously big without Nicole. It was so big that he was insecure.

Damn, when did a grown man like him need sense of security?

However, Samuel still looked at the double bed in disgust, put on his pajamas and went to Lucas' room.

Lucas was still awake when he heard the sound from the door. He was slightly stunned. When he saw that it was Samuel, he was lost for words.

"Samuel, why are you here? It's the middle of the night."

"Move to the inside."

Without another word, Samuel stretched out his long leg and kicked Lucas.

Lucas curled his lips.

"Do you plan to commandeer my bed?"

"What do you mean by commandeering? You're my son, let alone this bed. Quickly move to the inside."

Samuel was tall and strong. He lay down on Lucas' bed, making the bed seem narrow.

Lucas was lost for words.

"Samuel, I'm too old to sleep with Daddy. Otherwise, you can go find Zoe or Joseph."

"Shut up and sleep now. Either in bed or on the sofa, choose one."

Samuel said peremptorily.

Lucas didn't know whether he was unlucky. How could he have such an unreasonable father?

However, compared to sleep on the sofa, Lucas decided to share the bed.

He leaned awkwardly against Samuel's embrace, feeling uncomfortable.

Samuel hugged Lucas in his arms. He finally felt that he was not lonely and cold. He was somewhat satisfied. Lucas was small and soft. His trace of milk fragrance made Samuel feel especially comfortable.

"Sleep."

Samuel made decisions for Lucas tonight with just a single sentence.

Lucas could only sigh and close his eyes.

Sleeping with Samuel was a completely new experience.

Although Lucas said that he was too old to sleep with his father, this was still the first time.

Samuel's embrace was different from Nicole's. It was not so soft, but it carried a trace of a man's sense of security.

Lucas unconsciously fell asleep with a satisfied smile on the corners of his mouth.

Hearing the sound of Lucas' gentle breathing, Samuel opened his eyes.

Under the dim yellow light, Lucas slept very peacefully. He involuntarily softened up his look.
