Chapter 511 Who Is Nicole Guarding Against?

"Lucas!"

Jason was heartbroken.

He quickly picked up Lucas, called an ambulance, and then sent him to the Military Hospital.

Hedy refused to leave.

Considering that she was concerned about Lucas, Jason allowed her to go along. And he had someone prepare a new clean dress for her.

Lucas was rushed to the hospital.

When Blair received the news, his face darkened.

"Who got him injured like this?"

Blair hated people attacking children the most.

It was very difficult for him and Gabrielle to start a family because of some erstwhile details. Gabrielle liked children more than anyone else, but she couldn't get pregnant.

It could be imagined how furious Blair was when he saw that Samuel's son was injured like this.

However, Jason didn't have time to explain to him.

"Hurry up and cure him. We'll talk about it later."

Tim followed behind.

Lucas was quickly pushed into the emergency room.

When Gabrielle heard that Lucas was injured, she hurriedly rushed over.

Soon, Laurel also knew it.

When she heard that Lucas was found but suffered serious injuries, she quickly rushed over, too.

"What happened?"

Tim looked at Laurel and said in a low voice, "I also want to know what happened. Your Lucas was in danger, and he actually asked me for help. Mrs. Green, is something wrong with the Green family?"

Laurel was slightly stunned, feeling puzzled.

Lucas did not ask Nicole and Samuel for help, but instead asked Tim for help? Why?

It was said that Lucas was abducted by human traffickers, wasn't it?

Samuel had been following this clue, while Nicole and Zoe were in the Green's. If Lucas wanted help, he could send a message to anyone of the Greens. But why did he choose to ask for help from Tim?

Laurel did not understand it. Suddenly, she felt that it was a little strange for her to be left here in hospital to recuperate.

She had long since been able to return home to rest, so why did Gabrielle insist on keeping her here? Or it was Nicole's intention?

Laurel was deep in thought.

Laurel did not know how to respond.

This result was unexpected to her.

She had never imagined that her own speculation would come true.

Could it really be Vincent?

"You guys go first. I'm not sure about this either."

Laurel's ambiguous reply made Jason very dissatisfied.

"Mrs. Green, although Nicole doesn't regard the Dons as her family, if necessary, we, the Dons, will do anything for her and Lucas. No matter who the person behind all this is, I will not let him go!"

Hearing Jason's words, Laurel did not say anything.

Indeed, the Green family had brought too much danger to Nicole.

Tim didn't say anything and pushed Jason to leave with him.

When only Laurel and Gabrielle were left in the ward, they all ignored Hedy and started to talk.

Laurel asked Gabrielle in a low voice.

"It was Nicole who asked me to stay in the hospital. Do you know anything about it, Director Farley?"

"I don't know anything. Nicole didn't tell me. She just told me that you had to leave the Green's to be safe, and that she and Zoe had to stay there to ensure Lucas' safety."

Hearing Gabrielle's words, Laurel understood everything.

"Nicole is always like this. She does all for the sake of the Green family, for the sake of Samuel, but she never does anything for herself. I think although I treat her well, it can't compare to the harm the Green family has done to her. Perhaps Jason is right. It's a wrong to Nicole to have married into our family."

Laurel was somewhat distressed and sad.

Gabrielle said in a low voice, "It's because Samuel and you treat Nicole well that she does all for you. Both of you treat her well, so she's been kind to you. Don't worry, Mrs. Green. Nicole is not a weak woman. Since she did it, she will handle it properly with Samuel."

"It's not easy for Samuel to handle this properly. Few people can endure the pain of being hostile to their brothers."

Laurel was a little tired, perhaps because of the huge shock she received today. She left the ward.

As Gabrielle found that Hedy had been looking at Lucas, she asked, "There is a bed here. Do you want to rest for a while? When Lucas wakes up, he will see you."

But Hedy shook her head and insisted on staying beside Lucas.

Gabrielle felt even more distressed for Hedy.

She had someone bring food to Hedy.

At the beginning, Hedy still refused. However, since Gabrielle was really good to her and Lucas, she let her guard down and ate the food.

She had never eaten such delicious food before. She could not help eating a little fast, only to choke on it.

She coughed violently.

Chapter 513 That Was So Close

Lucas became nervous.

"Uncle Blair, I was wrong. I was really wrong. I won't do it again. Help my daddy, please. He might be in danger now."

Lucas started crying.

Hedy rarely saw Lucas cry. He had cried only a few times when he first arrived at the club. He had always been calm but now he cried so bitterly. Hedy immediately pulled out a tissue to wipe him tears.

Lucas wanted to get up and beg Blair.

When Gabrielle saw Lucas acting like this, she stared at Blair and said, "Blair, don't make him worry. How can you tell Lucas about this? Mr. Green is so powerful. He will definitely turn things around."

"I must teach him a lesson. He should not to leave home without our knowledge. You ran away alone but put your family in danger now. Have you ever thought of such a consequence? Because of you, your daddy's whereabouts are unknown now and your mommy is in bad condition again. She's on drips every day. Lucas, you are a child and can be willful. But do you know the consequences of your willfulness now?"

Blair's words made Lucas feel deeply guilty.

He really didn't expect all this to happen.

If it wasn't for his willfulness, perhaps so many things wouldn't have happened. If it weren't for his willfulness, Daddy and Mommy wouldn't be like this either.

Lucas was so guilty and he really regretted it.

Gabrielle felt hurt when she saw Lucas was so sad.

"Blair, enough."

"He is a boy, but he's also Samuel's son! He must know that he should be responsible."

"But he is only a four-year-old child!"

Gabrielle felt that Blair was being too harsh on Lucas.

But Blair responded with a smile, "Child? Have you ever seen a four-year-old deliver a message from such a dangerous club like him? He's destined to be extraordinary. Alright, I won't talk about it with you anymore. Your daddy and mommy will discipline you. You don't have to worry. Although we can't get in touch with your daddy now, he should be safe. You just stay here for the next two days and take good care of yourself. I'll inform your mother about your state."

"I want to go home and see Mommy."

Lucas was still a little worried.

But Blair said, "You can't go back. Listen to me, you'd better stay here until your daddy picks you up. Gabrielle and I will protect you. If you do well, your daddy and mommy will be fine too, you know?"

"But what about Zoe? My uncle..."

Before Lucas could finish his words, he was interrupted by Blair.

"Zoe has Joseph with her. You just need to take good care of yourself. Don't let your mommy see your heartbreaking injuries."

Lucas didn't say anything anymore.

He knew that he had harmed many people because of his willfulness this time. Now that Blair ask him to stay here, he would obey him.

Chapter 514 Samuel Was Missing

Nicole wanted to sit up and take a look, but she couldn't.

Because once she went out of the room, Vincent would know she had been pretending to be asleep.

But what did he want to do to Zoe and Joseph?

The children were in danger, and she still had to pretend?

When would this fake peace with Vincent end? When would Samuel return?

Nicole was not sure, so she could only wait.

It was quiet, but it worried Nicole even more.

She wanted to lift the blanket and have a peep, even through the door slot. However, just as she was about to get up, she saw a shadow under the door.

Vincent was still here!

In other words, he had been waiting outside to see if she was pretending to be asleep.

If she went out now, she would probably bump into him.

Nicole's heart was racing.

Was Vincent suspicious of her? Or did he discover something?

Nicole did not dare to think or move. She tried to sleep but stared at the shadow under the door despite herself.

About ten minutes later, Vincent, who was outside the room, felt relieved and left.

Nicole's back was drenched in cold sweat.

She felt she and her children were in greater danger.

She only hoped Samuel would come back soon.

She didn't dare to speak, so she took out her phone and sent a message to Finn, asking him to tell Samuel things were not good at home and he should come back as soon as possible.

The minute Finn received the text message, he contacted Samuel. Unfortunately, he couldn't get through to him.

He thought Samuel's phone was dead, so he sent him a text message. After a while, Finn tried to call him again but got the same result.

Nicole had ants in her pants, but she couldn't go out to check.

She did not know what Vincent would do to Zoe but figured Zoe would be fine since Joseph was here.

She comforted herself and felt time moving slowly.

After trying for more than an hour, Finn still couldn't get in touch with Samuel. He was somewhat uneasy and drove back to the place where he had parted ways with Samuel.

He heard a car accident happened here after he left. It was said to be horrible, but Finn was familiar with the license plate of the car in this accident.

It was Samuel's!

Could something have happened to Samuel?

Finn asked around, but the people he left here were all gone, and he got no clues.

He ran all over the hospitals but didn't find any news about Samuel.

Samuel and those people seemed to have disappeared without a trace.

Nicole was surprised and quickly turned around. She found the person familiar but could not remember where she had seen him.

"Who are you?"

She became vigilant and glanced at Vincent.

He whispered, "Don't worry. We've met. I work for Mr. Bates. We met on the road."

It rang a bell.

But why did Mr. Bates' man track her down again?

Nicole frowned slightly.

"What's the matter?"

"Mr. Bates has something important to discuss with you, or Mr. Green. I'm sorry Mr. Bates can't see you now. So, will you agree to a meeting with him? It's about Vincent."

The man lowered his voice, so that only she could hear him.

Nicole frowned again.

It was about Vincent?

Who on earth was Mr. Bates?

Was he an enemy or friend?

"Who exactly is Mr. Bates?"

"Mrs. Green, please trust Mr. Bates. Vincent is not a good person. He is plotting against Mr. Green. If you care about Mr. Green, please come to Aegean Coffee at 8 p.m."

After saying that, the man quickly stood up and left.

Nicole frowned hard.

She and Samuel just knew Vincent was plotting against Samuel, but how did Mr. Bates find out about it?

Was there more to it?

Nicole glanced at Vincent again. Noticing he was not paying attention to her, she heaved a sigh of relief.

However, she was confused. It seemed she had to meet up with Mr. Bates tonight.

But how could she if Vincent was around?

Nicole was upset.

When Vincent and the children got off the roller coaster, Nicole was still wracking her brain. Zoe ran to her in excitement.

"Mommy, it was so exhilarating! That roller coaster is amazing! Will you have a try when you feel better?"

Looking at her daughter's flushed face, Nicole smiled, "Alright, wipe your sweat. Don't catch a cold."

Nicole quickly wiped the sweat off Zoe.

Vincent bought water and handed it to Nicole.

"Nicole, we've had enough fun today. Shall we eat in a restaurant or at home?"

"I want KFC!"

The greedy piggy Zoe shouted.

Vincent stroked her head dotingly and said, "Then KFC it is?"

The footsteps stopped at Nicole's bedroom door, but no one knocked or entered.

Nicole frowned slightly and quickly got up. She went straight to the door and abruptly opened it.

"Mrs. Green!"

It was Wendy.

Nicole was surprised to see her expression.

"Wendy? Why are you at my door? Is there anything wrong?"

"No, it's nothing big. It's just, just...."

Wendy stammered.

Nicole smelled something fishy.

"What exactly happened?"

"Mr. Vincent said he needed to rest, and no one was allowed to disturb him, but his phone was left in the living room. Someone has been calling him just now. I don't know if I should go in and wake him up, so I came to ask your opinion."

Wendy quickly finished her story and handed Vincent's phone to Nicole.

Nicole did not take it.

There was surveillance in this room.

Besides, how could Vincent be so stupid and leave his phone in the living room?

Phones were so important nowadays.

This was clearly a trap.

However, Wendy did not go to Vincent but her. Nicole could tell why.

Didn't Wendy work for Laurel?

It looked like Vincent was capable and even had Laurel's men within his grasp.

Nicole looked at Wendy and said coldly, "This is Mr. Vincent's phone. I can't decide. You should give it to him."

"But he said no one could disturb him."

Wendy looked particularly anxious and conflicted.

Nicole said indifferently, "There are priorities. Vincent is the president of Eternal Group. If anything important is delayed, neither of us will be able to shoulder the responsibility. It is better to expect Vincent's rage than to suffer heavy losses. Go."

Wendy was still a little nervous.

"Mrs. Green, why don't you go? You are Mr. Vincent's sister-in-law, so he won't make things difficult for you."

"Wendy, have you forgotten who you are? Don't push me around in this house."

Nicole's face darkened.

Wendy shivered. She was surprised by Nicole's sudden temper and couldn't help but swallow. "Mrs. Green, I'm not ordering you around. I'm just a little afraid of Mr. Vincent. He seems to be different recently. Sometimes when he is alone, the look in his eyes frightens me."

Nicole did not know if she was doing it on purpose or really trying to tell her something, but no matter what, she wouldn't go to Vincent.

This was clearly a trap set by Vincent. She must be stupid to step into it while knowing that.

"What nonsense? He has always been gentle and refined. Speak ill of him behind his back again and the old Mrs. Green will punish you. Hurry up and give the phone to him."

"Yes, yes, yes."

Actually, Nicole wanted to sleep, but she couldn't. After all, there was a camera in her room, and she was being watched. It felt terrible and affected her sleep.

However, she had to pretend she was sleeping, lest Vincent noticed anything.

At ten o'clock, Vincent drove back.

Nicole heard the car but did not move. She just sneered in her heart.

It was indeed a trap.

Didn't he say he wouldn't come back tonight?

He actually came back after ten o'clock.

Nicole was still pretending to be asleep, and Vincent entered the house.

Wendy's voice was low, but because it was quiet at night, Nicole could vaguely hear their conversation.

"Mr. Vincent? Didn't you say you wouldn't come back tonight?"

"The job was done. So, I returned to have a rest."

Vincent's voice was also low, and he sounded tired.

Wendy didn't ask anything else.

Before long, everything was quiet again.

Nicole did not know when she fell asleep, but it was only five o'clock in the morning when she woke up.

Nothing could be heard. She didn't feel like getting up and stayed in bed.

After some time, Wendy got up, and it felt like the day just began.

Only then did Nicole sit up and pretend she had just woken up.

She picked up her phone and checked the time. It was past six o'clock. Actually, she wanted to see if there were any text messages or phone calls.

She hadn't heard from Samuel for a whole day. What exactly happened to him?

Where did he go?

Nicole was getting uneasy.

Even Finn didn't text her.

She really wanted to call Jacob over, but what about Olivia if she did?

Nicole put down her phone and calmed down. Then she went to the bathroom to wash up.

When she came downstairs to breakfast, Vincent looked disturbed.

Nicole pretended to be concerned and asked, "What's wrong? Why are you so worried early in the morning?"

Vincent hesitated for a moment, then looked at Nicole, and said, "Nicole, I heard you studied car design?"

"Yes, but I haven't done it for a long time. What's wrong?"

"Let go of me!"

Nicole ordered in a serious voice, which made Chuck feel compelled to let go of her hand. However, he still said anxiously, "Mrs. Green, please trust me. I am really with Mr. Bates. He is doing this for Mr. Green."

"Get out!"

Nicole said coldly. She didn't really want to talk to him.

Chuck was slightly stunned.

"Are you Mrs. Green? Do you really love Mr. Green? Aren't you just worried about him?"

Nicole looked at Chuck. The latter was very emotional. Just as she was about to say something, a thought suddenly occurred to her and she responded coldly, "It's none of your business. I am now designer Catherine. If it has nothing to do with work, you should be quiet. I know better than anybody what kind of people my husband is and his strength, so don't waste your breath."

As she spoke, she returned to work again.

Chuck was stunned for a while before he walked out in frustration.

Nicole looked a little adrift. The design drawing in front of her seemed to have changed into Samuel's face.

What on earth happened to him?

Where was he?

Unconsciously, Nicole reached out to her phone.

At this moment, Vincent walked in.

"Nicole, lunch coming."

Nicole retracted her hand.

"Why do YOU bring it up?"

"It's okay. I'm just here to see how it's doing, you know, your design drawing. After all, the clients are in quite a hurry. Please, don't blame me for pressing you, Nicole."

Vincent placed the food in front of Nicole.

Nicole smiled and said, "It's fine. I can finish it by the end of the day."

"That's great!"

Vincent took a look and saw that Nicole's design was indeed better than that of those rookies. Only then did he feel relieved.

"Then I'll leave you. Please have your lunch before it gets cold."

After that, Vincent left.

Nicole looked at the food in front of her and suddenly lost all appetite.

"What do you say?"

Nicole's face immediately darkened.

However, Wendy had hung up the phone. And Nicole seemed to have heard people quarrelling before that.

Someone wanted to take Zoe away?

Who?

Vincent?

Nicole rushed home instantly, but she was still late.

Wendy cried, "Nicole, I couldn't stop them. I..."

"Who took them?"

Nicole looked terrifyingly gloomy.

Wendy said while trembling, "It, it's Mr. Vincent's people."

It was indeed him!

Irritated, Nicole returned to the Eternal Group.

"Mrs. Green, the president is busy. Please wait a moment. I'll tell him."

The secretary intended to stop Nicole, but Nicole pushed her away.

She kicked open the door of the office. Everyone was stunned by such a savage action. After all, to them, Nicole was Mrs. Green, a noble lady, and designer Catherine. No matter what, she shouldn't be so rude and barbaric.

However, it didn't matter to Nicole.

She grabbed Vincent by the collar and asked anxiously, "Where did you send Zoe and Joseph?"

Nicole was so emotional. Vincent looked at her and smiled, "Why are you so nervous? I'm actually doing this for you. You see, brother is outside now, and Lucas is not here, either. You're ill, and the two kids are just too noisy at home. Zoe likes Joseph so much, so of course, I have to get them together. Don't worry, I just found a fun place for them. I promise they'll have a good time."

"I have the final say on where my daughter goes. What do you mean by taking them away without my consent?"

Nicole was so angry that she trembled slightly.

If it weren't for the fact that she couldn't beat Vincent, she wouldn't mind punching him in the face right now.

However, Vincent did not seem to feel her rudeness. He continued smiling, "Nicole, I am doing this for you."

"Really? You are doing this for me? By treating me like this when your brother's not around? It doesn't seem like that to me. Vincent, what exactly do you want?"

Nicole couldn't stay calm anymore.

She knew that it was impossible for her to continue pretending to be calm in front of Vincent. After all, he had already made his move, and it was very fast and accurate. He directly went for her weak spots, leaving her no choice but to confront him like this.

Vincent just pulled away Nicole's hand, tidied up his shirt and said, "Nicole, don't insult me. I just want you to do me a favor."

"Do you a favor? I'd say it's a coerced 'favor'?"

"Whatever you say. My aim is very simple. As long as you can find Mr. Bates and get me what I want, Zoe will come back safely."

Nicole's eyes narrowed as she heard him.

"Nicole."

Tim suddenly called out.

Nicole turned around. At this moment, Tim attacked her unexpectedly.

When the man beside her saw this, he subconsciously blocked Tim's attack. However, he did not expect that it was a fake move. Tim suddenly change direction when the guy moved and pulled Nicole behind him.

When the man realized that and wanted to grab Nicole, he had lost the chance.

"Mr. Tim, what are you doing?"

Obviously, he knew Tim and he was a little angry when he spoke, but he was trying his best to contain his anger.

Tim smiled casually and said, "Wow, you know me? I thought that the Seapolis City has had a new master. Go back and tell your boss that I've taken Nicole away. If there's anything else, let him talk to me directly."

Nicole was slightly stunned. Just as she was about to say something, Tim grabbed her hand.

In the end, she remained silent, which could be considered as a tacit consent to Tim's doing.

Before she met Tim, she could only surrender to Vincent. Now that she had the chance to escape with Tim, even if Vincent had Zoe in his hand, she and Tim should have a way to find Zoe. If that failed, too, she could only ask Jason for help.

She would never give up any chance. Moreover, she didn't know what had happened to Samuel, or if it had anything to do with Vincent, and whether he was waiting for her to rescue him.

When Nicole thought of this, she naturally fell silent.

Seeing that Nicole didn't say anything and that he had no chance of winning against Tim, the man whispered, "Madam, my mission is to send you home. You know, you're ill and Mr. Vincent is very worried about you. Anyway, it's better to go home and have a rest. Besides, Mr. Samuel is not around, and it's not very proper for you to be with Mr. Tim now."

"Not proper? Everyone in this city knows my relationship with your Madam. Even if Samuel comes, I still can take his wife away. Ask him if he has any objections. Besides, what did you just call her? Madam? Since she's your Madam, then she's your master. Why do I feel like you're her master when you're talking?"

Tim blurted out before Nicole could say anything. The guy was slightly stunned and looked somewhat awkward.

"Mr. Tim must be joking."

"Do you think I have the time to joke with you? You think I'm idle? Let me repeat it one last time I'll take Nicole away. Come to me if you want her."

With that, Tim grabbed Nicole's hand and left.

Nicole remained silent and followed Tim out just like this. And they got into the car in front of the public.

She no longer cared about the gossip anymore.

Neither her husband nor her kid was around, and she was excruciatingly anxious.

Getting in the car, Tim started the engine and drove out directly.

Along the way, Nicole didn't ask where Tim was taking her. She was unusually silent. Tim, who was like a playboy at first, turned more or less serious as a result.
