Chapter 611 Give Her a Chance to Atone for Her Sins

"Mrs. Nicole, have some water, please."

The man hurriedly handed over the water, but Nicole pushed it away.

Her throat was burning with pain, as if she had drunk sulfuric acid.

She clutched her neck. Her body twitched with pain.

The man couldn't bear to watch, so he stood up and walked out.

Laurel smiled happily when she saw this.

"Arrange a boat and let them leave tomorrow morning."

"Them?"

Her men were somewhat confused.

Mrs. Green looked upstairs and said, "Let her take Zoe away as well. A girl is useless in this family. No, Zoe can't go. She can be of some help in her future marriage. And how are things going with Joseph now?"

"I've heard Doctor Farley told Mrs. Nicole that Mr. Joseph seems to be in autism now. He refuses to communicate with the outside world and is living in his own world."

Hearing this, Mrs. Green said discontentedly, "Useless! Well, his mother is Riley, which explains a lot. That child didn't inherit any of the good genes of Green family. Even Nicole could give birth to twins, Riley only had Joseph, not to mention that he was so stupid, and now so fragile. A man like him wouldn't be of much use even if he managed to grow up. Let Nicole take him away. It is also a chance to atone for her sins."

"Atonement?"

Her men were even more puzzled.

"Joseph is Vincent's son, and Nicole is Mark's niece. What's wrong with letting her take care of Joseph for Vincent?"

The men then lowered their heads.

By giving her chance to atone Mrs. Green meant that Joseph was useless. She was just pretending to be reasonable to abandon him.

Nicole was dumb, and Joseph was autistic. It was almost predictable what the future will look like for them.

That aroused the instincts of protection of the men.

"Mrs. Green, why not let Mr. Joseph stay? After all, he is the eldest grandson in the Green Family."

"Since when did you have say in this family?"

Her face darkened.

Her expression silenced these men right away.

Mrs. Green snorted, "How Samuel would hate Nicole without a reason? After Mrs. Don's death, Samuel must be guilty towards Nicole. He only knows that Nicole is his wife and he needs to please her. He will soon forget his brother died a bitter man. Samuel will hate her only when he believes Nicole takes Joseph away because of Mrs. Don's death, so that he can never see Joseph again. Do you see that now?"

"Yes, ma'am."

Her men stopped asking questions, but a trace of sympathy for Nicole flashed through their eyes.

It was unlucky for her to have such a mother-in-law. If only she could notice that in advance.

Nicole felt that she was dying. She felt burning hot sometimes, and ice cold sometimes.

She huddled tightly, and found herself extremely hot.

Mrs. Don's face kept flashing in her mind.

She had misunderstood and distrusted her, and left the Don family because of an outsider. Now, she had paid her life for her happiness and freedom.

Nicole cried.

Chapter 612 I Don't Like Her Anyway

Her men did not dare to disobey Mrs. Green's orders. When they were about to lift Nicole up, Joseph suddenly opened his eyes wide and stared at them. The frightening gaze even bore an uncanny resemblance to Samuel's.

They were slightly shocked and turned their looks to Mrs. Green in embarrassment.

Mrs. Green became even angrier.

"What? You don't want to leave? Then get out of the way and let these people carry this woman out!"

Joseph looked at Mrs. Green, motionless.

At the time, he probably couldn't understand why his grandmother, who had always doted on him, and his happy family, had changed suddenly.

He couldn't understand. He could only helplessly look at Mrs. Green, hoping that she would give him an explanation.

This was the first time Mrs. Green couldn't look directly into Joseph's eyes.

"I am your grandmother, the head of this family. Everyone must do what I say. A child like you can never understand. If you don't want to leave, then step aside. Nicole can't stay here anyway."

Seeing Mrs. Green so determined, the color drained gradually from Joseph's eyes.

His hopes and dependence on Mrs. Green gradually disappeared.

He didn't say anything, but held onto Nicole's hand tightly. He had made his attitude clear.

"Good for you! Joseph, you chose Nicole in the end, right? Fine. From today onwards, you are no longer a Green."

Her words upset him more.

When the men stepped forward to lift Nicole, he did not stop them. Instead, he stood up and walked out of the basement with Nicole.

In the meantime, Joseph fixed his gaze on Nicole. He looked at the blood on her, as if he saw Bruce lying in a pool of blood.

He trembled and shrank, but he didn't say a word. The way he held back his sadness moved everyone.

Mrs. Green watched them walk out of the house. She smashed everything around her out of anger, which woke Zoe up.

She quickly ran down. Instead of seeing Joseph, she saw her grandma losing her temper.

This was the first time Zoe had seen this. She hid behind a pillar and shyly asked, "Grandma, what happened?"

Mrs. Green suddenly turned around.

Seeing Zoe so timid reminded her of Nicole, which displeased her.

"Why did you come down?"

Zoe held the pillar tightly and said, "I'm looking for Joseph."

"There is no longer Joseph. You only have one brother, which is Lucas. And from today onwards, you two are named after the Green, not Bush. Do you understand?"

"Okay."

Zoe watched Mrs. Green with a frightened look and did not dare to ask why.

Right now, she only wanted her mother.

Chapter 613 She Didn't Listen to Me

Just as they didn't know what to do, Finn came in.

"Miss Zoe, please come with me, OK?"

When she saw Finn, Zoe paused.

She knew Finn, who was on her mom's side.

Zoe raised her head and looked at Finn with her big cute eyes. "You will take me to see Mommy, right?"
She asked.

"Yes, I'll take you to see your mom."

Finn's words let down Zoe's guard. She then stood up.

Seeing that her clothes got dirty, Finn asked someone to get her changed.

While getting changed, Zoe did not resist at all.

After Finn took Zoe away, Mrs. Green suddenly asked, "Where's Zoe? Bring her over. I want to talk to her."

"Ma'am, Miss Zoe had been taken away by Mr. Wood."

"What?"

Laurel furrowed slightly.

"Who told him to do that?"

"We thought Mr. Wood was following your instructions. He is your man, so..."

"You pieces of crap! Find him out!"

She was enraged.

How dare he!

He betrayed her.

Out of the Green's house, Finn took Zoe directly to the military compound, where Gabrielle's parents' place was.

Finn kept a spare key last time when he went there.

Seeing Finn had brought her here, Zoe couldn't help but ask, "Where's my mother? Why did you bring me here?"

Finn did not know how to answer her. He could only say, "Good girl. Can we stay here for a few days? There are bad people back at home. Let's wait until your daddy comes back and he will take you back."

"I see. You're protecting me, aren't you? That person isn't my grandmother. She's a bad person, isn't she?"

Finn didn't know how to answer Zoe's innocent questions.

He had no idea Mrs. Green would be so cruel to Nicole.

Joseph immediately became a little nervous. He looked at Morgan, pleading for help. And Morgan found it hard to refuse him.

"Alright, I'll save her. Don't worry about that. But now she has a fever and is in a very unstable mood. It's bad for her health. You are too young to understand what I am saying. You'll know when you grow up. Anyway, just listen to me, okay?"

Joseph nodded.

Morgan hated to see him being sad. She touched his head and said, "Go have a rest. Leave your mommy to me. Don't worry. I will protect your mommy and cure her. If you fall ill, I won't save her."

Hearing that, Joseph immediately released Morgan, ran to the bed beside, lay down, pulled the blanket, and closed his eyes.

Morgan felt heartache for Joseph again.

She sighed and summoned the nurse to help her.

Nicole felt dizzy. For a moment, she felt she was in a furnace, and for another moment, she felt she had fallen into an ice cellar. This kind of feeling tortured her so much that she felt death might be easier. She was in extreme pain. She wanted to cry for help. She felt she saw the shadow of Samuel in the mist, but somehow, she could not see him.

She wanted to reach out for Samuel, but she thought of Jason's words.

"Did you forget that his mother is the murderer behind your grandmother's death? Two lives are between you and him. Will you two be happy together?"

Nicole stopped her movement. She thought of what her grandmother looked like when she died.

"No, no! No!"

Nicole tried her best to get rid of all this, but the more she tried, the clearer her grandmother's image was as if it was engraved into her mind.

Samuel walked farther and farther in the mist. She even heard Samuel's sigh.

He said, "Nicole, your uncle killed Vincent and my mother murdered your grandmother. How can we still be together?"

"Don't go! Samuel, please don't go!"

Nicole shouted, but Samuel was getting farther and farther.

Seeing her like this, Morgan sighed, "The sentimental ones will always get hurt. Why do you have to struggle like this?"

Unfortunately, Nicole couldn't hear her words.

Morgan took care of her when Nicole was in a daze. When Nicole was pushed into the ward again, Joseph quickly closed the door and jumped onto the bed. In a hurry, he had no time to take off his shoes.

Morgan knew Joseph was pretending to be asleep. She couldn't help but sigh again.

"Stop pretending. Your mommy is fine now."

Morgan was very envious of Nicole.

Even though she was hurt by her feelings for Samuel, she had such an adorable child who loved her and was ready to give up everything for her. Wasn't this not a kind of wealth she possessed?

Thinking of herself, Morgan couldn't help but feel a little sad.

Chapter 615 She Was Leaving

Nicole was in chaos.

She loved Samuel.

But at this moment, how could she see him? What could she say when she saw him?

What could Samuel do to his mother for her?

Or could he abandon the Green family for her?

Nicole's heart was filled with pain.

She didn't want to see him!

But she couldn't drop her children.

Without her, Mrs. Green might do terrible things to Lucas and Zoe.

Lucas was the successor of the Green family, so Mrs. Green wouldn't do anything to him, but what about Zoe?

Mrs. Green obviously didn't like Zoe. She kept Zoe just because she wanted to use Zoe's marriage as a tool to forge business connections when Zoe grew up.

Nicole didn't want her child to become a tool. She didn't want her daughter to suffer from all of this!

After thinking for a while, Nicole wrote a letter for Samuel and handed it to Morgan.

"What do you mean? You don't want to see him, so you wanted me to send this letter to him?"

Nicole nodded.

Giving up their love was painful, but being together was even more impossible and painful.

Since that was the case, it was better to preserve their great memories. They should separate and step out of each other's lives.

Looking at Nicole, Morgan whispered, "I thought because of your love for him, you would risk everything to see him and ask him to do justice for you."

Nicole was stunned for a moment.

Justice?

What was justice?

Love had lost its original beauty when it was mixed with too many things. She was the persistent one and refused to let it go. She tried her best to please everyone in the Green family, but in the end, she did not get anything or kept anything.

Grandma was right. She concealed the anguish she suffered to get love and marriage. But she did not get happiness in the end.

Nicole bit her lower lip and didn't say anything, but the light in her eyes told Morgan her answer.

Morgan didn't know what Nicole was thinking about. She whispered, "Pack up and get ready. We'll leave soon. After we leave, I'll send this letter to Samuel. Since you don't want to see him, that's for the best of everyone. What do you think?"

Nicole nodded.

Joseph was in Nicole's arms. When he heard that they were about to leave, he paused for a moment, but he remained quiet, like a porcelain doll.

Nicole remembered how innocent, cute, and cheerful Joseph was when she first met him. Who could imagine that this quiet and distressed child was Joseph?

What kind of harm did they do to Joseph?

Nicole hugged Joseph tightly, feeling extremely guilty.

Morgan had everyone tidy up, but the nurse suddenly barged in.

"Director, someone wants to see you."

"Who?"

Nicole's hand instantly tightly gripped the door handle.

What should she do?

Was she really going to meet him like this?

Nicole's heart was in her mouth.

Right now, her feelings were complicated. She did not know if she should greet Samuel.

At this moment, Laurence took out a pass card and handed it to Samuel.

"Mr. Green, this isn't the first time we've greeted each other. You should know my identity. I think Dr. Miller's car can go, right? Do you still think Dr. Miller will collude with Kemp's staff?"

Samuel looked at the pass card in Laurence's hand and asked, "Who is in the car?"

"Miss Adela and Doctor Clarkson. Miss Adela was in poor health. I heard that Miss Clarkson was skilled in medicine, so we come to see her. However, Miss Adela's illness is somewhat complicated. Half a day is not enough for the doctor to treat Miss Adela, so we can only trouble Miss Clarkson to come back with us to treat Adela."

Hearing what Laurence said, Samuel frowned.

"Open the window and I'll take a look. I hope you'll cooperate with our work. Since you're under the leadership of Dr. Miller, you naturally know why I do so. There's no need for me to say anything else, right?"

Laurence paused.

At this moment, Morgan opened the car window and Nicole quickly turned her face to the other side. The burn on her back was obvious.

Samuel saw that it was Morgan and immediately nodded. He looked at Nicole again, a little bit shocked.

He had heard from Nicole that Adela was similar to her. They looked really similar as he saw her profile.

Nicole was at home, so it was impossible for her to appear here. Moreover, his subordinates did not report anything wrong with Nicole to him. Therefore, Samuel only took a look and returned the pass card to Laurence. "You'd better not appear here again these days. There will be another military operation here in two days. It's not convenient for you to come."

"Thank you for your advice, Mr. Green."

After saying that, Laurence rolled up the window and the car quickly drove out.

Nicole heaved a sigh of relief after the car left, not nervous anymore. Joseph also climbed out of his seat.

However, Nicole quickly lay on the window of the car and looked at Samuel, who was gradually becoming far away. She felt painful as if her heart was stabbed.

Was he too close to them to recognize her?

They would never see each other again, would they?

Nicole's gaze was round Samuel.

He was still so handsome, calm and capable, which attracted her very much. But from now on, all of this could only remain in her mind.

She won't even have a chance to talk to him.

Nicole's eyes were filled with tears, but she kept enduring.

From today onwards, she really couldn't cry anymore.

Crying was useless except to make others think her fragile.

After Nicole's car left, Samuel suddenly felt empty in his heart, as if he had lost something important.

He covered his heart and suddenly felt a little pain.

"Samuel is back?"

After Mrs. Green heard the news of Samuel's return, Samuel entered the room before Mrs. Green got ready to face him.

"Where's Nicole?"

Samuel was only concerned about Nicole.

A trace of displeasure flashed through Mrs. Green's eyes.

"You went out for two days. You only look for Nicole as soon as you come back. I am really insignificant to you. After you married, you only cared about your wife and ignore your mother."

Samuel pretended not to hear Mrs. Green's complaint. He quickly ran up the stairs to the bedroom, searching inside and outside without finding Nicole.

His heart continued to sink.

He told himself more than once that everything was not true. Nicole was still excitedly waiting for him at home, but reality gave him a fierce slap.

Claudina wanted to say something when she saw Samuel, but when she saw Mrs. Green's gaze looking over, she quickly kept silent and left.

Samuel could not find Nicole anywhere and finally came to the hall.

Sitting on the sofa and drinking the tea, Mrs. Green became dissatisfied as she saw Samuel's upset look.

"As a man, you are controlled by a woman. You are incompetent."

"Where is she? What did you do to her?"

Samuel asked directly.

Mrs. Green paused for a moment and then replied, "What do you mean? Is this the way you talk to Mom? Ever since you married that woman, haven't you even wanted to leave me?"

"I'm asking you. Where is Nicole? What did you do to her?"

Samuel couldn't help but make his voice louder.

Perhaps for so many years, Mrs. Green had never seen Samuel like this, so she was naturally stunned.

"Tell me where did Nicole go? What happened?"

Samuel's expression was terrifyingly gloomy, as if he had crawled out of hell. His air was serious.

The subordinates around him gazed at one another. Then they looked at Mrs. Green.

Mrs. Green finally became ready to reply him. She was even angrier.

"Samuel, look at your attitude! Nicole ran away with the other man. I told you before! When will you stop deceiving yourself? That woman is not worth your love! Besides, her third uncle even killed your younger brother. You don't care about that. Have you forgotten?"

"Where's Nicole?"

Samuel didn't want to hear her words. "If you don't want to die, just tell me honestly. Otherwise, when I find out the truth, I will let all of you pay the price!" Samuel seized an attendant by the throat and asked angrily.

What he said was like a curse, frightening everyone so much that their faces turned pale.

"Samuel, what do you want?"

Laurel panicked.

Samuel said coldly, "Bring Mrs. Green into the room and serve her well. If you guys want to continue working in the Green family, don't let her out without my permission."

After he finished speaking, he coldly looked around. That cold gaze caused everyone to subconsciously shiver.

"Mrs. Green, please!"

Laurel had never thought that she would go through what she had done to Nicole now.

"How dare you!"

Laurel could not accept this fact.

Samuel did not say anything. But his men had known how cruel he was. They forcibly brought Laurel into the room and guarded her.

"Samuel, you are so ungrateful and vicious! You're not my own child after all. So, you treat me like this! Honey, did you see that in heaven? This is the son I have raised with so much effort. This is your good son!"

Laurel cried and shouted in the room.

"Mr. Green, you see...."

Jacob asked in embarrassment, afraid that it would spread and damage Samuel's reputation.

However, Samuel said coldly, "Ignore her. I want to know in detail what happened during my absence, especially about the Don family and Nicole. Everyone who knows the truth can tell me. The more detailed the better."

"Alright, I'll do it."

Jacob couldn't calm down.

He never expected that when everything was about to pass, Nicole would have an accident in the Green's. What was most unexpected was that the person who attacked Nicole was Laurel.

At this moment, Mark came with Jason.

"Samuel!"

As soon as Mark entered, he punched Samuel.

Samuel could dodge. But he did not, allowing Mark to punch him.

He felt a burning sensation in his nose. A hot current flowed out from his nose.

"Mr. Green!"

Jacob hurried to hand Samuel a tissue to cover his nose.

"Mr. Mark, if you have something to say, we can talk about it. What are you doing?"

"What am I doing? Good for your Green family. You guys forced my mother to death! Where's Laurel?"

Mark blushed furiously.

He had been away for five years and endured the humiliation, looking forward to finishing his mission and returning home to see his mother. Unexpectedly, when he came back, he only saw his mother's body.

He heard from the servants at home that Laurel forced his mother to commit suicide. Hearing this, Mark became angry and directly came here with Jason.

Jacob away and looked at Mark and said, "I just knew about this. You know that I just came back like you. You lost your mother, and I lost

Chapter 619 Then You Go Die

"Mr. Green, Mr. Lucas is missing."

"What do you mean, Lucas is missing?"

Samuel grabbed the phone and almost collapsed.

The man said with fear, "Mrs. Green asked us to bring Lucas to settle down in the other provinces. On the way, Mr. Lucas somehow heard our conversations. Hearing that something happened to Miss Nicole, he took advantage of our carelessness to escape. Sorry, Mr. Green. We did not take good care of Mr. Lucas."

"If you can't find Lucas, none of you will be spared easily."

Samuel said fiercely and threw the phone to the window.

A happy family just broke up like this?

Nicole left and Lucas disappeared. Zoe was with Finn now. What exactly happened?

Laurel's shrill cry came from the Green's.

"Samuel, you unfilial son! How dare you ask Claudina to spill hot water on me! You will suffer! You will be struck by lightning!"

Laurel cursed angrily. Her voice traveled far away. But someone covered her mouth soon.

Claudina spoiled hot water on Laurel's back. Laurel shivered in pain, but could not shout out.

Samuel didn't seem to hear it and directly started the car to the military compound.

Because of the special relationship, Samuel drove directly into the military compound.

When Samuel found Zoe, Finn said with guilt, "Mr. Green, I'm sorry."

"Nicole is your owner. You forced her grandmother to death? Finn, what the hell are you thinking?"

Samuel knew that Finn liked Nicole. The feelings in his eyes could not be hidden. But Samuel had never exposed it. In a sense, Finn's feelings for Nicole would make him risk everything to protect Nicole, which was also what Samuel wanted. However, Samuel had never expected that Finn would go to the Don family to force Nicole's grandmother to death.

Finn bit his lower lip and said painfully, "I had no choice but to do it. Mrs. Green was too tough at that time."

"I have thought that your feelings for Nicole would make you risk everything to protect her. I was wrong. At the critical moment, you still cared about yourself the most. Therefore, Finn, you are not good enough for her."

Hearing Samuel's words, Finn froze.

He had thought that he was the only one who knew his feelings for Nicole. He didn't expect that Samuel would say that today. He couldn't help but feel a little embarrassed. Thinking about that he didn't firmly defend Nicole at that time, Finn felt guilty again.

"I..."

"Although you saved Zoe, I won't be grateful to you. If you had saved Mrs. Don back then, perhaps the situation would be different now. I won't trust you anymore."

Samuel walked into Zoe's room.

Zoe had fallen asleep. But there were tears on her face. Her favorite chicken drumstick was placed on the table. But she even did not eat a single bite of it.

Samuel felt tortured.

He picked Zoe up.

I'm telling you, there was an old witch who had turned into my grandmother. She was so fierce in our house. She made

Chapter 620 The Best Way to Punish Her Is Not to Kill Her

"You know I can!"

Samuel coldly watched Laurel struggle. Although she was cursing, threatening, and using all kinds of methods, he still forced her to have the mute powder.

Laurel didn't want to swallow it.

She pressed her throat with her finger, trying to vomit. But someone slapped her on her back.

Laurel swallowed it all at once.

She covered her neck and cried out painfully, but Samuel ignored her.

"I remember you told me that you and Dad were close and that Dad left too early. He might have been lonely for so many years, so I built a small house in the Green family's cemetery. It fits you just right. Don't worry, I'll send someone to protect you and guarantee you the best material life."

Hearing these, Laurel widened her eyes again.

She said in a hoarse voice, "Are you trying to put me under house arrest? Are you afraid that I will reveal your evil deeds? Samuel, I will tell everyone what you did to me! You are as cruel as a wolf!"

However, Samuel did not have much reaction.

Laurel felt her throat burning. When she talked, she felt fierce pain. But unfortunately, no one cared.

She never imagined that Samuel would actually dare to do what she had done to Nicole.

She overestimated herself!

Samuel was a wolf!

She thought since she brought Samuel up, Samuel wouldn't have the courage or the reason to do anything to her. Otherwise, people would talk.

However, she had forgotten and misjudged how important Nicole was to him.

Laurel didn't want to give in, but now she had no other choice. She was just an old woman without strength.

Samuel had already arranged a car and was about to send Laurel away.

Claudina deliberately asked.

"Mr. Green, Laurel is still injured. Should we call a doctor for her?"

"No need. She misses my father so much that she can't wait to go. After all, her minor injuries are not a big deal. Even Nicole can do housework when she's injured. Laurel is a tough person and will definitely be alright. Don't you think so?"

Samuel looked at Laurel.

He smiled, but the bottom of his eyes was still cold.

"You..."

Laurel still wanted to say something, but her throat hurt so much that she could only cover it and glared at Samuel, wishing she could tear him into pieces.

Samuel, however, did not mind. He approached Laurel and whispered, "Without Nicole, I am a devil. Unfortunately, it was you who released the devil. What's the old saying? You have made your bed. Now lie in it."
