

Escape Wife 621

Chapter 621 She's the Most Important Right Now

"Shit!"

Mark and Jason suddenly turned pale.

Jason wasn't able to rush over immediately. When Mark ran over, the car which Laurel sat in had already exploded, and the injured bodyguards were around.

"Where's Mrs. Green?"

Mark did not see Laurel, and his expression was solemn.

A bodyguard said with hesitation, "Mrs. Green is in the car and didn't run out."

Did that mean Laurel was dead?

Mark felt that everything was so unbelievable.

Who was it that wanted to kill Laurel?

He didn't intend to kill Laurel, and Samuel probably wouldn't be so ruthless to kill her. Then who on earth did something to the Green family's car?

No matter what the answer was, Laurel was dead, and Mark felt that he might be the scapegoat.

He sighed and told Samuel about this.

Samuel frowned tightly.

"What caused the explosion?"

"I'm not sure, but I smell gunpowder. It should be the gunpowder someone put in the car that caused the explosion. Samuel, I'm telling you, I really didn't mean to kill her. I just..."

"I know. Don't bother with it anymore."

Hearing this, Mark was stunned for a while.

"Aren't you going to investigate?"

"No. She is dead. It's useless to investigate. No matter who wants to kill her, this is what she deserves. Now that it's destined to be like this, just let it be. We might as well use all the time to find Nicole. After all, she's the most important right now."

Samuel's tone was so cold. Mark suddenly felt maybe this was Samuel's idea.

However, he did not reveal this suspicion.

After the two finished the call, Mark and Jason quickly returned to the Don family.

Since Laurel was dead, they didn't have any grievances anymore and immediately invested time and effort in looking for Nicole.

Chapter 622 She Was a Mother

The window in the room was open!

Nicole remembered very clearly that she had checked the room before she went to bed. She also locked the door and made sure that the window was closed. Now that the window was open, something must have gone wrong!

She quickly got up, which made her wound hurt. Her teeth grimaced in pain.

Nicole quickly checked Joseph and found that he was still asleep. Only then did she breathe a sigh of relief.

Thinking of something, she quickly went to the bed to check her wallet and found that both her wallet and phone were missing.

They were stolen!

Nicole felt a headache.

She was already miserable. Why did she have to suffer from such hassles?

She had just borrowed money from Laurence. She was planning to leave here and find a place that no one knew about to live with Joseph. She didn't expect that reality wouldn't give her a chance to escape at all.

There was actually a thief!

Nicole almost cried.

She met so many bad things recently. What should she and Joseph do now?

They were new to this place, and they didn't have a penny now. How would they survive?

Nicole didn't want to wake Joseph up.

At this time, he could still sleep peacefully for a while. After leaving this place, they might even not have a shelter.

Nicole was reluctant to wake him up. But she had to, or it would be even more embarrassing when the staff in the hotel drove them away.

After struggling for a while, Nicole finally suppressed the depression.

She took a deep breath and told herself that everything would be okay.

The god must have seen her bad luck. It was only temporary. Everything would be fine later.

She kept cheering herself up.

When she calmed down, Nicole took a deep breath and pushed Joseph lightly.

Joseph opened his eyes, but he was still sleepy. He subconsciously drilled into Nicole's embrace.

Seeing this scene, Nicole felt even more upset.

Joseph had suffered a lot after being with her.

Now she was glad that Lucas and Zoe didn't come out with her. Otherwise, she really didn't know if she could support them.

Nicole did not say anything to Joseph as she carried him downstairs.

The landlady was still leaning there with her eyes closed, not caring about Nicole coming down.

Nicole knocked on the bar.

Only then did the landlady open her eyes.

"What?"

She sounded somewhat angry out of being awakened.

"My wallet and mobile phone were stolen from our room just now. Can you help me find them?" Nicole wrote.

This was the first time she felt the pain of losing her voice.

Even though she had used all her strength to shout, she still could not make any sound. Along with the sound of the heavy rain, she felt helpless.

The car stopped right front of Joseph.

The sharp braking sound was like a knife, almost piercing through Nicole's heart.

"You little rabbit! Why are you in the middle of the road? Get away!"

The driver cursed angrily. Because of the brake just now, his head knocked into the steering wheel and was hurt. Naturally, he was in a bad mood.

However, Joseph did not seem to hear it. He hurriedly went forward to pull the car door, intending to pull the driver down.

He wanted to save Mommy!

She was still unconscious!

When the driver saw that Joseph wanted to get on the car, he immediately locked the door and cursed, "Little bastard, you want to get on the car? No way! You are so dirty! Don't mess my car!"

Joseph wanted to call for help, but all his words stuck in his throat. He couldn't say one of them out.

"Let go! Do you hear me?"

Joseph grabbed the window tightly and didn't let go.

Seeing so, the driver said angrily, "If you don't let go, I'll roll up the window. Don't blame me if your hand breaks."

Joseph understood him and paused for a moment, but he still did not let go of his hand.

He couldn't let go!

After stopping such a car with great difficulty, he had to drag the driver down and take Mommy to the hospital no matter what.

Joseph kept holding the window tightly thinking of that.

Nicole was so scared that her entire body trembled. She hurriedly ran forward and did not stop with falling for several times.

The driver looked around and saw that no any people or surveillance were there. He said fiercely, "You made me do this!"

With that, he rolled up the window.

"No!"

Nicole shouted in her heart. She struggled to rush forward and carried Joseph away from the car.

The warm feeling made Joseph slightly stunned.

Nicole glared at the driver hatefully. If she could speak, she would not hesitate to scold him.

The driver was shocked. He didn't expect that there would be an adult rushing out. He thought that Nicole was just a passerby and cursed, "Hey, don't meddle in other people's affairs. This little bastard is courting death. You can't blame me."

The driver called Joseph 'little bastard', which made Nicole furious.

She directly stretched out her hand and grabbed the driver's hair before the car window was closed. She crashed his head into the steering wheel fiercely.

He was too hateful!

Joseph was so young. How could he treat a child like this?

Nicole angrily punished the driver with all her strength.

"Let go of me! You crazy bitch! Let go! Otherwise, I'll call the police!"

Olivia panicked.

Why?

When the doctor heard Olivia's shout, he quickly rushed back.

"Miss Olivia, what's wrong?"

"What's wrong with her voice? Why does she lose her voice?"

Olivia grabbed the doctor by the collar and asked.

The doctor was stunned and puzzled, resting his eyes upon Nicole.

"I don't know. I've examined her. There's no damage. Perhaps it's caused by external factors."

"What do you mean by external factors?"

"She might have taken some medicine or something else."

Hearing the doctor's words, Olivia felt burning anger.

Why didn't Samuel protect Nicole?

How could he let her be injured like this?

"Treat her. No matter how much it costs, you must heal her!" Olivia said, still grabbing the doctor by the collar.

"Yes, yes, yes. Miss Olivia, I will definitely do my best. Mr. Harper has investments in this hospital, so don't worry. I will definitely do my best."

"Please."

Olivia's cheeks were already bathed in tears.

Nicole was her best friend. It broke her heart to think what had happened to Nicole all these years.

The doctor said yes he would.

Nicole was pushed into the emergency room again for another examination.

Olivia's heart broke into pieces.

At this moment, her phone rang.

"Olivia, where are you? Why haven't you got home yet?"

There was an old voice.

Olivia paused for a moment and said, "I'm not going back today. A friend of mine has come to Land City. I need to be with her tonight."

Olivia's anxious look made it difficult for the doctor to tell her the truth.

Booth hurried forward and asked, "Doctor, how is she? Just let us know."

"Her throat can be healed, but health care here is not promising. You'd better take her to have an operation abroad. Besides, the kid she brought are always pushing us out of his world. Autism is really hard to treat. It requires the help of his family, but his family can't help, now being like this. So I think what's the most important thing now is to cure the adult. The child would have to wait."

Hearing that, Olivia said anxiously, "The child is only four years old. If he really becomes autistic, it will destroy him. He used to be very lively."

"But nothing we can do about it. You know, Miss Olivia, this is just a small town, not a big city, so...."

"I see. Doctor, please give them medicine. My family will help her get the surgery."

Booth's words stunned Olivia.

"Our family will?"

Booth put his arms round Olivia's shoulders and smiled, "Olivia, our family can do lots of things, really. Don't take yourself for an outsider. I told you. Your benefactor is mine, and your friend is also mine. Since she was kind to you back then, our family will not leave her now. Listen to me, treat her back trauma now. As for her throat, I'll ask Dad to call in experts from abroad."

"Really?"

A glimmer of hope appeared in Olivia's eyes.

"Sure. Don't worry. Leave it to me. I don't object to you staying here to take care of her, but you need to eat now."

Booth handed the food box to Olivia.

Olivia did not refuse. As long as Nicole could be cured, she could do anything.

Olivia devoured her dinner but she seemed to not enjoy it at all. Booth smiled and said in a satisfied tone, "If you need nutritional soup or something else, call me at any time and I'll ask the housekeeper to have someone to cook it."

Olivia nodded.

"Do you remember my phone number?" Booth asked.

"I have it in my phone."

Olivia didn't remember Booth's number but he had stored it in her phone directory.

Booth replied smilingly, "Alright. I'll be leaving now and ask Dad to look for an expert. Don't be too tired. If you need help, I'll find a nurse to take care of her at night."

"Oh, no need. I want to be with her alone."

Olivia didn't know what Nicole had gone through. She really only wanted to be with Nicole now.

Back then, after seeing Nicole's injuries, Olivia thought of going to Gabrielle for help, but if she did, Blair would know about it and then Samuel would also know about it. Once Samuel knew about it, he would surely come to see Nicole. However, Olivia didn't want Nicole to be with Samuel anymore.

Olivia brought Nicole back to the ward with the doctor. Joseph also came over. When he saw Olivia, he did not reject her. It really made her happy.

"Joseph, what do you want to eat? Look, this is for you."

Olivia had left Joseph the roasted pork knuckle and now she handed it to him.

Joseph took a look at it and raised it to Nicole's lips, hoping that Nicole would eat it.

"What are you doing?"

Seeing Nicole staring blankly at the computer screen, Olivia gave her a nudge.

Nicole suddenly came back to her senses. When she saw that it was Olivia, she heaved a sigh of relief.

She gestured to Olivia, asking about how Joseph was doing.

Olivia shrugged her shoulders and said, "Still the same. He's not speaking, just drawing in the room, alone. What a pity."

"He'll be fine, definitely!"

Nicole gestured.

"Yes, yes, yes. I know he will be fine. You should eat something now."

As she spoke, Olivia pushed the fruit and meal in front of Nicole.

"What were you reading?"

Nicole showed the recruitment page to Olivia.

Olivia frowned slightly.

"Jewelry design? Nicole, I know you majored in design, but automobile design and jewelry design are very different things. I know you really need money now, but you're not qualified enough for that. The ad says that it is an individual employer, but I've asked my father. This is posted by a large company which is looking for excellent designers. That's why they disguise as an individual employer. You are simply an outsider now. You can't take this order."

Hearing Olivia's words, Nicole's eyes dimmed.

Seeing her like this, Olivia hurriedly said, "Didn't you major in automobile design? You can check if there is any order on automobile design."

Nicole shook her head, "There's never been any order for individual designers in the automobile design industry. Designers are mostly hired by big companies and their hands are tied. Besides, if it was someone from the market who's hiring, then Samuel would definitely be able to find us."

Seeing her like this, Olivia said angrily, "How long are you gonna hide from him? Look at yourself! He should be hiding from you! Don't tell me you're gonna abandon your favorite automobile design just to not see him?"

Nicole stroked the brush in her hand.

She still remembered that Samuel had said that he designed a new type of car for them, but unfortunately, she hadn't had the opportunity to see what it looked like.

If she wanted to completely cast away Samuel and everything that happened between them from the bottom of her heart, she had to erase all traces, including automobile design, which she had studied for five years.

Although it was painful, Nicole knew that she had to give up something in order to gain whatever else.

Holding the brush in her hand, she wrote, "Automobile design and jewelry design are both design. I was an automobile designer, so naturally I can be a jewelry designer, too. I believe myself. I can go to night school or teach myself."

"Why are you doing this?"

Olivia felt so sorry for Nicole, but she also knew that Nicole wouldn't change her mind once she was determined to do something.

Olivia had never asked what had happened between Nicole and Samuel, but she didn't see any hatred towards Samuel from Nicole's eyes. There were only helplessness and agony.

She patted Nicole's shoulder and said, "Don't worry about the cost. I got it. I couldn't finish college without your funding. Now, I finally got a chance to repay you. Is that OK?"

Chapter 627 That's All She Left Me

"Mr. Brown, what if she doesn't agree?"

Jacob's heart skipped a beat at the question.

Yeah, if Nicole was really hiding from them, it was very likely that she might not agree.

"Check her IP address."

This was the best idea that Jacob could come up with. He really couldn't bear Samuel torturing himself.

The guy was on it.

Jacob hurriedly packed his things and drove to the Green's.

After Laurel left, Nicole and Joseph were sent away, and Lucas was no longer there, either. This mansion was suddenly empty. If it weren't for Zoe still being around, this place would be literally derelict.

Jacob arrived at the Green's and went straight to Samuel's room. He was in such a hurry that he didn't even reply to the bodyguards' greetings.

The room smelled of tobacco.

Samuel didn't draw the curtains in the morning. He just sat on the floor, smoking. The cigarette butts had already piled up several ashtrays, and smoke had permeated the entire room, so his face couldn't be seen clearly.

Ever since Nicole left, Samuel had always wallowed in this state.

"Mr. Green."

Jacob called, but Samuel did not react.

He rushed in front of Samuel and took the cigarette from his hand, then extinguished it.

"Mr. Green, you can't do this anymore. Your body will collapse."

"Does anyone care? Will she care?"

Samuel's voice turned hoarse.

Seeing him like this, Jacob was agonized and whispered, "I saw a job application today. It looks a bit like Nicole. I have already sent people to check on it. If there is any news, I will let you know immediately. Mr. Green, I think she will come back."

However, Samuel still didn't respond.

He looked blankly at the quilt and pillow on the bed, uttering no word.

Jacob looked at him and sighed, "Mr. Green, it's been several days since you last went to bed. You're always on the floor, and your body can't stand it."

As he spoke, he tried to make the bed, but was stopped by Samuel.

"Don't. That's Nicole's bed. She always liked to sleep there. I can still smell her on it. That's all she left me."

Samuel's pitiful tone brought a lump to Jacob's throat.

"Mr. Green, I'm serious. The applicant is called Catherine. She has been in the United States for five years and her English is at level 8. All these are similar to Nicole's."

Samuel suddenly shivered.

"What did you say?"

"My men are on it. We'll soon have a clue."

"I'll do it myself. Give me her IP address."

Samuel suddenly stood up and rushed into the study like he was pumped.

Chapter 628 I Will Never Let You off

"What's wrong? What happened?"

Booth couldn't help but ask when he saw Nicole being pale after checking the balance in her account.

Nicole gestured, "I didn't get paid."

"Why?"

"I don't know."

It was payday today, but Nicole didn't receive the salary.

After a month of enlightening Joseph, Nicole found that he had gotten better. She had planned to take Joseph to a mental health hospital for treatment after getting paid this month.

Joseph was a good child. Nicole indeed hoped him not to suffer from autism anymore. However, why didn't she get paid today? What was going on?

Nicole turned on the computer and asked the supervisor.

According to the supervisor, it was because the financial personnel made a mistake. Then, she was told to go to the company with the record of translations. After checking the bill, she would be paid by cash.

To Nicole, it didn't make sense.

How could the financial personnel make such a stupid mistake?

But if she didn't do as the supervisor said, she would lose the money.

Although she got much less than before, she worked hard and wanted to support herself and Joseph with the money.

She didn't want to be a freeloader, staying in the Kent's like this.

Booth frowned and said, "Why? It seems strange. Nicole, don't worry. I'll drive you there. If they dare to bully you, I'll help you."

As soon as she heard him, Nicole smiled.

Booth was warm-hearted.

After spending a month with him, Nicole envied Olivia having such a good younger brother.

Olivia leaned against the door and said to Nicole, "I'm a little jealous. Why do I feel like you're more like his sister than me?"

"Olivia, don't be jealous. I'll buy you delicious food later."

Booth raised an eyebrow at Olivia, looking extremely charming.

"That doesn't work for me. I'm not those girls who will be tempted by you."

Seeing Olivia and Booth bickering with each other, Nicole couldn't help but feel a little sad.

She had longed to spend a lifetime with Samuel, squabbling as well as loving each other.

Why did she think of him again?

Didn't she decide to forget him?

Nicole found it hard to forget Samuel.

Olivia exchanged looks and shook their heads when seeing that Nicole was

Chapter 629 It Won't Be Him

Samuel felt like Nicole was watching him through surveillance cameras.

Her eyes were as clear and fascinating as before.

Samuel reached out his hand and gently touched Nicole's face on the screen.

She was thinner, and her skin got dark. However, she seemed to be more energetic.

Did she indeed live a happy life after leaving him?

Samuel felt mixed, mostly upset. His guess that she probably was joyful after leaving him wrung his heart.

"What's wrong? Nicole? Is there a problem?"

Booth found Nicole staring at surveillances on the wall and couldn't help but ask.

Nicole turned around and shook her head with a smile. Then, she cast a glance at surveillance cameras again.

She perceived that someone was watching her through cameras.

She was uneasy as she failed to prevent herself from such a sudden and strange feeling.

Looking at Nicole, who was vigilant, Samuel laughed out.

"Mr. Green, are you happy about Mrs. Green's doubt?"

Jacob asked in confusion.

Samuel had been working hard to look for Nicole over the past month. As he did hardly want to take a meal, he lost so much weight that his cheek-bones became prominent.

But as soon as he saw Nicole, he calmed down and looked gentle, with an air of warmth.

Samuel smiled gently and said, "I'm glad that she remains vigilant when I'm not by her side."

Jacob failed to understand Samuel and did not ask further.

Nicole at last looked away from cameras. After looking at her for a while with a surprised expression, Booth glanced at surveillance cameras and tapped on the table with his fingers.

"Who is monitoring this office?"

The accountant was shocked at his question and hurriedly said, "It's security guards in the security office."

"Are you all working under surveillance?"

Hearing Booth's question, the accountant flushed and hesitated, "Since accounting department is the most important department of the company, we have to work under surveillance."

"I see."

The accountant became nervous, as Booth answered in a meaningful voice.

Seeing the accountant was scared, Nicole could not help but tug at Booth's sleeve.

Seeing Nicole's action, Samuel became jealous again. His expression changed.

Apart from him, Nicole had never done so in front of a man. She hadn't pulled Tim by the sleeve either. However, she made an exception for Booth. Obviously, Booth had a place in Nicole's heart.

Samuel felt upset.

Before he succeeded in finding Nicole, he kept telling himself that as long as Nicole was happy, he would be satisfied. However, when he saw Nicole smiling at another man, he realized that he couldn't bear it at all.

Samuel felt his blood on fire.

How he wished that Nicole could recognize him and that they could recognize each other right here. If so, he could take her home. However, with what Laurel had done to Nicole and with Mrs. Don's death, Samuel lost confidence in himself. He didn't have the guts to alarm Nicole.

'If she leaves again, will I ever find her?'

Samuel did not know.

He could sense Nicole walking over step by step, getting closer and closer. He could even hear her heartbeat.

Samuel took a deep breath and tried his best not to think of greeting Nicole. He directly stood up, paid the bill, and then left without a word.

Nicole was only a few steps away from Samuel when Samuel suddenly stood up and left.

She watched him leave. She really wanted to rush forward. There was a voice in her head telling her this, but her legs refused to move.

"Nicole, do you know him?"

Booth asked curiously.

Nicole shook her head.

It couldn't be Samuel!

She turned around and walked towards the car in a daze.

Booth didn't ask any further. He hurriedly followed her and got into the car with Nicole.

They quickly drove back to the Kent's.

When Olivia saw them, she hurriedly asked, "Where did you go?"

"To the finance department of the YT Group. Nicole must get paid. The bill they gave her was wrong."

Booth hurriedly said.

Olivia looked at Nicole and found that she was somehow not quite herself.

"Booth, what's wrong with Nicole?"

"I don't know. She invited me to dinner and saw a man at the stall. Maybe she knew him. When she was getting closer to that man to take a look, the man actually got up and left. After that, Nicole has been like this."

Olivia frowned.

"What does he look like?"

"I don't know. I didn't see his face."

Olivia frowned even more deeply.

She went in front of Nicole and asked, "Nicole, are you alright?"

"Yeah. Just a little tired. Where's Joseph?"

Nicole said in sign language.

Olivia whispered, "In the room. He just fell asleep."

"I'll go see him."
