Chapter 661 Don't You Feel Shameful for Saying That?

Seeing Nicole's smile, Samuel was confused,

'Instead of being angry, she was smiling at me?'

Samuel overwhelmed by happiness. It was like spring with flowers blossoming.

However, Nicole pinched Samuel in a secret way.

"Ah!"

Samuel grunted. His facial expressions are rich, but he didn't do anything.

Soseph watched them flirting, her chest heaving with anger. She tried to suppress her anger, smiling and saying, "Mr. Green, Mrs. Green, shall we go in? They've been waiting for us for a long time."

When Soseph called her "Mrs. Green", Nicole could hear Soseph gnashing her teeth.

However, the more Soseph acted like this, the happier Nicole felt.

Samuel figured out why Nicole was not angry, but he didn't care. He just wanted Nicole to be happy.

"Let's go in. We can take this as a trip and have some specialties. The fruits and food here are your favorites, right? Let's have a try?"

Nicole nodded.

Without looking at Soseph, Samuel brought Nicole inside.

Soseph went behind them, glaring at Nicole. She hated Nicole's guts!

"Mr. Green, this room."

Soseph managed to suppress her anger and brought them into the private room named "Heaven".

Nicole looked at Soseph with new eyes.

'It was good for her to swallow her anger. She did learn something these days.'

When Samuel and Nicole entered the room, several men stood up.

"Mr. Green! It's a real pleasure. This way, please."

A man tried to shake hands with Samuel, but Samuel avoided it.

"Excuse me."

Samuel smiled, yet with a sense of alienation.

Seeing this, the other men felt embarrassed. Then, they saw Nicole, who was beside Samuel.

Nicole was so beautiful that they couldn't move their eyes from her. Only when Soseph came in and coughed did they stop staring at Nicole.

"Mr. Green, is this your secretary? She's gorgeous."

Samuel smiled and said, "This is my wife."

The men were stunned, looking at Soseph.

"What do you mean, Mrs. Green?"

Brian asked at once when he noticed Samuel's expression. He was afraid that Nicole would go back on her word.

Samuel coughed and said, "My wife means that money is not an issue. We'll invest twice as much as Soseph did."

Hearing his words, Soseph looked extremely angry. Nicole gave an elegant smile instead.

Brian was in charge of the tourism in this place, so he was certainly happy about that. He said immediately, "Oh, how forthright and generous you are, Mrs. Green."

"As long as I can kick her out of the field of tourist industry, money is never a problem."

Nicole gestured and Samuel interpreted what she meant.

Soseph stood up with a jerk and stared at Nicole with a sullen look. She enunciated each word clearly, "Nicole, don't go too far. Every dog has his day, and every man his hour. Aren't you afraid that something unexpected will finally happen to you?"

"If anything happens to my wife, do you think you can just leave Bordeaux and get away with it? Soseph, you'd better pray for my wife."

Samuel's face darkened at once.

Soseph snorted coldly. She slammed the door and left with a scowl.

Since there was an awkward silence in the room, Brian tried to break the ice. He said, "Mr. Green and Mrs. Green, many hands make light work. Why not cooperate and make more money? Besides, since Soseph's investment has indeed contributed to the development here, it won't be appropriate for us to withdraw her money now. We are all friends. What about we meeting halfway and doing what Mrs. Green had said at first. I think that's a good idea."

"You think? But my wife is upset."

Samuel smiled and said with a casual air, "Well, I know it's of no use to talk to a nobody like you. I'll just gonna call your director. I remember his name is Hank Steele. Am I right?"

Brian was stunned when he heard that Samuel had accurately said the name of the director of Tourism Bureau. He forced a smile at once, and said, "Mr. Green, let's go back and talk about it first. Is that okay?"

"Sure!"

Samuel replied without any hesitation.

The others hastened to ask the waiter to serve the dishes, but Samuel stopped them.

"It's fine. We'll go out for a walk."

With that, he left with Nicole.

Seeing them walk out of the room, the others also left one after another.

After she came out with Samuel, Nicole felt much better. It was really good to see Soseph's face twisted in anger.

Samuel noticed that Nicole was feeling refreshed and in a good mood. He said with a smile, "Happy now?"

"Yes... but will you really allow me to invest if Soseph does quit?"

Nicole gestured to him quickly.

"Of course," Samuel said with affection.

Nicole was slightly surprised by his attitude and then turned her face away.

"Are you okay? You know, as long as you're happy, I don't care how much I spend. Money means nothing to me."

Nicole replied with a nod.

They two trod casually and saw that there seemed to be a market not far away. Nicole's spirits rose at once.

Nicole was stunned and narrowed her eyes.

They must be the ones in the evening. To be precise, they were probably Soseph's men here to cause trouble.

Nicole looked in the direction of bathroom where Samuel was taking a shower. She then tiptoed towards the balcony and made a quick grab. Then, a man was pulled out.

Right at that moment, that man threw something in.

Nicole was slightly startled, and then was grabbed by someone. She then kicked that man out of the balcony straightaway.

"Samuel?"

From his breath, Nicole recognized the person who just grabbed her.

Wasn't he taking a bath?

Why was he out all of sudden?

Nicole was dragged out of the bedroom by Samuel, with that question being at the verge of her tongue.

Then, a loud noise came from the bedroom, which rocked the whole house.

Nicole was stunned.

Karina ran out of her bedroom, rubbed her eyes and asked with gestures, "What's wrong?"

The alarm sounded outside.

Nicole wore a grim face.

She quickly pulled Karina into her arms. Since Karina was thinly clad, Nicole took Samuel's coat from the living room and put it on her.

Samuel was kind of not happy about that, but he didn't say anything. He tugged Nicole and whispered, "Let's go out first."

At this time, Nicole discovered that Samuel was dressed neatly and he didn't seem to be taking a shower when all happened.

"You lied to me?"

"No, I'm just quick in dressing myself."

Having given that explanation, Samuel took Nicole and Karina out of the suite.

The waiter and manager of the hotel were here.

When the lobby manager saw Samuel, he hurriedly ask, "Mr. Green, what happened just now?"

"I don't know. Someone broke in through the window and threw something into our room. Fortunately, we left in time. Otherwise, it's hard to tell what would happen to us. Is that the way your hotel security system works?"

Samuel had a sullen face.

Previously, he perceived that someone was stalking Nicole when they were in the pavilion, but Nicole denied that. He didn't find an opportune time to ask her again, so he just pled to turn in with Nicole in her room.

If he wasn't here.... Samuel didn't dare to think about the consequences.

The lobby manager was blushed by Samuel's criticism.

"We will make improvements. Mr. Green, let's go in and see what's going on."

"Karina!"

Nicole and Samuel paused at the same time, and then quickly ran outside.

Karina had disappeared from their sight.

All they could see was a van speeding forward.

Nicole tried to chase after it, but was stopped by Samuel.

"If someone wants to use Karina to ask us to do something, we don't need to chase after them. They will call us."

Nicole looked at Samuel and gestured, "What if it's not what we thought? What if it's just a human trafficker?"

"Do you think it's okay if I ask Finn's people to look into it?"

Samuel knew that Nicole and Finn had problems, but Finn was the only person he could count on here.

Nicole was stunned for a moment, and a trace of struggle flashed through her eyes. However, when she remembered Karina's safety, she still nodded.

Seeing Nicole agree, Samuel immediately called Finn and told him the license plate number.

Nicole and Samuel returned to the hotel.

Their room was in a mess, as if a thief had just broken into it.

Nicole knew that they didn't have anything particularly valuable to steal. It seemed that it was just a warning or an outburst of anger from Soseph.

Her eyes were full of anger.

It seemed that Soseph would never stop harassing her.

Samuel also got a dark look and thought it was time to teach Soseph a lesson.

Samuel called Finn right in front of Nicole.

"Find out where Soseph lives by any means, cause her a car accident and put her to bed for a while."

Nicole frowned, but she didn't stop him.

After Samuel hung up the phone, Nicole's phone rang.

She looked at the unknown number on her phone, narrowed her eyes and put it on speaker.

"Mrs. Green, I know you can't speak, so just listen to me, okay? You must be looking for Karina, right? Let me introduce myself first. I am the chief of Paddy Village, and Karina is a child of our village. I have indeed neglected this child for many years, and now that I know she does want to come back, we have brought her back. After all, it is our duty to take care of the children of our village. Thank you for your hospitality."

Nicole and Samuel were stunned, as if they hadn't expected that those who took Karina were from her village. Nicole looked annoyed. She tried to gesture, but stopped in frustration when she realized that the person on the other end of the phone couldn't see her.

Nicole didn't care about Finn's mood at all. If this matter weren't urgent, she wouldn't ask for help from Finn.

Nicole sent a message to Samuel, asking if he could pass her the map of Paddy Village.

Samuel was on his way here.

He saw Nicole's message and looked at the phone in his hand. He couldn't help but shake his head and replied, "It's useless to have a map. The terrain in the village is complicated, so we need to send one man to go in to explore it."

"Oh, then I'll wait for Finn's men to arrive."

Samuel was surprised to see Nicole's message, and he smiled slightly.

Nicole did not move rashly now and could keep her equanimity. Her change really made Samuel feel gratified. Thinking of how Nicole was trained by himself, Samuel felt proud.

"Yes, you're right. Wait for me. I'll be there soon."

"Are you coming here?"

Nicole was a little surprised.

"Aren't you talking nonsense? As you're here, I must come here. I don't stop you from saving people, and I don't want you to move alone."

Seeing Samuel's words, Nicole became slightly relieved.

"Alright, I'll wait for you. I'll send you my location. Come to meet me. The village is already on guard. We can't rashly go in now. I heard that Soseph asked them to do so. If murder is legal, I really want to kill Soseph now."

Samuel understood Nicole's mood.

He wanted to kill Soseph, too. But he couldn't.

"Let's wait and see. Soseph will get her comeuppance."

"Comeuppance? It's too late to wait for the God to punish her."

Nicole had never been this angry as this moment.

"We'll talk about Soseph later. It's important to save Karina first. Send me your location. I'm arriving."

Seeing Samuel's message, Nicole quickly sent him her location.

When they met, Samuel discovered that this place was only five kilometers away from Paddy Village.

At the same time, Finn and his men arrived.

When Nicole saw Finn, she kept a straight face. She directly gestured to Samuel, "Tell them."

Samuel placed a map in front of them and said, "This is the map of Paddy Village. However, the changes in the village in recent years are very big. We need to send a person to go in and explore it now. We need to figure out the place where Karina is imprisoned and the facilities inside, so you guys go in first."

Samuel felt that Nicole was putting him on the spot and punishing him.

Seeing Samuel's depressed look, Nicole suddenly laughed.

"You're still laughing? Who do you think I am?"

Samuel got even more depressed.

He looked at Nicole with resentment, which made her let out a bigger laugh.

It was rare to see Samuel like this.

Seeing that Samuel was about to get angry, Nicole quickly stopped laughing and gestured, "You don't need to make your peace with her. Just kidnap her and let her send an SOS to Carl."

"I won't go. Finn can do that."

Samuel refused, looking blue.

He really hated Soseph, and now he had to kidnap that woman. Who knew if that woman would take this opportunity to take advantage of him?

When he was mentioned, Finn immediately said, "I can do it."

Nicole finally looked at Finn, but at a cold glance. Then, she shook her head and gestured, "No one can do it except you. Do you think that Soseph wouldn't perceive anything if there was a traffic accident? She would only be more cautious and harder to get close to. She is a shrewd woman."

Samuel turned silent.

He couldn't refute Nicole's words, so he got even more depressed.

"Yes or no?"

Nicole hurried him.

Samuel's expression became gloomy.

"Aren't you worried that I'll be seduced by her?"

"If you could be seduced, then you were not my Mr. Right. Why should I be worried?"

Nicole's words drove him mad.

He realized that Nicole really didn't take him seriously anymore.

He boiled with rage but couldn't vent his anger.

Seeing that Nicole was still waiting for his reply, he nodded in grievance.

"Alright then, hurry up and go. I'll wait until you kidnap Soseph, and then start our rescue."

Nicole gave a sunny smile, but Samuel felt bitter in his heart.

Nicole made him seduce another woman just for Karina. If it was someone more important, what would Nicole do?

The more he thought about it, the sadder he felt. He couldn't help saying, "You have to compensate me afterwards."

"Ma'am, Soseph didn't have an accident. She didn't get in the car and let someone else drive her car out. In that case, we might alert her."

When Finn called, Nicole was a little surprised.

It looked like Soseph was quite cautious.

She hung up the phone and sent a message to Finn.

"I see. Let your people continue to keep a close watch on her."

Then Nicole quickly sent a message to Samuel.

"Where are you? Soseph didn't get in the car. The one who had an accident wasn't Soseph. Don't go there."

Samuel frowned when he saw the message.

Soseph didn't get in the car?

That meant Soseph must have received the message by now. Perhaps she had already hid somewhere and might even send a message to Carl to let them transfer Karina somewhere else.

Thinking of this, Samuel instantly sent a message to Nicole.

"Stay at the entrance of Paddy Village. Perhaps they will transfer Karina. If they do, I won't be able to come back now. You and Finn try your best to save her."

Nicole nodded and told Samuel to hurry back.

Her eyebrows knit in a frown.

Anyway, this was not the Seapolis City. They couldn't have no respect for the law.

Nicole sent Booth a message.

"Do you know the police in Bordeaux?"

Booth thought that something had happened to Nicole and hurriedly asked, "Did you get into any trouble?"

"No, I need some help from the police. However, the management system here is a bit troublesome, so I wonder if you know anyone here."

Hearing Nicole's explanation, Booth heaved a sigh of relief.

"OK. It's indeed a hassle to deal with issues there, especially when it comes to the management of outsiders. One of my comrade-in-arms is a police officer. I'll introduce him to you. You can tell him directly."

"Alright, thank you."

"My pleasure. Just bring me some good stuff when you come back."

Booth smiled and forwarded his comrade's Twitter account to Nicole.

Afraid that his comrade didn't know about Nicole's situation, he made an explanation.

When Nicole added her comrade, he quickly replied.

"What can I do for you? Madam."

"Someone in Paddy Village detained a child illegally. We cannot enter the village. They are likely to leave the village with the child. Therefore, we need your help."

Nicole typed quickly.

"Alright, we'll be there. Don't interfere. If anything happens here, it'll be troublesome once you interfere," Booth's comrade soon replied.

"Alright, thank you."

"You're welcome. I'm Kale. If you need help, you can call me anytime. Booth and I are very good friends."

Kale's words comforted her as she knew it would be too late for her to go back now.

"No! Samuel!"

Soseph's voice rose in pitch.

Samuel wanted to stop, but now he just wanted to get the medicine first because of the terrible headache. Unfortunately, the medicine flew out because of the high speed.

When he stepped on the brakes, the car was too fast to stop and fell down the cliff.

Soseph cried out.

Her voice rang in his ears.

Samuel knew that he was going to die!

It was impossible for them to survive while falling over such a high cliff.

All he thought about was Nicole.

He wondered if Nicole would be able to withstand it when she knew about his death.

He didn't mean to.

He wanted to spend the rest of his life with her, but unfortunately, he now lost his chance.

Samuel got a bad headache, but he still took out his phone when the car was falling and sent a message to Nicole.

"Nicole, please remember that I love you!"

He edited the message for a long time because the car bumped. Even though his arm was scratched, he was reluctant to let go of his phone.

Seeing that the text had been sent successfully, he smiled out of relief.

He had too much to say, but he had no time.

He knew that Nicole would stay strong.

She would.

She would stay strong for the kids, wouldn't she?

Samuel smiled and fell down the cliff with Soseph. And there was a single tear on his cheek.

After Nicole settled Karina down, she heard her phone ringing.

She picked it up and saw that it was a message sent by Samuel.

Seeing the words on the phone, Nicole smiled faintly.

What was he man up to?

She replied to Samuel, "When are you coming back? Let's go have delicious food."

However, Samuel did not respond.

Nicole thought that he was driving or busy, so she didn't take it seriously.

Because of this incident, Karina was frightened and couldn't sleep well. So, Nicole stayed with her.

As time passed, Samuel still didn't return.

Nicole started to feel unsettled.

Where did he go?

Didn't she tell him to come back soon?

Besides, how could he assure that she could handle this rescue thing about Karina alone?

Nicole sent another message to Samuel.

"Where are you? When will you be back?"

However, Samuel didn't answer the text.

Nicole was pulled back by a force, and she was enraged.

She punched Finn, but Finn didn't let her go. Karina ran over to hug Nicole and cried.

Kale's face turned pale with fear when he saw it.

He hadn't found the missing ones yet. He couldn't afford for one more person jumping down.

Kale asked the police to separate Nicole and Finn and assigned a female police officer to comfort Nicole. He wanted to send Nicole back to the hotel, but she did not seem to listen at all.

Nicole kept looking at the cliff with dull eyes as if she lost her soul.

Finn stayed beside her.

Nicole had been so furious that her fingernails scratched his face and blood oozed out.

A policeman saw that and gave Finn a tissue.

But Finn shook his head. He stared at Nicole, afraid that she would commit suicide again.

Karina was crying and gesturing to apologize, but all of Nicole's expressions seemed to be taken away.

The search team searched for more than an hour and finally made progress.

"Kale, we found them. One died and one was injured."

Hearing the words, Nicole stood up.

'One was dead and one was injured?'

'Who was dead?'

'Who was injured?'

However, she couldn't make a sound and helplessly looked at the police officer.

Finn stepped forward and asked, "Who's injured?"

"The man. He is seriously injured. The woman had lost her heartbeat."

After hearing this, Nicole's body seemed to be drained of all her strength by someone. She blacked out and fell backwards.

Karina shouted loudly.

Her voice attracted everyone's attention.

Moisture glittered faintly in the corners of his eyes when Finn saw this.

He sent Nicole to the car with the police officer and directly drove her back to the hotel.

Nicole didn't know how long she had slept for. She only knew that when she was awake, the room was dark.

It was dark outside.

And there seemed to be a panting sound in the room.

Samuel?

She sat up quickly, only to see Finn lying on the edge of her bed. When he saw her wake up, he sat up and asked, "Ma'am, how do you feel?"

"Who told you to be here? Get lost!"

Nicole took out her phone and typed thrillingly.

Nicole quickly got out of the bed.

On her way to the door, she saw Karina walking out as well, covered in a coat, eyes drowsy.

"Go back to sleep. I'll get the door."

Nicole gestured to Karina.

Still a little concerned, Karina leaned against the wall and waited.

Nicole didn't insist anymore and opened the door.

Someone rushed in and held Nicole tight in her arms.

"Nicole, are you alright?"

The familiar aura struck her, and then a warm feeling welled up inside her.

It's Olivia.

Olivia let go of Nicole. Seeing that she looked alright, she punched her and said, "You scared me! Can you even give it a break? Accidents have never stopped these days. Can you even imagine how worried I was when I learned from Booth that something bad happened to you and Samuel? My heart nearly stopped!"

It felt heart-warming to listen to Olivia's complaint.

"Not me. It was Samuel."

Nicole explained.

"I know, I know. But I'm more worried about you if it was him. I know you would rather be the one who was injured. Listen, whatever happens to Samuel, you gotta get over it. What else can you do? Die for him? What the hell are you thinking?"

The Olivia somehow got angrier.

Nicole didn't argue because she knew she meant well.

She did lose all hope to live when she found out Samuel might be dead. If Olivia had been there, she would have probably beaten her up.

"Where's Booth? Why are you here alone?"

Nicole gestured.

Olivia paused, and then suddenly patted herself on the head and said, "Oops, I left him at the airport."

Nicole was brought up short.

Olivia hurriedly took out her phone and called Booth.

"Darling, where are you?"

Booth couldn't be more miserable.

"Thank you for thinking about me finally!"

Standing in the cold wind, Booth said sarcastically as he stared at pieces of luggage in front of him.

Olivia knew it was her fault, so she smiled apologetically and said, "Well, I was just worried about Nicole. I forgot you were there with me when I got off the plane. So I directly hailed a taxi and left. Why are you so stupid? You could have got a taxi as well."

"Yeah, right. You left your luggage to me and ran away like that. I picked up your luggage, only to find you were gone. I thought you were going to the bathroom or something. Suddenly it was it my fault to be waiting for you?"

Booth kept getting more aggrieved.

Olivia was even more embarrassed.
