Chapter 701 I Can Do It by Myself

"..."

Maia blushed. Her cheeks were as red as an apple, tempting Tim.

He swallowed unconsciously.

Having dated so many women, it was the first time he had such a magical feeling.

"Don't stare at me!"

Maia was embarrassed. Tim's gaze made her even more embarrassed that she couldn't even lift her head.

Tim turned away, his heart pounding so violently that it would jump out of his throat any time.

They were breathing heavily and the vibe was strange.

Neil didn't know whether to interrupt them or no.

He cleared his throat in embarrassment.

Realizing Neil was still in the room, Maia's face turned redder.

Tim returned to his usual self. He asked, "When are you leaving? When you are away, who will look after Maia?"

Neil glanced at Maia and said in an undertone, "I asked another doctor to take over my job. Don't worry. He's an expert and Maia only needs to get some rest."

"Maia needs a good doctor. Please, do find someone trustworthy. I'll be grateful to you."

Neil was surprised.

"Are you a friend of Samuel?"

Tim did not answer.

Listening to their conversation, Maia finally knew why Nicole came here.

"Isn't Lady Bush here for the contract?"

"Of course not. Not everyone is a workaholic who only cares about contracts and making money. Silly girl."

Tim rubbed her head, picked up the thermos and said, "I'm going to get you some hot water. If there's anything you need, call the nurse. Don't push yourself too hard. Do you hear me?"

"Yeah."

Maybe because Tim was being too gentle, or because she was still embarrassed. Maia was very obedient, like she had never been. She avoided looking into his eyes. Thinking about this, Tim could help but smile faintly.

Neil didn't want to be the third wheel. It was better for him to leave.

"Well, if there's any problem, the next doctor will deal with it. I've already informed him. I'm going back with Nicole tomorrow morning. Have some good rest and do what you have been told. Okay?"

"Sure. Thank you, Neil."

Maia nodded.

Neil left the ward.

Nicole stood outside the ward. Just as she was about to open the door, she saw Tim walk out.

Tim suddenly didn't know how to confront Nicole.

Nicole didn't expect to see him, but said with a smile, "You're here. Is Maia still sleeping?"

"Yeah. You came to see her?"

Tim knew he had asked a silly question.

Of course, Nicole came to see Maia, not him.

"Please come in. I'll go wash my face."

Tim walked past Nicole.

But she stopped him.

"Tim."

He stopped but did not turn around.

Recalling what had happened yesterday, Nicole looked at him. She patted Tim on the shoulder and whispered, "I hope you can be happy. Maia is a good girl, but if you marry her without telling her the truth, I will feel very sorry for both of you. When Samuel recovers, I will go beg Morgan. As long as Morgan agrees to cure Maia, I believe that she will definitely be alright."

Tim turned to look at Nicole, feeling stunned and complicated.

What was he supposed to say?

As Maia's future fiancé, Tim should be happy and should thank her. But as a man, he felt sad.

It turned out that Nicole didn't want him and Maia to have any emotional entanglement.

He had always been a burden to Nicole.

After a pause, he whispered, "I thank you on behalf of Maia. But Samuel should be your priority. In the past, I hoped he would never wake up, but now I hope that he can recover. I once hoped I could be with you and make you happy. You don't want it. You and Samuel love each other so much. I wish you well."

"Thank you for being so considerate. I will always remember you for that. Tim, you will always be a good friend of Samuel and me. We will do whatever we can to help you if you need. I don't want us to drift apart because of your relationship with Maia. You know, Samuel and I will treat you the same."

"I know."

Tim was upset.

"I'm going to the bathroom. Take care of Maia."

With that, Tim strode away.

Nicole stared at his back, knowing that she might have hurt Tim again. She only hoped that Maia could make Tim happy. She wanted to see his bright smile.

With a sigh, she went inside.

Maia was still sleeping.

Nicole looked at her. She was so lucky to meet Maia.

At first, she only knew Maia was dedicated to work and her professional performance was great. So, Nicole promoted her to manage the company. She did not expect her to be so generous and straightforward.

Nicole knew they would be good friends for the rest of their life.

"How's Samuel?"

Nicole quickly followed. Gabrielle knew that Nicole was worried and hurriedly asked Neil.

Neil took off his mask, looked at Nicole and Gabrielle, then whispered, "It can't be said to be very successful."

"What do you mean?"

Nicole felt as if she had suddenly fallen into an ice cellar and she was frozen. Last time, Morgan said that she was at the Miller's. But why was Morgan not here now?

Gabrielle also looked anxious.

Neil sighed and said, "The congestion in his brain has been cleared, but I can't do anything about his neuralgia."

"What do you mean? Neil, aren't you an expert in this field?"

Gabrielle hurriedly asked.

Neil said apologetically, "I always thought I was an expert in this field before this, but this case of Samuel tells me that I still overestimated myself. If he had only neuralgia, I would have been absolutely sure that I could cure him. But his situation is a bit complicated. At the time we were going to operate on him, his nerves would be a state of self-protection. If we force the surgery, he could be in persistent vegetative state for life, or brain dead. I can't afford to take that risk. We need to lift his hypnosis first. Because this hypnosis was in his mind, he developed a resistance to our treatment. Therefore, we have no way to do it."

Hearing Neil's words, Nicole felt she was about to collapse.

She had always thought that Samuel would be able to stand up after this operation. However, she did not expect that it would be like this.

Gabrielle knew more about Nicole's love for Samuel than anyone else. She looked at Nicole worriedly and asked Neil, "Is there no other way but to remove the hypnosis? As you can see, Samuel is unconscious now. It might not be realistic to remove his hypnosis."

"He was unconscious because of the pressure of the congestion in his brain. Now that we have cleaned up his brain congestion, he should be able to wake up for a short period of time. So, all you have to do is find the person who can help him relieve the hypnosis as soon as possible. Only then can we have hope."

"I'll go back and look for the hypnotist!"

Nicole hurriedly gestured.

She still remembered that Morgan had told her the address of the hypnotist. At that time, she was impressed. Now, she still remembered it.

"That's great! But you have to be quick."

After hearing Neil's words, Nicole hurriedly nodded.

She asked Gabrielle to look after Samuel, and took the earliest flight back to the Seapolis City.

When she returned to the Seapolis City, Nicole's mood was indescribable.

She loved and hated this place. But in the end, it was because of Samuel's illness that she had overcome the fear in her heart.

Nicole arrived at the entrance of the hypnotist's house according to the previous address.

When she rang the doorbell, a beautiful woman walked out. When the woman saw Nicole, she seemed unkind.

"Who are you looking for?"

"Hello, I'm looking for Dr. Andrew Harris. Is he here?"

Nicole was glad that she still remembered the doctor's name.

The woman frowned slightly and said coldly, "He's not here."

"Where is he?"

"What is that supposed to mean? You are a mute. I can only read simple sign language. I don't understand what you're saying. Andrew went abroad for an academic seminar. He's been gone for almost a week. If you want to find him, wait for him. It's said that he won't come back until a month later."

a doctor was afraid of delaying Samuel's treatment. He gritted his teeth and said, "What do you mean?"

He didn't understand what he was saying. He knew that he had to go to the Seapolis City some time ago. We still feel bad about the situation now, his family said that Andrew had gone out to participate in an event that was a disaster. Andrew was not his family. That's his tenant. Andrew is alone. He had no children and Nicole wished that she could have seen Andrew before he died. Of Andrew's death, she would probably faint. But now she couldn't faint, she had to do something. What shall she do?

She saw that Nicole did not have any intense emotion. Nicole shook her head. Andrew is dead. There is probably only one person who can remove the curse.

"Who?"

"Morgan."

She thought about this news. Now that something happened to Morgan, Nicole remembered what Morgan said to her last time. She had to go to Maia or Samuel, they all needed to go to the hospital. She went to Blair, then turned around and Nicole quickly shook off Allen and ran towards Laurence. However, before she could run to Laurence, he had already got in a car.

Nicole quickly ran to the car, trying to catch up. But it was simply too fast.

Allen breathed a sigh of relief when he saw that Nicole did not catch up with the car in the end.

He came to Nicole and whispered, "Get in the car. We haven't seen each other for a long time. I'll buy you a cup of coffee."

However, Nicole ignored Allen as if she didn't hear him. She looked at Laurence's car and quickly took out her phone to text Laurence.

When Allen discovered that Nicole had Laurence's phone number, he couldn't help but be stunned.

"You know Laurence? Why do you know Laurence?"

In Allen's impression, everything that Nicole did with her work was about Samuel. Samuel had no interaction with Laurence. How could Nicole know Laurence?

However, Nicole did not have time to explain to Allen. She quickly sent a message, "Laurence, I am Nicole. I'm at the door of the Miller's. Can you come back soon when you see this? I want to find Morgan, and I must see Adela."

Laurence's phone rang.

He glanced at it and found out that it was Nicole. After reading her message, his face turned pale.

"Turn around."

Laurence hurriedly asked the driver to turn around and go back.

Seeing that Nicole ignored him, Allen hurriedly grabbed Nicole's arm again and said, "Did you hear what I said? Nicole, I know that you hate me because of what happened before. But you can't be here now."

Nicole looked coldly at Allen, hoping that he would let go. But Allen did not notice Nicole's intentions at all.

"Nicole, can you just listen to me once? I have never lied to you over the years, have I?"

Nicole shook off Allen, but she fell to the ground with a thump.

"Nicole, are you alright?"

Allen stepped forward to help Nicole up, but was dodged by Nicole.

At this moment, Nicole's phone rang. It was a text message from Gabrielle.

"How is it? Have you seen Morgan?"

"No, Morgan is missing. I need to find her as soon as possible."

Nicole replied quickly.

Allen finally noticed something was wrong.

"Nicole, why don't you say anything? You don't call, but just text. Is there something wrong with your throat?"

"You'll get into trouble here. You look very similar to Adela. No good can ever come of staying here. So you must leave now."

Laurence pulled Nicole's hand, got out of the car, and directly entered the airport.

"On the way here, I booked a ticket for you to go back to the Seapolis City. I don't know if you want to go back. That's all I can do for now. As you know, I'm in a humble position in the Miller family. I have no say in many things. If Adela was alive, I would have the chance to help you. But Adela passed away. To be honest, it's not within my power. The only way to protect you is to get you out of here right now."

Laurence's words moved Nicole.

"Although I don't know what happened here, I really need to find Morgan. Samuel can't wait any longer."

Nicole gestured.

Laurence wanted to say something else when Nicole's phone rang.

Nicole turned on the phone and saw that it was from Blair.

Nicole hurriedly pressed to answer the call.

"Nicole, hurry back. There's been some progress on Samuel."

Nicole hurriedly hung up and took the ticket that Laurence booked for her. Nicole thankfully gestured, "I'm leaving. If anything comes up, feel free to contact me. I'll never stand by as long as I can help."

"I know. But I won't leave for the time being. The cause of Adela's death is unknown. I want to figure it out."

Laurence was extremely sad.

Nicole knew the relationship between Laurence and Adela. Nicole gestured to comfort Laurence, "I am so sorry."

"Thank you. Here's a bottle of my blood. Maybe you can use it. I don't have time to get out of here recently. Take it just in case."

Nicole knew how precious a bottle of Laurence's blood was. Although the bottle wasn't big, it was a token of Laurence's goodwill.

Nicole took the bottle over and gestured, "Thank you. I really don't know what else to say except thank you."

"Just forget it. Hurry up and leave. It would be best not to linger."

"Okay, by then."

Nicole said goodbye to Laurence and got on the plane.

When Allen wanted to contact Nicole again, Nicole had flown away.

Allen went to look for Laurence, but unfortunately, Allen didn't get any useful information from Laurence.

When Nicole flew back to the Seapolis City, Blair was waiting for her.

"How is it? What's the progress with Samuel?"

Nicole hurriedly gestured.

Blair led Nicole into the room, poured her a glass of water, and said, "Do you remember Zama?"

"Yes."

How could Nicole forget Zama?

"Hey, are you alright?"

Nicole anxiously gestured.

Zama coughed for a long time before she stopped.

Zama looked at the blood on her palm and smiled bitterly, "Do you think I deserve it? Don't you have anything to say when you see me like this?"

"What happened to you?"

Nicole didn't hit Zama when Zama was down and didn't say anything else. However, Nicole directly asked Zama.

Zama was a little surprised.

Nicole looked at Zama and gestured, "I'm doing this for Samuel."

Zama was stunned, and then didn't say anything. Zama looked down and was absorbed in thought.

Nicole was actually anxious, but she couldn't urge Zama. Because once Nicole did that, it meant that Nicole was anxious, and then Nicole would lose.

At such a time, it depended on who could hold their horses.

Zama looked down as if she fell asleep. Nicole was anxious, but she still closed her eyes to take a rest. Recently, Nicole was really too tired. Especially after flying from the Seapolis City to the Miller's and back again, Nicole couldn't stand it anymore.

Nicole fell asleep from the fatigue.

Zama listened to Nicole's even breathing and looked at her exhausted appearance. Zama's eyes blinked before she finally said to the guard aside, "I want to go back. If they want me to save Samuel, they should bring some herbal medicine in to me as I said."

The guard took Zama away, but he didn't alarm Nicole.

Nicole didn't sleep for long. Nicole took a nap and soon woke up, only to find that Zama had disappeared.

Nicole couldn't help but curse herself. 'How could I fall asleep?'

Nicole anxiously wanted to ask about Zama. The guard first told Nicole what Zama said and also gave Nicole a note, which was all about herbal medicine.

Seeing this, Nicole didn't stay there any longer and returned to Blair with the note.

Neil was still keeping watch on Samuel. It had to be said that thanks to Neil's help, Samuel's blood pressure and other body functions maintained at their best. However, everyone understood that it wouldn't last long.

"How's it going?"

Both Blair and Gabrielle were worried.

Nicole handed the note to Blair and gestured, "This is the prescription that Zama gave me. Zama asked us to fill the prescription and bring the medicine to her."

"Something's wrong! This isn't a prescription for hypnosis and neuralgia."

Hearing Blair's words, Nicole got nervous at once.

"What do you mean? Did Zama fool me?"

Actually, everyone had thought about this, but Nicole was still unable to withstand it.

Seeing that Nicole was about to explode, Blair hurriedly said, "Don't worry. Although it isn't a prescription for treating cranial nerve, it should be effective for you."

"What do you mean?"

Nicole hurriedly gestured to warn Zama, but Zama suddenly threw her to the side.

"Stop pointing fingers at me. You have got acupuncture treatment. Try to speak."

Nicole was astonished.

"Say something. Aren't you going to scold me? Aren't you threatening me? Come on, say it out. I don't have time to watch you make gestures."

After that, Zama ignored Nicole.

Nicole was confused.

She was completely shocked and she did not know what to do.

She could feel the numbness in her throat. According to what Zama said, Nicole should be able to speak some words now. Nicole was very happy, but she was still eyeing Zama warily.

Zama no longer cared what Nicole thought of her. She looked at Samuel and reached out to press a few acupuncture points on Samuel's head. Then, her expression became somewhat serious.

Nicole was anxious.

She subconsciously wanted to make gestures. Thinking of what Zama said, she opened her mouth and said, "How's he?"

Nicole tried her best to speak, but her voice was very low and hoarse, barely able to be heard. Nicole felt that her vocal cords were painful as if they were burning.

She covered her throat with her hand in pain.

Zama said without looking up, "If you want to speak again, your vocal cords have to be stimulated. If you fear of pain, you can give up now. Whether or not you can talk has nothing to do with me."

Nicole gritted her teeth and continued, "How is he?"

"It's not good. His nerves were badly injured, and he is in a deep hypnotic state. Laurel is hateful. She hates Samuel for doing anything because she didn't give birth to him."

Nicole endured the pain and said, "But she treats Vincent very well."

"That's different. Vincent has had no thought of his own since childhood. Compared with Samuel, Vincent has average intelligence, and he is a little unconfident. As long as others treat him a little nicer, he will treat others with kindness. Laurel treated him as her own child, and he didn't know his history. Therefore, he is nice to Laurel. Vincent is easier to be controlled than Samuel. Samuel is too independent and has a strong sense of self. And he is highly intelligent. That worries Laurel. She has treated Samuel with vigilance since Samuel was young. In addition, Samuel is in charge of all the business of the Green family. So she doesn't dare to do anything to Samuel. She is also much more distant from Samuel. Vincent is not capable, or Laurel will most likely let the two brothers kill each other. It is possible. Look what she did ruthlessly to Samuel."

Zama rubbed Samuel's acupoints as she spoke.

Nicole didn't know what to say.

She didn't know much about Laurel, otherwise she wouldn't have been harmed by Laurel. Many things seemed reasonable and worthy of forgiveness, but now she thought that Laurel seem to have planned them beforehand.

Nicole suddenly felt that Laurel was too vicious. Fortunately, Laurel was dead. Otherwise, Nicole would really have trouble sleeping and eating.

After massaging Samuel, Zama sighed and said, "I can treat him, but I don't have time."

"What do you mean?"

Nicole was puzzled.

"Hey, are you alright?"

Nicole was shocked, but she still asked on humanitarian grounds.

Zama was very weak. She lay on the table for a while before she gasped for breath. She said, "I'm fine. I just don't have much time."

"What do you want me to do today?"

Nicole didn't know what other people would think. She really didn't want to sympathize with Zama, even if Zama saved Samuel.

Seeing Nicole's vigilant eyes, Zama smiled, "You've always been on guard against me. Will you vent your hatred for me only if I'm really dead?"

"I don't hate you, but I don't want to sympathize with you or forgive you. After all, I'm not the Virgin Mary. I can't sympathize with you since you had hurt me. Although I'm not happy to see your ending, I do vent my anger."

Nicole did not conceal her attitude towards Zama at all.

Zama felt very upset.

Nicole was her daughter-in-law, though she had always refused to admit it. But now, she was dying.

"You're right. I deserve it. I can't blame anyone but myself. However, Nicole, you still have to yield to me."

"Why?"

"Don't you feel burning pain in your throat? Do you want to know why?"

What Zama said instantly made Nicole angry.

"Sure enough, you hurt me."

"Sort of. I am a ruthless woman. I have to keep a way open for retreat. I have to fulfill my wish even if I'm dying."

Zama did not conceal her intentions at all. Nicole was so angry that she really wanted to hit Zama.

"I know what you're thinking. There's no point in hitting me now. You'll just let me die early. If I die, you and Samuel will die with me."

"What did you say? He is your own son!"

Nicole never imagined that Zama would not change. Zama had been ruthless.

Nicole grabbed Zama's collar and wished she could kill Zama with a punch.

"My son? Has he ever seen me as his mother?" Zama said indifferently. "I'm dying, but he's still lying there and can't come to see me one more time. He is not my son."

"You deserve it. If you weren't too ruthless, you wouldn't end up like that."

"Nicole, I treated you well during the first three years of your marriage, didn't I?"

Zama suddenly spoke.

Nicole sneered, "Your kindness to me is to conceal your evil. What's the point talking about it now?"

"There is no point. But in the first three years, I did want to be Samuel's mother. Regardless of that I had been drugging you, I did treat you well, right?"

"Zama, what do you want to explain? No matter what you did or said, you can't deny that you are a ruthless woman."

When Nicole saw Lucas' eyes blinking, Nicole knew that he must be suspicious.

"Lucas, can I talk to you alone?"

Nicole asked.

Rather than letting him have a wild guess, it was better for her to explain to him now. Then he wouldn't worry about them and get distracted from recovering from his leg injury.

"Alright."

Lucas took his phone and went outside with the help of the nurse.

"Mommy, did something happen to Samuel?"

Lucas went straight to the point.

Nicole nodded and said, "Your daddy had an accident and is still unconscious. However, the doctor has found a solution. Don't worry. We can go back soon."

"Is it bad?"

Lucas knitted his brows hard.

"Fortunately, it's not bad, but it's not positive. Lucas, don't tell your sister and Joseph. They're not so strong..."

"I know. Did you call today to ask me to take good care of them?"

Lucas' words made Nicole a bit sad.

How fortunate she was to have such a son.

"No, I have something to discuss with you."

"Mommy, tell me."

Nicole told Lucas about Zama's illness and requirements, but she didn't mention that Zama threatened her with Samuel.

Nicole didn't want to leave more dark sides in his mind. They were the fact, though. If she could play down their seriousness, Nicole hoped that Lucas wouldn't remember them.

Lucas pondered for a while and asked, "Can that Zama cure Samuel?"

"Yes."

"I'll go!"

Lucas' words put Nicole at a loss.

"Lucas, you don't need to come over. I'll give you a video call later. It's enough to see her on the phone. As for Zoe, I don't want her to see it. You know Zoe is very innocent. I'm afraid..."

"I know, Mommy, I want to go there myself. I'm worried about Samuel. I can promise you that I won't tell Zoe and Joseph, but I want to see Samuel."

Lucas sounded like begging.

Nicole refused him with determination.

"No way! This is too risky. She's a dangerous person. You know that. If something happens to you, how can I explain it to your daddy?"

"But Mommy, if you don't agree, I will go secretly."

"Lucas, you have the guts, do you?"

Immediately, Nicole had her heart in her mouth.

"So, Mommy, let me go there. Then you can rest assured, right?"

Lucas began to pitch it to her in a gentle way.

Feeling helpless, Nicole looked at him and said, "You want to anger me, don't you?"

"How can that be? I pray every day that your beauty and youth will last forever."

Nicole laughed out loud.

"Mrs. Green, I got to go."
It was Neil's voice.
Nicole paused for a moment, then saw Neil and asked doubtfully, "What's wrong?"
"Something went wrong with your friend Maia. My colleague can't handle it. I have to go back and take a look."

His words set Nicole on edge.

"What happened to Maia?"

"I'm not too sure. My colleague didn't say it clearly. He just said it wasn't good and asked me go back as soon as possible. There are experts treating Mr. Green, so I won't stay. Let's catch up when we have time."

Neil didn't make it very clear, so Nicole was more worried.

All sorts of things happened at the same time, which made her feel stretched.

"Dr. Neil, thank you for taking care of Samuel these days. I'm very grateful. I hope you can help Maia as much as you can, when you get there. She is my good friend and I can't leave now. Please do your best. I won't forget you."

"Mrs. Green, this is my job. I won't leave your friend alone. Don't worry. Now that Gabrielle's not around, I won't say goodbye to her. I've booked the nearest flight and it's leaving in half an hour. I have to hurry. Mrs. Green, take care."

Neil left in such a hurry that Nicole was caught off guard.

She quickly took out a card and handed it to Neil.

"Dr. Neil, this is for your visit. It's just a gift. Take it."

"Mrs. Green, what are you doing? Are you humiliating me? I'm here for Gabrielle, not for money. Besides, connections are more important than money. If I need your help later, you can just come to my aid."

"That's for sure!"

Nicole agreed without hesitation.

After Neil left, Nicole sent a message to Gabrielle and saw that Blair had someone carry a stretcher to pick up Samuel.

"Where's Lucas?"

Nicole couldn't help but ask when she remembered Lucas disappeared without a trace.

"He's with Gabrielle. They went shopping. I'll carry Samuel over now. The people inside said that Zama's mental state is not very good today. I want her to check Samuel and find out when he will wake up."

Hearing that, Nicole was a little worried.

"I'll go with you."

"You can change your clothes first. I'll wait for you outside."

When Nicole entered the room, Blair had someone carry Samuel out.

Dressed up, Nicole went to prison with Blair, Samuel and Lucas.

When they arrived at the prison gate, Nicole was still hesitating, even holding onto Lucas' hand.

Lucas smiled, "Mommy, you should wait outside. I'll be out in a moment."

"No!"

Nicole refused,
