Chapter 721 How Vicious Johnnie Was

"How could you know? You little boy, how could you know about what happened in our town?"

Hearing Trevin's words, Johnnie immediately grew angry.

Trevin was frightened by him. He took two steps back and said, "I am also from this town. My parents joined the army a long time ago."

"What? You're their child?"

Johnnie was stunned and then struggled to get up.

"Don't tell them. I am asking you not to tell them!"

He pounced to Trevin like a ghost.

Trevin had never experienced such a thing before. Scared, he took a few steps back.

Nicole grabbed Johnnie by the collar and pulled him back abruptly. Then, she kicked him into the pit.

"If you want to be buried alive again, just continue. I don't mind doing what I did just now."

Nicole was serious, which sent Johnnie into a panic.

"Killing people is against the law."

"It seems that you know this as well. I don't have time to talk to you now. We have plenty of time to talk about it after I find Samuel."

After Nicole finished speaking, she asked Blair to keep an eye on Johnnie. Then she followed Trevin to find Samuel.

Blair left Lucas behind and called Nicole to the other side.

"This is the antidote pill I prepared after arriving here. We already had a taste of Zama's poison. Gabrielle and I have done some research on it and made the pill ourselves. Let Samuel eat it when you find him. Our priority is to save his life even though I am still not sure whether this pill works or not. "

"OK."

Nicole had unconditional trust in Blair.

She put away the antidote pill given by Blair before leaving with Trevin.

Trevin took Nicole to the other side of the cave.

"Actually, Blue Star Herb is not far away. It's right in front of the cemetery, but people who are not familiar with this place often can't find it."

Nicole's heart ached again when she heard Trevin's words.

Samuel came here without a stop for her voice after he woke up. If something bad happened again, she really didn't know what to do.

Seeing Nicole's nervous expression, Trevin whispered, "Mrs. Green, you don't need to worry. This place is not far from where Johnnie was buried alive. Mr. Green will be fine."

"I hope so."

The two of them arrived at the cemetery soon.

Only then did Nicole realize that this place was not far from the cave where they had fallen. However, this cemetery was surrounded by miasma, so she could not see the direction clearly.

"Why is there a cemetery here? What about those that we just passed by?"

"I am asking you. Who is Aaron?"

Samuel grabbed Johnnie's collar with agitation. He almost strangled him to death.

Johnnie, however, bit his lower lip tightly and looked at Samuel with a mocking smile.

Nicole was afraid that Samuel would kill him, so she hurriedly pulled Samuel away.

"Samuel, calm down. Let's go back first."

Thanks to Nicole's persuasion, Samuel finally let go of Johnnie, but he still looked at Johnnie fiercely.

Blair looked at Johnnie and then asked Samuel, "What are we going to do with him?"

"Did you record what he said?"

Samuel looked at Trevin. Trevin hurriedly nodded.

Nicole and Johnnie were stunned.

Johnnie seemed to have realized something. He struggled fiercely.

"You guys are too despicable. I can withdraw my confession. I didn't say anything."

"It is too late."

Samuel looked at him coldly and said, "Send him to the police. Let police deal with him. He killed the lives of the whole town. This can put him into prison for his whole life."

"No! No! Don't you want to know who Aaron is?"

Johnnie played his final trump card.

However, Samuel said coldly, "With the name, with everything you said, do you think I won't be able to find out myself? Even if you don't say anything, even if I can't find out, I won't lose anything. I'm still me."

With that, he waved his hand.

Trevin immediately followed Samuel's words.

Johnnie was still struggling, but he was kicked into the pit by Samuel. He couldn't climb up for a long time.

The police directly took Johnnie away after they arrived.

Samuel and the others also returned to the farm restaurant.

Samuel looked preoccupied after returning.

Nicole knew that he suffered.

He had always thought that he was the child of Green family for thirty years, but now, he was suddenly told that he was a shame and had nothing to do with Green family. It was such a fucking feeling.

Nicole sat down beside him.

"Did you feel bad?"

"I don't understand. If I really were Alice and Aaron's child, I should be one year older than I am now. But I didn't. Laurel was the wife of Green family back then. Although she couldn't have children, she definitely wouldn't raise a child that wasn't from Green family. So I was thinking that the child Johnnie was talking about might not be me."

Samuel expressed his doubts.

Nicole nodded and said, "Then what about that child?"

"I also want to know. Alice and Aaron's child, my older half-brother, where is he now? And who is that Aaron?"

"Let's investigate this matter later. We've already found Blue Star Herb. Do you still want to stay here?"

Nicole hurriedly asked.

"What did you say?"

Samuel asked again as if he hadn't heard.

The policeman understood him and whispered, "He committed suicide by taking medicine, and we've rushed him to the hospital."

"Medicine? Where did he get that?"

"We don't know either, but we found a pill in his sleeve. Don't worry, we'll try our best to save him."

After asking which hospital Johnnie was, Samuel rushed to get there. Unfortunately, Johnnie had died before he arrived.

Looking at Johnnie's body, Samuel stood immobile and remained silent. And his face clouded over.

As Johnnie was dead, no one knew what exactly had happened anymore. Samuel wondered where his half-brother was.

Samuel was also uncertain why he wanted to find him.

It was probably because Samuel could convince himself into trusting him and Vincent were Greens only if he saw his half-brother.

Apart from him, no one could help Samuel find out the truth.

Samuel felt miserable.

After leaving the hospital, he paid for Johnnie's burial. Then, he went to a bar for having a drink.

A beauty went to him and tried to catch him up.

"Hi, can we have a drink together?"

"Stay away from me!"

Samuel said coldly.

"Don't be so indifferent."

The beauty didn't give up, as she could see Samuel was well-off based on the way he dressed. If she was capable of seducing him, she would get a pretty penny from him.

Despite her fantasy, Samuel directly shrugged her away when noticing her approaching him.

The loud noise drew everyone's attention. The beauty felt embarrassed and sat on the ground crying.

"Are you a man or not? I'm a woman, how can you push me to the ground?"

Ignoring her complaint, Samuel turned around and continued to drink.

As some people who were present shot a video and posted it on the Internet, the video got popular soon.

Not long after, Nicole saw it as well.

Although it was dim in the bar, Nicole recognized Samuel with a single glance.

Obviously, Samuel was in a bad mood, but he still looked charming in the video. Nicole asked where the bar was and rushed over.

When Nicole got there, she was shocked by the deafening music.

She elbowed her way through the crowd and found Samuel.

"A cocktail, please."

Nicole said to the bartender and then sat next to Samuel.

The people around them wondered if Samuel would drive Nicole away.

"When did you come out?"

Tim subconsciously covered the phone with his hands.

When Nicole heard what Tim said, she knew that Maia was beside him.

She stopped talking.

Maia probably didn't expect Tim to turn round and see her. She was shocked and said awkwardly, "It's been a long time, so I come out. You haven't finished yet?"

"I'm done. But I need to have a videoconferencing later."

After saying that, Tim said on the phone, "Let's talk later. I'd like to bide my time."

"Alright."

Nicole hung up.

She wondered whether it was right to be suspicious of Maia or not. All of a sudden, she felt ill at heart.

In Nicole's mind, Maia was a simple person, who would go straight to the point with both her and Tim. Besides, Maia had once risked her life to save Tim. How could such a woman hide her teeth and approach them?

After hanging up, Tim put on a smile and asked Maia, "Are you done eating the apple?"

"What? Well, yes."

Maia paused for a moment before saying, and she looked somewhat absent-minded.

"I need to go to the bathroom. You can go back and wait for me."

"Alright."

Given Tim wanted to go to the bathroom, Maia had no choice but to return to the ward.

Tim slightly frowned, with a complicated feeling appeared in his eyes.

Nicole wouldn't lie to him.

By comparison, Tim preferred to believe Nicole. It wasn't because he disliked Maia. Since she had sacrificed her life to save him, Tim would always be grateful to her. However, Nicole's unfinished words aroused his suspicion.

After entering the bathroom, Tim marked Nicole's phone number as Chuck's.

He sat on the toilet and called Nicole back.

"What do you want to tell me about Maia?"

"It's not a big issue. I'm just curious. Do you know that Maia and Zama are from the same town?"

"What?"

Tim was surprised.

"Where did you hear that?"

"I met Maia's younger brother in Zama's town. His name is Trevin. According to him, everyone in the town knows medical skills and is able to protect themselves. With Trevin's help, I've recovered. I really appreciate him. However, I begin to wonder why Maia failed to protect her vital organ when Alexia asked others to hit her if she had medical knowledge."

Nicole paused for a moment before continuing, "Tim, I'm not suspicious of her. I just find it strange. Perhaps I think too much, and Maia is innocent. She's kind, pure and direct. I probably suffer from persecutory delusion. Forget it."

Chapter 725 You Are Just Making Me Feel Better

Tim's silence made Alexia become flustered.

"Mr. Tim, I swear to God that I am telling the truth,"

Alexia said in an urgent tone.

Hearing her voice, Tim realized that he was distracted. Then he asked, "When I was drunk, what did Maia do to protect me from being taken away by you?"

Alexia was shocked.

She never thought that Tim would ask about this.

"She just sprang at you and hugged you tightly," Alexia answered.

"Can you remember exactly her actions? Show me."

Hearing his question, Luke also felt a little strange.

"Mr. Tim, what's wrong with this?"

"Shut up! I'm asking her,"

Tim said in a cold voice.

Luke immediately closed his mouth hard and moved aside.

Knowing that Tim really wanted to know about this, Alexia scrambled in her mind to recall what happened and asked the two bodyguards to cooperate with her to reproduce the whole process.

Tim watched but didn't say anything. Then he continued to ask, "When you hit her, her first reaction was to protect which part of her body?"

Alexia thought for a long time before she answered, "Her first reaction was to protect her stomach. But she paused and finally covered her head."

"Did she curl herself up?"

"No, that's why I think she's a fool. Everyone knows that curling up body into a ball can reduce injuries. But she didn't. Furthermore, when she was kicked down to the ground, she just leaned back on the floor. You know what happened afterwards."

Although Alexia didn't know why Tim asked about this, she told him everything she knew, hoping that he would ask Luke to release her. She was afraid that she would die under Luke's torment.

Tim frowned.

According to Alexia's description, Maia's response was strange. The reaction of a self-defender shouldn't be like this. He doubted whether Maia had deliberately injured herself.

But why would she do that?

What was her purpose?

Tim couldn't figure it out.

He became silent again. Seeing this, Alexia said anxiously, "Mr. Tim, what I said is true! It's true!"

"Luke, don't torment her anymore."

Luke nodded.

"You're lucky that Mr. Tim spared your life. But when you get back, you'd better behave yourself. If I know that you still want to escape, I'll teach you lesson," Luke threatened.

It was the phone number of the emerald tycoon.

Tim got it with tremendous efforts. However, the tycoon didn't answer the phone calls from strangers. Time didn't expect Maia to actually have his phone number.

Tim looked at Maia with a complicated expression.

It seemed that Maia was no ordinary woman.

Did she still need to work for Nicole's small travel agency now that she knew such a person?

The answer was no.

Also thanks to Maia's attitude towards him, Tim became more determined about this.

Maia quickly got through to the tycoon's phone.

"Maia, why are you calling me now? You didn't call me even if I invited you before."

Tim didn't like the way that person spoke with Maia.

Maia said with a smile, "Uncle Jase, a friend of mine wants to do emerald business. You are expert in this sector. Do you have any suggestions for him?"

"A friend? Your boyfriend? I'm glad to help if it's your boyfriend."

The tycoon bantered her.

Maia was a little embarrassed. She glanced at Tim, who made no responses. Then she smiled and said, "Uncle Jase, stop chaffing me."

"I'm serious. If it is your boyfriend, I will help him. If not, I have to reconsider about it. The emerald market is in a worse condition as the raw materials are becoming harder to get. And its price will keep rising. If he just wants to test the water, don't do it."

Hearing Jase's words, Maia was in a dilemma.

Looking at Tim, she said, "Uncle Jase, would you help me if I say he is my boyfriend?"

"Of course."

"Well, if you say so."

Maia's words made Tim's eyes flash for a moment. Then he calmed down.

"Alright then, bring him to see me. Since you say he is your boyfriend, I have to keep an eye on him for you."

And then, Jase hung up the phone.

Maia looked at Tim embarrassedly and said, "Sorry. If I didn't say that just now, Uncle Jase would refuse to help. The emerald business here is under his control. It's better to ask him for help than others. Why don't you pretend to be my boyfriend? You can break up after you get the supplies?"

"I've told you that I don't mind being your boyfriend. It's true."

Tim stood up and left after saying that.

Suddenly his heart was sick.

He did not insist on getting this business done, nor did he insist on going into the emerald market. It was just that he was unable to see through Maia, which made him feel uncomfortable. He would like to see how Maia could explain the lie away.

Seeing that Tim left, Maia thought that he could not accept this approach to getting business done. She followed him out.

"Tim, I know that you like to be open and honest, but you can also take extraordinary measures to deal with something."

"Like what?"

Maia had never heard Nicole's voice. When she had met Nicole, Nicole had already lost her voice. Tim did not tell Maia that Nicole could speak, so Maia felt weird when she heard it.

However, hearing Nicole's intimate address to Tim, Maia felt quite uncomfortable.

She felt that she was quite ridiculous. Didn't she have any feeling to Tim?

Who cared how many women he had? It was none of her business.

However, she was quite upset, and she couldn't let it go at all.

"Well, I'll look for him later."

Nicole hurriedly hung up.

She clearly didn't do anything wrong, but why did she act like a thief now?

Nicole felt very disturbed.

Maia looked at her phone, thinking of something.

When Tim came out, he saw Maia staring at her phone at a loss.

He frowned slightly.

"What's the matter?"

Tim grabbed her phone and checked the call log. When he saw Nicole's name, he hurriedly asked, "What did she say?"

Maia couldn't help but feel bitter when she saw his worried face.

"Don't you only like Lady Bush? Why are you interested in other women now? Or do you just try people around?"

Hearing Maia's wild talk, Tim frowned even more.

"What do you mean?"

"Nothing. I just suddenly think you are a scumbag. I thought you were a loving man and only had a passion for Lady Bush. Even though she was married, you still loved her without any regrets. I even thought you were one of the few people in this world. But now I know that I'm too naive. You are really a philanderer!"

After saying that, Maia got up and left.

But Tim immediately grabbed her arm.

"What do you mean? Get it straight! Why do you say I am a philanderer? Who do I hook up with?"

"Let go of me!"

Maia shook him off and said coldly, "Who do you hook up with? Isn't it your secretary, Chuck? As a secretary, she can even call you by your first name. Who would believe that there is nothing special between you and her?"

Tim was shocked for a moment. Then he burst into laughter.

"She's married and has children. What special relationship can I have with her?"

Maia paused for a moment, as if this situation was beyond her expectations.

"That's right, you're really a jerk. She's already a mother, but you still don't let her off. What a scum you are."

"Come on! Can you stop defaming me? Her husband is my comrade-in-arms. So we call each other by the first names all the time. What's wrong with that?"

"Do you mean if I can find anyone who was on the mission with my parents, then they can be free of the charge?"

Maia clutched Tim's hand.

Now she was like a helpless child, placing all her hopes on him.

Tim's heart grew tender at the woman in front of him.

"So you know who was on the mission with your parents?"

"I don't know, but Uncle Jase may know something. I can ask him when we see him tonight."

"Alright."

Tim was struggling in his heart. Looking at Maia's excited face, he could not be sure if she was acting.

Perhaps that was a coincidence?

But this explanation could not even convince himself.

Tim sighed quietly and said, "I'll go outside for a cigarette."

"It's not good for you to smoke too much. Don't do it so often."

Maia's words struck Tim. He chuckled, "What? Now you're in charge of me?"

"Don't get me wrong. It's for your own good."

Maia flushed.

She couldn't tell what exactly her feelings were for Tim.

Tim stopped teasing her and stepped out.

He leaned against the window and lit a cigarette. Hardly smoking it, he just tucked it between his fingers and let it burn into ashes and fall on the ground.

With his mind drifting away, Tim stood there looking blank.

This was what Maia saw when she came out.

She felt that Tim was weird lately. Maybe there was something bothered him. But she was too timid to ask.

She wished it was about the Emerald King, Jase Wilson.

Maia vowed silently that she must make this transaction work, otherwise she would owe Tim too much.

Then, Maia returned to the ward.

After spending some time outside, Tim walked into the ward. He happened to see that Maia already got herself dressed.

He was slightly shocked by her outfit.

"I've never seen you in a skirt. You look pretty."

Maia felt a little shy.

"I don't think it's convenient to wear a skirt. But we're going to see Uncle Jase today, so a skirt would be better. What do you think? Do I look good?"

As she spoke, she showed him with a spin.

"You look good."

Tim smiled faintly.

Tim brought Maia out and quickly bundled Maia into the car. Then he also got into the car, took out his phone, and dialed a phone number.

"Encrypt all my files."

Maia was a little confused when she heard his words.

"Tim, what's going on?"

"Don't speak."

The people on the phone did not respond. Tim said again.

"Did you hear what I said?"

Samuel held the phone, "That's the way you ask for help?"

"Samuel, don't be too arrogant! I'm just calling you because of your computer skills!"

Tim was depressed.

But Samuel smiled, "Yeah, you can go find someone else. You don't need to call me."

"Sure, I won't ask you anymore."

Tim hung up the phone.

Maia heard Samuel's name and asked, "Isn't Samuel Lady Bush's husband? Is he awake?"

"You also wish he won't wake up for the rest of his life, right? He's so unkind and not easy to get along with. I wish he were still not awake."

Tim picked up the phone again and dialed Lucas.

"Lucas, could you do me a favor?"

They haven't seen each other for a long time. Tim called him suddenly and his tone was so gentle that Luca raised his vigilance.

"What do you want?"

"Help me encrypt all the files, okay?"

Lucas immediately relaxed.

"What benefits can I get?"

"What benefits do you want?"

Lucas' chin rested on his hand, "I haven't decided yet. Can you give me anything I want?"

"Yes, except for my wife and my own life."

"Bingo! I've already recorded it. You can't go back on your word. I'll ask you for it later."

The corner of Tim's mouth twitched.

"Like father, like son. You are both so treacherous."

"Uncle Tim, in fact, I inherit more from my mother. Do you think my mother is treacherous? I have to tell her."

"Lucas!"

Tim really wanted to strangle this brat to death.

"Oh, I'm deaf. What if I can't play with the computer?"

Tim tried to calm himself down.

Compared to Samuel, Lucas was relatively more tractable.

Chapter 730 Leave Her Alone and Come at Me

Knowing that Maia was anxious, Tim didn't say anything, but directly turned on his phone.

"Uncle Tim, you have to prepare a big gift for me."

Lucas smiled over video calls.

"Tell me, what do you want? I will buy it for you."

"That's what you said. My mommy wants to buy some emeralds recently. Why don't you help me find a fine one? I want to give it as a gift to her."

Hearing these words, Tim was shocked.

"It's better for your daddy to send the gift to your mommy, isn't it? It's inappropriate for you to do so."

"Why?"

"Anyway, just let your daddy send the gift."

After speaking, Tim couldn't help but cast a glance at Maia.

He saw that her eyelids flickered, as if she didn't know where to look at.

He felt anxious at once.

"You can pick something else as a gift."

"Then I want two, no, four emerald accessories."

Lucas was determined to own emeralds.

"Why do you need so many emeralds? Do you want to sell them?"

"No. I will give them to my sister, Hedy and Joseph, and I myself will keep one too. Four emerald accessories are enough. What's wrong with you? Uncle Tim, are you reluctant?"

Tim's mouth twitched.

No wonder Lucas was Samuel's son. The young boy was also very sophisticated.

It's true that Tim could afford high quality emeralds. However, four high quality emeralds were too much for him.

"Alright. Alright. I'll give them to you later. Now tell me, what's the news?"

"Thank you, Uncle Tim. I'll send a file to you. After reading, you'd better delete it. Otherwise, I'll be in trouble."

Lucas hung up the phone and sent a file to Tim.

Maia immediately leaned over.

It was a top-secret file, so only Lucas was able to get it.

They opened it at once and found that besides Maia's parents, Jase also participated in that movement.

Maia was shocked.

Tim's intuition was correct.

Jase was the one who always kept in contact with her parents, but why didn't he ever mention the thing in front of her?

Maia didn't look well.

Ever since she was young, she thought Jase was the closest person to her. It never occurred to her that the truth was as such.

Seeing that Maia was upset, Tim hurriedly comforted her, "Don't be so pessimistic. Perhaps it was because of the secrecy rules that he didn't say anything. What's more, now we don't have any evidence to prove that he is related to the death of your parents. Perhaps my intuition is wrong."

"You don't have to comfort me. I know you care about me."

Maia tried her best to be calm, but she couldn't.
