Chapter 771 Can You Hug Me?

"Nicole, I don't have much time left."

Maia said in an extremely sad voice.

Nicole nodded without interrupting her. She didn't say anything and Maia got a little embarrassed.

"I know you must have hated my guts and think I'm a bad person. I've got what I deserved. Don't be angry with me anymore, okay?"

Maia looked pitifully at Nicole.

Nicole whispered, "I'm not angry with you. In fact, I was disappointed with your dishonesty when I took you as my friend. So I told myself not to let a stranger get to me. I really don't care about what you say or do right now."

Maia became more upset after hearing Nicole's remarks.

"Nicole, it's my fault cheating you and destroying our friendship. But I can't help it. Ever since my parents left and my younger brother fell ill, I've failed to control my life. All I can do is to protect you as much as I can. It's the greatest concession I have ever made."

Maia said sadly.

It seemed that she felt a little aggrieved.

Nicole looked at her and couldn't help but think of Martha's comments.

"You didn't kidnap my aunt, did you? You went to the sanatorium to save her. Are you afraid that Tim will be sad if his mother is injured?"

Nicole asked Maia to make sure if her guess was right.

Maia was slightly shocked at her words.

"Your aunt?"

"My fault. I forgot to tell you that Tim's mother is my aunt, who is my closest family. As for Tim, he is my cousin. I found out about it not long ago."

Maia was surprised at Nicole's words and looked at her and Tim in disbelief.

"You are cousins?"

"Yes!"

Tim nodded.

Maia found it ludicrous.

"I'm sorry, Tim, really sorry. If I can choose, I'd like to love you heart and soul. You're a good man, really a good man. My biggest regret in life is not being with you. I am not worthy of you. I have betrayed your trust and love. I can feel that you like me. Although it may not be love, but for my poor life, you are very precious to me. I'm dying. I really can't bear to part with you. I can't bear to part with this world."

Maia cried so hard that she couldn't open her mouth.

Tim didn't know what to say.

He had a lot of things he wanted to ask. There were many things he couldn't understand, but now, facing Maia who was breaking down, he couldn't say a word.

Maia continued.

"You know, when my parents died, I was just a teenage girl and my brother had congenital heart disease. What could I do? I could only sell myself. I know it's very likely that I won't be able to control my own life, but so what? As long as my brother is fine, I'm okay with that. I thought that it doesn't matter to live like this, but ever since I met you, ever since I fell in love with you, I've grown greedy. I want my own life. I want to control my own destiny. But I can't escape. I can't escape. Tim, don't blame me, okay? I know that I have done many wrong things that have upset you. I also know that I have hidden many things from you and you are very angry with me. But please, forgive me, okay?"

"God had punished me. You are the most important person in my life and he took you from me. I used to think that my younger brother was all I had. Until I meet you, I found that I had another people I wanted to care about. Tim, the time we spent with each other are the happiest days of my life. After I die, forget about me, get married and have children with someone who truly loves you. I sincerely hope you can be happy."

Maia's tears fell on Tim's shoulders, burning him fiercely.

Tim's eyes were warm and even carried with sadness.

"How could we get to this point? You never believed in me. If you trusted me, you should have turned to me and told me everything you've been through. Maybe things would turn out differently. But Maia, you always treat me like an outsider. You keep saying you love me, but you never let me into your world, into your heart. Do you really love me?"

Tim's voice was hoarse, and what he said made Maia cry even more.

"You don't understand. There are some things you really don't understand. But it's too late to explain anything now. Tim, keep an eye on your stepmother. That's all I can say. Also, I'll leave my brother to you. I know I'm shameless, but what can I do? I've spent my entire life finding a good man like you. So I can only count on you. I admit that I played on your kindness. I also admit that I am despicable. I used my own death to ask you to help my younger brother, but I really have no other choice. I am despicable and shameless, but this is my last request. Tim, from now on, no one will plot against you anymore. "

Hearing that, Tim was rather sad.

"Have a rest. The doctor said that you can live for a few more days if you rest."

"What's the difference between living a few more days and dying now? There's no difference. Tim, can you help me call Nicole in?"

"What do you want to do?"

Tim immediately became nervous.

Seeing this, Maia felt very uncomfortable.

"I'm already like this. What else can I do? When can you treat me in the same way as you treat her?"

"Nicole can be honest with me and fight for me. Can you do the same? Maia, don't expect others to meet your expectations if you can't do it yourself."

Tim's words were rather harsh.

Maia couldn't take it anymore, but she still smiled bitterly and said, "Yes, I am not as honest with you as Nicole. But she is your cousin. You can never be with her!"

This hit Tim's weak spot.

"I know. You don't need to remind me. Didn't you say something to her said yet. Don't worry. I

"Maia."

Nicole called out to her. Seeing Maia's puzzled face, Nicole whispered, "You are a good sister."

Her words instantly moved Maia to tears.

In this lifetime, she lived for her younger brother. For her younger brother, and for rehabilitating her parents, she lost herself, and was no more the old her. No one would like the now her.

Now that she heard Nicole's affirmation, Maia suddenly realized that she could still feel alive.

"Thank you, Nicole. Thank you so much."

"Have a good journey."

Nicole did not know what to say. She could not face Maia, so she could only turn around and leave the ward.

In one's life, one made the decision for his own path. Even though Nicole admitted that Maia was a good sister, the harm that Maia had done to her and Tim could never be forgotten.

Seeing Nicole come out, Tim asked worriedly, "What's going on? Did she do anything to you?"

"No, let's go out for a walk."

Nicole's words made Tim hesitate.

"But Maia...."

"Isn't someone from the Louis family here? It's fine. I feel bored. Walk with me."

Hearing this, Tim was reluctant to refuse her.

He nodded and walked out of the ward corridor side by side with Nicole.

Nicole looked at the sky and whispered, "It's really hard to imagine that you and I are cousins."

"It's fine if you don't want to admit it. I wish so."

Tim said playfully.

Nicole glared at him and said, "Don't blame yourself for Maia's matter. She is destined to walk a different path with us. It's good that you have done your best to treat her well and have a clear conscience."

"I know, but I still feel not well. Perhaps I am destined to live alone all my life."

"Don't talk nonsense. You just need to wait for the right person."

Nicole was worried that Tim would have other psychological burdens, so she couldn't help but comfort him.

Tim shook his head and said, "There are some things that can't be settled by fate. For example, us. I always thought that I could get you, but what happened? Now it turns out that we are brother and sister. How ridiculous! And my mother wakes up at this moment. Now, she has directly cut off my thoughts."

"Nonsense. But when it comes to this, I remember that it has been a long time since I heard from my mother. I couldn't get through her this time. I've already contacted Finn, asking him to help me investigate it. I don't know where my mother is now."

There was a trace of worry in Nicole's eyes.

Tim patted her shoulder and said, "Don't worry, Auntie will be fine. Maybe she just wants to change the environment and her mood, so she simply doesn't answer the phone. After all, you have really made things hard for her."

"Perhaps. I just hope she's fine."

Nicole sighed.

Nicole's heart skipped a beat.

She was sure that once she handed over the evidence to the police, Tim would find out the truth, but she had no other choice.

Dodging Tim, Nicole handed over the surveillance video to the police.

"The evidence you need are here. Here you are."

"Thank you, Mrs. Green."

Taking over the video camera, the police took Cornell away.

All of a sudden, the ward became so quiet that one could hear the sound of a needle dropping onto the ground.

Never had Nicole been so nervous, but she was clear that Tim would figure out at last, even she said nothing.

"Tim, listen to me."

All of a sudden, Tim threw a vase, aiming at Nicole.

The vase missed its aim, passed by Nicole and fell behind her, splintering.

This was the first time that Tim lost his head over Nicole.

Nicole was also stunned by his move.

Looking at Tim, she noticed that the veins on his forehead burst out, and there in his eyes were condemnation and anger which he tried his best to suppress.

"Tim, I, I..."

"Get lost!"

Tim was so depressed that he sounded like a broken gong.

Nicole and Samuel got to the dessert house. Seeing all the customers here were young couples, Nicole felt a little embarrassed.

She tugged at Samuel's sleeve and whispered, "Forget it. Look at this place. The customers are all teenagers or young men in their early twenties. This place is not for us!"

Samuel looked around and smiled, "Aren't you young? We're also in our twenties, and we're not yet thirty years old."

Nicole immediately laughed.

"How shameless! You're just about to turn thirty, and yet you're still pretending to be young."

"We're not thirty anyway. Besides, who knows that if we don't talk about it? Look, you're so young and beautiful, and I'm so handsome and cool. What a perfect match we're! Age doesn't matter at all. If you still feel awkward, I'll book the whole place, or I can buy it for you."

"No! There's no need to do that. I didn't mean it. I like to enjoy the food with others. Don't make me look like a parvenu. I can't stand it."

Hearing that Samuel wanted to book the whole restaurant, Nicole got instantly scared.

"Then shall we go in now?"

Samuel looked at Nicole and asked with a smile.

Nicole felt that he had definitely done it on purpose.

"Samuel, why are you becoming so oily and glib now? Who did you learn this from?"

"To treat my wife well and make her happy, isn't that what I should do as a husband? There's nothing oily at all! These are all words from the bottom of my heart."

"Stop! If you continue talking like that, I really can't eat anything."

Nicole recovered from her upset and felt a lot better.

She took a deep breath and walked in bravely with Samuel.

Given her age, she had worried about the embarrassment when others saw her have dessert here. But after coming in, she realized that no one was paying attention to her at all.

Samuel brought Nicole to the table by the window and sat down.

The waiter soon walked over.

"Good afternoon. What would you like to order?"

"Two doughnuts, a banana split and..."

Nicole interrupted him before he finished speaking.

"Sorry, my husband has ordered too much. Just one banana split for me."

"Yes, madam. One moment, please."

The waiter left smilingly.

Looking at Nicole, Samuel smiled, "You ordered too little. It's not even enough for Zoe."

"I'm not Zoe. Besides, I have to go back for dinner later. I've promised Uncle Mark that."

Her words set him pausing for a while.

"Why do I feel as if we were still not married? You go home on time for dinner every day. What about me? I'm your husband!"

Chapter 776 You Didn't Do Anything Wrong

It was Jacob!

Tim didn't like Jacob from the beginning. Now that Maia died because of Jacob's mother Bella, Tim hated Jacob even more and his eyes were filled with anger.

Samuel stopped Tim.

"It has nothing to do with his family! Besides, Jacob doesn't know anything."

"How did you know that he didn't? Perhaps the reason why Bella had the guts to act so recklessly was because his son backed her up."

Tim gritted his teeth and asked.

However, Samuel said coldly, "That's impossible! I know Jacob well because we grew up together. Even if Bella is his mother, he would not do something that against his conscience. If he did it, you wouldn't be the president of the Louis Group now."

"What do you mean? You mean Jacob is more capable than me? You think he is more qualified than me to be the president of the Louis Group, right?"

Now Tim was like a hedgehog. No matter what Samuel said, he could find a reason to refute it.

There was a hint of grievance in his heart that he couldn't find an outlet.

Samuel knew about that, so he let it go.

"Tim, you would attack anyone whenever you see someone related to Bella, wouldn't you? Maia may be special to you, or you may feel guilty about her. But it doesn't mean that all the people have to treat Maia well. She treats you well, but she was not like that for everyone. At least she's not friendly to Nicole, is she?"

Samuel's voice was not loud, nor did it fluctuate. It was plain, but Tim's eyes turned red at his words.

"That's not what I meant. I just...."

"I understand your feelings and what Maia means to you, but you can't force all of us to treat Maia well. After all, this is a two-way thing. Nicole didn't hold any grudges with Maia because of you. Didn't she do enough? And she chose to fulfill Maia's wish. She knew that you would complain about her, but she did it. She felt aggrieved but she didn't say anything. Tim, you can be upset, but please don't hurt the people who really care about you and are still alive, okay?"

Samuel's words calmed Tim down.

Jacob rushed over.

"Mr. Green, there is an urgent document that you need to sign."

When Jacob saw Tim, he froze. He knew that Samuel was investigating his uncle Zedd recently, so when he saw Tim looking at him with such a red face, he couldn't help but feel a little worried.

Did his uncle and mother do something wrong?

"What's going on?"

Jacob just asked subconsciously, but Tim couldn't help himself.

"Get lost!"

He pushed Jacob away and quickly walked towards his car.

"What's wrong with him?"

Staggering, Jacob looked at Samuel with puzzlement.

Samuel sighed and said, "He's fine. You know, he is bad-tempered. Let's go to the company first."

Tim's brows furrowed tightly as the car behind chased after them.

"Are these Bella's people? I really want to stop and beat them to death."

"Don't worry, you'll have it later."

Nicole's words shocked Tim slightly.

"What do you mean?"

"Just wait."

Nicole mysteriously drove to a remote place.

When the car jumped to a halt, Tim was still confused. Nicole smiled and said, "It's your show time now. Didn't you want to hit them? Now you can do it. There's no surveillance camera here."

Tim immediately understood.

"Brilliant."

He smiled and got out of the car.

Recently, Tim was almost suffocated by the suppression of his emotions. Especially when he remembered that all Maia's bones had been shattered, Tim felt even more upset.

What kind of hatred could drive a person to bully her to such an extent?

Even though Maia had schemed against him, she did not really hurt him in the end. Instead, it was because she was treated like this by Bella that Tim's anger burst out.

Nicole did not stop him, nor did she participate.

After she got out of the car, she leaned against the door and watched the car stop behind them with a faint smile.

Seeing Nicole and Tim get out of the car, the people in the car hesitated whether to leave or stay, but Tim did not give them time to think and just knocked on the car window.

"Get off the car!"

"What?"

The people in the car were a little dumbfounded.

"I said get off the car! Don't make me say it again."

Tim wore a long face. He wasn't someone who could suppress his temper. ,

They hesitated and got off the car. However, they regretted it immediately because Tim was really good at fighting.

The depression recently made Tim show no mercy. They cried in pain, but it was useless for Tim.

After Tim beat them up, he felt a little at ease.

"Feeling better?"

Nicole asked with a smile.

"Much better. Don't tell me that you designed this for me to vent my anger, do you?"

Tim was slightly shocked.

"Gabrielle? What is she doing here?"

Nicole suddenly remembered something.

"Wait for me for a moment. I'll be right back."

As she spoke, she hurriedly ran towards Gabrielle.

Tim frowned slightly. He felt that this matter was not simple. He just followed without Nicole's instruction.

"Gabrielle, how is it? Do you get any results?"

Nicole asked worriedly.

Gabrielle gave the blood test report to Nicole.

"Just like you said, there is indeed an accumulation of chronic toxins in the blood components. It's really complicated."

Just as Gabrielle finished speaking, Tim ran over.

"What's complicated?"

Seeing Tim coming, Nicole was surprised.

"Why are you here?"

"Are you hiding something from me?"

Tim looked at Nicole. His gaze stopped Nicole from concealing it.

"I didn't mean to hide it from you. I just want to say it when we're all here."

Nicole subconsciously hid the test paper.

When Tim saw Nicole like this, although he was nervous, he nodded.

"Alright. Then I'll wait for a while."

He looked at Gabrielle and brought Trevin to the hospital.

Only then did Nicole let out a sigh of relief.

When Gabrielle saw Nicole like this, she whispered, "Haven't you told him yet?"

"I didn't find an opportunity. I'll say that when everyone is here in a while. Ballard will also come. If I don't say that, I think there are some things that the police will notify them."

Nicole didn't mean that. But it was not good to tell others over and over again.

Gabrielle patted her shoulder and whispered, "It's hard for you. It's not a good thing to say it or not."

"Yes. Tim is keen on face-saving. I don't know if he will collapse after I say it. The incident with Maia has dealt him quite a blow."

Nicole sighed.

"What's wrong?"

Ballard wanted to take a look, but Tim dodged back.

"You have not given my mother any care for so many years. No matter what will happen, it's none of your business."

"What are you talking about? Your mother and I haven't got divorced yet."

Ballard had vaguely sensed that something was wrong. Tim's words and the recording he had just listened to immediately made Ballard's face pale.

"What's in the recording is really the truth? Your mother ..."

"Yes, slow poison was detected in her blood sample. Are you satisfied? The mistress with your favor has meant to kill my mother and even me now! If Maia hadn't fallen in love with me, you might be looking at my dead body now. Mr. Louis, Ballard Louis, are you satisfied with the result now?"

Tim directly threw the test report in Ballard's face.

Ballard was stunned.

How could this be?

Bella was so gentle and so virtuous. How did she become the mastermind behind this murder?

But the recording couldn't be faked, and neither could the blood test report.

For a moment, Ballard could not accept the fact.

Jacob was also very embarrassed.

He had thought that he was a love child who had stolen the favor Tim should have got, but now he felt that he was even more sinful than that!

What Bella had done was unbearable to him, and he felt he could not face Tim and Ballard at all.

"I'm going back to ask her about the truth."

Jacob's voice was hoarse and his eyes were slightly red. If he weren't a grown man with a strong mind, he would have collapsed long ago.

Nicole and Samuel also sympathized with him.

Born to a mother like that and to a greedy, insatiable father like Cornell, any ordinary man couldn't take it.

When Ballard turned to look at Jacob again, he had mixed feelings. He had really thought that Jacob was his son, but now everything had changed.

To look at Jacob carefully now, Ballard could see that Jacob did not look like him so much. He looked more like Bella. Ballard had always thought that it was natural that his son looked like his mother, but now, the more he looked at him, the more upset he was feeling.

What had he done for all these years?

For a child that was born by others, and for his mistress, he had thrown his first wife into a sanatorium, left her alone and ignored her. He did nothing when his son hated him for so many years and made the father-and-son relationship so tense now.

"I really didn't know what kind of person you are! You've been sleeping beside me for so many years, and you've also lied to me for so many years! Bella, you're evil!"

Ballard kicked her to the floor.

Bella covered her stomach in pain and continued to make a pitiful face.

"Ballard, I was wronged. Believe me. That wasn't me in the recording. It must be Martha and Tim trying to hurt me. They synthesized the voice! That's right! They're trying to frame me up! Ballard, I've been being with you for so many years, even though you didn't marry me. Don't you know how good I'm to you?"

Seeing that Bella still refused to admit her mistake now, Ballard couldn't help but become even angrier.

"They synthesized it? They're trying to hurt you? I think it's more like you're trying to hurt them! This is Martha's blood test report. There's slow poison in her blood. Don't tell me you don't know Martha's nurse!"

"What do I know? I don't know anything! Ballard, if you don't believe me when they're trying to frame me up, then what's the point of living? I might as well die!"

As she spoke, Bella stood up and wanted to hit the wall. She had thought that someone would stop her, but after waiting for a while, everyone was just staring at her without a word, whether it was Ballard or Jacob. They had absolutely no intention of stopping her.

Bella felt so embarrassed.

"Jacob, I'm your mother! Are you really this cruel, just standing there to watch me die?"

Jacob turned his head away and didn't look at Bella, but his hands were tightly clenched together.

Martha frowned slightly, as if she was a little surprised by the news that she was poisoned, but she did not panic or show too much fear.

Seeing this, Nicole walked in from outside.

"Bella, my people have saved that nurse and she is currently under my protection. Do you want to confront her?"

Bella was immediately stunned after she heard Nicole's words. Then, anger flashed through her eyes.

"Nicole, don't get yourself involved in other people's businesses, even if you're married to Samuel. I advise you to go out and leave here. You don't want trouble from us."

Nicole found Bella's words funny.

"This is not other people's business."

Martha looked at Bella and said coldly, "Nicole is my niece by blood, so she's never an outsider in this business. If we have to pick out outsiders here, it will probably be you and your son."

Bella had been planning the whole thing for so many years, but she failed on the verge of success. She was so angry that her eyes turned red.
