Chapter 821 This Man Was So Stubborn

"You, and the children."

Nicole's voice, with tenderness, rushed into Samuel's heart like a warm current. It sounded warm and comfortable.

"Do you think, as a man, I would need your protection?"

"But I just want to."

Nicole leaned against Samuel's chest, wishing that time would stop at this moment.

And so did Samuel.

He hugged Nicole tightly, who had risked her life for him for several times, as if they weren't going to be separated anymore.

"Alright, my life is yours now. Take good care of it, as well as your own."

"OK."

Nicole nodded.

They hugged for a while before Samuel let go of Nicole and said in a low voice, "Forget about the Brook family. Let's talk about Adela."

"Was her body found?"

Nicole was excited.

Samuel shook his head, his expression somewhat gloomy.

"What's going on?"

Nicole had never thought that Samuel would not be able to find Adela. Now that Laurel had been arrested and the rest of the Millers were to be investigated, even if there were a few that might have got away, they would too busy fleeing to carry a corpse with them.

It was impossible for Night Elf Empire to miss Adela, but Samuel's expression suggested that it had not been the case.

Seeing Nicole's anxious face, Samuel comforted her and said, "Calm down. Listen to me."

"What the hell is going on? How can I calm down? After all, Adela is my friend. And Laurence loves her. I promised to help him find Adela. What happened exactly?"

Samuel hurriedly said, "I kind of found her."

"What do you mean by 'kind of'? Did you find her or not? What's going on?"

"Relax. Listen to me, huh?"

Samuel poured a cup of cold water for Nicole, then sat in front of her, pondered for a moment, and said, "When we found Adela, her body had already been half cremated."

"What?"

Nicole almost jumped out of rage.

Samuel said in a low voice, "It was Laurel's order. She planned to put everything to a dead end by destroying the corpse, but Mrs. Miller and Professor Miller refused to hand over Adela's corpse to her. In case Mrs. Miller and Professor Miller were forced to resist her, Laurel compromised for the time being. But when you and Laurence went in to look for Adela's body, Laurel took the opportunity and asked someone to steal it. In her plan, she was going to set you up and let you take the responsibility, and then she would burn the corpse secretly so that as long as she insisted that you were Adela, no one would dare to refute."

"This wicked old witch!"

Nicole was ready to explode.

"Adela was from the Miller family anyway. How could she be so ruthless?"

"She is less than human. Humans have hearts, but she does not."

Samuel remembered his father's death and felt so sad, but he didn't show it in front of Nicole, in case that she would feel sad, too.

Chapter 822 I Only Love Adela All My Life

"Who is it?"

Nicole subconsciously tried to look for that person who had bumped into Cara, but unfortunately, nothing could be seen.

She hurriedly unfolded the note in hand. After reading it, she immediately frowned.

"Ask Samuel to stop dealing with the Millers if you want your mother alive."

Nicole's heart pounded.

It had been long since she last heard from Audrey, and she had always been worried. She had asked Finn to find Audrey's whereabouts. Unfortunately, before Finn could say anything to her, he was caught by Laurel.

Now, a threatening note suddenly appeared in her hand. Nicole felt really chilly.

Although she was not in the Green's, it was Adela's funeral today, Laurence, Samuel and their men were all here. There were so many people here, yet a person managed to stuff a note into her hand unnoticed. It scared Nicole just to think about it.

Night Elf Empire was developed by Samuel personally. The Millers had people in it?

Thinking about this, Nicole was shocked.

"Mrs. Green, are you alright?"

Cara failed to grab anything to keep her balance and directly fell to the ground. Her arms and legs were bleeding, but she didn't stop. She hurriedly went to see how Nicole was doing.

Nicole held the note tightly in hand and said calmly, "I'm fine. You should go to see the doctor later."

"It was nothing big. Some ointment will do. I'm not that fragile. Who was it just now? Why didn't I see anyone?"

After Cara finished speaking, she felt a chill run down her spine.

She couldn't help but glance at Adela's cemetery and said in a low voice, "Could it be..."

"Don't be superstitious! Even if ghosts really exist, Adela won't do anything to harm me. Let's go back first."

Nicole looked around and did not find anyone suspicious. She returned to the ward with unease.

Samuel and Laurence were busy. After Adela was buried, Laurence settled down her parents and planned to bring them back to the Seapolis City with Samuel.

Samuel was also busy with this matter. When he returned to the ward, he saw Nicole staring out the window in a daze. He hugged her from behind.

"What's wrong? What's on your mind?"

"Nothing. Life is really fragile. Adela is only in her early twenties, but she's actually gone."

Nicole sighed.

"Everyone has their own destinies. That's why we have to make every day count. You never know which will come first, accident or death. The only thing we can do is to spend as many years as possible with each other. Even if we die and become ghosts, we'll be a ghost couple then."

Hearing this, Nicole rolled her eyes at Samuel.

Chapter 823 Are You Threatening Me?

"What's the matter with you? I have told you that Mrs. Green didn't want any visitors!"

Cara quickly shielded Nicole behind her. With Mrs. Brook in front of her, Cara looked like an old hen protecting her cubs. Nicole was somewhat moved seeing this.

Nicole hadn't seen Mrs. Brook for some time. Mrs. Brook's face was pale. It could be told that she was having a tough time these days.

Nicole pushed Cara to the side. She looked at the old lady in front of her and respectfully said, "Hello, Mrs. Brook."

"I thought that you must have forgotten me."

Mrs. Brook was not very friendly.

Nicole only smiled and didn't say anything. Seeing Nicole like this, Mrs. Brook was a little angry.

"Nicole, in the past five years, our family has treated you well, right?"

"Right."

Nicole's reply gave Mrs. Brook a glimmer of hope.

"You still have some conscience. Over the past five years, although the Brook family has not given you a good chance, we helped you raise your children and get rid of gossip, and even helped you become an excellent car designer. You should thank our family for what you have achieved. How could you allow Samuel to destroy us? Why are you so ruthless?"

The more Mrs. Brook spoke, the angrier she became. It seemed that to her, Nicole was unforgivable.

Nicole did not interrupt her. After Mrs. Brook finished speaking, she asked her in a low voice, "Mrs. Brook, do you know what Allen did to me?"

Mrs. Brook froze for a moment and blushed a little.

"Nicole, you know that Allen loves you. He loves you so much, and that's why..."

"That's why he wanted to kill me?"

Nicole asked calmly. However, her question left Mrs. Brook speechless.

"He was confused. You know what he thought of you for the past five years. Five years—five years have passed, but there was still nothing between you two. He just didn't want to give up."

"Mrs. Brook, your grandson could take someone's life just because he didn't want to give up, right?"

Nicole spoke coldly. Hearing this, Mrs. Brook felt even more embarrassed.

"How about this? We don't care whether Allen is dead or alive. We can do anything to make you and Samuel happy. I have been nice to you over the past five years, and I'm asking you a favor now. Can you beg Samuel to let the Brook family off the hook?"

Mrs. Brook made herself pretty clear. She had already decided to sacrifice Allen to save the Brook family.

Nicole didn't know how to feel about this. If it was in the past, she might have been soft-hearted. However, she had experienced death in the cold storage and had seen how frightened Samuel was because of her. Ever since then, Nicole had decided not to be so kind to anyone anymore.

"Mrs. Brook, I remember that Samuel had given the Brook family a chance. I also remember that when I left the United States, Samuel said that it was a reward for your family's care for me and the children. From then on, we were even. Since we are even now, why are you asking me to plead for Samuel's mercy again? Think of the thing that Allen did. We'll not show our gratitude and kindness again to those who are hurting us. If it were you, would you agree?"

Nicole's words left Mrs. Brook speechless, but she still wanted to struggle.

"Nicole, I know that Allen was wrong. Like I said, if killing him can save our family..."

"Before this happened, Allen was the symbol, and the pride of the Brook family. Since you've always been proud of him, you shouldn't give up on him now, right? You should share your happiness and woe. Aren't you afraid of breaking his heart? As for the Brook family, I'm sorry, there's nothing I can do."

Nicole sat up from Samuel's embrace. Looking at this beautiful costal city, she finally felt at ease.

Wherever there was love, there was home.

Seeing Nicole's expression, Samuel smiled and said, "Are you happy to be back?"

"Yes, I feel that the air here is so fresh."

"Then we can stay for a few more days."

"Alright."

Nicole and Samuel said in a low voice to each other. Cara looked outside happily and said, "So beautiful! So the coastal city is so beautiful."

"Yeah. I'll let Laurence take you out for a stroll later."

Nicole's words made Laurence frown slightly.

"I still need to protect you."

"Samuel is here and I don't need your protection. You help Cara to familiarize herself with the Seapolis City so that she won't get lost."

Nicole said indifferently.

Although Laurence was unwilling, since Nicole asked him to do this, he just accepted this order.

Hearing this, Samuel did not say anything. Anyway, everything was OK as long as his wife was happy.

After the plane landed, Nicole was carried off the plane by Samuel.

Jacob was already waiting for them.

After this period of time, Jacob had recovered from Bella's matter. Now, he became as powerful as what he used to be.

Nicole was also happy for him.

"Mr. Green and Mrs. Green, welcome home."

Jacob took out a cloak and handed it to Samuel.

Samuel asked Cara to help Nicole wear the cloak.

Nicole instantly felt that her entire body warmed up.

"Actually, I don't need a cloak in such a weather."

Nicole was directly rejected by Samuel.

"The doctor said that you stayed in the cold storage for too long. Although there's a miracle and you're totally fine now. It's better keep it warm just in case."

"Alright."

What else could Nicole say?

Samuel persuaded her with doctor's instructions, so she couldn't let this man worry about her anymore.

After they got in the car, Jacob drove in the front. Nicole and Samuel sat behind, while Laurence was asked by Nicole to take care of Cara.

No one answered Jacob. They only told him that Bella was released on bail and didn't mention anything else.

Jacob wanted to ask something else, while the other party politely took him out.

Jacob felt so complicated. As a son, he heaved a sigh of relief since Bella was released on bail. But as Samuel's brother, he felt worried. He didn't know if Bella's release on bail was a good thing.

Just as Jacob was thinking about what to do, Cornell appeared and took Jacob into an alley.

He was much more haggard than before when he was a doctor.

"Give me some money. I want to go abroad."

Cornell took it for granted that he extended his hand to Jacob to ask for money.

Jacob looked at this man who was his half brother and felt extremely disgusted.

"How did you get out? Were you also released on bail? Who did that? Where is my mother?"

Facing a series of questions from Jacob, Cornell was very impatient.

"Why do you have so many questions? How do I know who bailed her? How do I know where she went? Maybe she has escaped with one big shot. Damn, women are so unreliable. She ran away and I'm broke now. I don't even have a job because of her. My reputation is also ruined. I'm so poor now. You're her son. You have to compensate me! Hurry up and give me money. I'll be leaving tonight."

Cornell's attitude irritated Jacob.

"Her son? Can she give birth to a son by herself? I've grown up. You threw me into an orphanage. What did you give me all these years? Why do you have the nerve to ask me for money?"

"I gave you your life!"

Cornell was arrogant.

Jacob sneered as he grabbed Cornell's collar. With a little strength, Cornell's feet were above the ground.

"You, you, you! You dare to do this to me! Aren't you afraid of being punished?"

"Since you're not scared, why should I be scared? Tell me. Who bailed you?"

Jacob's indifference and violence made Cornell scared.

"I don't know." He trembled. "Someone told me that I was released on bail and he told me to leave quickly, so I came out. Prison was no place for a man. As long as someone gets me out, I don't care who he is."

Jacob frowned slightly.

Jacob felt that there was a red blood mist in front of him. He wanted to take out the phone and send a message to Samuel, but the remaining strength was only enough for him to take out the phone. After dialing Samuel's number, he could no longer hold on and fainted.

Samuel had just finished cooking. Before he woke Nicole up, he found that there was a missed call on his phone. It was actually Jacob.

He knew what Jacob was doing outside, but why didn't he hear it?

Samuel called back, but no one answered.

He was somewhat uneasy.

Samuel dialed a few times again, but no one answered. His brows were tightly knitted together.

"What's wrong? What happened?"

Nicole woke up. She walked downstairs and couldn't help but ask him when she saw Samuel like this.

Samuel hurriedly walked to her, afraid that she would fall.

"Be careful. When did you get up? Why didn't you tell me?"

"Why should I tell you? You worried about me all the time. It seem like I need you to help me with everything. By the way, who did you call just now? Did something happen?"

Samuel shook his head at Nicole's question.

"Nothing. It's Jacob. But I didn't hear it. I just called back. Jacob didn't answer the phone. He might be busy."

Nicole was slightly shocked and said, "Jacob would answer your phone usually. Is something wrong?"

"I'll go out and take a look. Can you be at home alone? I'll call Cara back. The Seapolis City is always open to her. I'm worried about you being at home by yourself."

Samuel said as he was about to make the phone call.

However, Nicole smiled and said, "There's no need. I'll follow you."

"I forgot to tell you. Jacob told me that Olivia will come back to the Seapolis City soon. You should wait at home."

Hearing Samuel's words, Nicole immediately cheered up.

"Olivia is coming back? That's great. I haven't contacted her since she and her brother went to the border. I don't know how she's doing. It's great that she is coming back now."

Seeing that Nicole was so happy, Samuel could not say anything else. He comforted her and said, "So you wait at home. I'll go out to find Jacob. I'll call Laurence and Cara to come back. Otherwise, I won't be at ease."

"Alright, it's up to you."

Seeing Samuel being worried, Nicole did not insist on going with him and just nod in agreement.

"When you feel better, I'll take you out."

"Stop comforting me. I don't have to go out. Hurry up and go. I'm okay alone."

Nicole felt that Samuel was treating her as a fragile doll now. This feeling was quite blissful.

"I've prepared the meal. You can eat it yourself first. There's no need to wait for me."

"Alright."

After arranging for Nicole, Samuel quickly drove out.

Soon, Samuel got news of Jacob's accident. He immediately rushed to the hospital.

Nicole's mind was full of questions.

After being checked routinely, Laurence drove in.

When Cara saw Nicole like this, she asked worriedly, "Mrs. Green, is he very powerful? I saw that the guards at the entrance were carrying guns. We...."

"Don't ask or say anything later. Follow Laurence quietly. If he lets you go, then you just leave. Don't worry about me, okay?"

Nicole did not answer Cara's question, which made Cara even more nervous.

"Mrs. Green, I can't leave you. My duty is to protect you. What if...?"

"If you go out, you can send a message to Samuel. It's useless for you to stay by my side. Remember."

Nicole held Cara's hand tightly. She already had a premonition that the other party might be very powerful.

Cara wanted to say something else, but the car had already stopped.

Laurence looked at Nicole in the rearview mirror and said in a low voice, "I will protect you with my life."

"I don't need you to die. I hope you'll be alive. Don't forget, you still need to support Adela's parents. You can't die. As I said, if you get the chance, leave with Cara. It would be best if you can inform Samuel. If you can't, find a way to contact others, or go to the Don's to find my uncles. None of the people inside is someone you can offend. Being good is the safest way. I don't want you to sacrifice anything, get it?"

Nicole said very seriously, even staring at Laurence.

Laurence hesitated, but he nodded in the end.

"I'll listen to you."

"Protect Cara. This is what you, as a man, should do."

After Nicole finished speaking, the other party had already walked over.

"Mrs. Green, please get out of the car. Our master is waiting for you."

Nicole winked at Laurence and stopped him from doing anything.

Laurence couldn't hold back and directly opened the car door, but someone closed it.

"Sorry, our master only wants to see Mrs. Green. The others should stay in the car and wait."

His strength was so great that no matter how hard Laurence pushed it, he couldn't push it open.

Nicole could tell that the man was an athlete.

"Laurence, be good. Stay in the car and wait for me."

"But...."

"There are no more buts. They don't dare to hurt me. Otherwise, they wouldn't have invited me here so politely."

Nicole's words angered Laurence.

Chapter 828 Do You Think It's Appropriate?

"Mr. Shaw, isn't this appropriate?"

Nicole looked somewhat gloomy.

Edwin looked at her and smiled, "Well? You don't even call me Grandpa?"

"I don't know if you are really my grandpa or not. How about this? Since my mother isn't here, I have Aunt Martha here. Why don't I call her over to confirm your identity?"

When Nicole talked about Martha, Edwin's smile was replaced by an angry face.

"Don't mention that woman. She's not a Shaw."

"Mr. Shaw, you're wrong. She is my mother's biological sister. Since you said that you are my mother's father, why aren't you my aunt's father?"

Nicole asked rhetorically.

Edwin looked even more sullen.

"Well! Have you ever think that they might have different fathers? Do you think I would let her be out there if she really was a Shaw?"

"What do you mean?"

Nicole didn't catch Edwin at that moment.

Different fathers? What did he mean? Did Edwin mean that Grandma cheated on another man? And Martha was not Edwin's child?

It seemed that the answer only made sense in this way, but Nicole felt that it was impossible no matter what.

In Edwin's time, how could a woman have guts to cheat on her husband? Moreover, just looking at Edwin, everyone could conclude that he did not seem to tolerate women cheating on him. Since he knew that Martha was not his own daughter, why did he keep Martha and her mother for so many years?

Of course, Nicole did not ask these questions, but she was puzzled.

Edwin had no scruples about Nicole. He said angrily, "Back then, when I went out on a mission, I left for three years. After returning, I found she had been pregnant. Well, I'm not at home, so how could she get pregnant? No matter what I asked, she refused to answer me, nor did she deny that the child was not mine. If it wasn't for my reputation, I wouldn't have kept her and the child. Later, it was also her own initiative to propose a divorce. Her only condition for divorce was to take that child away. She didn't want anything from the Shaws, not even our daughter. How will you judge such a woman, and who cares the daughter she has educated? I, Edwin Shaw, will never deceive a little girl like you."

Nicole thought that it was better that she remained silent, so she didn't say anything more.

Seeing that Nicole was silent, Edwin asked coldly, "Why are you silent? No more questions? Or will you do as I say?"

"What is your relationship with Laurel? Why did you save her? If you've been paying attention to me, you should know that there are too many grudges between us. Furthermore, don't you know what she wants to do with the Miller family? Since you can live here, you must be a retired contributor to the military. Such being the case, why do you still do this?"

"I don't need to tell you why. You don't need to know either. Just do as I say."

"Just you? What can you do to me? I don't think Samuel has taught you anything good. Or did he teach you to offend the elders? No matter what, Laurel is his mother and she has raised him. How can he not show any mercy?"

Nicole intended to contradict what he said, but Edwin's strength was so strong that cold sweat broke out on her forehead.

Nicole really hated this grandfather who played hardball the first time she met him.

"You know nothing else than bullying your granddaughter, don't you? I think you have gone through a lot waiting for retiring to live here, right? I don't think you have any real ability. Otherwise, how couldn't you distinguish right from wrong?"

Even if she was caught, Nicole never admitted defeat with her sharp remarks.

Edwin looked irritated.

"You know nothing!"

"Yeah. But as for what you've done, shame on you! You even help a damned Laurel. You don't deserve to live here!"

Nicole didn't care about what would happen to her. In any case, she just couldn't compromise against her conscience.

Moreover, this old man had also placed her mother under house arrest. A ball of fire had already burned in her heart, and she wished she could burn up this place.

Edwin used more strength again. Nicole felt that her wrist was about to break, but she clenched her teeth and didn't utter a word.

Just when she believed that Edwin would broke her hand, Edwin let go of her.

Nicole quickly took two steps back, feeling as if she was being reborn. She had to admit that Edwin was old but vigorous, who could not be belittled. If they really had a fight, she did not know if she was able to compete with Edwin.

"Sit down."

Edwin restrained his hostility immediately, sighed, and sat in his seat.

Nicole was a little dumbfounded.

What was going on?

However, she did not want to stand. After all, she had been bullied just now. If she still stood, she would be like a punished child.

Nicole sat back down, and the water on her hand became a little cold.

She wanted to ask someone to change for hot water, but after reflection, she gave up. Otherwise, she didn't know what Edwin would do.

Edwin saw through her and coughed. He shouted to the outside, "Bring a cup of hot water."

"Yes, sir."

The people outside replied. Not long after, a man came in with a cup of hot water and even brought some dried fruits and snack.

"Have some. You are no longer as strong as before. You need to replenish some energy. Otherwise, if there is birth defect in the child, you will suffer."

After Edwin finished speaking, he waved his hand. The man went out again and closed the door.

Chapter 830 A Friend Won't Stop Me

"Stop laughing! She's your nurse? How dare her say those words? I was so wrong about her. What was I thinking, wanting her to stay here?"

Edwin was infuriated.

Before Nicole could speak, Cara said, "What wanted to stay here? You crazy old man."

"Alright. Cara, he doesn't mean it. He just wants you to stay and take care of him as a nurse. You must have misunderstood what he said."

Nicole immediately chimed in.

If she hadn't butted in, Edwin would have been more irritated because of what Cara would say.

Cara knew she had misunderstood, but she couldn't just apologize. "Mrs. Green, you are too kindhearted. It is hard to say he meant it or not. You don't have to explain. He doesn't look like a good guy at all."

Edwin really wanted to have his men throw this little girl out of the place.

Noticing that Edwin was really angry, Nicole uttered that, "Cara, stop talking nonsense. He is my grandfather. I'm not kidding."

"Really?"

Cara was stunned at once.

"I didn't expect a grandfather would have his granddaughter back in this way."

"None of your business! I like it in this way."

Edwin acted like a child. He just turned around and said to the people beside him, "Tell that girl to sleep on the floor at night. I don't like her." Then he went away.

Nicole laughed again, but Cara was not in that mood.

"Mrs. Green, please help me. I didn't know he was your grandfather. I thought he was just someone you know."

"It's fine. I'll let you sleep on the bed."

Nicole held Cara's hand and followed behind Edwin.

Cara suddenly remembered something and asked Nicole, "Mrs. Green, if he is your grandfather, he wouldn't treat Laurence like that. What if Laurence goes back and sends the wrong message?"

Nicole wanted to say that it was okay, but she thought of what Edwin said to her and said in a low voice, "Although he is my grandfather, he is bad-tempered. He has confined my mother so that I could persuade Samuel into doing something for him. You just stand by and watch. Don't get involved in this. I am waiting for Samuel to come. I alone am no match for him."

"What?"

Cara was completely confused now.

What exactly was going on?

However, Nicole was composed, so Cara stopped asking questions. She followed behind Nicole with caution.

Nicole took Cara to her mother's room, but the old man refused to let Cara in. He insisted that Cara should sleep on the floor of the corridor outside.
