

Escape Wife 831

Chapter 831 Are You Going to Kill Me?

Everyone was stunned.

It was the military compound.

No one could enter it at will.

All people should be searched and registered before they came in.

They thought they must have misheard what Samuel had said.

"Mr. Green, do you mean directly going into the military compound? Are you sure? It is the military compound! I'm afraid that the press will report it on the news."

Someone asked, showing concerns.

Samuel sneered, "That's great! I can't wait for the headlines! What's wrong with the military compound? Do they have the right to arrest my wife? I just want the whole nation see what's going on. Let's see if he still dares to abuse his power again."

After saying that, he took the lead and walked out.

The others were nonplussed.

Who was he referring to?

Actually it looked like Samuel was going to smash the military compound. It is worrisome.

"Barton, what should we do...?"

"Listen to Mr. Green. We are here for Mr. Green. No matter what grudges they have, we will just do it."

The person called Barton interrupted the other people's questioning and took the lead to follow Samuel's car.

More than twenty BMWs followed Samuel's car and drove directly to the gate of the military compound.

When the guards saw this, they were stunned and then stepped forward to stop them.

"Mr. Green, please show me the ID card. This is..."

"Scram!"

Samuel looked terrifying. Without stopping, he broke open the rails and drove inside.

The security guard had never experienced something this before. In fright, he retreated and sat down onto ground. If he had reacted half an hour later, he would probably have been hit by Samuel's car.

Before he could get up, the cars behind him drove inside one after another without stopping.

The security guard was scared.

It was his shift today. He thought he was done.

He got up and called his leader immediately. Then he rang the alarm.

The entire neighborhood was filled with the sound of the alarm. The armed police and reserve armies also came out.

In this case, there was no doubt that the news media workers who were always sharp would come.

The news that Samuel had brought more than twenty cars into the military compound immediately spread on the Internet.

"Mr. Shaw! Mr. Green has brought a fleet of twenty cars with him towards us."

Someone reported to Edwin.

As the window of Nicole's room was open, she could hear it clearly. She was slightly stunned.

"Are you bleeding?"

Samuel asked word by word, whose cold voice could have frozen one soul.

Nicole broke out in cold sweat.

"Samuel, don't!"

She truly felt that Edwin took the road to ruin.

"Grandpa, stop messing around!"

Nicole was afraid that Samuel's recklessness would hurt Edwin.

The ice-cold dagger rested against his chin, but Edwin felt somewhat glad.

"You seem much more unyielding than your father-in-law. For the sake of your love of my granddaughter, I will tell you the truth. She's fine. As long as you go and withdraw the lawsuit against Laurel, I will release her. Otherwise, she has to stay here with me for the rest of her life. I should doubt whether you could barge in next time."

Samuel knitted his brows together at Edwin's words.

"You want me to let go of Laurel?"

"Yes. Do you have bad ears?"

His waist aching and chin against a dagger, Edwin felt angry.

Samuel narrowed his eyes and looked at Nicole. As Edwin did not ordered to close the door which was wide open, so what had happened here was clearly seen by the people outside, but the conversation should be inaudible to those outsiders.

Where was he?

This was the military compound!

Even if he could barge in with his people, it was unreasonable for so many reporters and spectators to come in.

What's more, Nicole was fine though her throat was buckled loosely by a man. It didn't need a genius to solve this riddle, So Samuel figured out Edwin's intention.

"Alright, I'll leave Laurel alone, but I have to take Nicole away now."

"That won't do. If you take her away and don't keep your words, what else can I do? It took me so much effort to get her here. I can't ruin my plan. Samuel, I will release her whenever you fulfill your promise."

Edwin's words made Samuel colder in his manners.

"If my woman suffer even a little bit here, I won't be done with you."

There were few threats Edwin received in his life, and even the Don family didn't dare to speak to him like this. Therefore Samuel's threats took him by surprise.

He was so angry that he turned to Nicole and yelled, "What a good husband! Go back to your room?!"

"Grandpa!"

Nicole felt that she was innocent, indeed.

She didn't ask her grandfather to do this.

"It is for your own good to know what you should know and not go too far. Now, go back to your room and focus on your designs. That's what you should do now."

It was obvious that Edwin was avoiding her question.

The doubts in Nicole's heart loomed large.

"What's wrong? Is my mother sick? I well know both the medical skills and temper of Morgan. I guess you forced her to stay with my mother with your power, right? Then what happened to my mother? I just want the truth."

Nicole anxiously grabbed Edwin's sleeve like a child, tears streaming down her face.

Edwin felt bad.

"I said, don't ask, no question..."

"Tell me the truth, or I kill myself. I believe your trick will be screwed up once Samuel gets some bad news about me."

Nicole's words frightened Edwin.

"How dare you!"

"Don't push me!"

Nicole's stubbornness was exactly the same as that of Audrey.

Edwin glared at her, but Nicole didn't back off.

In the end, Edwin gave in.

"It's useless even if I tell you. You can't be there now."

"At least, I know what happened to her, what's more, I can have a video chat with her!"

Her uneasiness loomed large.

"If I cannot see my mother, can I at least see Morgan? Even if I can only video chat with her. I need to ask her something. Is that ok?"

Nicole's request was so sincere and urgent in front of Edwin.

Edwin paused for a moment and said in a low voice, "I am afraid she will not see you either."

"Why? There is no grudge between us."

Nicole could not understand the reason behind it.

Edwin shook his head. "I don't know the details. But when she promised to take care of your mother, the only condition she told me was that she did not want to see you again for the rest of her life."

"What?"

Nicole was so shocked that she did not know what to say.

Was it because that she did not show respect to Morgan in the Land city, and that was the reason why Morgan did not want to see her forever?

But Morgan was not a small-minded person.

"Grandpa, could you..."

"There is nothing I can do because I already made a promise to her. Perhaps I will try later but not now. I am getting tired, too. You may go and take a rest."

It was obvious that Edwin did not want Nicole to stay any longer.

Nicole understood that there was no need for her to insist and stay anymore. She said goodnight to Edwin and left the room.

Cara came back at this time and saw Nicole. Seeing the disappointment on Nicole's face, Cara asked with worries, "Mrs. Green, is everything alright?"

"I am tired. I want to rest for a while."

Nicole returned to her mother's room.

She suddenly remembered what Edwin said. He told Nicole that Audrey caught a fatal disease and would pass away soon. He also said that Audrey knew the diagnosis when she left the Seapolis City.

Sadness came to her mind, and her tears were about to drop.

When Audrey was still a healthy woman, she did not think of her as someone of vital importance to her life. When she said that she wanted to leave the Seapolis City to travel around, she was only sad for a moment. At that time, she did not see her mother an important part of her life.

Audrey gave birth to her. But in the past 30 years, it was the Bush family who gave her the parents' love. She had such a happy life that she kept an indifferent attitude towards Audrey. Even if there was a trace of affection, she never felt that Audrey was important. Moreover, the other child of Audrey's had caused so much trouble for her.

Nicole even felt that if it was not for the Dons and the essential etiquette she was taught, she probably wouldn't be this close to Audrey. However, when Nicole knew that Audrey's life was coming to an end, she finally felt the deepest pain.

The pain was like a vine with poisonous thorns that tightly wrapped around her. It was getting so tight that it was hard for her to breathe.

She tore open her collar, but still felt suffocating.

How did she end up having a fatal disease?

Heart in her mouth, Nicole was afraid that Edwin would suddenly wake up. Fortunately, Edwin wasn't awakened and kept on sleeping.

She quickly stuffed that thing into her pocket and tiptoed out of Edwin's room.

Nicole did not see that the moment she closed the door, Edwin opened his eyes.

He looked at the drawer where the pass was put and sighed.

"Steve."

Edwin's voice was not loud, but a man opened the door and walked in. If Nicole were still here, she would be able to tell that this man was the one who kidnapped her halfway over.

Edwin told him to go out to hide for a while. He was about to leave when he heard Edwin calling for him, so he entered the room.

"Mr. Shaw, what can I do for you?"

"Follow her and make sure nothing happens to her. Nicole takes after Audrey and has a stubborn temper. She is going to see Audrey now."

Edwin sighed again.

Steve frowned tightly.

"Mr. Shaw, Audrey will not agree to see her. Moreover, it will not be peaceful along the way. If anything happens to Nicole, Samuel will..."

"That is why I asked you to follow her. I know that Audrey is stubborn, and she will not see Nicole. However, if I keep Nicole here, she will be depressed. She is still carrying a child."

Edwin's hair had turned grey.

The person he wanted to see the most in his life was his daughter, but she never forgave him. Now that he saw his granddaughter being so stubborn, it was as if he had seen Audrey.

Perhaps he was wrong back then and should not have separated a loving couple, but what was the use of saying this now? There was nothing he could do to ask for Audrey's forgiveness.

Edwin did not want the estrangement between him and Audrey to affect Nicole. He liked this granddaughter. After all, she was one of the very few relatives he had left.

Steve could understand Edwin. He nodded and walked out.

When Nicole returned to her room, she saw that Cara was still asleep. She could not bear it, but she was a bit worried if she just left the place in this way.

Now that she was pregnant, she did not dare to take the risk.

Nicole woke Cara up.

"Mrs. Green? Are you awake? Do you want some water? Or are you hungry? I will cook the breakfast for you now."

Cara said as she was about to get up, but Nicole stopped her.

"Stop talking and listen to me. Hurry up and pack up our things. Let us get out of here."

"Get out of here?"

Cara was a little confused.

"Did Edwin let us leave?"

"No, let's leave immediately when they are sleeping now."

Chapter 836 Fate is Fair to Everyone

Nicole looked at Martha. She did not want to tell her about Audrey's illness. She was wondering if fate was playing tricks on these two sisters. Why did they get sick at the same time?

"We can talk about it on the way."

Nicole wanted to talk to Martha with her. After all, Tim was no longer here. Martha was divorced from her husband and was alone. It is distressing, but Steve did not agree with Nicole's decision.

"Ms. Nicole, wherever you want to go, I will go with you. But I am afraid that Mrs. Louis cannot come with us."

"Why not? She is my aunt! Whether you admit it or not, I recognize her identity."

As Nicole spoke, she forcefully took Martha into the car.

Cara did not know who Martha was, but seeing Nicole treat her so well and called her auntie, she naturally had a good impression of Martha.

Steve wanted to say something else, but Nicole said in a low voice, "I know you work for the Shaws, and you only listen to your Mr. Shaw. I also know that you might know about those things back then. But no matter what, she is my aunt. I cannot ignore her. Besides, the two of them have not seen each other for so many years. This may be the last chance for them, so I must take her with me. If she had not met me, nothing would happen. It must mean something that we actually bump into each other. Steve, if you have any difficulty, you can drop us off and call Laurence for me. We can go to my mother's place by ourselves."

Nicole made her points clearly. If Steve said anything else, Nicole might get off the car immediately.

Steve still remembered that Mr. Shaw asked him to take care of Nicole, so he could only stop talking now. He wanted to call Mr. Shaw, but then he heard Nicole say, "If you call my grandfather and anything happens, I will not spare you. My grandfather is not in good health, are you trying to make him suffer even more by angering him? There is a saying that the soldiers can disregard the orders if the leader is not present. Steve, you are my man now, so you have to listen to me, for now."

"But Ms. Nicole, she..."

"Enough of it. Just drive."

Nicole also knew that she was a little bit too aggressive, but she could not leave Martha, whether because she is her aunt or because she is Tim's mother. She could not abandon her.

Tim was a filial man. He must have gone out for Martha's terminal disease.

Before Tim came back, Nicole did not want anything to happen to Martha.

Seeing Nicole treat her so nice, Martha sighed, "It must be hard for you, Nicole. To be honest, I do not think I can be cured. The only person I want to see for the rest of my life is your mother. We have not seen each other for so many years. It has been a lifetime. Perhaps before I see her, I will..."

"Auntie, stop saying those depressing words. I am sure my mother will be very happy to see you."

Nicole comforted Martha.

Although Steve did not agree, seeing that Nicole had made up her mind, he did not say anything else. But he still took extra precautions against Martha.

Martha did not have any reaction to this. She just talked to Nicole about her family. Her kind attitude reminded Nicole of her mother again.

Martha took the air ticket, making no objection to Steve's arrangement, but Nicole spoke.
"Let me stay with my aunt. She doesn't have anyone to talk to these days. Besides, you are not familiar with her. I can sit with her and chat along the way. It takes around six hours to get to Bordeaux. It's Steve hastily tried to dissuade her.

"Ms. Nicole, you need Cara to take care of you. You..."

"I'm not that fragile. How far gone am I? It's fine. I'm just travelling by air. Don't be nervous. Besides, she is my aunt. What can she do to me?"

Nicole smiled and directly rejected Steve's request.

"Ms. Nicole, but..."

"Come on. Look at my aunt. She looks weak. What harm can she do to me? It's settled."

Nicole's final decision silenced Steve.

From beginning to end, Martha did not step in, as if she did not care about the arrangement.

She had been watching people coming and going, deep in thought.

Nicole held her arm and said with a smile, "Auntie, let's board the plane. It's about to take off."

"Alright."

Martha smiled faintly, going through the security check with Nicole's help.

She didn't bring much baggage with her, so it was easy for her.

Steve had been watching Martha, but he did not find anything unusual about her.

Nicole and Martha got on the plane, found their own seats and sat down, chatting happily.

Martha felt a little sleepy. Nicole hastily said, "Auntie, go to sleep. I'll wake you up when we arrive."

"Alright."

Martha did not refuse. She was really tired. Not long after she closed her eyes, she started to breathe steadily.

Nicole was influenced by her, drifting off to sleep.

When she woke up, the plane had landed. People were talking loudly in the cabin.

"What's wrong? What happened?"

Nicole asked doubtfully, feeling dizzy.

She never got airsick. Why did she suddenly feel dizzy?

"Auntie?"

Nicole looked at Martha, who seemed to have just woken up next to her.

"I don't know. I just woke up. What's wrong?"

As she spoke, Cara ran over.

"Madam, we haven't arrived in Bordeaux yet. We are changing the plane at the transit airport. It seems that the plane is out of order. Steve got off to take a look."

"What do you mean? I can't understand what you're talking about."

Martha turned her head away without looking into Nicole's eyes.

Nicole gave a meaningful smile.

"Really? Then why are you avoiding my eyes?"

"I just don't want to look at you."

Martha looked down and muttered.

"You don't want to or dare not? Or you feel guilty and can't look me in the eye? But why weren't you like this when you drugged me on the plane and made me unconscious?"

Cara was seated far away from them, but she heard it clearly and was shocked with her eyes wide open.

"Mrs. Green, Didn't you feel dizzy from the long flight?"

Nicole said with a smile, "I've flown to Bordeaux several times and never got sick, but why is it different this time? I know I am pregnant, but I have asked the doctor, who told me that I am in good health and definitely won't have airsickness. That's why I suspected you when I felt sick. But the plane happened to break down at that time and we needed to have a transfer. Moreover, Steve went missing. I guess you or your people took him away, right? Why didn't you let him stay by my side? That's because you are afraid of him sending a message to my grandfather and ruining your plan, right? But you might not know he had already done that while buying you a plane ticket."

"What?"

Martha was shocked.

She thought that Nicole wouldn't watch out for her at all because she was her aunt and Tim also had a good relationship with her. So she had been on the lookout for Steve from the beginning. Even when he went to buy tickets, she had someone spy on him. However, she never expected that he still sent the message out.

"How did you get in touch? Steve clearly had no access to the phone."

"Didn't you know the gestures used in the army? There's no need for phones and language. With just a gesture, I can know what he's saying. Besides, you've been in the sanatorium for so many years, so why would you bring your ID card with you all the time? Since you bought your ticket again, I've suspected you."

Hearing this, Martha got nothing to say.

"You actually know the gestures in the army."

"Samuel used to be a soldier, and he is also my husband and drill sergeant! So how couldn't I know?"

Nicole said this, her eyes filled with disappointment.

"Auntie, why? Why would you do something like this to your family?"

"Why? My family? Have your grandfather and mother ever treated me as their family? It's been so many years since I was kicked out of the Shaw's, but your mother never wanted to see me. I even went to look for her at her school gate and begged her to see me, but she was quite determined without caring about me at all. Do you think I can still take her as my sister after that?"

Martha spoke with pure hatred in her face, looking totally different from the gentle woman she used to be.

Nicole looked at her with sympathy.

"So you did everything for this? Not something else? You waited outside where Grandfather lived so that I could bring you to find my mother, didn't you? You know Grandfather sent me away and Samuel failed to find me there. You even know Laurel, or in other words, everything happening to her has something to do with you, right? You actually know everything, don't you?"

Nicole didn't want to think that way, but she wasn't an idiot. She had been with Samuel for so many years and could learn something anyway.

"Damn! Their people may have discovered it."

What Laurence said startled Cara. She hurriedly said, "Let's go, Mrs. Green. I'm fine."

"Is everything alright?"

Nicole didn't want Cara to be hurt.

"I'm really fine."

Seeing that Cara jumped twice on the spot, Nicole felt relieved.

"Let's go!"

She and Cara got in the car, and Laurence quickly drove away. Not long after, there was some commotion near KFC, but that had nothing to do with Nicole now.

The car drove far away, and Cara felt a little uncomfortable. She moved her butt left and right. This was immediately discovered by Nicole.

"Are you injured?"

"No, I..."

Before Cara could finish her words, she yelled, as if in pain.

"Laurence, go to the hospital."

When Nicole finished speaking, Laurence frowned.

"Mrs. Green, there are too many people in the hospital. What if Martha ran away...."

"Yes! Don't worry about me. I'm okay."

Although Cara said this, sweat had already flowed down her face.

Nicole knew that she must have been hurt.

Looking at Martha who was still unconscious beside her, Nicole suddenly had an idea.

"Laurence, drive to the police station first."

Laurence nodded.

They drove the car near the police station. Nicole suddenly noticed that there seemed to be something wrong. She hurriedly said, "Don't stop. Drive straight ahead."

"Aren't we going to the police station?"

Laurence was puzzled.

Nicole said in a low voice, "Look at the cars nearby. There are people inside. Although they are well-concealed, the cigarette butts on the ground near their car doors are still burning, which means that they are all sitting inside. It is strange. I'm afraid they're coming for us."

Laurence was slightly stunned. Observing carefully, he also found it strange.

At this moment, Martha woke up.

She struggled and hurriedly wanted to speak, but she was knocked into a coma by Nicole again.

Cara was surprised that Nicole, who looked gentle and weak, was actually so strong.

"Hold on a bit longer, or shall we take you to the hospital first?"

Hearing this, Cara shook her head.

When Mr. Green said that he wanted to collect evidence, Martha went to the gate of the military compound and was taken away by you. He wanted to catch up, but he was afraid that Martha would hurt you. He was even more worried that you would be used and harmed by her because of your kinship. Along the way, Mr. Green was terrified. "Nicole, come on, get up. If you have anything to say, get up and say it."

Audrey hurriedly held Nicole's arms, but Nicole said in a low voice, "Mom, I brought my aunt here."

"What aunt? When do you have an aunt?"

After saying this, Audrey suddenly became still.

She looked blankly at Nicole and didn't quite understand what she had said.

"You brought who?"

"My aunt, Martha, is right outside the door."

As soon as Nicole finished, Audrey let go of her hand and said coldly, "Leave!"

"Mom, listen to me."

"I said leave! Take her with you!"

Audrey's sudden anger caught Nicole off guard, but she didn't get angry.

"Mom, why do you hate my aunt so much?"

"I told you to make her go away. Do you need me to say it a third time? If you really respect me as your mother, then make her go away right now. Don't ever come into my sight again for the rest of her life."

Audrey said resolutely.

Looking at Audrey, Nicole said in a low voice, "I tied her up. There might be her people everywhere outside. If I take her away and leave here, I might not have any chance to see you again."

"What do you mean?"

Audrey frowned heavily.

Nicole said lowly, "I met her at my grandfather's door. She said that she missed you. She had been wanting to reunite with her sister for so many years, and that was you."

"Bullshit!"

Audrey is a lady of principle and education. It stunned Nicole to hear this sudden curse.

"Mom, you...."

"She is no sister of mine. If I had a choice, I wish I wasn't born by the same mother as her."

"What happened exactly?"

Nicole was puzzled.

Audrey looked at her and sighed, "It's a long story. You should get up first. Take good care of yourself. My days are numbered. I know how difficult it was for you to be finally pregnant. If you lost the child, I wouldn't rest in peace even if I died now."

"Mom, don't say that."
