Don't Try to Escape, My Wife!

Chapter 891 You're Not, and You Can't Be

Zac looked at Petty who was unconscious and smiled. "How can I have the heart to kill her? She is my wife. No matter what she did, it was because I didn't pay enough attention to her. We have to be responsible to Mr. Green for this. Here is the money I have saved all these years in this card, which can help her live a good life by herself. If she wakes up, tell her that her father is not a nice guy, and restart her life anywhere no one knows her."

He looked at Petty lovingly and rubbed her face again and again. If possible, he really didn't want to let go, but he has to be responsible to Samuel.

The speedboat started, and Petty was taken away.

Zac stayed at the seaside for a long time until the sun set. The red light swept across the horizon and then the sun completely sank into the sea.

Only then did he feel a little cold.

Zac got in the car, started it, and drove back to the Green's.

Samuel was sitting on the sofa.

When Zac entered, he paused for a moment. Then, he came to Samuel's side and knelt down.

"Mr. Green, Petty was released by me. No matter how you're gonna punish me, I have no complaints. I just hope that you will let her go. If anyone's to blame, it's me."

Zac said word by word.

Samuel looked at him without saying anything. He shook the glass in his hand slightly. The oscillation of the wine made Zac a little uneasy.

Finally, he spoke.

"Zac, how long have you been with me?"

Zac was slightly shocked. Then, he looked down and said. "It has been seventeen years since I was seven years old."

"Seventeen years. It's not a short time, but you betrayed me twice."

Samuel's words embarrassed Zac a little.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Green. I'm not a very promising person. I let you down. Maybe you shouldn't have taken me away from the orphanage. What's the use of saying this now? I have no guts. I have lived for a woman all my life. However, I really can't bear to part with her. Therefore, Mr. Green, I am willing to come back to be punished."

Zac said sincerely. He truly felt guilty, but what could he do? He was always under the spell of love and his betrayals were all because of Petty. He didn't know what else he could say.

Samuel looked at him and sighed. "Would you mind paying me back with your life?"

"No."

When he came back, Zac had already thought of such an outcome.

Elvis' matter had to be settled, and Samuel definitely wouldn't allow betrayal from people close to him, so this was the most effective way to set an example for others.

He was willing.

Zac looked down without any hostility.

Samuel took a sip of wine and said gently. "Petty is pregnant."

Samuel paused for a moment before continuing. "Elvis had someone capture your parents for the gene reproduction. At that time, you were still in your infancy. When your parents received the news, it was already too late to escape. They had no choice but to ask someone to send you away, with your name and birthday on the card. However, the person who sent you away was chased and attacked before he could send you to your relative's. With no choice, he took you to the orphanage, thinking that you could avoid those who were looking for you. After all, the orphanage's personnel were mixed and it was not easy to discover you there. "

Hearing Samuel's words, Zac felt upset.

He pondered for a moment before he said. "Is there anyone who can confirm what you said?"

"Yes, I've found them. If you want, I'll bring you to see them at any time."

Zac nodded.

Samuel took him to the reception room next door. There were a few old people and a young man.

The young man looked a little similar to Zac, but a little younger than Zac.

"This is your brother Eric. He was born after your parents were captured. However, he is not as lucky as you. He has been used as an experimental subject since he was born, continuously injected with cell regeneration and transplant drugs. Now, he is no longer fertile. So Petty's child is definitely the best weapon to threaten your parents or you. If you still have doubts, you can do a paternity test with him."

Samuel's words shocked Zac.

He looked at the pale-faced boy in front of him and didn't know what to do.

"How old are you?"

"Twenty two."

Eric's words surprised Zac.

Twenty two?

But Eric looked like he was only seventeen or eighteen years old.

"My body has stagnated. Dad said that I might not have many days left. Mr. Green had someone bring me out secretly."

Eric seemed to know what Zac was thinking, so he hurriedly explained.

Zac was suddenly close to tears.

"Mr. Green, if you can bring my brother out, why can't you bring my father out as well?"

He couldn't imagine what his parents and younger brother had experienced in the research institute all these years.

Before Samuel could say anything, Eric said.

"It is not easy for Mr. Green to bring me out. I was a failure of the experiment and was about to die, so I was left in the dump to be burned. Our garbage dump is not strictly guarded, so Mr. Green could take me away. However, Dad is a core figure. He is guarded every day and locked in the center. No one can get close to him. Zac, Dad said that the last thing Mom said before she died was that fortunately they sent you away that year and that she wanted you to live a good life, for us."

Zac immediately burst into tears.

"Stop that."

He hugged Eric and discovered that Eric was so thin that he was almost skinny.

It was an unfamiliar number, but it made Zac uneasy.

He answered the phone, and Elvis' voice came from the other end of the line.

"You are Zac, right? I think you should know who I am. Although I don't want you to be my daughter's husband, I won't say anything since she likes you. But shouldn't you do something for me to show your filial piety?"

Zac was disgusted with Elvis' shamelessness. He had only felt disgusted in the past, but now he knew that Elvis had kidnapped his parents, which caused the break-up of his family. So he hated Elvis.

"You're daydreaming."

"Of course, I like to be optimistic. It doesn't matter if you don't agree. I will bring my daughter to see your father. It's good to let him see his daughter-in-law, isn't it?"

Elvis' words immediately made Zac nervous.

"What did you do to Petty?"

"Why did you say that? She's my daughter. What can I do to her? I just come to see her. Is that right, Petty?"

As soon as Elvis finished speaking, Zac heard Petty's voice came from the other end of line.

"Zac and I have already broken up. Do you think he would still like me after I betrayed my brother?"

Zac's heart tensed up.

Petty was actually in the hands of Elvis!

How could that be?

Zac panicked.

"Don't hurt her! If there's anything you want, come at me! She's your daughter, how can you treat her like this?"

"If she wasn't my daughter, she would have died earlier. Zac, I won't talk nonsense with you. Samuel sent Gerry to the detention center. I ask you to bring him out and send him to me."

Elvis did not hide his intention.

"He's already been sent to the detention center. What can I do? Aren't you making things difficult for me?"

Zac was a little depressed.

Elvis sneered and said, "I don't care. If I can't see Gerry one day later, you will see Petty's corpse. Zac, don't think that I will be merciful. Daughter is useless to me. I only want my son, do you understand?"

After saying that, he hung up the phone.

Zac's heart beat fiercely.

When Lucas came out, he saw Zac standing there with a pale face, as if he had lost his soul.

He was alright just now, but why did he become like this in the blink of an eye?

Lucas walked over and pushed Zac.

"Uncle Zac, what's wrong with you?"

Zac looked at Lucas and said apologetically, "Nothing. Have you packed up yet?"

"Yes, this is the food that Wendy brought to Mommy. Shall we leave now?"

Chapter 894 You Are Not Qualified to Be a Father

When Petty heard that Nicole got angry with Zac and entered emergency room, she was extremely anxious.

She got up and was about to leave when she heard Elvis say coldly, "If you don't want your mother to suffer too much, you'd better be obedient."

Petty instantly stopped.

She turned around and looked at the man in front of her who was her father. Her chest heaved as she breathed with anger.

"Elvis, that's your wife! How can you be so cruel?"

"Pay attention to your words. Anyhow, I gave you life. Petty, how can you call me by name? You should call me father."

"Are you qualified to be a father?"

Petty sneered, but tears dropped out from her eyes.

"If you were really a father, you shouldn't have threatened me with my mother's life and let me do those things to hurt my cousin. You shouldn't have coerced my husband to do those bad things, and treated me like this for the sake of that experimental subject."

Elvis suddenly stood up and slapped on Petty's face.

"Bastard, he's not an experimental subject. He's my son! He's Elvis' son, Gerry! He's much better than Samuel. Furthermore, Samuel isn't your cousin. He's your biological brother! He is your half-brother, do you understand?"

Petty fell on the sofa. Her face was burning with pain. But her heart was much more painful.

"You also know that he is your biological son. But now you actually treat him like this for an experimental subject."

"Although Gerry is an experimental subject, he has my blood and my genes in his body. He obeys me. He is filial to me and is much better than you and Samuel."

Hearing Elvis' words, Petty laughed.

"Obey? Are you sure he's a complete person? Only dogs obey you. Brother and I both have our own thoughts. You can't control us, so you have to create a son, right? Elvis, you are a freak! You are a lunatic. You deserve to be struck by lightning and sent to the bottom pit of hell. You are simply not qualified to be a human!"

Petty was about to go crazy with anger.

She had lived under Elvis' control for so many years, doing what she did not want to do, and even doing those bad things to Samuel and Nicole against her conscience. Now, she just wanted to live a normal life with Zac, but why was that so difficult?

Hearing Petty cursed at him, Elvis sneered and said, "Continue. You are jealous, right? You are jealous that I care more about Gerry than you. Just because you are a daughter. What can I do since your mother gave birth to a useless daughter? In the Green family, everything will be inherited by a son. A daughter will finally marry someone. If I don't take advantage of you now, you will bring all your values to your husband's family. "

Petty didn't know how to communicate with Elvis.

He was well-educated, but he favored sons over daughters. This kind of feudal thought had been deeply rooted in his mind.

Samuel was his son, and during the past several years, Elvis had high expectations on him. He expected that Samuel could become his obedient son. Unfortunately, he was disappointed in the end. On the contrary, Gerry, the experimental subject that he had nurtured, made him very satisfied. He also met his requirements for an obedient son. Therefore, Gerry had grown up with his love in the past few years.

Now that Gerry had been sent to the detention center by Samuel, this hit Elvis hard. He almost suffocated with great pain. No matter what to do, no matter who would be sacrificed, he had to save Gerry and bring him back.

A smile crept onto Elvis' lips.

"He's here. I will go to pick up my son."

Elvis was a little nervous and excited. What he cared about the most was Gerry. This obedient son always made him feel powerful.

Now that Gerry came back, he no longer had any worries.

"Have our people prepare. We'll leave soon after picking up Gerry. Is the helicopter ready?"

Elvis quickly packed up his things.

Petty knew that he did not intend to take her with him. Perhaps the moment he picked up Gerry, Elvis would kill her and Zac.

That was good. She wouldn't have any regrets if she could die with Zac.

Petty kept silent, trying her best not to be noticed.

Elvis glanced at her and said coldly, "Stay in this room and be obedient. Perhaps I won't hurt him, otherwise..."

"I see. You don't have to threaten me all the time. I'm more eager than anyone else to see Zac is fine. He is my husband!"

This was the first time Petty looked at Elvis so directly and seriously.

Although this man was her father and had given her life, she really felt a little humiliated.

When Elvis saw Petty's eyes that were similar to her mother's, he said impatiently, "Anyway, just be obedient."

After saying that, he opened the room and walked out.

After Zac drove in, he stood alone in the courtyard and looked around. This was an isolated quadrangle. There was no one living in the surrounding mountains.

Elvis chose this place to prepare for his escape.

Zac looked into the distance and found the helicopter.

His eyes narrowed slightly and then he calmed down again.

When Elvis came out, he felt that Zac was not simple.

"You came alone?"

"Isn't this what you asked? Where's my wife?"

Zac only cared about Petty now.

Elvis took a look. Zac's people were probably stopped by those from the detention center. So he was not worried at all.

He waved his hand and someone went to the room to bring Petty out.

"Zac, are you stupid? Why did you come here?"

Petty's eyes turned red.

Although they were not separated for a long time, too many things had happened during this period. So she didn't know what to talk to Zac.

Originally, she thought that Zac would kill her for Samuel, but she didn't expect that this idiot would knock her out and let her leave the Seapolis City. He had even taken on those things for her. Now, before she could say anything to Zac, he was implicated in this jail delivery.

Jail delivery!

"Petty, you bastard, I am your father! Aren't you afraid of retribution when you watch others bully me like this?"

Elvis cursed angrily, but Petty remained indifferent.

She no longer took Elvis as her father, and now because of Zac, she didn't intend to interfere.

She looked at Laurence and whispered, "Let's go."

Laurence glanced at her and didn't say anything. He directly started the car and left.

Elvis staggered and slumped onto the ground and was caught up by Zac.

"Elvis, where do you want to go?"

Zac had seen what happened just now. He was really afraid that Petty would do something. After all, he loved Petty. However, if Petty really did something, Zac knew that he wouldn't be able to live with Petty as well as before.

Fortunately, Petty didn't do anything.

He was happy, but also distressed. No one knew Petty's current mood better than him.

Elvis cursed.

"You despicable bastard, what did you spill on my eyes?"

"Lime powder."

Instead of lying to Elvis, Zac sneered and said, "No one can be more despicable than you, right? Elvis, since you've returned home, you should stay here. It happens that someone has prepared food for you. You can eat and drink well. You can spend the rest of your life in prison."

Elvis still wanted to continue resisting, but Zac caught him firmly.

"I don't want to give up. I'm an influential person who was ruined by an unknown person. I don't want to give up!"

Elvis was extremely depressed.

However, Zac sneered and said, "You care too much about your son. Unfortunately, Gerry was sent to prison by Mr. Green. How could Gerry be released again?"

"But I saw you bring someone into the prison to release Gerry."

"Yes, how can you relax without this? How can we join hands with the police to catch you, the chieftain abroad? There is one more thing I want to tell you. Mr. Green has already gone to your research institute, and I believe that news will come back soon. Those scientists and technicians you captured will also be rescued back to their homeland. Elvis, your good days are over."

Zac's words gave Elvis a big blow once again.

"Nonsense, my research institute is hard to find. No one could know."

Saying this, Elvis suddenly stopped.

'Is it true that no one knows?'

Who surrounded his research institute earlier and forced him to drop the charge against Samuel?

Elvis seemed to understand something.

"It's Nicole Bush! Nicole Bush sold me, right? This woman should die!"

Zac didn't explain to Elvis, because he didn't think it necessary to explain to Elvis.

He picked up Elvis and handed him to the police.

Seeing that Petty had mixed feelings, Nicole did not say anything else. In fact, she did not know what to say. After all, this was something between Samuel and Petty. Samuel should decide what to do.

"Alright, just go back to have a rest. I've already sent someone to call Gabrielle. She will check your body. Take good care of yourself. Zac is looking forward to the birth of the baby, and so are you, right? Days would be busy when we both are gonna deliver a baby."

As Nicole said so, there was a soft light in her eyes.

Petty still couldn't believe that she was going to be a mother.

She touched her belly and said with disbelief, "Am I really pregnant?"

"The report said so. You can ask Gabrielle when she checks you up later."

Nicole knew that a woman would get extremely gentle when she was pregnant, and only a mother could understand the complicated feeling of conceiving a new life.

Petty stroked her belly and smiled gaily.

Nicole got a bit anxious because she hadn't heard anything from Samuel yet. Tired, she asked Zac to bring Petty home.

The children had also returned to their ward, when Lucas was back.

He said to Nicole, "Mommy, Grandpa Mark is here. He asked me to go back to the army with him."

On hearing what Lucas said, Nicole could tell that Samuel's case was ended.

"What do you think?"

Nicole told Lucas to sit next to her, and asked him gently.

Lucas didn't understand,

"What do you mean?"

Seeing that her son had completely forgotten the agreement with the 158 organization, Nicole smiled. She fondled Lucas' head and said softly, "Nothing, just do as you wish. But don't forget to text me."

"Okay, when Samuel comes back, call me if anything happens."

"Okay."

Nicole knew her son's ambition. Now that the problem with Samuel had been solved, Lucas, of course, should go back to the army and get drilled.

Nicole and Lucas were having a pleasant talk when Mark walked into the ward.

He asked Nicole nervously, "Are you alright? I happened to be on a mission when Lucas was back. I didn't hear about you and Samuel until I came back. How was it? Where did you get stabbed? How's your wound?"

If Nicole were a boy, Mark would definitely pull her clothes apart to take a close look. Unfortunately, she was a girl.

Nicole knew Mark was worried. She smiled and said, "It was just a fake-out. I placed several blood bags on my body beforehand to fool them. I am fine. But I still have to stay here for a few days, concerning the influence on public opinion."

Mark got angry at once after hearing what Nicole said,

"How could you play a trick on such a thing? It was a matter of life and death! This is totally tomfoolery! Didn't Samuel stop you from doing that? Where is he? I have to talk to him."

"He went abroad to destroy Elvis' base. Uncle Mark, isn't that why you left?"

Nicole thought that Mark and Samuel were working on the same mission. However, she seemed to be wrong.

Booth gave a bitter smile and said, "The operation was very successful, but I didn't have good hygiene, so the wound gets infected. Now it's a little troublesome."

Although Booth said so, it occurred to Nicole that the obvious reason why Booth couldn't have good hygiene was that he lived in a terrible place.

If Elvis hadn't forced him to live there, how could Booth get infected?

"Don't worry. I will definitely find the best doctor in the world and ask him to cure your legs. No matter what, you won't be crippled."

Hearing Nicole's words, Booth nodded.

"No, thank you, Nicole. Mr. Green has arranged for me to have another operation tomorrow. Don't worry, I'll be fine."

Hearing Booth's words, Nicole felt relieved.

"Come to me if you're in any difficulty. Don't be shy."

"We won't be shy. After all, your family owes to my family, and you should give us whatever we want."

Nicole didn't realize Olivia woke up, and she was shocked by Olivia's words.

"What are you looking at? Am I wrong?"

Olivia threw back her head, and looked aggressive, but Nicole hastily nodded.

"Yes, everything you said is right. A beauty like you is always right."

"You bet. I'm so beautiful."

Olivia nodded proudly, but then she got up and grabbed onto Nicole's collar, pulling it down in a second.

"Hey, Olivia..."

Her coat stripped off in public, Nicole was caught off guard. Moreover, Booth was still here.

Booth hurriedly closed his eyes with his face flushed.

"Where is your injury?"

Olivia frowned, and she was very anxious and worried.

Seeing this, Nicole was incredibly touched. She felt that their friendship recovered.

"I'm not hurt. It was just an act. Inside my clothes were some blood bags, so I didn't get hurt. The blood wasn't real."

Olivia froze.

She looked through Nicole's body, and didn't see any wound. Then, she frowned and said annoyed, "It must be Samuel who taught you this."

"But I always treat you as my best friend."

Nicole hugged her from behind.

"Olivia, never try to snub me in the future. You know, you are my best friend. I will be very sad if you don't talk to me."

Olivia paused, and her eyes were watery.

"What happened to my parents really distressed me. I didn't think too much about it, and I saw Samuel at that time, so I went crazy. Nicole, you know me well. Anyone could do it, but it couldn't be you or someone related to you, so I can't stand it."

Ernesto knew Nicole was here. Edwin also went out. Probably he was still outside. Then who else could knock on the door?

Nicole did not understand. Audrey was stunned for a moment, and then she whispered, "Open the door and let him in."

"OK."

"Please come in!"

Nicole hurriedly opened the door.

The moment the door was opened, Nicole was stunned.

"Tim?"

She didn't expect that she could see Tim here.

Ever since his mother's incident, Tim had gone to find a place to nurse his body. Now his sudden appearance shocked Nicole.

Without saying anything, Tim directly entered and pulled Nicole up. He examined Nicole carefully. Then he gritted. "Nicole, were you an idiot? Couldn't you dodge if someone were to stab you? Besides, were all the Greens dead? Why did they ask you to deal with the accident in the building site? How are you now? Are you injured?"

Seeing Tim's anxious expression, Nicole immediately smiled.

"Why are you laughing? You've been bullied so seriously. How can you still laugh? Are you really stupid?"

Tim had long unkempt hair and a stubbly chin, as if he hadn't washed himself for many years. And he just rushed over as soon as he heard that Nicole was stabbed. He didn't even have time to wash himself.

Nicole felt so warm. She tiptoed and hugged Tim.

"Tim, thank you for coming to see me."

Nicole's words made Tim's eyes moist.

"You are no longer a kid. You should take good care of yourself. Even if you don't care about yourself, we still care about you. Can you take good care of yourself from today on?"

Tim hugged Nicole tightly.

Ever since mother's incident, he felt that he didn't have the qualification to stay here and face Nicole. He thought that he could ignore everything here, but when he heard about that Nicole was stabbed, he couldn't help but come back.

Regardless of Samuel's and Nicole's attitude towards him, he just wanted to visit Nicole. He only hoped he could take a look at her. He didn't expect that Nicole could treat him the same as before.

Tim's eyes were a little moist.

Nicole knew he was a proud man so she didn't lay bare his being emotional. Letting him go, she smiled and said, "Come. Let me introduce you to my mother, Audrey."

Nicole turned to look at Audrey and smiled, "Mom, this is my cousin, auntie's son. He's very nice."

Audrey knew that Nicole was afraid that she would be biased against Tim because of Tim's mother. She smiled and said, "You should call me aunt."

Tim found it hard to call her aunt.

After all, what her mother had done really made him feel embarrassed.

"I'm sorry, auntie, my mother...."

"You and she are different. I won't confuse you with each other. Besides, you are really nice to Nicole. I can tell that. I have cancer and will die soon. I'm afraid that no one will take care of Nicole after I pass away. Although Samuel treats her well, she still needs a relative to help her, right? Tim, I hope you can help and support Nicole for the rest of your life. If you can do it, I will forgive your mother for everything she has done."

Chapter 900 I'm His Wife

"Hello, may I ask who you are looking for?"

It was a woman.

Nicole frowned slightly.

The old she might have directly hung up, but now she had learnt to be calm.

"Where's Samuel? I'm his wife."

Nicole's voice was neither loud nor low.

Obviously, the woman froze for a moment. Then, Nicole heard someone shouting, "Samuel, a call from your wife."

Not long after, Samuel ran over.

"Nicole."

Samuel was panting.

Nicole wanted to say that she missed him, but she suppressed it because of the woman who picked up the phone.

"Who is she?"

Nicole felt like a jealous little woman, but she didn't want to hold back her emotion. She was indeed jealous!

Samuel froze for a moment. He looked at the person beside him and whispered, "A technician here. My clothes were wet just now. I left my phone outside. I didn't mean to not answer your phone."

"Is that so?"

Nicole intoned purposely, but she didn't say anything else.

Samuel sensed that Nicole was in a bad mood.

He walked out of the room with the phone and went to a quieter place outside, whispering, "Video call?"

"Alright."

In the end, Nicole did not say anything else.

Samuel invited Nicole to a video call, and Nicole answered it directly.

Samuel was only wearing a short sleeve. Nicole could see his strong chest muscles beneath the clothes. Her face was a bit ugly.

"Is the technician pretty? Also, what did you do? Wet clothes?"

Nicole frowned slightly. Seeing her questioning expression, Samuel immediately burst into laughter.

"Are you jealous?"

"Yes."

Nicole admitted it. She didn't want to pretend that she wasn't jealous.

Samuel smiled even more.

"I'm happy."
