

CEO's Lovely Wife Has Escaped Chapter 33

Chapter 33: Noah's Kiss

His other hand shot out toward Mia, who instinctively stepped back. "Don't move," Noah said dryly.

Seeing that Mia had indeed become much more obedient, Noah pushed aside the hair on Mia's forehead with his fingers and touched Mia's cheek. Then he moved to Mia's lips. Noah stroked Mia's soft lips with his thumb. This jelly-like touch, and the pinkish color, were all seducing Noah.

Noah's gaze grew darker, and the next second, he unceremoniously approached her.

His warm lips pressed against Mia's body. Mia had no strength to fight back. She accepted Noah's overbearing kiss passively.

It's so sweet, Noah thought, while completely lost in the beauty of the kiss. Every time he was with Mia, it was as if there was some magical attraction, and he always fell into it like a buzzard, Noah thought.

The kiss finally ended, and Mia began to pant heavily after being released.

At the side, Noah finally got his way, but he suddenly remembered something. It was the man that Jenny had mentioned earlier.

"Was the man who hugged you the other day your senior Jack?"

Mia was still in a dazed state after being kissed by Noah. Her pale face had turned a lot redder because of this kiss. Before she could regain her senses, she heard Noah asking coldly with a frosty expression.

Mia looked confused and said, "Huh?"

Huh what? Noah frowned. "I'm asking you. Who was the man who hugged you in the hospital that day?"

This...

Did she have to think about this for so long?

Was she thinking about covering up for that man? Noah thought

Mia was still trying to figure out what that meant when Noah's anger flared.

Mia didn't even have time to figure out what the hell was going on. She only had time to grunt before Noah pressed her hard against the bed. The next second, Noah's black head was on top of her. Mia made a sound and her lips felt hot again. Noah's wild, intense kiss assaulted her.

He nibbled and bit her. Noah's actions were not gentle at all, as if he was doing it to hurt Mia.

Noah actually didn't understand what he was thinking, and he couldn't make sense of the weird feeling in his heart. Even if Mia was under him right now, Noah still felt like Mia was far away, like he was going to lose Mia soon.

No, no one! Noah thought to himself, no one else could have Mia.

At that moment, Noah didn't even think about why he was the only one who had such a crazy possessiveness for Mia. He just couldn't bear the thought of Jenny's words and the possibility that someday, Mia might leave him.

Hence, after Mia left, Noah regretted the pain he had caused Mia countless times today and the years he had been married. He kept thinking that there was still a lot of time, but he did not know that he would not have the chance to make up for it again after that.

Mia had been clutching her stomach tightly during Noah's attacks. The disparity in strength between the two of them was too great. Mia did not dare to resist or force him too hard, for fear of incurring more anger from Noah.

Finally, Noah's anger dissipated a little. After letting go of Mia, he looked up and saw that Mia's face was completely red. Her breathing was not smooth anymore. Noah was stunned for a moment before he hurriedly went up to pat Mia's back to calm her breathing.

After a minute or so, Mia finally came back to life. Then, she quickly apologized to Noah. Although she didn't know what Noah was talking about, she had a baby in her stomach right now. It was best to compromise.

"I'm sorry," Mia whispered.

Noah froze when he heard Mia's apology.

What did "I'm sorry" mean? Noah wondered. Was Jenny telling the truth, or was she trying to tell him that the man holding her was Jake, or was she saying that she was divorcing him because of Jake?

However, Noah did not say any of that out loud. Noah's pride did not allow Noah to continue asking. He was afraid that he would get the answer he had guessed. Then, Noah thought that he was really not sure what he would do then.

After saying sorry, Mia took a moment to recall what happened at the hospital that day. She wasn't feeling too well at that time, so the senior hugged her. She prepared to explain to Noah.

However, before he could say anything, Noah got off the bed and left without saying a word.

Mia looked at Noah's disappointed back and subconsciously opened her mouth to call out to Noah.

But there was a sudden pain in her stomach, and Mia quickly went to cover her stomach. She didn't know what was going on, but her stomach suddenly hurt. Mia was so nervous about what might happen to the baby that she didn't notice Noah leaving. When she was sure the baby was okay, she looked up at Noah, only to find that he had already left.

Noah did not wait for Mia's explanation and left the room in disappointment. He thought that Mia might ask him to stay, but he did not expect that Mia did not even look up at him when he reached the door of the room. For a moment, he felt even worse.

Grandma initially wanted to send the two of them home to cultivate their relationship, but she did not expect that it would deepen their misunderstanding. If Grandma knew about this, she would be exasperated.

Before the old misunderstanding between the two of them could be resolved, the new misunderstanding deepened.

Since his grandfather's condition had worsened, Mia decided to stay in the hospital and focus on taking care of him. Thus, the two of them did not see each other for more than a week..

Chapter 34: New Year Together

When the two of them met again, it was almost New Year's.

The festive atmosphere had yet to spread throughout the streets and alleys. The nurses who passed by and the nurses who were taking care of Grandpa were all discussing about going home for the new year.

Mia laid on the bed and looked out at the snowy scenery as she thought to herself, her stomach was already showing signs of pregnancy. It was just that the clothes she wore were thick and could barely cover it up. She wondered how she would be able to hide it when she changed into spring clothes after the new year.

It was snowing heavily outside tonight, and the snow had accumulated on the road. Passers-by were walking forward slowly.

The children in the hospital were also happily fighting snowballs and building snowmen under the guidance of their parents. Seeing this scene, Mia felt extremely envious, and a gentle expression appeared on her face. Then, she touched her stomach. If everything went well, the child might come out to fight snowball battles in a few years, Mia thought.

After taking a look at the snowy landscape, Mia returned to the ward. Coincidentally, his grandfather had woken up, so Mia chatted with him for a while.

Grandpa suddenly sighed and said, "I wonder if I can last until the New Year this year. This is the first time I am still in the hospital even though it's almost the New Year."

Mia had been lying quietly by the bed while listening to his grandfather's speech, but she was both uneasy and scared upon hearing it. She shook her head vigorously and put on a happy expression. "Grandpa, have you forgotten? We agreed last year that we would celebrate the new year together. You can't go back on your word."

The old man pulled himself together and patted the back of Mia's hand with a smile. "Okay, our whole family will celebrate together this year."

At the mention of the new year, the old man, who was mentally weak, became energetic. He pulled Mia along and talked about the past New Year's events. When he talked about it, he was so excited that he even danced with joy. Beside him, Grandma saw the childish grandfather, and was also invigorated. For a moment, the atmosphere was quite harmonious. Everyone was planning for the new year.

After a while, she mentioned Noah.

"He's the same as you. He lost his parents when he was young. I brought him up single-handedly. He was influenced by me since he was young, so he's a little like me in many aspects. He's very stubborn, and unwilling to admit defeat." Grandpa sighed.

Then, he continued, "But Noah isn't bad at heart. He's a very kind child. If he does anything wrong in the future, I hope that you can be more understanding towards him." Grandpa held Mia's hand and said earnestly.

Mia was a little stunned. She didn't know why his grandfather suddenly brought this up, but she had never refuted his words, so she obediently nodded.

"If you encounter anything, you must communicate properly. Be it husband and wife, friends, family or subordinates, you must communicate properly. Communication is the bridge to solving problems." Grandpa covered his mouth and coughed a few times. He looked at Mia with a meaningful gaze.

He had been slipping in and out of consciousness recently. Every time he woke up, Mia would be alone in the hospital. Every time Noah came, Mia would find an excuse to go out.

Even though he was sick right now, it was not to the extent that he would become senile.

Grandfather opened his mouth and said slowly, "If Noah doesn't speak, you won't either. If there's a misunderstanding, you don't even know how to resolve it. One of you has to learn how to talk first."

When Mia didn't respond, Grandfather spoke again. "Noah has a bad temper. Grandfather knows that. So, Mia, Grandfather can only ask you to tolerate him. You speak first, okay?"

Mia didn't want to go against Grandfather and make him unhappy, so she could only nod hesitantly.

Seeing Mia nod, Grandpa's expression relaxed, and he looked at Mia warmly. "You promised me, so you have to do it, okay? Tell me everything if you feel wronged."

Upon hearing this,

Mia's eyes couldn't help but tear up slightly, and she sounded like she was crying.

Then, Grandpa seemed to have let go of the huge rock in his heart. His expression started to relax, but he suddenly sighed out of nowhere. "It's a pity that I can't see my great-grandson."

These words gave Mia a blow, and she instantly felt extremely guilty.

Grandpa was so good to her. After so many years, he found a home for her and even thought about her in the last moments of his life.

But what about herself? Noah's grandfather had yearned for a great-grandson for so many years, and she had been by his side every day to see his thoughts. She had watched as Noah's grandfather aged day by day, but she had never said it out loud. How cruel was this to Noah's grandfather?

If she really continued to hide it from Grandpa, would she still have a chance if she didn't tell him now? Would she really have to let Grandpa die with regrets?

If...

If she told Grandpa about her pregnancy, would he have more hope to live? Perhaps Grandpa would be energized and recover from this?

Thinking of this, Mia's heart skipped a beat. She wanted to wake his grandfather up and tell him about her pregnancy.

When she tried to call him, he had already closed his eyes and fallen asleep.

Mia didn't wake him up again. After talking for so long, his grandfather's mental energy was almost completely exhausted. Mia gently tucked his grandfather in and sat down to look at his aged face.

After such a long time, Mia recalled the joy she felt when she first got pregnant. Her heart was filled with the desire to share with Noah, but she did not expect to be drowned in Jenny and the others' scandals. Her enthusiasm was completely extinguished.

But now that her was in such a bad condition, Mia didn't want him to have any regrets..

Chapter 35: Grandpa Is Gravely Ill

Hence, Mia had the idea of telling Noah that she was pregnant.

Or maybe she wanted to test Noah by mentioning the baby, and see how Noah reacted.

However, she recalled Noah's cold words about not wanting children for the time being.

But now that it was related to his grandfather... Perhaps, it was better to give it a try.

If Noah showed a little interest in the child, she would continue to probe and see if Noah could accept their child. Perhaps Noah could accept it. If Noah accepted it, then she could tell his grandfather immediately. If his grandfather knew, he would definitely pressure her, Mia thought with a heavy heart.

If Noah didn't want their baby, or felt like their baby was in the way of him and Jenny being together, then she must hide their baby and herself immediately.

Mia looked at his grandfather's sleeping face while her mind raced. She pondered for a long time while thinking about how to test Noah.

As she thought about it, she groggily fell asleep on the bed.

In the latter half of the night, Mia was woken up by a noise. When she opened her eyes, she saw Grandfather coughing non-stop at the side. Grandmother was also woken up, and she hurriedly got up to the bedside.

Mia thought that Grandpa was choking, so she quickly went to get a glass of water for him. Unexpectedly, Grandpa coughed out blood, and when Grandma saw the blood, she fainted.

Mia panicked when she saw this scene, and her sleepiness instantly dissipated. She forced herself to remain calm and quickly pressed the bell to call for a doctor.

Grandpa had fallen into a coma and was sent to the emergency room. Grandma had fainted and was still receiving fluid transfusion in the waiting room. Mia was pregnant, but waited outside the emergency room.

Noah arrived at the hospital in half an hour after receiving the notification.

He had a menacing look on his face, as if he was ready to explode at any moment.

When he saw Mia sitting outside the emergency room, he didn't go up to her. Instead, he suppressed his raging temper and patiently asked the doctor about his grandfather's condition before standing up and walking towards Mia.

Mia didn't notice Noah's arrival, and just sat alone in a chair outside the emergency room in her thin clothes after waiting for a long time.

Suddenly, a pair of shoes appeared in front of Mia. When Mia slowly raised her head, she saw Noah's slightly angry face. Hence, she hurriedly lowered her head. The two of them had not seen each other for more than half a month. Mia still had lingering fears about the previous incident, so she did not dare to look up at Noah. Especially now that Noah's face was filled with anger, it looked even more frightening.

However, when Noah saw Mia looking at him before hurriedly lowering her head and not daring to look at him again, he felt as if his guess was confirmed, and he sneered. Then, he lifted Mia and dragged her into the empty lounge.

Noah's actions completely frightened Mia. Mia's hair stood on end.

The small waiting room was eerily quiet. The only sound was Noah's heavy breathing that was growing more and more oppressive. Mia was so scared that she wanted to run for the door, but Noah blocked her way, so she had to step back into the corner.

Mia could feel the anger emanating from Noah's unfamiliar eyes. At this moment, Noah was extremely angry and was on the verge of exploding. However, she still did not know where Noah's anger came from.

Mia lowered her head slightly and did not dare to ask. She was afraid that she might anger Noah again if she asked, so she stood in the corner and silently covered her stomach.

Noah looked at Mia's actions and snorted coldly. He raised his hand, and the things he held in his hand all came crashing towards Mia.

Mia froze and looked down.

It was a bunch of photos.

Before Mia could take a closer look, Noah's cold voice rang in her ears again. "Explain!"

Mia looked up at Noah helplessly, but Noah's expression was still cold. His thin lips were tightly pursed, and there was no emotion on his face. At this moment, Mia felt that they were even more distant than strangers..
