Chapter 141: Calm Before the Calamity

Rudy couldn't think of any better place than Reina's waterpark. It met all the criteria he needed to have sex; no one was around. It was a vast place, so moans wouldn't matter.

Reina moaned too, and they even did it outside in the open, so that was enough for Rudy to reassure Alice.

However, he couldn't just take Alice there and have sex; he first had to take Reina's remission and explain the situation, too.

Rudy teleported to the waterpark but ended up in a pool.

"..."

Rudy wasn't wearing a shirt as he had taken it off in Alice's room, but he was still wearing his pants and his phone was inside.

SIGH!

Rudy got out of the pool and took out his phone from his pocket. And as he had expected, it wasn't turning on.

However, Rudy did not need to worry about his phone, since he could easily restore it. He moved his hand to the phone and started restoring the phone, but suddenly, his ears twitched as they caught a disturbance in the atmosphere.

Now, Rudy had something else to worry about, so he threw his phone in the pool and decided he would buy a new one tomorrow as he did not need to worry about money.

He activated his see-through ability and glanced around the water park as he began walking towards Reina's office.

"...?" Rudy squinted his eyes after seeing two figures in Reina's office. Reina was sleeping on the bed and the other figure was standing on the other side of the door with their back facing Rudy.

"Who is with Reina?" Rudy wondered. "Did her little sister come to visit her or something?"

However, his eyes soon widened when he recognized the back of the figure.

Rudy didn't waste his time walking, running, or flying to Reina's Office, he teleported there and grabbed the figure from his neck.

It was none other than the guard who Reina had fired yesterday because of his nasty behavior.

"What..." Rudy choked the guard and glared into his eyes. If glares could kill, the guard would have died over a million times in a second.

"What are you doing here?" Rudy asked in a cold, emotionless voice.

Of course, the guard wasn't able to utter a word, but not because Rudy was choking him, he was simply too scared to open his mouth.

In Rudy's cold eyes, he had seen a never-ending abyss, and that was enough for him to realize what was going to happen next.

He knew that the words he would speak might be his last words. His life memories started flashing before his eyes, but instead of happy moments, he could only recall the fear he had experienced in his life that was nothing compared to the fear he was experiencing right now.

Rudy glanced at Reina to see her fast asleep on the bed. He inspected her body from head to toe to make sure the guard hadn't tried to do anything funny to her.

Luckily, Rudy arrived at the right time. However, his question still remained unanswered.

"How did you get in here?" he asked.

When Rudy left the waterpark in the evening, he had made sure to confirm Reina had properly locked the main gate, the waterpark gate, and her office's door.

Rudy and Reina had spent a night together and neither of them had slept in two days, but unlike Rudy, Reina was a human, and she needed to rest her body to be able to work properly.

Thus, Reina was lost in a deep sleep, and she probably wouldn't have woken up until it was too late.

"Are you still not going to answer?" Rudy knew that he wouldn't be able to hold his fury for much longer, so he teleported them both to the faraway mountains, where no one came.

Then, he fired a laser beam from his eyes and made two holes in the guard's chest. But he still wanted an answer, so he immediately restored his body and brought him back to life— although he wasn't sure if the guard had died or not.

Rudy didn't have the power to revive the dead, even by restoring them. For some reason, his powers were the opposite of life, they were not meant to make life, but to take them.

"Answer me! How did you break into the waterpark?!" Rudy asked in a rather demonic voice.

The guard couldn't comprehend Rudy's powers. He was still trying to fathom what had happened a few seconds ago. He was at the waterpark in Reina's office, but he suddenly found himself in a completely different part of the world.

"Forget it. I will just read your mind!"

Rudy had acquired the new power of reasoning mind, but he got it a few minutes ago, and he wasn't sure how it worked and what were the consequences of using it.

However, Rudy couldn't care about the guard's life. It was the perfect chance to test the limits and the capabilities of his newly gained power. Rudy grabbed the guard's head and started reading his mind.

The guard's name was Mark, and he was the seventh son of his family. He lived a decent life in an upper-middle-class family, but that was it.

Rudy read Mark's mind and nearly crushed his head with his hands in anger.

Mark had used another way to enter the waterpark, and that was from the other side of the park.

The park had boundaries made from the wall, and there was another old gate that was never opened, not even once. And the gate itself was protected with spike-fence. The area behind the gate was an empty lot that belonged to Reina's parents, where they wanted to build an amusement park.

Since the area was mostly desolated where no one came, it was left unprotected. And Mark used that to break in. But there was more.

Mark had the key to open Reina's office, and it was given by none other than the loan shark—Scott.

Chapter 142: Calamity

Even though Rudy had scared Scott away and warned him not to get involved with him or Reina anymore, he didn't learn his lesson.

Rudy had used his powers in front of Scott, and as expected for his personality, Scott wanted to catch Rudy using his powers red-handedly, record footage and spread them everywhere.

Scott knew he would never be able to win against Rudy in any way possible, so the only thing he could do was to destroy him socially.

In truth, Mark had also tried to break in last night when Rudy and Reina were having fun, but Reina's moan drew Mark away.

He thought there was a howling dog in the waterpark. The next day— today— he came again in disguise and entered the waterpark for the first time. He searched through the waterpark to see if there was any guard dog, but after inspecting for 10 minutes, he didn't find anything and left.

Soon after, Rudy and Alice had arrived.

After confirming that there was no dog in the waterpark, Mark broke in at night.

However, he still needed a way to enter Reina's office, and the key was given to him by Scott.

'Destroy her, her life, and do whatever you want with her. Break her to the core!' Scott had told him.

After reading Mark's mind, Rudy's fury was over the roof. Still, it wasn't as destructive as it was when he obliterated the tunnel.

The mountains in the area started shaking so hard that the lava floating deep in their crusts erupted volcanoes. Rivers of lava flowed between the mountains, and the heat coming from them was melting the rocks in their way.

The red cover of lava illuminated the dark scene, and naturally, it reflected on Rudy and Mark's eyes too.

"Tell me, what shall I do with you?" Rudy asked in a cold and raspy voice, unsuitable to his look and age.

Mark looked into Rudy's eyes as the volcanos behind exploded and erupted even more magma erupted and molten lava rocks with debris landed near Rudy.

The vicious smile on Rudy's face and the lifeless glare in his red eyes made Rudy look like a... demon.

Rudy used pyrokinesis and poured fire into Mark's body.

"Arrgh!" he screamed in pain.

Mark's body started glowing with fire and began to explode before turning into ashes. However, before Mark could die, Rudy restored his body again.

"Please... kill me...." Mark preferred to die rather than suffer, just like one would.

"Not so soon."

This time, Rudy used hydrokinesis, and instead of fire, Mark's body was filled with water.

Mark's stomach slowly started bulging as Rudy poured more and more water into his mouth. A few seconds later, Mark's lungs were filled with water, and he was having a hard time breathing.

However, Rudy didn't stop until the water came out of Mark's ears, nose, eyes, and two other holes.

Once Rudy felt Mark's heartbeat fading away, he restored Mark and laughed out loud.

"This is fun~"

Then, Rudy swung Mark in the air after saying, "It's getting hot here, right? Go feel the cold freeze in the sky."

Rudy had thrown Zach so high in the sky that he knew Mark wouldn't come down for at least a few seconds.

Rudy glanced around the area and noticed it was more destructive than he had imagined.

"Wow. This is my first time seeing a live volcanic eruption." Rudy stretched his hands in the air and yawned.

Suddenly, debris fell on Rudy's head and covered his hair with fire.

"..."

Rudy stroked his hair and shrugged the debris from his head.

"Hmm. It doesn't feel hot." Rudy stepped into the lava and his shoes immediately melted, but nothing happened to his legs.

"In fact, I don't feel anything."

Rudy collected lava in his hands and smeared his face with it.

"It feels like I just stepped under the sun in summer noon..."

Rudy wanted to try something, so he collected lava in his hands again and opened his mouth. Then, he slowly drank the lava and gulped down to swallow it.

"It tastes like... bread?"

Rudy couldn't describe the taste as it was his, in fact, anyone's first time tasting the hot lava of the volcano.

Rudy wanted to take another sip to figure out the taste better, but he was out of time.

"Aaaaa!"

Mark's faded scream was slowly becoming clear, seemingly, he was about to go 'splat' on the surface soon.

However, before he could touch the ground, Rudy grabbed Mark by his collar with one hand and flew towards the volcano.

Mark realized what Rudy was trying to do.

"No, please. Don't do that," he begged Rudy while crying.

"Huh? Did you say 'kill me' a few minutes ago? I am doing what you asked me to do," Rudy uttered in an innocent voice.

"No, please no! I don't want to die like that! Please forgive me! I won't do anything now! I swear!" Mark bellowed.

"Only if people could change this easily... this world could have been a better place..." Rudy uttered in a solemn voice with a distant look on his face.

"I swear! Please, believe me! If I ever do something bad again, you can kill me right there and there!" Mark begged for his life. "Please, spare me. I won't do anything. I was forced by Scott!"

Rudy furrowed his brows at Mark and said, "I read your memories, and you were the one who went to Scott to tell him about me. And... weren't you the one who asked Scott for a reward to do his work?"

"Ye..s. It was me, but Scott gave me his contact information. And even if I hadn't accepted his offer... he would have sent someone else," Mark managed to stutter. He knew that he was at Rudy's mercy.

"No shit. As if I would have never figured it out myself." Rudy frowned his face at Mark and said, "If you stick your hand in shit, obviously you are going to stink."

"I have told you everything. Please let me go now."

"Sure..."

Rudy let go of Mark, and his body fell into the raging volcano that turned him into ashes as soon he hit the lava.

Chapter 143: Cryokinesis

Rudy landed on the edge of the volcano and enjoyed the heat coming from it. To him, the heat from the raging lava felt like the steam of warm water.

"I was aware of the physical resistance of my body, but I am honestly surprised by this. I guess I should have checked my limits as soon as I got my powers."

Rudy gazed at the raging volcano with a lifeless glare in his eyes and said, "If this can't hurt me... what can?"

Still, Rudy had no way to know the limits of his powers. In fact, he was genuinely perplexed but very certain at the same time about his powers.

"There is no way that I got these powers with that gene experiment. That makes no sense."

Rudy controlled the eruption of the volcano with his finger using his pyrokinesis, just like one controls a machine with a remote.

"I have been thinking about this for days now, but now, I am sure. First of all, how can a gene experiment send me back in time? It sounds factually impossible," Rudy muttered.

'The gene experiment was done on my body, and that body died with me when I somehow came back in time. Even if genes could affect the brain and might give powers like super strength, or maybe even telekinesis. But going back in time?'

Rudy shook his head and continued, "That's impossible."

"The concept of time itself and the rules abiding by it is something no one has ever been able to understand. And let's just say that the gene experiment did give me the power to go back in time, but I didn't go back in time; I came to another world, or so I think. Because there weren't the apocalypse, fairies, and such things in my world. Or maybe... I was simply oblivious to all that?"

"But how am I going to explain the abandoned tunnel? Even though I rarely left my town, I should have at least heard about it. And what about the apocalypse? That never happened in my past life, and I am damn sure of it."

"In my past life, I spent those 5 years doing... huh?" Rudy raised his brow and muttered, "What happened in my world in those 5 years? Why can't I remember it? I remember Everything except that 5-year blip..."

"So if I didn't get powers by the gene experiment, how... did I get them? And what am I exactly?"

Rudy had too many questions piled up, and the mysteries weren't ending. However, Rudy was more than certain that he would find all the answers once he unraveled the first mysteries. He thought that one answer would lead to the discoveries of other questions.

Still, right now, Rudy had something else to take care of.

Rudy landed on the ground where the Lava hadn't reached yet. Then, he touched the flowing lava spreading in the area and used pyrokinesis to control it.

"I have to stop this eruption or who knows how much it might spread," He muttered. "Since I am the one who caused it, I am responsible to stop it."

However, creating a volcanic eruption was a lot easier than stopping it.

Rudy had to cool down, or at least lower the temperature of the crust that was in the core of the earth.

"Yeah, I don't know how to do it..."

Instead of stopping the volcanic eruption, Rudy thought of something else.

"Why should I try to calm it down when I can simply cool it down?"

Rudy was going to use Cryokinesis, which allowed him to create and control ice at will.

Sure, he could calm down the volcano without using Cryokinesis, but that would have taken him more time than it would take him to freeze them.

He wanted to take care of the volcano and visit Scott, to send him to hell.

Rudy jumped in the air and hovered between the raging volcano. Then, he raised his hands in the air and spread them.

Soon, the air in the area turned cold, and the lava immediately turned into layers of rocks with the speed of light.

In a few seconds, all the volcano had frozen, but Rudy didn't stop there. He kept going until the snow covered the mountains, and soon, the entire area turned from hell to heaven.

"..."

Rudy lost his strength and fell to the ground. Since the snow had covered everything, Rudy was buried under the snow.

There was silence, but a sharp wind sound echoed in the air that sounded similar to a howl.

Rudy's hand emerged from the snow, and then he sat up with his eyes wide open.

"This was my first time using this much telekinesis." Rudy placed his hand on his hand and uttered, "But surprisingly, I don't feel mentally stressed; just a little tired."

Rudy jumped in the air and stared at the scenery for a few minutes to make sure the volcanoes had truly calmed down. He didn't want them to erupt again and cause earthquakes and destruction.

But luckily, the mountains were deserted and no one went there because it was impossible to go there. They had to pass through many hills, valleys, caves, and narrow pathways to go there. Unless, of course, they used a helicopter.

But why would someone go there?

Sure, they would have caught the frequencies of volcanic eruptions, but that's exactly why they would want to stay away from there for at least a few days. Furthermore, Rudy had already taken care of the damage he had caused.

Even if someone decides to come there, they would be left baffled and a new myth would be born.

Rudy looked at his hands before looking up at the sky.

"It's so calm and soothing; just like how it was when I took my last breaths in my past life. This world is a great place with unimaginable mysteries waiting ahead for us. So why do they don't take care of it?"

"Well, time to hunt another prey."

After saying that, Rudy soared through the sky to punish his prey. He visited Scott as a grim reaper to take his life.

Chapter 144: Breaking Laws

"Honestly, if I can defeat anyone that easily, it becomes... boring. I want to test my fighting skills using my powers, but I can't test them on anyone. I wonder if there is someone I can spar with to sharpen my skills even more," Rudy muttered with an amused look on his face.

Rudy was far away from where he was supposed to be, so he first teleported to the water park and made his way to Scott's house.

"How did Scott get the key to Reina's office?" Rudy wondered on his way to Scott's house.

'Did Reina's parents give the keys to Scott's family as a down payment? But that doesn't make any sense.'

"I will just ask Scott and get all my answers..." Rudy furrowed his brows and muttered, "I said I would kill anyone who tried to kill me or dared to hurt my loved ones. And I meant it."

"But... I let Scott go, even when he tried to run me over with his car. I wanted to send a message through him. I expected him to be a scaredy-cat and lose his mind, but I guess he can't lose it if he doesn't have a brain in the first place."

Of course, Rudy was a human, and he had morals and ideals like everyone else in the world.

Just because one had the power, doesn't mean they would rule the world or destroy it. The same was with being a superhero. One couldn't possibly save everyone in the world, even with the greatest power.

The world has its own way of doing things, and everything was perfectly balanced as it should be. However, sometimes, when it became unbalanced, disasters occurred and everything eventually went back to how it was before.

Rudy had no intention of interfering with the world order, as long as it didn't interfere with him first.

Similarly, it was the same with and for everyone.

Rudy could do anything he wanted using his powers and become unstoppable, but Rudy had no intention of that.

He simply wanted to live his life in peace and give the best and the happiest life possible to his loved ones.

And if someone tried to destroy that dream of Rudy, there was no forgiveness, no mercy, only death.

Rudy was never going to repeat the same mistake he did by sparing Scott that day.

"But it's still not too late to fix that mistake," Rudy uttered in a solemn voice.

As Rudy was flying, he noticed he had no idea where Scott lived.

"Where am I even going?" he wondered with a sigh.

Rudy recalled his memories and focused on the documents he had read about the loan in Reina's office. It has the address of the private bank that belonged to Scott's family.

"Got it!"

Rudy flew to the bank to get more information and Scott's address. He didn't bother to stealthily break into the bank, he crashed in from the top.

The alarms went off, but Rudy immediately disabled all of them within a split second using his electrification ability.

"How will I find the address, though?" Rudy wondered.

Rudy activated his see-through ability and glanced around the bank.

"I will have to read every single document here for that, and it's not even guaranteed that I will find it here."

Rudy had no time or mood to do that, so he once again used his electrification ability and accessed the bank servers. Then, he narrowed down the search resets in his mind and searched for the bank employees.

He instantly found Scott's bio-data and laughed out loud.

"Sometimes, I get frightened by my own genius..."

With his superpowers, Rudy could utilize his intelligence to the maximum.

Rudy jumped and crashed on the ceiling, before flying away. He made another hole even though he could simply exit through the first hole.

"I haven't been into this area, so I don't really know the names of the streets and stuff..." he muttered.

At that time, Rudy missed his phone like never before— except for the time when he was in the mood and wanted to watch cultured videos.

Rudy landed on the street to read the signs and followed the way. After around 5 minutes, he reached Scott's house.

It was a big mansion, even bigger than the one the landlord had.

"They take high interest and confiscate their properties if they don't pay loans in time." Rudy looked at the mansion and uttered, "And this is how they spend that money."

Rudy jumped and landed on top of the mansion before activating his see-through ability. He glanced around the mansion and saw many people were living there, unlike the landlord's house that was empty.

Rudy had no need to hurt those people as his prey was only Scott.

"Where is that piece of shit...?"

After looking for Scott for a few minutes, Rudy finally saw him sleeping on the bed, but there was a big problem.

He was sleeping with two girls.

"I wanted to torture him before killing him, but..."

Rudy used his electrification ability and disabled all the electric signals from the area, resulting in the CCTV cameras to stop working.

Rudy landed near the window and slowly slid it open without making a noise.

After entering Scott's room, Rudy looked at his hand and wondered, 'How should I kill him?'

Meanwhile, deep within the mountains underground, there was a lava river flowing, leading somewhere.

The earthquake and eruption caused by Rudy made cracks in the crust and created a way for lava to flow.

The lava gushed its way and ended up in a dark chamber that was filled with strange insects who were crawling and flying around, even drinking the lava.

In the center of the chamber, there was an ancient coffin made with stone but sealed with unknown power.

Suddenly, the inscriptions in the coffin glowed, and the cracks appeared on the coffin.

After seeing that, the insects in a chamber let out a loud and sharp screeching noise and flew away.

"Master has called me. Master needs me. Master... master... wait for a little more time..."

The voice slowly faded away, and the cracks on the coffin were automatically repaired.

Chapter 145: Ways To Kill

'How should I kill him?' Rudy wondered.

Rudy could kill Scott with a snap if he wanted to, but that wouldn't give him the satisfaction he wanted.

'It felt good when I killed that guard. Just like how one feels after taking out the trash, I feel like I did a good thing by killing the useless and worthless people in this world.'

Rudy asked himself a question earlier when he was in the waterpark with Alice: Are my powers changing me?

He didn't know the answer to that, not because he hadn't noticed the change in his mentality, but because he didn't think there was anything wrong with it.

Rudy, of course, wouldn't kill anyone, but he had killed Paul in his past life, and he never regretted that. Maybe Rudy was like that from the beginning, or perhaps, he had changed. But there was one thing that was never going to change, and that was Rudy's commitment to himself.

He had sworn to himself that he could never hurt an innocent, and currently, the two girls sleeping naked beside Scott were innocent. And if he wanted to kill Scott after torturing him and making him suffer, he had to wake him up first.

If Scott yelled for help, not the two girls, but all the people in the entire mansion would wake up. And if they saw Rudy, he would have no chance to end them all to keep his secret.

However, doing that would be against his promise. For Rudy, breaking promises was a bad thing, but it wasn't something terrible; the worse thing was he would be breaking the promise he had to himself.

He would be betraying himself. And that would surely be considered as 'his powers had changed him'.

Now, Rudy had to choose between two things; whether to kill Scott without making him suffer, or break his promise to himself. Either way, he was going to lose something.

"I will make a third option..."

Rudy walked to the bed and shook the girl to wake her up.

The girl first moved a little and sat up while rubbing her eyes before opening them and looking at Rudy. She stared at him for a few seconds and finally came back to her senses.

She was about to scream, but Rudy covered her mouth and looked into her.

"Calm down. You do not know me. You haven't seen me. I am not supposed to be here. You are not supposed to be here. Get up, and walk out of the door. Forget everything."

Rudy used hypnosis on the girl and erased her memories.

The girl stood up and walked out of the door like a robot without even wearing her clothes properly.

Of course, the hypnosis would wear off, and they wouldn't remember anything.

'This should work...'

Rudy walked to the other girl and did the same thing he did with the first one. He wiped her memories and ordered her to leave the room.

"Now then..." Rudy cracked his finger with his thumb and smirked viciously at Scott, who was fast asleep on his bed.

'My hands are feeling so itchy that I feel like if I don't do anything soon, they will do it themselves...'

Rudy grabbed Scott's leg and pulled him off the bed.

"...."

Rudy expected Scott to wake up by that, but he didn't, so he dragged him out to the balcony and slammed him to the chair.

"Seriously? Did he take sleeping meds or something?"

Rudy looked at the side of the bed and saw empty wine bottles, energy drinks, and used condoms.

"..."

"He won't wake up even if I toss him off the balcony..."

Rudy raised his brow and pondered for a few seconds as an important theory crossed his mind which he had read in his past life.

"The theory wasn't proven, but it wasn't debunked either..."

The theory was that if a person was in a deep sleep, or had taken sleeping pills, they wouldn't wake up even if physical pain is inflicted on their body. However, if they had a nightmare in that state, they would wake up immediately.

"But... what could be a nightmare of this piece of shit?" Rudy wondered.

'Loan payment? Losing his parents? Losing money? Losing a loved one... no. I doubt he has the heart to love someone...' Rudy looked at Scott and muttered, "Losing everything?"

"But how am I going to give him a nightmare?" Rudy rubbed his finger and thumb on his chin and thought of a way to show the deadliest nightmare to Scott.

"Wait..." Rudy snapped his fingers as he got an idea. "If I can read other memories by touching them using mind reading, I should also be able to show them my memories using the same technique, right?"

Luckily, Rudy had Scott to test out his theory. However, he changed the nightmare. Instead of showing Scott a nightmare of losing everything— which also had the possibility of not working on him— Rudy decided to show Scott something else that would definitely make him rageful.

"Heh!" Rudy couldn't help but smirk as he imagined how Scott would react.

He placed his hands on Scott's head to show his 'fun' sessions with Reina.

Rudy knew that Scott was obsessed with Reina, and he would do anything to get her. That's exactly why he sent Mark to assault Reina, so she would have no other choice but to bang on Scott's door to seek help.

But, his plan failed. Now, Rudy showed Scott everything he had seen Reina doing with him. He showed Scott a side of Reina that he had never seen.

"...!"

Scott opened his eyes with a furious look on his face and glanced around. He was baffled after finding himself on the balcony, so he got up and tried to go back to his room, but Rudy was blocking his way.

"You—! What are you doing here?! How did you get here?!" He yelled.

Rudy looked into Scott's eyes with a lifeless glare and uttered in a cold voice: "I am here to pay you back, not the loan, but something else."

Esper Harem in the Apocalypse

Chapter 146: God. | Devil. | Grim Reaper.

"Did you see the dream I showed you?" Rudy asked with a devilish smile on his face.

"You showed me that?!"

Rudy licked his lips and said, "She was so tasty. It was fun to corrupt an innocent girl like her."

"You... are kidding. Reina is not that type of girl..." Scott stuttered.

Scott had known Reina ever since they were in high school, and he knew her better than anyone. He was aware that Reina was an innocent and meek girl who would give in to pressure if she had no other chance.

Scott took advantage of Reina's meek side and asked her out. Of course, Reina wasn't aware of Scott's true self at that time, so she accepted, thinking it was normal to go out with a boy at that age.

However, the moment Reina agreed to go out with him, he asked to sleep with her to prove her loyalty. He wanted to mark Reina as his property.

Reina, of course, dumped him on the spot without having second thoughts. It was because she was a meek girl, she had her morals and ideals, and she wanted someone who could love her with all her flaws.

Scott's affection for Reina was more of an obsession than love, and he failed to understand that. No, he never tried to understand the difference between the two.

Soon after, Scott got to know about the huge loan Reina's parents had taken from his family. At that time, no one had expected the apocalypse followed by the pandemic.

The world had turned upside down for everyone; some lost everything, while some gained something.

However, the world's economy rose for some reason. People found a new way to earn money without working hard to leave their houses.

Of course, it wasn't a bad thing as long as they weren't doing anything bad or illegal.

When Scott found out that Reina's parents had died, and they had left the huge amount of debt with interest on Reina's name, he was thrilled. He knew for sure that Reina would never be able to repay the debt.

He thought he would finally get his hands on Reina, but he crossed paths with Rudy. And now, he was going to lose everything.

"It's fair for me to say that you are going to die because of Reina. If you hadn't involved yourself with Reina and given up on her when you were supposed to, you might be living a fairly decent life. But I guess hell suits the best to devils."

"You are wrong! Reina would never say those nasty words! She would never make that indecent face!" Scott refused to believe what Rudy showed him.

'It worked better than the nightmare.'

"Oh, she did. Her moans were so sexy and cute that I can still hear them. The orgasmic look on her face was so hot that I couldn't stop making her ejaculate, again and again, using my big dick."

"You...!"

"Do you want to know how soft her body was and how amazing her scent was? Her soft, juicy red lips and her slimy tongue. Her marshmallow-like breasts and her thorn-like pink nipples. Everything about her was simply otherworldly," Rudy uttered with a pervy look on his face.

Of course, Rudy was saying that to provoke Scott. He would never share those precious memories with anyone else. But he had no other way to infuriate Scott.

Upon looking at Scott's reaction, Rudy was certain that it was very effective, and he made the right choice to do that. And besides, he was going to die soon, along with those memories which would haunt him with nightmares for the rest of eternity.

"What are you...?" Scott wasn't with a bewildered look on his face. He couldn't comprehend what was happening.

'How could someone do all that? What is he?' he thought.

"I am the god to my loved ones and the devil to my enemies. But for you, I am the grim reaper," Rudy asserted in a cold voice with an emotionless expression on his face.

"What... do you want... from me?" he asked while stuttering. "I didn't do anything to you. Why are you after me? What have I done to you?"

Rudy furrowed his brows and uttered, "You lie with every breath, polluting the world with your worthless existence. And then you ask what have you done to me?"

'Did that guard spill the beans?!' Scott thought to himself.

"Yes, he spilled everything, and then I grilled him like a bean," Rudy responded.

"...!" Scott's eyes widened after hearing that, and he started shivering in fear. "How...?"

"Tell me one thing before I kill you..." Rudy glared into Scott's eyes and said, "How many innocent girls have you destroyed?"

"Huh...?"

Reina was still traumatized by Scott's blackmailing, and Rudy knew everything about it. That's why, he purposely avoided saying and asking some topics in front of Reina.

Rudy was there for Reina, but what about the other girls and families Scott destroyed to satisfy himself? How many lives had he destroyed?

"I swear, if I knew you were a piece of shit when I met you for the first time in the waterpark, I would have ended you right there and there. But I guess killing you now would feel more satisfying than ever."

Scott couldn't stop panicking. He wanted to run away, but Rudy was blocking the way to his room, which was the only way to escape. He could jump off the balcony, but that would kill him or surely leave him crippled for the rest of his life.

Without wasting a single second, Scott did what he thought was the only option; he jumped off the balcony.

Still, even if he somehow survived the fall and became crippled, how was he going to escape from Rudy?

Rudy jumped after Scott and grabbed him from his hair. "I would chase you to hell even if I have to. And even hell wouldn't give you the punishment you deserve."

Rudy had decided to kill Scott, but he changed his mind.

"Even if I kill you, I won't be satisfied. I want to see you suffer, suffer an eternity."

Rudy looked into Scott's eyes and uttered with a malevolent smirk on his face, "I will turn you into something you would surely hate."

Chapter 147: Anti-Hero

"How would your family react if you disappeared overnight?" Rudy asked Scott, just to terrorize him even more.

"You don't know them! They will look for me and get the best search party in the world! And they will find you!" Scott uttered, seemingly trying to intimidate Rudy with his stuttering voice.

"Oh?" Rudy raised his brows in amusement and said, "That would be too embarrassing for you because they will find you in an unrecognizable state."

Scott's face turned pale after hearing that. His entire body started shivering, and his lips started trembling due to fear.

He had realized that his end had come, but he didn't want to die just yet. He wanted to live more and continue doing his evil deeds.

"What... do you plan to do with me...?" Scott managed to ask.

"I will make you famous, a public and tourist attraction."

Rudy grabbed Scott and flew into the sky.

"How are you doing all this?! What are you?!" Scott panicked.

"I already answered that question. Now, keep your mouth shut, or I will pluck out your tongue," Rudy responded nonchalantly.

Rudy took Scott to the Central Park of the metro city that was even bigger than Rudy's town itself. He landed near an empty fountain and threw Scott to the ledge.

Rudy immediately activated his see-through ability to make sure no one was around. He didn't want anyone to witness what he was about to do with Scott.

'It's been ages since I came here. And as I expected, this park hasn't been reopened yet after the apocalypse and the pandemic.'

Rudy's gaze fell on the board far away on the opposite side of the park that had written: [The park will reopen in 7 days.]

"Noice."

Rudy looked at the empty fountain and the broken statue in the middle.

'Well, that saved me from the effort to break it myself.' Rudy shot a laser beam at the broken statue to break it even more.

Scott's mind had stopped working as it couldn't comprehend things. He used to believe that money was everything in the world, and with the power of money, he could do anything he wanted; he could buy any living and non-living object as long as he had money.

One might think it was expected from a rich spoiled brat who grew up in a billionaire family. However, that wasn't the case.

Scott's parents, his older brother, and little sister were nothing like Scott. It wasn't the fault of bad parenting, and a middle child to turn out like Scott was the worst thing to happen in any family.

Sure, Scott's parents weren't saints, and they had their own records of doing bad things. They ran a bank, after all. Naturally, if one wouldn't return the borrowed money, they would have to do anything to get their money back.

But they did it right away by filing a court case against them. They did things legally, unlike Scott, who was obsessed with Reina and wanted to make her his sex slave.

Scott's siblings weren't innocent either, with his brother being a playboy and his little sister being a typical rich girl who thought of herself as a princess.

Rudy used telekinesis to lift Scott's body in the air and stripped him naked.

"Heh!" Rudy smirked after seeing Scott's snake and said, "Even 5th graders have a bigger dick than you."

If Rudy's penis was an anaconda, then Scott's penis was a newborn worm.

Scott struggled to move his body and yelled in pain as he felt his body parts stretching apart from the inside.

"Rest assured! I am not going to kill you!" Rudy said with a grin on his face. "There won't be any fun in that. I want to see you suffer."

Once Rudy had dislocated every joint of Scott's body, he slammed him on the ground. Then, he stood in front of him and looked down at him with a smirk on his face.

"Phase one, completed."

After that, Rudy pressed his feet on Scott's chest and said, "I will give you a nice make-up."

Rudy didn't want to dirty his hands by touching Scott, so he did everything using telekinesis, and that also worked as a practice for Rudy to get precise control over his telekinesis power.

One by one, Rudy pulled out Scott's hair without any mercy. Scott wanted to scream, but he couldn't because of the unbearable pain he was experiencing.

A few minutes later, Rudy had plucked out all the hair from Scott's body, including his chest hair, private places hair, and nose hair; he had made Scott hairless.

Scott started crying as he realized he was close to meeting his end.

"What a shame..." Rudy shook his head in disbelief after looking at Scott, and uttered, "You would have lived a better life if you hadn't encountered me. I even spared you and gave you a chance to make a better choice in your life, but... you failed. However, after meeting you, I realized one thing."

After a brief pause, Rudy looked into Scott's eyes and said, "When people like you do evil things, that's a norm for you. You don't feel bad, guilty, or remorse for your actions. No matter what you do, and how others feel about you. And that separates you from normal humans, and me from a hero."

"Rather than a hero, I would consider myself as an anti-hero...." Rudy looked up at the sky with a distant look on his face and uttered, "From this moment, I, Rudy, consider myself as a hunter of criminals and destroyer of the evil lords."

In his past life, Rudy has seen injustice in the world where the people who held high power got anything they wanted, and where the weak and poor were crushed in the cruel world.

There were times when the laws shut their doors in ignorance and let chaos spread for the greater good, where there was no one to save the one who suffered and used it as a sacrifice to make the world a better place.

"In this world... I will mend the world however I want it to be to make it a safe place for my loved ones."

Of course, Rudy didn't plan to go around the globe to look for evil lords and hunt them down, he only wanted to annihilate those standing in the path of his and his loved ones' happiness.

Chapter 148: Main Attraction

Rudy cracked his fists as he stared at Scott with a lifeless glare in his eyes. Sure, he had seen the same look in Rudy's eyes a couple of times by now, but it still sent shivers down his spine.

'I was able to show my memories to Scott, so I should be able to do other things as well.'

Rudy had the ability of body tempering that allowed him to change his body shape and size. However, Rudy had only used that ability once because he never got a chance to use it again.

Currently, he was trying to use it on Scott, but he was planning to use more than one ability on him.

Rudy raised Scott's body and made him stand up straight on the pedestal in the middle of the fountain where the broken statue was standing. Then, Rudy made Scott stand up in a pose similar to the statue.

Scott's one hand was pointing towards the sky, and another hand was pointing on the ground in an opposite direction. His one leg in the air, his feet nearly touching his lips, and another leg was on the pedestal.

"Hmm~" Rudy hummed in amusement and muttered, "This is the exact same pose as before, but something is lacking. It's not humiliating enough."

After pondering for a while, Rudy came up with an idea.

"Although I do want to keep your dick as it is, I will spice things up to make it more interesting."

Rudy hovered in the air in front of Scott and looked into his eyes before saying, "You are horny, and you can't abstain any longer. You want to relieve yourself. You are close to ejaculating. You are nearly there. One second more, and you would release everything, but... you won't..."

"Hah!" Rudy laughed out loud after seeing the look on Scott's face. It was priceless.

"Grr!" Scott growled at Rudy, unable to open his mouth, Scott had no other way to describe his words.

"What? Do you want me to finish what I was saying?" Rudy smirked malevolently and uttered, "You will stay in the orgasm-denial state for eternity. You will feel excited and horny, but every time you get close to finishing, you will stop."

"Argh!"

"Now, now. Statues are supposed to stay silent." Rudy grabbed Scott's hand with his hand and used body tempering on him.

He made his body harder and stronger than metal and heated it from the inside to cook him alive. But, he couldn't die.

Scott's body froze and he stopped moving. Even his eyeballs had turned into metal and his heartbeat had stopped. But, he was still alive from the inside.

"Perfect!" Rudy admired his work of art with a wide grin on his face. But he felt as though something was missing.

"Why does it look incomplete?"

Rudy's gaze fell on the dried-up fountain and snapped his finger. "Water!"

He activated his see-through ability to look for the water line that was connected to the fountain. His gaze followed the underground water line to the water tank that was also dried up.

"Hmm~" Rudy used hydrokinesis and filled the tank with water.

It took a few seconds for the water to travel from the water tank to the fountain, but it didn't come out of the fountain because the outlet was closed with rubber water clog.

'The connection of the pipeline is broken...' Rudy uttered inwardly as he examined the fountain structure using his see-through ability.

'Even if I remove the clog, there is no path for the water to travel. It will fill the fountain, but I want to make it a sprinkler...'

Rudy cleaned the fountain and removed the waste material such as empty cans, tires, bottles, leaves, and plastic bags.

"Wait a minute..." After looking at the trash, Rudy had an amazing idea.

He raised the cans, bottles, plastic bags, and tires in the air using telekinesis and heated them using pyrokinesis. Then, he melted them and mixed them all together to form a new material. After that, Rudy shaped the mixture, but he kept it in a liquid form.

He glanced at Scott and muttered, "This will be nasty, even for me..."

Rudy forced the mixture inside Scott's body from his back passage, and it traveled through his intestines and other body parts before coming out of his mouth, and penis.

"Eww!" Rudy removed the extra and the visible material from the outside, but kept it the same from the inside; it worked as a pipe or a passage for the water to pass through.

He waited for the mixture to dry and then connected it to the waterline.

"Let's see if it works or not..."

Rudy let the water flow, and it traveled through Scott's body and came out from his mouth and penis. However, the water that was coming out of his mouth was spilling outside the fountain area.

"Hmm..." Rudy placed his hand on his chin and jerked Scott's head up, facing towards the sky.

Now, the water from his mouth was going up and falling into the fountain like a sprinkler.

"Nice!"

Rudy watched the fountain for a while to make sure it was working alright.

SIGH!

He looked at Scott and said, "You will still be able to hear and see everything. You will feel the pain, over and over, for the rest of eternity."

"Wait..." Rudy then remembered he forgot to name the statue. "What should I name him?"

Rudy made sure to change Scott's appearance to something different and tried to make it similar to the statue that was present there.

'If the officials come to check the area, they will see the statue and get surprised. Soon, the news would spread that even after 5 years, the statues were in the same state as new, and even the waterline was working.'

'Some might even think of the statue as a shrine and come here. It will become the main attraction of this Central Park.'

"That's why I will have to name it properly..." he muttered.

Esper Harem in the Apocalypse

Chapter 149: Fool's Pride

'The statue didn't have a name before, as it could create controversy. People simply needed a reason to start a new drama to gain publicity and attention. That's why, the names of the structures are always named after a good or a bad thing.'

'If they are named after a good thing, then obviously they— even those who don't like it— will have to accept the name. And if they name it after a bad thing, they won't have enough guts to protest against it; even if they did, their accusation wouldn't be heeded.'

"But let's see what the government was planning to name it after re-opening the Central Park..."

Rudy glanced around and located a cell tower in the distance on the tall building near the park.

"I am not sure if this idea would work, but it's worth trying." Rudy flew to the tower and stood on top of it.

"I am curious. And this is the best way to test the capabilities of my electrification ability."

Rudy connected his brain waves with the signals coming from the tower and hacked into the satellite. Then, he connected himself from one satellite to another satellite. But suddenly, his connection broke, and he lost his streak.

Rudy held his head in his hands with a painful expression on his face, seemingly, the action had taken a huge loan on his mental strength. He wanted to scream out loud, but he endured and waited for the pain to subside.

"Of course... this would happen if I act too carelessly. But considering this was my first time trying, I did a pretty good job."

SIGH!

Rudy jumped to land near the statue, but he felt dizzy as he hadn't fully recovered yet, and ended up crashing into the tree.

"Great..."

Rudy had reached the limit of his mental strength, and any more use of his powers could be harmful to him.

If he wasn't awake for more than two days, this wouldn't have happened. And the access use of his mental strength without letting his brain rest wasn't something he should do.

"I should finish this quickly and go back. It's making me angry for some reason...." he uttered in a low voice.

Rudy jumped off the tree and slowly walked to the statue, but suddenly, he stopped and held his head in his hands.

"....!"

His eyes widened as he received unknown information in his mind.

In the last 5 years, many things had changed, some changes were good, but many changes were bad. Either way, it had already happened and there was no turning back.

The world leaders and officials were so busy dealing with the issues that they didn't have time to worry about minor things.

T.A, the leader and the main reason behind the apocalypse, had high intelligence, and he wanted to dominate the world using his powers. So obviously, he aimed for the world leader's head.

'If there was no one to rule the world, I shall rule it.' Those were the words T.A frequently said to himself.

The physical data of the world stored all over the world were all destroyed, and the digital databases were corrupted. Satellites were crashed, all the private and government facilities were destroyed, and the entire world has lost contact with each other.

The world was at constant war with the T.A, and they were trying their best to protect the world. While T.A wanted to rewrite history and create the world as a new world with his laws and rules.

But fortunately, after the sudden disappearance of T.A, the world slowly went back to normal.

Everything was built again and the information and knowledge that was destroyed were re-written again. The world leaders gathered a team of individuals who contained knowledge of everything, including doctors, businessmen, engineers, developers, and many more who had everything stored in their minds.

They agreed to help as it was for the good of humanity, but they asked for something in return. They wanted their say in every decision made in the parliament. Of course, only logical and legal claims were allowed, and the government agreed to it as they didn't have any problem with it. They had realized that no matter how powerful they are, they can't win against beings like T.A.

After the apocalypse, the government has been secretly preparing more powerful weapons and conducting superhuman experiments in area 69 to create super soldiers who could fight against T.A— if he ever returned.

Of course, this was kept secret from the outside world as it could lead to more problems. After all, they were the ones who experimented and created T.A. They were the ones responsible for the apocalypse, pandemic, and everything that had happened during the last five years.

Of course, they didn't take the blame and threw the blame at the circumstances. They knew that if word got out that they had started working on the super gene experiment again, it could cause a riot, or worse, a world war against the other nations.

"...."

Rudy was confused as to why and how he got that information. But then he came to the conclusion that it happened when he was trying to hack into the satellites to create an information chain.

"Hmm~" Rudy placed his hand on his chin and wondered, "So the government still hasn't learned its lesson."

SIGH!

"And here I thought smart people learn from their mistakes..." he groaned.

'My world also had the super gene experiment, but it was a failure. All the other test subjects died before me, and I was the last one. They had decided to stop the experiments as they didn't make any progress.'

"But... I wonder if anything had gone wrong, that world would have turned out the same as this one..." he murmured.

In the end, Rudy decided to name the statue that fit Scott perfectly.

"Fool's Pride."

Rudy smirked at Scott and asked, "Did you like your new name? It's better than Scott scoot, and it suits you."

After that, Rudy teleported to Alice's room, or he wanted to, but he didn't have enough mental strength to use teleportation.

"..."

So, he decided to fly there instead. But he was too sleepy to keep his eyes open, and his ears were muffled by the pressure of the air. As he was flying at high speed, trying to get to Alice's house as soon as possible, he hit something in the air.

"..."

He stopped and looked back to see a broken wing of an airplane.

"Uh oh!"

Esper Harem in the Apocalypse

Chapter 150: Bad Pilot

Rudy's eyes were closed, and he couldn't hear anything other than the sound of wind hitting him with high pressure. When he first learned to fly, that was his biggest obstacle.

He couldn't keep his eyes open, and it constantly teared up after a lot of pain. He couldn't even keep the sense of direction he was flying, so at first, he decided to fly at slow speed and then learned to fly without any problem.

However, the faster he flew, the harder it was to control. Especially when he was sleepy.

In all that, Rudy was having a really long and bad day, which ended with him hitting an airplane that was going to land at the airport a few miles away from him.

"You have got to be kidding me..."

Of course, Rudy was going to save the airplane from crashing as he was the reason behind the damage to the airplane.

Rudy grabbed the broken plane wing and destroyed it into small pieces, so even if it fell and hit something or someone, it wouldn't damage anything.

After that, he followed the smoke and spotted the plane slowly declining the flying area limit.

"If I mess this up, they all die..."

Rudy flew to the air plan and placed his hand on the damaged area. Then, he restored the plane as one minute hadn't passed.

"Well... that was anticlimactic..."

Rudy didn't know it would work as he had destroyed the broken wing, but he couldn't care less about that as it was repaired now.

Rudy flew above the clouds to make sure no one saw him fling around, and hoped that the plane would land safely now. However, much to his surprise, the plane was still going down towards the city to the other side of the airport.

Rudy activated his see-through ability to check what was stopping the plane from changing its direction again, but he couldn't see anything wrong.

He wasn't a plane engineer, after all. So he couldn't tell what was stopping the plane from flying up again.

'I guess I have no other choice...'

Rudy interfered with the electric signals from the plane and hacked the frequency to contact the pilots.

"Hey pilots, I am speaking from headquarters. There has been a sudden interference with the signals, so I don't have much time to explain. Can you tell me what's going on?" Rudy pretended to be an official.

"Uhh... who are you? Can you prove your—"

"How is that going to help you in your current situation?!" Rudy yelled. "Tell me what's wrong, so we can find a solution! Don't forget that the lives of hundreds of passengers depend on your hands!"

The pilots were hesitant at first, but they realized the emergency situation and reluctantly agreed to tell Rudy.

"We don't know for sure, but the system showed that the right-wing was damaged, and we lost our engine. The backup engine started on time, but it failed to keep up, and now it's not restarting," the pilot said.

"What's showing on the radar?" Rudy asked curiously.

"Huh? What does that have to do with—" The pilot suddenly stopped on his words when the plane started moving upwards.

Rudy did that to distract the pilot, so he could get past the airplane and force it up from below.

"What's happening?!" the pilot panicked. "The engines are still stopped, but the plane is moving upwards?!"

"Pilot, I have good news for you," Rudy said in a raspy and stuttering voice to make it look like they were losing a signal.

'I did fix the damage, but I couldn't revert the data in the system, which is still registering the plane is damaged. And that's the reason behind the glitch in the system.'

"I can't hear you!" the pilot yelled on the microphone.

"There is nothing wrong with the plane. The system has malfunctioned, and it's showing false data. I repeat, the plane is perfectly fine. Please calm down and land the plane as you are supposed to," Rudy said in a rather calm voice to make it more convincing.

"But if that's the case, I can perform a system check up and restart it. It should remove the glitch and fix the—"

"Do you have time for all that, pilot? Just do what you are told."

This time, Rudy spoke in a clear tone to make it look like the connection was getting strong.

While flying the plane towards the airport, Rudy tried to perform a restart of the system, but his mental strength was too weak to do that.

Rudy had no choice but to carry the plane to the airport and land it safely. Otherwise, he could be responsible for the deaths of hundreds of innocent people.

Sure, it wasn't as though the government would catch Rudy or even doubt him, since he could easily survive and flee from the plane crash. But he wouldn't be able to live with the guilt.

Rudy didn't have any energy left, so he closed all his body processes to minimize the use of his brain, and focused everything on the super strength.

After flying to the airport, the wheels of the airplane came out and Rudy slowly lowered the plane.

As the plane got closer to the surface, Rudy grew anxious, as he had no idea if that would work or not. Furthermore, in his past life, Rudy had seen many compilation videos related to plane crashes on the internet, which made him even more anxious.

Fortunately, Rudy managed to land the plane safely without any casualties or signs of damage to the plane.

It was night, so Rudy didn't have to worry about people seeing him, and even if they did, they would see a half naked man standing under the plane.

"..."

After catching his breaths, Rudy sighed in relief and soared to the sky. But this time, he made sure to keep his eyes open, even though his vision was getting blurry.

When Rudy reached Alice's house, he looked into her room through the closed glass window, and saw her sleeping on the bed, but her back was facing the window, so Rudy wasn't sure if she was sleeping or simply laying down.

KNOCK! KNOCK!

Rudy knocked on the window, but Alice didn't move. Seemingly, she had fallen asleep while waiting for Rudy.

Suddenly, Angelica appeared upside-down in front of Rudy from the other side of the window.

"...!"

Angelica laughed out loud but noticed Rudy wasn't moving. Confused, she passed through the window and hugged Rudy to make sure he was okay.

Rudy hugged Angelica back and whispered in her ears: "I will rest for a while..."

"How... are we going back to your house then...?"
