

Ethan's Fantasy Drift

Chapter 46 Red Queen again

"Found it?" Ethan asked Kaplan carefully again: "Are you sure you have gained control?"

"I can be sure." Kaplan nodded: "And the Red Queen is already closed?"

Since _____ was closed after the red, lost the artificial intelligence as the opponent, and only some mechanical defense procedures are left, Kaplan thinks that this thing is not difficult for him at all, and I don't understand why Ethan has repeatedly emphasized it?

Of course he doesn't know. There should be a red queen host at the place where the elevator connects. What Ethan is worried about is the body that is most likely the red queen. What tricks does he do when he goes down?

Fortunately, Kaplan did gain control. After everyone gathered near the console, Kaplan typed the last command on the computer. Then the console vibrated for a while and began to descend towards the bottom.

The mercenaries didn't even care about the zombies that were still falling from the higher and higher gates, and looked at Ethan in surprise.

At this time, Alice, who had gradually recovered part of her memory, no longer seemed harmless as before, and suddenly became more aggressive.

"Who on earth are you?"

This is the question in everyone's mind. Why does Ethan know the hive so much? Who is he? It seems that his actions are undermining Umbrella's plan, so he was sent by Umbrella's competitors? Or is it an agent belonging to an official organization?

But... will the agent dress up like a medieval knight?

This is the most incomprehensible thing for everyone present. If Ethan and Arthur's clothes were normal, even if Arthur looked like a teenager, he could be treated as a specially trained young agent, but what the * is that armor...that long sword?

"Me?" Ethan took out a cloth and wiped the sword. He wondered if the sword should be disinfected properly? Otherwise, if you just take it back, will it spread the T virus to the calm sea?

When I heard Alice's question, my reaction was slow for a while, and he casually dealt with what I had said to Jill before: "It should be the savior of this world."

Everyone was speechless to Ethan's answer, but Alice did not laugh, but continued to ask questions.

"Do you think this virus will harm the whole world?"

At this time, Ethan completely recovered. He remembered that there was a tube of ultimate detoxification at the bottom. As long as it spreads out, it will slowly spread to the entire world as the air spreads, and then all the T viruses and their derivatives that exist in this world will be spread. All variants are wiped out. I am definitely going to use that thing, so there seems to be no need to worry.

"Hazard?"

He finally had the mind to answer Alice's question. The speed of this elevator is really slow enough. As the descent gets deeper and deeper, there are no more zombies crackling down, and everyone can breathe a sigh of relief.

The mercenaries took the time to refill the empty magazines, check their equipment, and check for any wounds on their bodies.

is also paying attention to the conversation between Ethan and Alice.

"No, it's not just as simple as harm." In a calm tone, Ethan casually told what would happen afterwards.

After hearing the spread of biochemical viruses, not only most humans were infected with zombies, but even plants were not spared. They all withered and died. Almost all of the earth became a desert. Everyone was scared. Taken.

"The end of the world... shouldn't it be the end?"

"If we completely close the hive, maybe we will avoid the end of the world?"

After seeing the zombies with their own eyes, they believed in Ethan's words very high, and almost no one thought that the future described by Ethan was too bizarre and exaggerated.

Jill didn't speak much anymore at this time. She originally followed Ethan with a mentality of "see what tricks you can play". She didn't expect to witness such a big thing. Now her mind is a bit confused. Time didn't even know what kind of response should be made.

Only Alice remained calm, thinking about how to avoid that terrible apocalyptic future.

Ethan told them directly: “All of this is in Umbrella’s plan, so you think that if the hive is closed, there will be nothing, that’s just wishful thinking.”

“The Hive Research Institute belongs to Umbrella. Do you think they can’t open their research base? What’s more, the hive is not completely isolated from the outside world. There are not many facilities such as ventilation ducts. You can guarantee that the virus does not leak from these places. ?”

Actually, there is a single shot in the film of Resident Evil, that the ventilation ducts have been broken, implying that rats can enter and exit the hive through the broken ducts, and the rats can carry the virus to the outside world.

Therefore, even if Umbrella does nothing, the outbreak of the virus is difficult to avoid, as if it is the established destiny of the world.

This is the fundamental reason why Ethan must come here: If you don’t find the ‘antidote’, the biochemical viruses in this world are almost insoluble.

Maybe if Ethan stays in this world for a few years, he can solve this problem with the mysterious knowledge and ability, but let’s not say whether he can stay in this world for so long, even if he can stay for a few years, the research is The solution, how many people will be left on the earth in the past few years?

This is from the big point of view, from the personal point of view, Ethan also needs this potion, to understand the principle of it, to avoid accidentally playing a big game and killing himself.

He wants to use the T virus to increase his mental strength, but the premise is not to pit himself to death.

Mages often put themselves in danger in order to do some kind of experiment, so every mage has a wealth of life-saving methods.

If Ethan is an orthodox mage, he will also prepare a lot of life-saving methods for himself, before starting such a dangerous experiment. It is a pity that his mage path is different from others, so more detailed and thorough prevention work is needed.

Then he gave a general description of Umbrella’s plan to clean up humans. Everyone present felt that their worldview had been impacted.

They were shocked by a business tycoon like Umbrella secretly studying the virus before. But this is still within an understandable range, after all, this medicine is indeed powerful.

Even if it was because they couldn't abandon such a powerful virus, even if they opened the hive again at great risk, they couldn't understand it. Merchants, for the sake of business opportunities a little danger.

But what the * is human cleaning?

"What does Umbrella think she is? God?"

As one of the human beings about to be cleansed, no one in the room is not angry. This kind of situation where other people casually decide life and death, but they don't even have a choice, is most infuriating.

When Ethan said that Umbrella's management was hiding in the frozen sleep cabin below, quietly waiting for the end of the day to pass, and then coming out to rebuild the earth as a leader of mankind, almost everyone started gearing up to give the group of lofty guys a good look.

"I will drag them out of that tin can, and then give them a hard hit, until they wake up."

After a handful of spoiler addiction, Ethan has no consciousness of spoiling a dog, how should he find the antidote for a headache now. That thing seems to be in the final BOSS in this movie world, being kept close by that doctor.

"Besides, this guy doesn't know if he is in a deep sleep?" He only watched the final chapter of the movie version at first, and the film was not particularly good, and there were a lot of slots. He didn't leave a deep impression at all. Now only vaguely think of some general content.

This is because his mental power has improved, and he has consolidated the memory of his previous life. Otherwise, after so many years, you may not even remember the content, you can only think of a brief summary.

As I was reminiscing about it, the elevator finally descended to the lowest level, and everyone moved forward cautiously. What surprised everyone was that there was no security equipment or personnel. UU reading www.uukanshu.com caught the eye. Rows of iron cans look like things.

"These are those guys who are aloof, who think they can decide whether human beings in the world are life or death?"

Ethan glanced left and right, and nodded: "It should be. How to deal with these guys is up to you." He continued to move forward. He remembered that this was the final battle of the movie.

Here is the most central console of the entire hive, and the real body of the Red Queen is also hidden in this body. And through this console, you can wake up the real big boss in this world...

“What’s that guy’s name?”

I had no impression or even remembered the name, Ethan stood in front of the huge screen and tapped on the console: “If you don’t want me to blow this place to ruins, you’d better come out by yourself!”

Seeing that there was no response, Ethan continued to speak to himself: “I think you must know what happened above. If you don’t want to end up like your subroutine, do as I said.”

This time the Red Queen no longer pretended to be dead, and the image of a little girl was projected to appear in front of Ethan.

After seeing the sudden appearance of red, the mercenaries almost instinctively raised the weapon in their hands, and then realized that it was just a projection.

“Why haven’t this thing been turned off yet.”

Kaplan also deliberately looked at the red back motherboard he was holding. Could it be that his partner pulled out the wrong one? Wrongly removed the memory module as the motherboard?

Ethan looked at this little girl who was slightly different from the red queen above: “So, if you can control all the facilities of this base, then you can also call Alice’s “self” out?”

“Yes! Actually, I awakened Alicia when you got down.”

Chapter 47 Biochemical End

Alicia Marcus, the daughter of James Marcus, one of the founders of Umbrella in the film version of Resident Evil. The latter is also the real developer of the T virus.

I have to say that the final chapter of the Resident Evil movie version is simply kicking all the previous settings into the stinking ditch, but Ethan doesn’t care about these things. He cares about Alicia Marcusian. One of Brera’s high-levels is also the true “body” of Alice, the heroine of this world.

After Red Queen said Alicia had been awakened by him, Ethan quietly waited for Alicia’s arrival.

He didn’t wait long, Alicia, who was sitting in an automatic wheelchair, quickly appeared in front of everyone, but her appearance made everyone turn their attention to Alice.

Then there was another long-winded explanation. Alicia had no dissatisfaction with the arrival of Ethan and others, and even felt very happy.

And with her explanation, everyone present finally understood Umbrella's specific plan, the birth of the T virus, and so on.

At the same time, Alice also knows her 'life experience'.

"Am I actually a clone?"

She hadn't thought about this problem before. Although she couldn't remember many things, she thought it was the side effect of anesthetics that had not been completely eliminated. Maybe her memory would come back slowly after a while.

I didn't expect to learn that I have no childhood memories at all.

"This..."

Alicia Marcus, from her appearance, it can be seen that she is an older version of Alice, who almost regards this heroine as another herself, or the continuation of her own life, and she immediately comforted her when she saw Alice's depression. .

"Actually, you don't need to care too much, you are you. Although your way of birth is a little different from other people, but your own life requires you to go on your own, you treat yourself as growing up faster and earlier than ordinary children. The memo is just fine."

In the end, Ethan couldn't make it through, so he directly interjected. He wasn't interested in watching these two sprinkle dog blood here, he cared about another thing.

"You can think about how to live in the future. At present, we have more important things to do."

reminded Alice, Ethan turned his head and looked at Alicia: "I think, you also want this to end today, right?"

Just now Alicia talked about the origin of the T virus: his father developed this virus with great side effects in order to treat his daughter's progeria, which was then killed by Dr. Isaacs and Albert Wesker.

Then Dr. Isaacs proposed the Great Purge of Mankind, and Umbrella has been slowly laying out and implementing it gradually over the years.

Today, the plan was officially launched, but they never expected Ethan's intervention to destroy all of this.

Alicia was opposed to this plan, but it was a pity that her own situation made her unable to stop her, so she could only passively watch the situation develop as planned by Dr. Isaacs.

Until today, she finally saw hope.

“Yes, I don’t want to see humans being extinct in this way...” Alicia paused: “Especially all of this is caused by me.”

Ethan shook his head: “In fact, you don’t need to care about this. T virus is just a tool. Maybe he is very powerful, but is the nuclear bomb weaker than T virus? In the final analysis, it depends on what kind of manpower he holds. in.”

In the hands of lunatics like Isaacs, it is used to destroy the world.

But if it is a Virgin Mary who has good intentions and wants to save the world, the T virus may be modified into a very powerful medical agent to save countless patients suffering from illness.

“But now the T virus has actually threatened the world, so we have to stop it.” Ethan stared at Alicia: “Do you know where the antidote that can kill all the viruses in the world is placed?”

Alicia has always been very curious about Ethan, she doesn’t even know this young man, and she is sure that he is definitely not an insider of Umbrella.

But this young man knows almost all Umbrella’s plans. She was awakened by the Red Queen just now, and did not appear directly here. It was just before watching the Red Queen’s record about Ethan’s performance.

Naturally, Alicia saw and heard all those things that Ethan had said and burst out, plus all the information that Ethan had specially collected during the time in Raccoon City by the Red Queen, this mysterious young man It seemed to appear out of thin air, and it was obvious that he came straight to the hive—he had come to the base below the hive from the beginning.

“That thing is kept by Dr. Isaacs. It didn’t give anyone a chance to touch it, even I couldn’t get it.”

“So, are we going to wake up that Dr. Isaacs?” Ethan frowned, “Also watch out for him to take a risk and get a fish dead.”

“Leave this to us, I will make him regret living in this world.”

The mercenaries consciously took over this job. In fact, they don’t know how much they did for similar jobs. The only trouble is that Dr. Isaacs has higher control over the red queen. If the problem of the red queen cannot be solved. , Everyone in the base may be yelled to death by this 'naughty little girl' at any time.

"Can't you close it?"

"The Red Queen has a self-defense mechanism. Unless Dr. Isaacs orders the procedures to be cancelled first, there is no way to close it forcibly."

"Then there is no way, you can tell me where the host of the Red Queen is."

"you want..."

"Yes, since it can't be solved amicably, then destroy it."

"Wait." Alicia stopped Ethan's actions: "If we destroy Red, we may face endless revenge from Umbrella."

was going to blow up James, who was the host of the Red Queen, with Ethan, but stopped after hearing this sentence.

Yes, they are preventing a disaster that can destroy the world, but they can't ignore another point: the giant Umbrella is still intact, and they are controlled by a group of clones who don't know the actual situation. .

Their current behavior is actually to oppose Umbrella: they will be hunted down as the enemy who has discovered the biggest secret of the group.

If you keep the host after the red, maybe this situation can be avoided? Besides, there is also the daughter of one of the founders, Alicia? The Red Queen host can at least prove her true identity, and then with a high-level protection, they should be able to avoid that tragic heroic ending.

"What should I do?"

Things suddenly became tricky, and everyone didn't know how to solve it.

In the end, everyone looked at Ethan. This young man made a suggestion every time, and the facts repeatedly proved the correctness of his suggestion.

"No matter so many, blow up the red queen!"

The most important issue now is the threat of T virus. You must get the antidote of T virus before you can talk about other things.

Umbrella's problem, in fact, he didn't have a very good solution. From the very beginning, he never thought about confronting Umbrella.

Because he can get what he wants early, find a place to hide for a while, and then bid farewell to the world completely.

It's just that these mercenaries can't do this, can't they all bring them to the calm sea, right? Although he lacks teammates, he can't just take a group of people who can't really trust back so casually.

After making up his mind, the mercenaries were very efficient. The installation and explosion were done in one go, but they ran into a little trouble during the assault on the main engine room, but they did not cause any damage under the reminder of Alicia, the undercover agent.

After being red, it was bombed, which simply made Ethan a little wondering if something was wrong.

It was Alicia who reminded him: "This base is very secretive, and almost never considered the possibility of being discovered."

Indeed, if Alicia hadn't ordered the Red Queen to deliberately leave a clue to Alice in the original movie, I'm afraid no one would know that there is such a big secret base hidden under the hive.

is considered to be absolutely safe, the internal defense facilities are naturally a little worse.

Then the next thing becomes even simpler. The Red Queen was destroyed, the control of the base was switched from automatic to manual, and everyone teamed up to "wake up" these noble Umbrella executives one by one, and finally became the big boss. Dr. Isaacs. UU Reading www.uukanshu.com

Dr. Isaacs is very stylish, but in front of the violent soldiers, all mannerisms are vain, and he is skeptical of life being cleaned up in minutes.

Other people are the same, these pampered people can't bear the various tricks the mercenaries use.

Not only did they get an important antidote to the virus, but they also got an unexpected surprise: these high-level executives are not all fools. When the extermination plan is completed, they will of course need to restore their identities after they come out, and they even have to wake up early to avoid mistakes in the middle. Many people have prepared some control methods on their clones.

"Well, with these 'hostages', I believe your safety will be guaranteed to a certain extent."

In the following days, everyone hid in the underground secret base. These high-levels who have awakened are beginning to use their hidden means to restore their identities and 'replace' the clones. Then returned to Umbrella to continue to be a social elite.

The mercenaries who had reached an 'agreement' with the top leaders also left one after another, and the underground base gradually became empty.

As for these senior executives, will there be any means of retaliation afterwards? That's hard to say. It's just that Ethan must have already left at that time, and he can't manage that much.

These days, he is hiding in a separate laboratory by himself, constantly studying the T virus stock solution and the tube of the ultimate medicine that can destroy the world T virus.

It wasn't until a full month later that Ethan came out of the laboratory. Only Alicia, Alice, and Arthur were left in the base. At this time, there was actually no more left before he left the world Several days.

He came out this time as a complete finishing touch to his trip to the biochemical world.

Chapter 48 Another ending

"Your experiment was successful?"

For Ethan's experiment, these people just know a rough idea, but what is it? What kind of result Ethan wants, no one knows these details. Including Arthur, it was not clear what Ethan was going to make.

Magic or something? Ethan has never been shown in front of these people, so they simply think Ethan is studying the T virus.

"Not a success."

Ethan has been busy for a month, and finally successfully used the magic circle to extract the mental enhancement effect of the T virus, and remove all kinds of side effects.

The disadvantage is that after removing those side effects, the effect of the T virus is almost completely non-existent-this virus actually stimulates the body's cells and makes them in an extremely active state. In this case, it also stimulates the mental power.

If the so-called side effects are eliminated, it will fundamentally negate the effect of this virus, so Ethan can only change the direction and suppress the effect to a level that will not cause harm to people.

Even this is very difficult to achieve, especially since he has to consider whether this excessively skyrocketing mental power will pollute his own mental power.

I have been busy for a month, and the final result is not without, but there is a gap between what I originally expected.

“I only made this thing.”

casually took out an iron box from his hand, and after opening it, the cigarettes lay neatly in the iron box.

Arthur just looked at it curiously, while the others were when Ethan was joking. Relatively speaking, the most familiar Alice reached out and took one, and then carefully distinguished it for a long time, and finally smelled it.

“Don’t tell me that you have been busy in the laboratory for a month and ended up making such a pack of cigarettes?”

However, Ethan is really not joking. His results this month are indeed this thing: “Yes, I made such a box this month. Would you like to try it? Special tobacco leaves, soaked in the virus stock. Oh.”

Alice shivered when she heard that she almost threw the cigarette she was holding onto Ethan’s face.

“Are you crazy? Is this to harm people?”

Ethan silently caught the cigarette in mid-air, and then carefully put it back in the box: “Don’t worry, I have got rid of the bad side effects. This thing is very beneficial to people.”

“Oh?”

Hearing his words, several people became interested, and Alice, who was still very jealous, even wanted to come back and have a look.

“So, what good is this cigarette for people?”

“Rejuvenate and rejuvenate!”

Alice finally couldn’t help but give Ethan a roll of eyes. If she didn’t know that this young man’s combat effectiveness was exploding and she couldn’t beat him at all, she might not be able to help but beat him.

“All tobacco has this effect, right?”

“No, no, no!” Ethan stretched out his finger and swayed: “Those are just forcibly refreshing, which is equivalent to squeezing the little remaining energy in your body. And I am talking about rejuvenating, which is a literal recovery.”

No one was stupid, and I finally understood what Ethan meant.

“You mean, if I feel very tired and have poor energy, I can recover by sucking one of these?”

“You can only recover your mental fatigue, and your physical fatigue still needs time to recover.” Ethan thought for a while, and then took a cigar out of his arms: “If it is this, it will have a certain effect on the body. The recovery effect, but the effect of this thing is not stable yet, so I am going to continue to improve it.”

Even so, these two things are very powerful. Alicia, who is a senior at Umbrella, has a good understanding of scientific things, and also understands the effects and side effects of the T virus itself. To a certain extent, this The virus can indeed cause the effect Ethan said, but how did he do it?

The uncontrollable nature of the T virus has not been solved by Umbrella after studying for a long time. This young man just hid in the laboratory for a month and solved it? Is this person too powerful, or is Umbrella raising a bunch of trash?

Next, Ethan introduced his achievements in detail.

A small tin box of cigarettes has the same effect as mentioned before. It can refresh the brain and restore the spirit. In addition, what he did not say is that this thing can very slowly increase the total amount of mental power of Ethan, and at the same time it will not Contaminate his own mental power.

It's just that the rate of improvement is very small. If Ethan's mental power is 100, he might not even be able to improve even if he draws one.

The advantage is that this thing can already be manufactured in batches, as long as the supply of materials can be guaranteed. At the same time, it was precisely for mass production that he chose to make cigarettes so that the remanufactured stock solution could be used repeatedly to soak more special tobacco.

Of course, for the sake of safety, the first thing he did was to study the super antidote, and to improve the original solution he re-manufactured to remove the terrible infectiousness. At this time, the original solution is not so much a virus as it is. Said it is concoction. This kind of medicinal juice is not easy to use directly, although the effect is stronger, but it does cause pollution to mental power.

In addition, Ethan has already thought of a higher-level improved version of cigarettes, that is, mixed with herbs that can restore magic power, so that the cigarette has the function of replenishing magic power-but he does not use it now, so he does not need to make it for the time being.

In this way, he is equivalent to carrying a pack of blue bottles, which is also more convenient to carry than potions.

As for cigars that can restore physical fitness and stimulate rapid recovery from physical injuries, this thing is too easy to get out of control. If you are not careful, although you will not become as extreme as a zombie, it will also excessively consume the life of the human body-the number of cell divisions is limited, if excessive stimulation makes the metabolic rate uncontrollable, it is not a strange thing to be ten years old in an instant.

Speaking of it, the movie version of the T virus and the game version are also different in settings, and there are also contradictions in the settings. When Ethan got it, he was worried that this thing would deviate from the effect in his memory. Fortunately, it was big. The direction is finally right, and it can be considered to have achieved his goal.

Then he asked about everyone's situation.

Learned that the mercenaries had reached an agreement with the top leaders of the umbrella and had already returned to live their lives. Except that Dr. Isaacs was killed by Ethan before entering the laboratory, the high-levels basically returned to their 'original' lives.

Even if there are some who have not prepared follow-up methods to deal with their own clones, they have the help of 'companions', and Umbrella's senior executives just changed it again unknowingly.

"They are now busy regaining control of the power in their hands, and for the time being they can't take care of us. When they vacate their hands, they will probably take revenge on us."

Ethan shook his head: "No, it's revenge on you alone. They can't find me and Arthur."

He and Arthur are about to leave this world soon, which is the fundamental reason why he doesn't care about those people at all.

As for Alice and Alicia...

"Actually, as long as Alicia can guarantee health, Umbrella can't attack you... at least on the face of it. In addition, you can also invite those mercenaries back, at least in certain positions. Be consistent and let them be your bodyguards than others."

This is the most reliable suggestion, but Alicia's physical condition is not optimistic. The T virus was developed by her father to treat her progeria in the first place. It was just a horror created by accidents. Of biological and chemical weapons.

It is not that she has not tried to improve the virus, but she has never succeeded. She has given up completely now, just waiting for her death quietly here.

"Oh, it is not difficult to solve this problem."

The trouble that technology cannot solve is not completely impossible for the mysterious Ethan, otherwise he would not be able to get rid of so many side effects of the virus and make cigarettes that can boost mental power.

Therefore, in the next few days, Ethan made further improvements to Alicia's relatively mature drug. Although it would not allow her to regain her youth and become the superman Alice was implanted with the virus, she would live more. For more than ten or twenty years, and living like a healthy person is still okay.

Unexpectedly, Alicia, who received such a gift, didn't know how to be grateful to Ethan, and even expressed her willingness to give Ethan's shares in Umbrella That would give Ethan a look. Become a huge asset of the super rich, but unfortunately this is meaningless to him who is about to leave this world.

Ethan just packed up his belongings, and then raided a lot of thermal weapons and ammunition from this base, and brought a lot of daily necessities. Then Alice and Alicia were puzzled at first, and then left with shocked eyes. Resident Evil World.

Looking at the room that was already a bit strange, Ethan suddenly sighed: "It's really a...I don't know how to describe it."

Arthur, who put down a lot of packages, shook his head: "It was a very good trip for me. I saw many things... In addition, I found an interesting book."

took out a copy of "The Death of King Arthur" from the package beside him.

"I didn't expect to see such a book that describes my life in such a world. Although there are many deviations in it."

Ethan was not surprised that Arthur would find this thing, not to mention that the King Arthur recorded in this book was quite different from the one in front of him. And Arthur also learned the concept of parallel planes from Merlin.

"The King Arthur in this book is just the King Arthur of the world in this book. As for what kind of king you will become in the future, it depends on you."

Arthur nodded: "I understand, but reading this book still gave me a lot of warnings. At the same time, I also realized that if I did not agree to travel with you, I am afraid that my future will not be better than that in the book. How good is it."

Ethan spread out his hands: "Who knows? I just know that you can't end up like that anymore." He was suddenly curious, what kind of King Arthur will this person in front of him be like in the future?

Chapter 49 Virgin?

I simply counted, most of them were still packed in packages and piled on the ground. Arthur went directly to his room to rest, while Ethan sorted out his income in the world of Resident Evil.

The virus stock solution has been transformed into a mental enhancement liquid medicine. This liquid medicine is not easy to manufacture. Due to material limitations, he can't make much now, but he doesn't have this trouble in a short time.

He made a lot of the first batch of cigarettes, and if the tobacco leaves made from grass leaves can be supplied, a lot of them can be manufactured in batches in a short time, so there is no need to worry about this thing being not enough.

He only made a few cigars with certain physical recovery ability and put them in specially made cigar tubes to save lives at critical moments.

Because it is a life-saving item, he has made some adjustments to the efficacy of this product. In addition to being used by smoking, it can also be chewed and swallowed in times of crisis.

The first method of use has a slower recovery effect, but the effect of the drug is moderate, and the burden on the body is small. Basically, after using it once, you can use it again with a little rest. At the same time, the 'upper limit' of this usage recovery is also relatively high.

The second method of use is relatively simple and rude, and the effect is more violent. It will stimulate the body to recover from the injury in a very short time. The disadvantage is that the burden on the body is greater, and the recovery 'upper limit' is lower. At the same time, this method puts a serious burden on the body. Basically, it will not last a long time after using it once, so it is not suitable for another one.

In general, one of the two tobaccos is a pure blue bottle, and the other is a blue-red mixed potion. The effect is barely gone, enough for Ethan to use at this stage.

took out a cigarette and lit it with a lighter brought back from the biochemical world. Ethan began to count packs of thermal weapons again.

is not too many, and he tried to choose the universal style of ammunition when choosing. For example, the pistol basically chose the 9mm bullet version.

also learned the disassembly and maintenance skills of firearms and basic shooting knowledge with Alice.

The rest can only be practiced on his own, but this thing is a consumable item, if it can't be refilled, I'm afraid it will become a pile of scrap iron soon.

"I wonder if I can remodel it?"

From the very beginning, he created a firearm powered by magic, but he didn't know anything about the structure of the firearm, so he gave up this idea.

Now there is no such trouble. Although he is not a real firearm designer, he does not need to design a brand new firearm. He only needs to make some magical changes to the existing structure and change the bullet supply part to magic power supply. Fire magic bullets at the same time, and even cast certain fixed spells directly.

"Magic power... can be supplied with magic stones. In this case, consider an equipment that replaces magic stones or an equipment that absorbs stored magic stones."

Compared to a tool for installing magic stones, Ethan prefers the latter. Because the shape and size of magic stones are not fixed, there is no standard. If you only choose a fixed size magic stone, the quality and source of the magic stone cannot be guaranteed. From any angle, the latter is a more reliable choice.

"Study slowly, don't worry."

After smoking the cigarette in his hand, Ethan lay down and rested. The increase in mental power provided by the tobacco hardly made him feel stronger. This thing can only be achieved by accumulating over time, so it will be a long time in the future. Ethan had to make a smoker.

"I didn't smoke many cigarettes in my last life. In this life, I have to smoke enough for two lifetimes."

In the following few days, Ethan and Arthur still led a very regular life, reading and practicing every day and then quietly waiting for Keno, the prey.

Going around in the world of Resident Evil is not enough to make Ethan forget his biggest purpose of staying on State Island.

didn't clear this hidden danger, he didn't even feel like going out to sea, so he stayed on the island for a long time.

of course also attracted the attention of the guild.

Guilds generally provide adventurers with free board and lodging for a few days, especially after an adventure brings back a large amount of supplies, this time can be appropriately extended.

The guild does not encourage adventurers to sit on the island and eat the mountains and the sky, and wait until the inventory is clean before proceeding to the next adventure. They are now worried that the young Ethan has lost the spirit of courage and diligence and has become slack, intentionally or unintentionally reminding him that he has rested long enough and should go to sea for the next adventure.

In desperation, Ethan had to express his intentions clearly, and even hired the guild to help him stare at the dock, and he would be notified as soon as Keno appeared.

Only then did the guild understand that Ethan's true purpose of staying on the island was to get rid of the Keno who had just received the title of Hand of Fire.

Regarding the conflicts between adventurers, the guild has always remained neutral. Even a big fight in the guild hall will not attract the guild's interference, provided that no damage is caused to the guild's property.

Of course, even if something in the guild is broken, as long as you can compensate for the original price, the guild will not trouble you.

So they didn't mind the trouble of whom Ethan was looking for. At the same time, they determined that Ethan was not really slacking off, so they no longer deliberately urged Ethan to go to sea. Instead, they followed Ethan's request, appropriate Provided a lot of news about Keno-many adventurers have met this guy during this period, and brought back very little information on the island.

With the collection of many news, Ethan gradually realized that this guy could not last at sea for too long, even if he could get food and drinking water, but he and the crew would suffer from floating on the sea for a long time, and the boat might not be able to. Sustained-as the number of battles continued to increase, the damage of the Flame Monarch became more and more serious. If he doesn't want his ship to be scrapped, he must return to State Island.

Things were as expected by Ethan. After only four days, Keno's Flame Monarch docked on the pier on State Island.

Ethan, who received the news, has been fully armed with Arthur in the lounge not far from the guild hall. They can kill him here as long as Keno appears.

It's just a slight accident in the situation, that is, another ship docked with Keno at the pier of State Island. At the same time, the middle-aged man who was suspected of being the captain of the big ship also went with Keno and went to the guild hall together.

"Who's that person?"

Staying in the lounge with Ethan, there was a staff member sent by the guild to inform him. Approximately twenty-four or five years old, his name is John. This is a very ordinary young man, thrown in the crowd you can't even think of what he looks like.

But John, who looks very ordinary, has the qualities he deserves. He can answer all kinds of questions almost casually, including Ethan's question.

"That man is Brent, the captain of the Brave, who was once a very famous adventurer on the calm sea."

"Once?"

John nodded: "Brent has crossed the Sea of Storms five years ago, and went to the ocean on the other side of the Sea of Storms. I heard some people in the guild who have been in contact with the other side of the Sea of Storms. However, Brent did a great job mixing there, and his name is very loud. I just don't know why he suddenly came back to the Sea of Peace?"

Essendo glanced at the man named Brent and found that he looked like he was in his early thirties. If he had crossed the sea of storms five years ago, he was still in his twenties at the time. Many people at the age of Zhihai are still novices, but he is already at the pinnacle of this sea area.

"How is the reputation of others?" He wondered how could such a person get together with Keno? Is this guy like Keno?

"His reputation is very good. At that time, the entire calm sea praised Brent for his personality."

I heard that this young man named John also admired Brent very much, and casually talked about a lot of Brent's glorious deeds.

For example, when someone is killed at sea, Brent will definitely rush to rescue him, even if he will fall into a trap. At the same time, he will properly arrange the rescued victims, and even give them supplies so that they have a chance to survive and even stand up.

Seeing someone bullying the weak and robbing adventurers, he will immediately rush to stop and will persuade those people not to do similar behaviors. Because of his reputation, and many people have received his favor, many voyagers who specialize in robbing will give him face.

There are even a few who were persuaded by him to turn their heads, stop doing evil, and be honest adventurers at sea.

When he heard this, even Arthur next to him showed a look of wanting to make friends. Only Ethan's face didn't look good.

He heard that this Brent should be a good person, but he has a more virgin personality, and he thinks that everything in this world is beautiful, even if it is temporarily bad, he can get better.

Dealing with bad people is also paying attention to putting down the butcher knife and becoming a Buddha, giving them a chance to reform.

At the same time, anyone who asks for himself will take action, regardless of whether the other person is a good person or a bad person.

Then, the reason why Keno and this person stand together is already very clear. Compared to the previous Shaun who had no brains and relied on brute force, Keno was obviously much smarter.

He must have known that he was waiting on the island for his return, so he refused to return to the island until he discovered that Brent, who was once the number one boss of the calm sea and also the number one virgin, appeared, and immediately leaned in tightly. He hugged this person's thigh tightly.

He doesn't need to waste any words, just say that he was forced to be a bad person by the wicked. Now that he wants to be a good person, this Virgin-like guy will definitely help him solve all the troubles.

And that guy's biggest trouble, isn't it Ethan?

"So, Keno has found himself a great backer!" After figuring this out, Ethan pouted disdainfully: "No matter who he calls, Keno will die today!"

Chapter 50 Brent

Since Keno sensed that he was guarding him here, Ethan didn't bother to keep hiding. After knowing Brent's identity and general situation, he stood up and went straight outside, just so squarely blocking the way of Jinuo and others.

This time, not only his armor, swords, iron rods, and wrist guards are all neatly equipped, and the book of inheritance is inserted in the special book cover of the back waist as usual. He even brought two automatic pistols for the hot weapon he just got.

They are inserted into the holsters on the outer thighs. It can be said to be armed to the teeth.

All preparations were made to ensure that Keno was killed today. Especially when I noticed that when Keno discovered him, he actually showed a smug look on purpose to show himself, as if he really didn't dare to take him anyway.

Treating such a guy, Ethan didn't even bother to waste his saliva, so he drew the long sword out: “Why I am standing here must be very clear in your heart, so I won't say anything about it anymore.”

Keno saw Ethan draw his sword directly, he was taken aback for a moment, and then he noticed Ethan's young face, and his face was stunned.

“In fact, we don't have that much hatred...”

Ethan is too young. It is impossible for him at his age to know Brent, who was very famous in the Sea of Peace, so Keno felt that he needed to continue acting to make sure that Brent would help him and Ethan.

Actually, he really didn't expect things to develop to this stage at first.

After hiding in the sea for a while, he intercepted a few small boats deliberately. This kind of goal seldom caught his eyes, because those boats were full and there was not much oil and water to speak of. This time it was done for the sake of safety and purposely to send someone to inquire about the news.

As a result, he was very depressed. The young man kept guarding on the State Island and did not leave. Of course he wouldn't be naive to think that Ethan stayed on the island because he earned a big vote, so he didn't want to be aggressive and indulged in a comfortable life-if that was the case, he would be happier.

learned from the news of his men that Ethan would go to the training ground every day to exercise his swordsmanship, punctuality and training volume is gradually increasing.

A young man like this is definitely not the kind of person who is not enterprising. Then the only reason why Ethan never went to sea was that this young man was guarding himself on the island and wanted to make a complete break with himself.

There is a high probability that if you lose your ship and magic cannon on land, you will die in the hands of this young man.

I thought I would be desperate this time, but accidentally ran into Brent, the good man who was very famous in the calm sea, suddenly returned to the calm sea and came to State Island.

He didn't know why Brent came back, he only knew that his trouble was solved.

Brent is still that good person, he just said the situation, Brent promised to help him resolve this grievance-he firmly believes that everything he did before was forced, that he really wanted We must abandon evil and do good to be a good person.

"It really touched me."

At that moment, Keno really thought about whether he wanted to be a really good person.

Of course, this idea just flashed past. Although Keno's previous words were true, there were still some concealments. For example, Ethan was so persistent to kill himself. In the final analysis, he showed malice first.

So he needs to do some performances to make Brent more determined to defend himself-how can he really become a good person like this?

"With the help of Captain Brent, I have determined to go back to the right path, so let's let go of our grievances while neither of you nor me has lost anything."

Seeing Keno's hypocritical manner, Ethan didn't even bother to give him a smiling face, so he raised a short arrow in his left hand and shot it.

Keno didn't expect this young man to do it without saying a word, especially since he remembered that Ethan's short arrow was a 'magic stone equipment' that could explode, and he hurriedly responded-the magic stone glove on his left hand showed his power. Cast a ball of flames to greet the short arrow.

In Keno, his own flame should be enough to provoke the magic stone energy contained in the short arrow, causing it to be detonated before it gets close to him.

He was right. Ethan's short arrow was indeed detonated by the flame he cast, but unlike his guess, this short arrow was not the flame arrow he had seen, but contained the frost. Frostbolt of strength.

The sudden collision of cold and hot air produced a huge explosion, and at the same time a thick cloud of mist was cast, which obscured the sight of both parties.

This is what Ethan was waiting for. After launching the Frost Arrow, he was ready. When there was a white fog in front of him, he had rushed past with the long sword, and quickly advanced to Keno under the cover of the fog. In front of him, he didn't want to give Brent a chance to speak.

He doesn't have any hatred for this person, and he even has a little admiration.

In this environment of this world, people who can persist in doing good deeds are worthy of admiration. Whether this person is for fame or really is a Virgin, at least he has done a lot of good deeds, so if he can avoid direct conflict, he still Hope it can be avoided.

After all, Brent is a sea of calm, and successfully broke into the next sea area, and even mixed up with not-so-named characters. Although Ethan's movements are fast enough and concealed enough, Brent is standing next to Keno. , That Keno even took a few steps back in the first place, giving Brent the space and time to protect himself.

So, Ethan's sword was stopped by Brent.

"Young man, can't you talk about it? Why be so impulsive?"

Brent showed a very kind smile, and immediately took back the big sword in his hand, indicating that he did not want to do anything with Ethan.

"Kino told me about your grievances, of course, I can't just listen to him to judge, so you are so obsessed with his hatred, is it because you have been robbed of something or lost your relatives and friends?"

Ethan was taken aback, then denied: "No."

Brent's brows frowned slightly, and he seemed to be a little dissatisfied with Ethan: "If not, why are you making such a cruel hand?"

'S remarks were a bit of accusation, and Ethan only felt that this product was a bit inexplicable, and the hint of goodwill that had just risen was instantly cleared.

"If it wasn't because he couldn't beat me, would you still have a chance to blame me here?"

Brent froze for a moment. It seemed that he didn't expect Ethan's attitude to be like this. He hadn't encountered this situation for a long time. After he made a name in the Sea of Peace, everyone would be very enthusiastic when they saw him. It is his enemy who speaks politely to him.

Later, when I arrived in the new world, I only encountered this situation at the beginning. As my strength and reputation improved, the treatment I enjoyed in the calm sea gradually returned. Since then, it has been a long time since then. I met someone who talked to myself in this tone.

looked at Ethan's appearance and found that he might not even be twenty years old, and he recovered his kind look: "You should not be so angry, and don't always think people so bad."

Ethan's perception of this guy now drops points again, but this person is very strong, but he has stuck his way forward, so he has to accompany him here to talk nonsense.

"Yes? No, he showed his dirty side unabashedly at the time, and he didn't need me to think about it." Ethan stepped back a half step, and pulled a little away: "And I'm not interested in it. You are here to discuss whether my anger is too high, and now I just want to make sure one thing, you must protect that trash, right?"

When I heard what Ethan said before, Brent frowned first. He realized that what Keno said to him before contained a lot of moisture, or that there were some details that he didn't tell him. When he heard it later, he felt that Ethan was a bit too stubborn and a bit more murderous. UU reading www.uukanshu.com

"Young people, I can understand the feeling of wanting revenge, but there is no need to insult others."

"Insult?"

Ethan had long expected that he would not be able to talk to this Brent. There is a huge difference in the three views of the two. He had never thought of being friends with this person or anything, and even connected and touched and didn't bother to contact him, just because This person is not a bad person, he didn't do it directly.

Now it seems that he can't solve it without hands.

"I never insult people... It's just that some * is not worthy of being a human being." Ethan shook the long sword in his hand: "I will confirm it for the last time, Captain Brent of the Brave, are you sure you want to protect the * behind you? "

Brent didn't answer Ethan's question. He was still trying to persuade Ethan, saying some "young people calm down, we can go to the next store to sit down, your grievances really don't have to go to such a degree." Kind of words, at the same time, he didn't let go, keeping Keno firmly behind him.

"Understood." Ethan set his posture again: "I heard people talk about you. You are a good person and you have done a lot of good things in this ocean. I don't want to do it with you."

"Thank you for your praise. Actually, what I have done is nothing. Those things should be done by everyone who comes from the calm sea."

“But this is not the reason you can stop me from killing my enemies at will.” Ethan is not praising this guy, he is just adjusting his state, because Brent is the strongest he has encountered so far. The enemy-he can determine this only by relying on the previous sword. “Since you stand here and refuse to give in, then I can only treat you as an enemy.”

Ethan never hesitates or shows mercy to his enemies!
