Chapter 122: Ask for Hammer and Get

Hammer

Lawyer Hall stared at Olivia Jenkins without blinking, carefully weighing whether to retaliate or not.

The conference room was quiet, none of the shareholders dared to speak up, afraid that the fire would burn them next.

Olivia was confident enough to make these claims. She might already have some evidence. Many shareholders looked at Lawyer Hall, their minds unconsciously linking Seraphina with Henry Charles.

With no shareholders defending him, they stopped blaming Olivia, and even began to lean towards her side, not pressuring her for Mrs. Jenkins's whereabouts anymore. Out of desperation, Hannah Jenkins decided to speak up.

"Olivia, you're nothing but making excuses and trying to deflect the conversation. You have to clarify the situation, or I will call the police".

Olivia retorted sarcastically, "I'd like to ask what you're playing at, hiring a private doctor who was dismissed by RenewalCare Hospital for Mrs. Jenkins. Do you want her health to deteriorate so you can legally control her shares and hence take over Jenkins Group, to then drain the group's assets?"

As soon as she said this, the shareholders in the room became serious, whispering in private, all eyes on Hannah Jenkins.

Hannah Jenkins quickly denied, "I didn't do anything, Olivia, you are fabricating this all! "

"Go ask your mother how much money she and Vice President Charles have embezzled from the group. Do you dare to say that you haven't coveted grandmother's shares, or Jenkins Group?." Hannah Jenkins was suddenly left speechless.

She knew nothing.

Her mother said that Jenkins Group belonged to her and her brother; it couldn't fall into the hands of outsiders. She was just striving to protect what belonged to her.

Unable to believe what she was hearing, Hannah retorted, "Olivia, you are really wicked, disgusting, and spouting nonsense!"

Suddenly, a shareholder proposed, "Hannah Jenkins, you are not suitable to continue representing Mrs. Jenkins's shares at the moment. Let's clarify first if the group's property was maliciously transferred, then we'll make a decision."

"You can't reject me just based on her nonsense!", protested a passionate Hannah Jenkins.

Shareholder: "Then please present evidence to prove your innocence. How do you explain Vice President Charles's situation?"

Hannah replied firmly, "I don't know anything, we are not that kind of people. It is Olivia who shamelessly occupies Jenkins Group."

"I took grandmother to the doctor, and the doctor told me that her condition was critical and she needed rest. Once she feels better, I'll let her meet everyone. I want to discuss a serious issue found in the audit, related to a possible property transfer. Does everyone want Hannah to listen to the audit results too?" Olivia had a slightly bleak smile as she looked at Hannah provocatively.

Seconds later, the shareholders unanimously agreed, "Please ask Hannah Jenkins and Lawyer Hall to leave immediately."

Olivia walked over to Hannah and escorted her out of the conference room.

Outside the door, Olivia showed Hannah a DNA test result saved on her phone.

“Do you need me to show this to all the other shareholders? Or should we get the media involved?”

Hannah’s eyes widened in disbelief, shaking her head continuously.

When Lawyer Hall came out, Olivia stared at him fiercely. Immediately, Lavvyer Hall left without lingering.

Olivia threatened, “If you want to know the bastard’s father, go ask your mother. You guys don’t deserve to covet everything from the Jenkins family, you’re not worthy!”

Hannah’s tears fell at the slightest flutter of her eyelashes, her face paling.

With no room for Hannah to backtrack, Olivia delivered another blow, “Dad knew everything, clearly. This is what dad left for me. If you don’t mind, ask your mom how many disgusting things she did.”

Ignoring Hannah’s sadness, Olivia strolled back into the conference room as if nothing had happened, ready to officially start the meeting..
